

The Growth 30

Chapter 30 - 7: Initial Character - Lady of Transformation

Just as Li Hao completed all the game guides and officially entered the operation interface.

He looked at the empty character panel and fell silent once again.

Because Li Hao never thought that this so-called "Civilization Game" would have a step like creating an initial character, just like a real game.

Not wanting to expose too much personal information, he began to think about what kind of character he should create.

Name, race, personal image, and even commonly used written language could not be used as features of this initial character.

After all, no one knows if there are Gods or powers in this world that can trace everything back to its roots just from a few details.

[So not only can I not use any real-world personal information, but I also have to add some misdirection.]

Suddenly, as Li Hao was thinking, his gaze rested on Hua She.

If you want to mislead, what beats false information than true information?

Without a shred of hesitation, Li Hao chose to fill Hua She's image and information into the initial character list and officially named it "Hua She."

Beep!

As Li Hao quickly completed the initial character creation, a crisp sound came from the phone.

Then, a large red X appeared on the initial character panel that Li Hao created.

"The assistant spirit detects the initial character does not match the user..."

"Based on the rules set by Celestial Father Hathor, it is suggested that the user modify the initial character panel information."

When a genderless neutral voice came from the phone, Li Hao was stunned and opened his mouth wide.

So it's not only necessary to create an initial character, but this initial character must also be one's own image?

As for the intelligent voice system?

Li Hao was not surprised at all.

Nowadays, which game doesn't have its own voice system? The difference is just that this voice system is slightly more advanced.

"Great God of Gods, are you planning to use my image?"

Inherently cunning and having gone through so many things, Hua She naturally saw through Li Hao's thoughts at a glance.

"Father God once said that Celestial Father Hathor created 'Civilization Game' to promote more communication and exchange between Gods, so extensive modification of appearance is not supported."

"Of course, if it's just about changing one's gender and appearance, that's still possible."

The rule established by Celestial Father Hathor is that the initial character cannot differ too much from the true form.

Although some Gods can exploit loopholes with their powers.

But in Hua She's opinion, Li Hao clearly doesn't have such capability now.

This means the initial character Li Hao creates must be a human, or at the very least, humanoid.

"Oh!"

He couldn't help but touch his current face.

Li Hao knew that if he utilized the power of the [Candle Dragon Mask], turning himself into Hua She wouldn't be impossible.

Yet, the issue is, is it really necessary to go to such trouble?

"Civilization Game... shouldn't have an 'anti-addiction system,' right!"

Amidst Hua She's bewilderment and confusion, Li Hao directly pointed the phone camera at it.

The next second, the voice of the assistant spirit emitted again from the phone's speaker.

"Detection successful, initial character creation completed."

"Pleased to serve you, esteemed Lady of Transformation."

The language system, tailored specifically to match Chinese.

When the assistant spirit spoke this sentence, it specifically used "Lady" which is more suitable in the Chinese context to address Hua She.

Similarly, the initial character Li Hao had previously created transformed from a white serpent into a human-bodied, snake-tailed beautiful serpent image.

"Great God of Gods..."

Mouth agape in surprise.

No matter how Hua She thought about it, it didn't expect to become a user of "Civilization Game" in this way.

Especially after seeing its character image in the game, Hua She's face even showed a hint of blush.

Perhaps because the possession and assimilation with Meng Yao went on too long, Hua She developed a self-awareness akin to a female.

"Weak Gods?"

Ignoring the fleeting blush on Hua She's face, Li Hao's attention was entirely on the Civilization Game's character panel.

Just like the personal panel he acquired through [Dragon Race Inheritance], the initial character "Hua She" also had a corresponding character panel in Civilization Game.

[Name: Hua She]

[Authority: Rebirth, Fortune]

[Level: Weak Gods]

[Divine Power: ??]

It was a very simplistic character panel, yet unexpectedly precise.

The only thing Li Hao didn't expect was that Hua She, manifested through his power, was evaluated as [Weak Gods] in the Civilization Game's character panel.

Yes, Li Hao was one hundred percent certain that Hua She could be recognized by the "Civilization Game" system as a weak god because of his own power.

If there were a true god here, Hua She's [Divine Power] would certainly not be two question marks.

[So, what level of 'god' am I now?]

As this thought crossed his mind, Li Hao's attention was immediately drawn to a huge exclamation mark.

It seemed like the Civilization Game's... social system?

Out of curiosity, he clicked the exclamation mark, and a message popped up on the interface.

—Great New God, greetings!

—The 'Faceless' who knows all secrets brings you my lord's friendship here!

—If you have any doubts about the "Civilization Game," you can consult and communicate with me.

—You don't need to worry about my intentions, because in this game, the treatments of [Gods], [Apostles], and [Mortals] are completely different.

—My lord only wishes to gain the friendship of a New God, or at least not become an enemy.

Looking at the message on the screen, Li Hao raised an eyebrow.

Who would've thought that right after creating an initial character, someone... or perhaps a "god" noticed his existence via the system.

If the user of this [Civilization Game Invitation] wasn't himself, but Meng Yao, it's unlikely that the "Faceless" would have approached.

In fact, after having the Dragon-headed Giant as an apostle, Li Hao had long understood the relationship between Gods and apostles.

[It seems I wasn't the only one who thought about using a 'smurf' account.]

Celestial Father Hathor's original intention of creating the "Civilization Game" was perhaps to increase exchanges between Gods.

But as the "Civilization Game" evolved, no matter how perfect the rules were, they certainly had loopholes exploited.

The distinction of users of the [Civilization Game Invitation] into Gods, apostles, and mortals clearly stems from everyone exploiting such loopholes.