

The First Heir 411

Chapter 411

Silvia Hayes!

She had a nice face, was dressed in a well-cut black skirt with a white top, and wore nude stockings paired with high heels. With her delicate makeup, she looked exactly like a mature white-collared worker.

Philip turned around and saw a surprised Silvia. He chuckled.

“Why do you look surprised? Am I not welcome here?”

Seeing Philip, Silvia recalled the incident at the amusement park dessert shop and could not stop the blush from spreading across her face, so she quickly changed the topic.

If not for Philip’s help the last time, she would be annoyed to death by Leon Larson.

She only found out later that Leon’s family had gone bankrupt.

This incident caused Silvia many sleepless nights because she could not figure out if Philip had anything to do with it.

He seemed like an ordinary person.

After she finished speaking, she stared at Philip with her big eyes. “Who did you come here with?”

Harmony walked straight up to Silvia, glanced at Philip disdainfully, and said coldly, "Hey, brat, let me warn you, don't harbor any evil intentions toward Silvia. You're not worthy!"

Philip, who was talking to Silvia, was taken aback by this. He looked coldly at the group of little girls standing in front of him.

All of them were quite young but were dressed maturely.

Moreover, they seemed very hostile toward him.

"Excuse me, I don't know what you're talking about." Philip smiled calmly.

Silvia was also startled and pulled at Harmony's arm. "Harmony, don't be like this. He's my friend."

"Friend? What sort of friend? He's nothing but a conman who deceives innocent girls like you."

Harmony rolled her eyes at Silvia and poked her in the head with her slender finger before saying, "Okay, I'll solve the problem for you."

Problem?

Philip was startled. This hostile woman who was facing him must have misunderstood something.

Several girls glanced at each other. They kept comparing the man in the photo to Philip over there.

They looked alike!

How could this be?

"Stop looking at him already. If it's really him, I'll gouge my eyes out!"

A girl sneered as her eyes fell on Philip with contempt.

How could such a man with an indistinguishable character be the mysterious young man in the rumor!

Harmony and Yvonne also nodded in agreement. They mocked, "Definitely not. How can a young master have such a poor appearance? He should at least bring eight or ten bodyguards with him when he goes out. He just came here to eat and drink for free."

Seeing that Silvia was still staring at Philip eagerly, Harmony became angry and said, "Okay, stop looking at him already. You're not interested in him, are you?"

Silvia smiled, stood up, and bowed to Harmony and the others. She said, "I'm sorry. He's my friend, so I'm going to accompany him for a while."

After that, Silvia ran toward him, happy as a little sparrow.

This made Harmony and the others angry.

Silvia was really degenerating, making friends with that kind of man.

After some thought, Harmony took out her phone, walked to one side, and dialed a number.

At this moment outside the Sunset Villa, a Mercedes-Benz G-class with a special military license plate stopped at the entrance. A sturdy young man who was dressed casually stepped down. He looked quite handsome with a resolute face.

Jennie Todd smiled triumphantly. "I just saw Harmony calling Xavier and telling him that Silvia is here. What do you think Xavier will do when he gets here?"

Mickey was startled. Everyone in the circle knew the hot-tempered character of Young Master Xavier Denver from Golden City. If he really met that fool Philip Clarke here, they might even get into a fight on the spot.

"Look, isn't that Xavier?" Jennie suddenly exclaimed.

When the two looked over, they saw a sturdy young man in casual clothes walking in through the door. He was pushing through the crowd and striding forward.

"There's going to be a good show." Mickey was amused.

His father would not let him deal with Philip, but Xavier was no ordinary person. He came from the Denver family of Golden City!

Silvia was still discussing with Philip about which desserts were delicious when suddenly, someone strode over and stopped in front of them.

"Silvia, come with me, I have something to say to you."

There was no Philip in Xavier's eyes as he stared fixedly at Silvia Hayes.

"Huh? What do you have to say? Can't you say it here?"

The moment Silvia saw him, a trace of panic flashed across her eyes. She forced out a smile.

"Here?" Xavier glanced around before he issued an order to Philip unceremoniously, "Get lost. I want to speak to Silvia in private."

Philip frowned, feeling a little unhappy. He had already gotten looked down upon, and suddenly this brat turned up?

As the atmosphere grew tenser, Yvonne ran over to them and stood in front of Silvia, saying with a frown,

“Xavier, this is Miss Chloe’s birthday party. You know she’s from the Sommerset family from Capital City, right? That means this isn’t a place where you can do whatever you like. Silvia doesn’t need your permission to go anywhere.”

“Haha.”

Xavier ignored her completely and instead loomed over Philip, glaring at him.

“In all my years, you’re the first man who dares to challenge me like that.

“I’ll show you just how wide the gap between us really is.”

Philip smiled faintly and was about to say something when a stern-looking middle-aged man parted the crowd, approaching them as he said,

“What’s happening here? Who dares to raise a ruckus at Miss Chloe’s party?”

“Dang, even Mr. Moseby the head butler is here. Someone’s gonna be in trouble now,” someone who knew the middle-aged man said in a whisper.

“The Sommersets are pretty influential in Riverdale too. How will they clean up this mess?” Harmony frowned as well.

Meryl scoffed and said, “I hope they throw that man and Xavier out of here. I’m annoyed just looking at them.”

Making use of his position as the oldest son of the Denvers from Golden City, Xavier had done plenty of stupid things in his time.

Girls like them either hated or loved arrogant young masters like him.

Just then, a voice spoke.

"I don't know if he was invited."

The crowd looked in the direction of the voice and saw a woman in a lavish evening gown and thick make-up. She sneered, "But what I do know is that I saw him collecting trash at Longford Park today.

"I don't think a mere trash collector would know our great Miss Chloe Sommerset, would he?"

As soon as Jennie said that, the whole room erupted.

"There's no way Miss Chloe knows someone like that! Chase him out!"

"He told such a tall tale, but he never guessed that he would be exposed just like that."

"I can't believe Silvia has a friend like him. What a shocker."

Right now, everyone was looking at Philip with nothing but contempt and disgust.

Philip was unmoved in the face of all their accusations. Instead, he turned to look at Jennie.

They looked in the direction of the voice and saw the crowd parting as though before a tide.

A cold beauty in a white dress was striding toward them.

She was tall and slender, with an air of invincibility. She looked around the crowd, and her gaze made many girls back away, defeated by her perfection.

When her beautiful eyes swept across them, the cold arrogance in them made countless attendees lower their heads, as though they stood before the queen of a snowy kingdom.

“Who is she?”

Someone in the crowd sneered.

One of his friends had recognized the woman, and he hastily clapped his hand over his companion’s mouth, his face pale. “Are you mad? That’s Miss Chloe Somerset! Don’t you recognize her?”

“Miss Chloe?”

The first man who spoke froze. He then suddenly remembered something, all the blood draining from his face as he hurriedly held his tongue.

The woman was none other than Chloe Somerset.

“Miss Chloe?”

Mr. Moseby’s expression changed the second he saw Chloe. He suddenly had a very bad feeling.

Forcing a smile, he said, “Why are you here so early, miss? You didn’t tell us in advance, either.”

“Hmph! If I didn’t make it in time, were you lot going to chase my guest out of here?”

Chloe scoffed. She was rather cold by nature and she rarely smiled. Now that she was properly angry, her pretty face looked like it was made of ice.

“Mr. Clarke here is my esteemed guest. What’s this about chasing him out and calling the cops?”

When he heard Chloe’s accusation, all the blood drained from Mr. Moseby’s face.

This man was Miss Chloe’s esteemed guest?

"How could he know Miss Chloe? Impossible!"

The moment he saw Chloe, Mickey's expression changed and he gasped out loud.

“Mickey-baby, who’s Chloe Sommerset exactly?”

Jennie asked curiously.

Chloe had always kept a low profile and rarely ever joined the Riverdale elites in their parties, so very few people knew about her.

If it were not for Philip, she would not have organized this birthday party today either.

“She’s the granddaughter of Old Master Sommerset from Capital City and Hans Sommerset’s youngest daughter.”

Mickey’s face twitched as he answered Jenie’s question in a whisper.

“That’s her?”

Jennie was stunned, while Yvonne and the others next to her felt their hearts skip a beat as well.

After that, she hung up and sat in the cab alone, tears streaming down her face as she watched the night pass by outside her window.

There was nothing she could do.

There was nothing Wynn could do about his fiancée, the thorn in her side.

She was more than willing to trust Philip, but her heart hurt nevertheless!

It hurt so, so much!

She kept telling herself not to overthink it. It was nothing, it had to be.

With that, Philip turned to leave.

However, Chloe scoffed at his back, saying, "Do you know why I invited you here tonight?"

"What do you mean?"

Philip's gaze turned cold. He spun around and glared at Chloe.

Just then, Philip's phone rang. It was a call from that man.

"Spill it!"

Philip barked harshly, his body tense and his heart pounding.

That call could only mean one thing. Something must have happened to Wynn and Mila.

"Young Master, the Young Madam and Miss Mila are safe. We just handled one wave of attackers."

The voice on the other end was that of a cold-blooded man. "They seem to be some local hooligans. They were at the hospital entrance, trying to kidnap the Young Madam."

"Understood."
