

The Growth of a God #Chapter 14: Supporting the Rising Sun, Saving the Fallen Heavens - Read The Growth of a God Chapter 14: Supporting the Rising Sun, Saving the Fallen Heavens

Chapter 14: Chapter 14: Supporting the Rising Sun, Saving the Fallen Heavens

In the endless darkness, amidst the catastrophic collapse of heaven and earth.

A dragon-headed giant of enormous stature suddenly appeared between heaven and earth, followed by a fierce wind rising from the four corners of the earth.

As if it were a pillar supporting heaven and earth.

The violent wind swept across the land, becoming the only bridge supporting heaven and earth.

And as the summoner of these violent winds, the dragon-headed giant's gaze was fixed firmly on the direction where the dark sun had fallen, then he took a large stride forward.

Boom! Boom! Boom!

It was indistinguishable whether it was the earth roaring or the wind howling.

With every step the dragon-headed giant took, followed by the fierce wind, his size increased.

In just a few breaths, the dragon-headed giant transformed into a giant god, towering over the earth, completely exposed to the sight of all living beings.

And the speed of the dragon-headed giant continued to increase in the process, quickly turning from walking to sprinting.

Hoo! Hoo! Hoo!

Every muscle undulated like mountain ranges, and his breath transformed into storm clouds...

By the time the dragon-headed giant crossed the ocean and ran to the fallen dark sun, his body had already become several sizes larger than the dark sun.

"Ha!"

A thunderous roar spread throughout the entire world.

The dragon-headed giant felt his power at this moment surpassing all previous limits, reaching an unprecedented level.

Even the "sun," symbol of divine power, could not possibly become an obstacle to his actions.

[This is... the power of the storm!]

A moment of clarity suddenly flashed in his mind.

The fierce wind surrounding the dragon-headed giant at this moment completely transformed into a gigantic tornado sweeping the heavens and earth.

The dragon-headed giant knew that this was the power granted by the Primordial Spirit.

The "Divine Authority" he yearned for was attained so easily?

Moreover, the "Divine Authority" obtained now far exceeded those of ordinary gods, directly belonging to the Creator's "Power of the Storm"!

In the mythical perspective of the Mountain and Sea Realm, at the beginning of creation, there were eight most primordial powers.

They were the authority of the Creator and the most fundamental forces that constituted this world.

Even gods born later could not rival these eight most primordial powers in pure power.

At least in the Mountain and Sea Realm, these eight primordial powers were invincible, the "Power of Creation" coveted by even the gods born in this world.

These eight primordial powers are storm, earth, lightning, flame, ocean, life, death, and motion.

And what the dragon-headed giant obtained now was the symbol of "freedom," the most elusive to control — the "Power of the Storm."

.....

Unaware of the dragon-headed giant's excitement and pride at this moment.

In the eyes of the other surviving creatures of this realm, the dragon-headed giant, upon approaching the dark sun, actually embraced it barehanded.

"Ha!"

From a distance, the dragon-headed giant's lower body submerged in the ocean, and his arms, more majestic than any mountain, encircled the sun.

The next second, the fallen dark sun was unexpectedly lifted by the dragon-headed giant.

Rumble...

Seawater surged back, volcanoes erupted...

As the dark sun was lifted once more, the underwater world beneath the dragon-headed giant's feet was hit by various celestial calamities.

However, these calamities were all fleeting and quickly subdued by the endless storm.

The backflowing seawater was smoothed by ocean currents, and erupting volcanoes were suppressed by the tornado.

In every direction, in the disaster zone centered around the dragon-headed giant, only the storm was qualified to reign supreme over that area.

Under the storm that could almost extinguish the sun.

The erupting underwater volcanoes and the surging ocean currents were mere "minor issues."

The immediate priority for the dragon-headed giant was to return the dark sun to the sky.

"Ha!"

His muscles suddenly swelled, and the horns on his head gathered the storm.

The dragon-headed giant stepped onto the nearly materialized storm and once again hoisted the dark sun high above.

Boom! Boom! Boom!

Like an invisible sky ladder, each step the dragon-headed giant took on the storm elevated his current position a bit higher.

One step, two steps, three steps...

As time passed, the dragon-headed giant, holding the dark sun high, completely left the sea level.

However, this was far from enough, even with the dragon-headed giant's current height, there was still a significant distance to send the dark sun back into the sky.

Thus, the "Dragon Seal" imprinted on the dragon-headed giant began to emit light.

Whoosh!

Under the influence of this light, the once dim sun seemed to ignite again with brightness.

Under the watchful gaze of the enormous eye at the horizon, the reignited sun trembled and floated up on its own.

Although it still required the assistance and support of the dragon-headed giant, the sun, which had reached the end of its life, was rejuvenated once again.

The sun is the source of life, the light of all things.

When the sun is reignited, it signifies the world is once again filled with vitality.

The endless darkness was gradually dispersed, and the ground temperature gradually returned to normal with the sun's ascent.

Under the watchful eyes of all surviving creatures, the dragon-headed giant, reaching the sky with the sun in his hands, walked step by step towards the heavens like a true god.

Without any guidance or any instruction...

The world's entire lifeforms at this moment let go of all their grievances and unanimously bowed towards the sun, earnestly expressing their inner excitement.

At that moment, the giant eye in the sky was completely exposed to the view of all beings with the sun's light.

All beings who saw that eye, whether they possessed wisdom or were animals or plants, suddenly realized.

— That is... the Creator!

— The Creator has returned and saved this world!

Whether intentional or coincidental, when the dragon-headed giant elevated the sun back into the sky, it coincided with the pupil of that giant eye.

Buzz!

In an instant, another enormous eye opened above the sky.

In this mythological worldview, the moon, which usually only appeared at night, unexpectedly appeared in the pupil of that eye.

The sun and moon simultaneously hung high in the sky, like the two eyes of the Creator, gazing down at all living beings below.

Though it was only a fleeting miracle.

However, this scene of sun and moon together, both pupils appearing simultaneously, was deeply imprinted into the genes of all life forms.

And in the billions of years to come, it became a shared element in the mythology and legends of various races.

🎫 Moon Ticket 🎫 / 🎫 Recommendation Ticket 🎫