

The Growth 302

Chapter 302 - 17: Colossal Versatile Final Battle Weapon (2/3)

The Dragon Form, as the name suggests, is a war weapon in the form of a "dragon."

In the present All Heavens and Myriad Realms, "dragon" is no longer just a synonym for a race.

Any alien being strong enough to surpass imagination will be termed as "dragon," to differentiate it from other ordinary mortal life forms.

The [Super Large-Scale Universal War Weapon Dragon Form], forged with the combined power of the Pandora World, is such an existence.

It is an immense creature large enough to nearly encircle the entire ocean.

Overall, it takes the form of a dragon-serpent, but without sharp claws and sturdy scales; instead, it is covered entirely with vibrant green living vines.

Those vines are derivatives of the Dragon Form, able to autonomously defend and attack.

If subjected to destruction beyond its limits, those living vines can even evolve and metamorphose.

The "living plants," coveted by Wuhua, are actually by-products further researched and developed by the Pawa Race from the foundation of these living vines.

As for the Dragon Form itself?

It not only possesses all the characteristics of living vines but also has traits of parasitism, assimilation, and division.

Not even Ascenders or Demigods can resist the parasitism and assimilation of the Dragon Form.

Any life assimilated by it can enhance the Dragon Form's power, elevating its life essence.

Theoretically, as long as enough life is absorbed and assimilated, the Dragon Form's power can be infinitely increased, until becoming truly invincible.

The Dragon Form, back then, relied on these traits to assimilate most of the indigenous coalition's corpses and abilities to successfully acquire the power to defeat the Godslayer.

Of course, while the Dragon Form undoubtedly possesses the potential to slay gods, it ultimately failed to convert this potential into actual strength.

While defeating the Godslayer, the Dragon Form itself was infected by a petrification virus appearing post-Godslayer's death, thus becoming an endless mountain range lying in the deep sea.

This mountain range transverses east to west, splitting the vast deep sea into two.

[Artifact: Dragon Form]

[Type: Super Large-Scale Universal War Weapon]

[Quality: Rare Treasure]

[Function①]The pinnacle crystallization of civilization's power, forged with World Will's aid, innately restrains all beings with divinity.]

[Function②]Capable of continuously parasitizing and assimilating to acquire other creatures' abilities, gradually transforming itself into the most perfect ultimate organism.]

[Function③]Able to freely split off derivatives with certain godslaying attributes, these derivatives can also strengthen themselves through parasitism and assimilation.]

.....

"Is that the Dragon Form? The last hope of this world?"

Fang Xun widened his eyes, striving to clearly see that immense entity spanning the entire ocean.

Regrettably, due to its enormous size.

From Fang Xun's current perspective, he can only see less than a tenth of its length.

Yet, even so, the fear of immense creatures stemming from the sheer size difference successfully spreads within Fang Xun's heart.

The kind of enormous creature that induces fear simply by sight, Fang Xun had only heard of them in the Mountain and Sea Realm's mythological legends.

"Such a colossal size, probably rivaling the Creator's first Apostle!"

Upon hearing Fang Xun's exclamation, Ashoron slightly tilted his head.

He had also heard Fang Xun mention various legends and myths of the Mountain and Sea Realm—the Creator's first Apostle is the majestic giant wielding the sun at the time of world destruction.

"If the Mountain and Sea Realm's legend truly occurred, then the Dragon Form might still not be compared to that first Apostle."

"After all, just defeating a Godslayer already exhausted all of the Dragon Form's functions."

Turning to look at Ashoron, who was still steering the Plant Battleship, Fang Xun suddenly spoke.

"Then how do you plan to restart this Dragon Form?"

Upon hearing the question, Ashoron's face revealed a slightly reluctant smile.

"Although the Dragon Form is a war weapon to counter the Godslayer, it is not a mere tool."

"There is only one way to activate the Dragon Form, which is for the Pawa Race's Ascender to assimilate with it entirely, using their own will to command it."

The Pawa Race is indigenous to Pandora World, evolved from plants into unique life forms.

Only when an Ascender from this race forsakes their form and chooses to completely become part of the Dragon Form can they truly drive this super large-scale universal war weapon.

"Like how you steer this battleship?"

Faintly frowning, sensing something, Fang Xun again asked.

"No, even more thorough than this."

"In essence, it's the Dragon Form assimilating me, rather than me steering the Dragon Form."

"So once the assimilation with the Dragon Form is complete, I am the Dragon Form, the Dragon Form is me; both become one, indistinguishable from each other."

Facing Fang Xun's inquiry placidly, Ashoron understands better than anyone what his decision truly entails.

"Can it be someone else?"

Briefly silent, Fang Xun lowered his voice, knowing it's unlikely, and asked.

And as expected, Ashoron decisively shook his head without hesitation.

"I am now the Pawa Race's only Ascender; this mission only I can complete."

Their conversation had just arrived at this point when the entire deep sea started to violently shake; the ocean's crust beneath visibly cracking.

Seeing this scene, Ashoron decisively piloted the Plant Battleship toward the Dragon Form.

Because this marked the start of the Super Mimetic Entity's official counterattack.

Ashoron must complete the fusion and assimilation with the Dragon Form before the Super Mimetic Entity's retaliate arrived.

Otherwise, it will be much simpler to enter the Super Mimetic Entity's core using the same method next time.

Surge!

Knowing the urgency of the situation, Fang Xun didn't continue asking.

Therefore, the surging tide gathered into form within the water, a massive Water Demon appearing on the Plant Battleship's hull.

—Exorcism and Spirit-Controlling Techniques: Wave Tide Water Demon!

At this moment, Fang Xun unfolded his wings, pupils rolled back.

Pushing his power to the limit, Fang Xun seemed to have touched the limit of [Ascension Ladder], glimpse that supreme realm where all can become Ghost Gods.

Nonetheless, Fang Xun had no time to rejoice or celebrate his achievements.

Because Fang Xun, seemingly synchronized in consciousness with the Wave Tide Water Demon, still had to control the deep sea currents to escort the Plant Battleship's next actions.