

The First Heir 87

Chapter 87

Listening to Philip's scream felt as painful as having thorns all over your body.

When Philip stopped talking, the atmosphere in the ward became heavy.

Just then, Juan, who had gone out, returned. He saw that everyone was present, including Philip.

"How dare you come here?" Juan grabbed Philip angrily by his collar. "Haven't you done enough to Wynn? Why are you even here?"

Juan did not want to see someone as useless as Philip here.

If it were not for him wanting to show off, would Wynn be in the state she was in now?

Philip shook free of Juan's grasp and glared at him, his eyes dark as he spoke, "Juan, what business do you have here? Wynn is my wife, you get out of here!"

When in front of his in-laws, Philip had no choice.

However, in front of Juan, he could never be vulnerable.

"Shut up!"

Charles spoke up at this point. He pointed toward the door as he bellowed at Philip, "You're the one who needs to get out!"

Lynn watched in silence as she tapped on her phone, reporting what was happening to her friends in the group chat. The corners of her lips were curled up in a sarcastic smile.

She also took a few photos sneakily and sent them to the group.

with sarcastic remarks

such

man, it's time to end this today. As long as you divorce Wynn, I'll take care of the expenses required for Mila's treatment, including the cost was arrogant and in front of Philip, he had the confidence to be eyebrows locked together tightly as his heart went really

that Wynn, who had been unconscious on the hospital

crowded around her

Philip was excluded from the

to get closer, Martha would glare
you feel uncomfortable, I'll call for the doctor."
anything, I'll go buy it for you."
the side, Lynn faked a look of concern on slowly and leaned against the tore through her abdomen made it difficult for her first question that left about that loser?" Martha sulked as she not believe how foolish her daughter was, asking for Philip the moment she
It was so infuriating!
with pain, and her face became very