

The Growth 252

Chapter 252 12: Ring of Domination (3/3)

[Artifact: Ring of Domination (??)]

[Type: Ring]

[Quality: Epic]

[Function①Independently forms a dimension with nearly infinite spatial capacity.]

[Function②Can split into twelve 'sub-rings' apart from the main body to anchor the life of the holder, forcibly elevating their dimension.]

[Function③Can imprison and dominate all gods below the Supreme God, with a limit of twelve Main Gods.]

...

Honestly speaking, when Li Hao first discovered the [Ring of Domination], he was shocked.

Because he never imagined that the [Ring of the Three Phases] in Maitreya's hand was not the only "Heavenly Father's Treasure" in this world.

Or more precisely, the [Ring of the Three Phases] was merely one of the twelve sub-rings split from the [Ring of Domination].

Perhaps it was due to the immense power of the [Ring of the Three Phases] itself, or perhaps certain actions by the gods of the Light Realm...

Leading this split-off [Ring of the Three Phases] to gradually evolve into what Andiro saw as the "Will of Darkness", thus sparking that era of eternal night and dark ages.

Yet it is undeniable that, it was also because of the special ability of the [Ring of the Three Phases] that the Light Realm did not entirely fall into the [Fallen Area].

A single [Ring of the Three Phases] could create a god.

And a complete [Ring of Domination] means twelve True Gods, or even Main Gods.

In other words, the holder of the [Ring of Domination] is equivalent to possessing an entire Divine Pantheon, a paradigm of "one forming an army".

[Is this the foundation of the Heavenly Father? A Divine Artifact alone can shape a Pantheon.]

Li Hao hadn't forgotten that the [Ring of the Three Phases] also had the ability to enslave Demigods.

Combined with the [Ring of Domination], it can completely form a medium-sized pantheon with both low-end and high-end combat power.

[Unfortunately, this Divine Artifact is not for just anyone to use.]

Focusing on Tianyou, Li Hao knew that the other's guess was in fact not wrong.

Wu Kui was the first to discover the existence of the [Ring of Domination], but he did not gain the recognition of the [Ring of Domination], only acquiring one of its sub-rings.

Even so, that sub-ring compensated for Wu Kui's deficiencies, even helping him open a new [Ascension Ladder].

.....

[Artifact: Ring of Reincarnation]

[Type: Ring]

[Quality: Rare Treasures]

[Function①]Sub-ring of the Ring of Domination, can anchor the holder's life, granting them eternal and indestructible divinity.]

[Function②]Gathers the Power of Reincarnation to reshape life and death, can perfectly resurrect any non-God existence when the soul and body are both present.]

[Function③]Infinite changes in the form and manifold transformations of the soul, henceforth allowing your soul to reincarnate at will, and your body to change freely.]

...

Morphing into a form similar to Andi Luo, Wu Kui stared blankly at the ring in his hand.

Ever since wearing this [Ring of Reincarnation], Wu Kui had not felt the gaze of the Creator anymore.

He knew that it wasn't that the Creator had abandoned him, but rather the [Celestial Tao System] regarded him as an ordinary person from the Outer Realm.

Of course, Wu Kui didn't know the name of the [Celestial Tao System], he only knew it as a Supreme Divine Artifact that could represent the Creator's will.

When he was one of the "Mountain and Sea People", that artifact would protect and bless him.

But once he abandoned the identity of the "Mountain and Sea People", that artifact would ignore his existence.

"Regretting it now?"

Silently appearing behind Wu Kui at an unknown time, Andiro asked.

"Regret?"

"I long forgot how to write the word regret."

Slightly gripping the ring tightly, Wu Kui simply turned around and said indifferently.

"But you, to abandon the 'Supreme Treasure' buried by the gods in this world so easily, aren't you afraid of regret?"

Still as aloof and calm, Andiro merely shook his head slowly.

"That is the Supreme Treasure in your eyes."

"To me, it's just an unstable factor that might bring calamity at any moment."

"This world can't withstand more turmoil; what it needs now is a stable, peaceful, and transitional external environment."

After a slight pause, Andiro continued unreservedly.

"If I were to trade an unstable factor I don't need for the protection of a merciful and magnificent Creator..."

"I would tell you, I am very willing!"

Looking at the resolute Andiro, Wu Kui suddenly laughed.

"Indeed! One man's honey is another's poison; there's nothing in this world that remains unchanged forever."

"I went to great lengths to leave the Mountain and Sea Realm, while you are willing to give up an ancient Supreme Treasure for it."

The wicked charm and defiance of Wu Kui were fully displayed at this moment.

Fortunately, Andiro was long accustomed to this Wu Kui, merely casting a sidelong glance at him.

"You pursue power, while I pursue stability."

"Just different pursuits, nothing more."

Upon hearing this, Wu Kui rolled his eyes slightly, then continued to ask.

"Is that the reason you chose to abandon 'that thing'?"

Without explicitly stating what "that thing" was, Wu Kui knew that Andiro must understand what he was referring to.

After all, it was Andiro's guidance that led him to discover the [Ring of Domination].

So the "thing" hidden in that shattered world along with the [Ring of Domination], Andiro couldn't possibly be unaware of it.

"I never had any ambition, nor have I ever pursued becoming a God."

Without directly answering Wu Kui's question, Andiro just glanced at the world that had regained vitality, his words tinged with a hint of comfort.

"That is true, after all, whether you choose to become a God now is just a thought away."

This statement from Wu Kui wasn't an exaggeration; as the "Savior" of the Light Realm, Andiro could elevate to the Divine Throne at any time.

The only reason for not taking that final step was simply because he felt he hadn't gained the Creator's approval yet.

Without the Creator's approval and protection, a mere New God couldn't truly safeguard this world.

"So, not taking 'that thing' is also a pledge of allegiance?"

Before Wu Kui finished speaking, Andiro suddenly turned his head again, gently staring into his eyes.

"If mine is a pledge, then why didn't you take 'that thing'?"

"Do you truly see potential in that Skeleton, or do you think you have neither the capability nor qualifications to possess 'that thing'?"
