

The Growth 198

Chapter 198 6: Cyber God (3/3)

He directly threw the phone to Hua She, and Li Hao turned his gaze back to the computer.

As Li Hao became more accustomed to his "Creator" identity, he gradually got used to the life of being a student by day and a god by night.

Pulling the split screen of the [Civilization Game] to a corner, Li Hao's attention was now more focused on the [Mountain and Sea Realm].

With the progressive perfection of the [Celestial Tao System], this program reflecting the operation of a world inevitably became more and more complex.

Besides the internal and external circulation of the Mountain and Sea Realm itself, the totem incarnations previously released by Li Hao into the All Heavens and Myriad Realms were also added to the management of the [Celestial Tao System].

They are individual small windows on the split screens, reflecting the information and scenes that the totem incarnations probed and observed.

The primary duty of the [Celestial Tao System] was to find those screens that still had hope of lighting up, while eliminating the completely damaged totem incarnations.

Thanks to Li Hao's previous experiments of dimension ascending and descending, he released many [Hundred yuan Paper Cranes].

After that, for further experiments, Li Hao even created other forms of totem incarnations released into the All Heavens and Myriad Realms.

It can be said that without the help of the [Celestial Tao System], Li Hao would have to spend a considerable amount of time and energy just dealing with the information fed back by those totem incarnations.

Compared to the subsequent totem incarnations released by Li Hao, the misfortune attribute of the [Hundred yuan Paper Cranes] surprisingly had an unexpected performance in this process.

Because the normal totem incarnations have nothing mysterious about them.

Unless the [Celestial Tao System] detected the value of the world where the totem incarnation was located, showing extraordinary abilities, could it attract the attention and faith of ordinary sentient beings.

In contrast, those [Hundred yuan Paper Cranes], with the misfortune attribute itself, had mystical characteristics that easily attracted the attention of sentient beings.

Therefore, the current lit-up small screens mostly contained information and perspectives fed back from the [Hundred yuan Paper Cranes].

"It seems that when creating totems in the future, I should more or less bestow them with some mystical attributes."

Touching his own chin, Li Hao muttered to himself in such a manner.

Since he wasn't competing with other gods for faith, Li Hao didn't need to consider displaying his divine majesty and style while creating totem incarnations.

Be it bestowing misfortune or bringing fortune...

As long as there is even a minuscule special feature, it is worth the attention of ordinary sentient beings from other worlds.

Li Hao even considered whether to write down some basic mathematics and physics formulas to attract the attention of wise men from other worlds.

After all, compared to ordinary sentient beings, those wise men obviously could bring more information and value.

However, Li Hao ultimately chose to give up.

He was willing to give any sentient being a chance, regardless of whether their origin was noble or trivial, regardless of the value they brought, Li Hao was willing to give them an equal opportunity.

"Huh?"

Just as Li Hao was browsing the data summarized by the [Celestial Tao System] as part of his daily routine, he suddenly discovered a special window.

That window wasn't information collected by the [Celestial Tao System].

Instead, it seemed like a window actively contacted by the opposite holder with the [Celestial Tao System].

"Did this totem fall into the hands of a god?"

Somewhat surprised, looking at the actively shaking window, Li Hao knew that only a god could truly see through the essence of a totem incarnation.

In the absence of Li Hao actively collecting faith, those totems, in the eyes of other sentient beings, could at best be considered oddities.

"Is it trying to communicate with me?"

After a brief silence, a glimmer of interest flashed in Li Hao's eyes.

Having released so many totems, this was the first holder to actively want to contact him.

With this in mind, Li Hao looked again at the information and intelligence collected by this totem.

The result, unexpectedly to Li Hao, was that the information and intelligence collected by this totem was surprisingly extensive.

From world types to species classification, to the evolution of civilization and technological thought...

After the [Celestial Tao System] summarized the information collected by this totem, it actually presented a complete world's history.

Obviously, this couldn't be information the totem incarnation collected by itself, but rather provided voluntarily by the holder.

"Is it really a god?"

Such long-term information span obviously couldn't be acquired by any creature other than a god.

So the question arises, why did that god choose to contact him instead of directly destroying the totem incarnation?

Moreover, the other party reported their world's information so thoroughly, which gave Li Hao a subtle feeling—as if the other party was asking for help from him.

"Have they run out of options?"

To make a god run out of options, relying everything on pleading to a completely unfamiliar existence.

Li Hao carefully pondered and ultimately decided to respond to that god's call.

Beep!

With a clear sound, the small split-screen window quickly expanded.

Subsequently, an indescribable figure suddenly appeared in the window.

It seemed to be a concept, a concept artificially manufactured and divided.

However, it possessed its own will and even ascended to the heights of a god based on it.

[I always feel like I'm playing the role of some backstage villain now...]

Smiling as he watched the language and words continuously being translated in the split-screen window, Li Hao had a sense of déjà vu regarding his current role.

Usually, based on his current standing, he should be the Evil God worthy of the opposite holder.

"Honorable Ancient God, greetings!"

"I'm glad you have responded to my call, the 'Cyber God' here offers you the highest respect."

Then, during this pondering gap, a cold and mechanical voice came through the microphone into Li Hao's ear.

"Cyber God? Is that your god name?"

Through the translation and conversion of the [Celestial Tao System], Li Hao's voice was filled with a sense of majesty and solemnity.

The Cyber God, who didn't know where they were, felt an unprecedented sense of oppression just by hearing this voice.

This was a discrepancy in realm, a manifestation of its divided nature.

"Yes!"

"Great Ancient God, the 'Cyber God' is the name given to me by all beings."

Lightly tapping the table, Li Hao's eyes became deeper.

As time went on, Li Hao became more adept at switching between the two identities of "human" and "god".

At this moment, sitting in front of the computer was no longer Li Hao as a human, but the Creator existing as a god.