Chapter 401

“How did this bunch of beggars appear at Longford Park?”

Suddenly!

An unpleasant voice rang out.

A couple approached them. The guy was handsome while the woman was pretty.

From their clothes, it was quite obvious that they were not ordinary people.

The man was very displeased, as seen from his deep frown.

The woman next to him dressed in revealing clothes also wrinkled her nose and said unhappily, “Mickey, isn’t the security in Longford Park supposed to be very strict? Why are there so many trashy people here? They stink.”

Mickey Cage was also very disgusted at the sight of such people and directly addressed the well-trained security guards at the entrance. “Hey, aren’t you going to drive them away?”

As soon as Martha heard this, she immediately flared up. She raised her voice, pointed at the couple, and yelled, “Little brat, who are you talking about? Who are the trashy people? You’re the trashy people! Your entire family is trash! What’s so great about Longford Park? We’re here to visit the villa today. My son-in-law bought a villa here!”

Martha did not care anymore. Philip claimed that he had bought a villa here, and he also sent the cars from Longford Group to pick them up too.

As such, he should be responsible for matters like this.

Even if something were to happen, they would look for Philip!

She could not tolerate other people pointing fingers at her!

The couple was too arrogant. There were actually people like this living in Longford Park.

However, the few of them dared not speak up. This was Longford Park, after all. If anything happened, the Longford family would take charge.

They were just ordinary citizens and could not go against them.

Despite that, they did not mind if Martha went up against that man. It would be best if she got into big trouble so that they could sit back and watch the good show.

Charles was not stupid. He stood out, pulled at Martha's sleeve, and said quietly, "That's enough, Martha. This is Longford Park. We can't afford to offend anyone here."

The Longford family was a prominent family in Riverdale.

No one dared to offend them.

Martha was now in a temper and refused to listen. She turned around and a slap landed on Charles' face. "Charles Johnston, you're as useless as Philip! To think that you used to be a section head. What have you done over the years? Can't you see that your wife is being bullied? Can you tolerate this?"

Charles was embarrassed. He was slapped by his wife in front of so many people, but he dared not speak up.

If he said anything now, there would be all kinds of trouble when they got back.

Helpless, he could only tolerate it.

Mickey chuckled coldly and said, "Oh, a little section head. How fantastic."

As Frank watched this scene, he suddenly felt that the rebuking man was very pitiful.

Yes, he used to mock Philip this way too.

The result, however?

He was punished severely!

Even if it were the Longford family, they were nothing compared to Clarke Group of Capital City!

“Philip, why are you only here now? Do you know that we’re being driven out? Is this your arrangement? For us to be embarrassed and made a laughing stock?”

Martha was enraged. She got up angrily from the ground and twisted her huge butt as she approached Philip before slapping him.

However, Philip dodged the blow. He glared at her coldly and said with a deep frown, “Mom, did you ask me to come here and solve the problem or to give others a good show?”

Before this, when Martha hit him, he would just bear with it.

Today, he did not wish to tolerate it anymore.

Anyway, they would find out the truth later, so why should he continue to bear with it?

Martha also felt a little guilty under Philip’s glare, but due to her own dignity, she could not back down!

Besides, what right did this wimp have to stare at her like that?

“What are you looking at? You’re the one who brought us here. Now that there’s a problem, you should go and solve it!”

Martha made use of the situation and yelled furiously at Philip.

Philip glanced at all the relatives standing behind Martha, each person looking at him with an unkind expression as if they were waiting to watch a good show.

Only Frank and Samantha wisely nodded at him.

“Oh, is this the son-in-law you talk about? I think he looks just like an ordinary poor man. How can he afford to buy a villa in Longford Park?”

Mickey saw so many security guards approaching, and he smiled menacingly. "F*cker! You're dead this time! Since you dare to cause trouble here, just wait to visit death's door!"

However, before he finished speaking, his voice stopped abruptly!

All the Longford security guards that rushed in just now all stood neatly behind Philip and bowed respectfully with a shout, "Mr. Clarke!"

Mr. Clarke?

Mickey was dumbfounded!

What was going on here?

Even he, Mickey Cage, did not enjoy such privilege from the Longford security guards.

Philip turned around, glanced at everyone, and said, "Is there a problem?"

Everyone was struck dumb at that question.

Martha's expression was very ugly. Where did this useless Philip find the money to buy First Palace?

It was not a lie, right?

"Sister-in-law Martha, what exactly is going on here? This villa is worth 200 million? How did you get so much money?"

Gina was very anxious. This luxurious villa was many times bigger than the ones they passed by just now. It was really like a palace.

Did Martha not claim that they could not afford a villa? What was the situation now?

A bluff?

"Calm down, we haven't gone in yet. Who knows what Philip is up to? If we can't go in later, we'll just wait for him to embarrass himself."

Paula was most upset. She was initially here to taunt Philip today, but now, she simply could not accept the scene before her.

She looked back at her son-in-law with a questioning look in her eyes, seemingly to ask if he could afford to buy this place.

Frank shook his head helplessly and said with a smile, "Mom, I really can't afford this place. Maybe Philip really bought it?"

"Sister Gina, what's going on here? How can Philip buy such a villa? It's 200 million!"

Amelia pulled Gina to one side, her face full of jealousy and defiance.

She was very upset. They were all part of the Johnston family. Why could Martha's family afford to buy such a villa?

Gina was also very sullen. They had already planned to come here and mock that good-for-nothing Philip. Everyone was confused by the unfolding of events now.

"I don't know either. Hasn't her son-in-law been very useless all this time? Where did he get so much money?"

Gina said with a face full of doubts. She looked at Philip who stood at one side with Wynn and felt very uneasy.

"Didn't you see how the security guards treated Philip with such respect just now? This guy is not a hidden rich second generation, is he?"

Martin interrupted at this moment, and Bernard also nodded suspiciously.

Gina nodded but did not take it seriously. If Philip was really a hidden rich second generation, why would he endure quietly in the Johnston family for the past three years?

Everyone knew exactly how Martha treated him all this time.

Paula joined their discussion at this moment. Even though she had visited First Palace before, she still felt overwhelmed.

She sneered casually. "It's fake. It must be fake. The last time I visited, they told me the owner of this villa is not Philip Clarke, but the richest man in Riverdale, George Thomas! Philip must have spent money to rent it for a day!"

they immediately understood. The contempt on

“Hello, Madam, the current owner of First Palace is... Miss Lynn Johnston and Mr. Philip Clarke.”

The attitude of the property management personnel was very friendly, and the reply given was very enthusiastic.

“What? Say that again!”

Martha got a fright. Her eyes widened as she could not believe her ears.

“It’s Miss Lynn Johnston and Mr. Philip Clarke.” The female clerk of the property management repeated cheerfully.

Thump!

With a twitch of her heart, Martha turned around and stared at the smiling Philip and Wynn.

The villa really belonged to her family!

"Wynn, what's going on here? When did you buy a villa? Why didn't you tell me? Also, why is it under Philip's name as well?" Martha asked in bewilderment.

Philip stepped out and wanted to explain, but Martha glared at him while cursing, "Shut up! This has nothing to do with you. I'm asking my daughter."

Martha was very upset now. Why was that good-for-nothing's name on the villa?

Wynn looked unhappy, especially when she saw Martha chastising Philip. Could she not tell that the villa was actually bought by Philip?

"Mom, actually this villa is..."

Wynn was just about to reply when she was interrupted by Paula. "I know, did you buy this villa using the one billion investment from Clarke Group of Capital City?"

Instantly, everyone felt that it was the truth. They were filled with envy, but at the same time, felt contempt toward Wynn too.

How long had it been since she was appointed as the chairman of the company and she already started to embezzle the company's funds? If something went wrong, could she really handle it?

However, all of them had their eyes on the one billion investment too.

With so much money, if they divided it between themselves, they could be multimillionaires already and live a life of comfort.

Martha was nervous when she heard this and asked, "Wynn, did you really use that investment to buy this villa? Will there be a problem?"

If anything happened, they would be jailed.

Martha was almost ready to blow a gasket. Philip actually wanted her to kneel down!

This damn useless piece of trash dared to be so bold!

"Philip, what are you saying? I'm your mother-in-law, okay!" Martha flushed and glared.

She felt very uncertain too. What if Philip really insisted on having her kneel?

Argh!

She was going mad!

This was such a humiliation!

Charles stood on one side without saying a word. This unreasonable madwoman who snarled at him every day had finally met her bane.

“Charles, what are you doing? Don’t you notice that your son-in-law is acting so brazenly now? Aren’t you going to say a few words?”

Martha was very upset when she saw Charles acting as if this matter had nothing to do with him.

Charles smiled and said, “Philip, just forget about the matter. We’re a family, after all. What your mother-in-law said this morning was just spiteful words. Don’t take it to heart. No mother-in-law should be forced to kneel to the son-in-law. If any outsiders find out about this, you’ll be condemned.”

“Yes, that’s right! Do you want to be condemned? You want me to kneel and beg for your forgiveness? Keep dreaming!”

When Martha received some support from Charles’ words, she immediately gained confidence again.

Initially, Philip just wanted to frighten her, but Martha did not know what was good for her and tried to take a mile when she was given an inch.

“Martha Yates, I’m not joking with you. You must be responsible for your words. I’ll be clear about my stand today. This villa belongs to Wynn and me. If you wish to stay here, kneel down and apologize. Otherwise, you can leave after you’re done visiting.”

On the other side, Philip had just left First Palace not too long ago when his phone rang. It was Chloe calling him. "Philip, today's my birthday. Don't forget to come and accompany me."

Philip was taken aback when he heard this. Then, he recalled that he had promised to do so. "Okay, I'll be there later."

"Okay, I'll pick you up?" Chloe was very happy as she asked.

"No need." Philip shook his head.

He had not cleared up his relationship with Chloe Sommerset yet. If she sent a luxury car to pick him up, it would never be cleared up!

He did not wish to be seen by others and for gossip to spread later.

"Give me the address. I'll hail a cab later."
