

The First Heir 52

Chapter 52

He knew what Lamar's company did. He had told him multiple times.

However, this industry was like an endless pit. He was just going to fall deeper and deeper.

Did Theo not contact some people to help him with the incident a few days ago?

"How should we take care of the clients?" Theo asked.

Lamar chuckled coldly. "It's just a bunch of uncultured old men and women. If they don't want to invest, do they think they can bring their money into the coffin with them?"

Lamar said after seeing Theo's face falling. "It's fine, Theo. I know what I'm doing. They are all seniors with no backgrounds."

When he said that, Theo felt more relieved.

When the two of them were about to drink, Theo's phone rang.

He looked at the caller ID. It was Mr. Clarke!

In an instant, Theo picked up his phone respectfully and shushed Lamar. He said, "It's Mr. Clarke."

ominous glint when he heard had told him about Mr. Clarke before. He was an extraordinary

curry favor

anything you want to tell me?" Theo asked respectfully and calmly, "Do

Clank.

was sitting next to him

be such a coincidence,

Philip replied. Theo let out

Philip said next him to return the house. Oh, also, there's a group of seniors outside his company. You'd better ask him to take care of that as talking, Theo stood up abruptly. He nodded his head quickly while responding, hung up the

Bam!

table to the floor. Theo yelled at him his stomach and threw up the alcohol he consumed just now. He said innocently, "Theo, don't scare and yelled angrily, "Did scammed a lot of houses from seniors. They were all people with no backgrounds. It should