

The Growth 304

Chapter 304 - 19: Named "Dragon" (1/3)

"What happened!?"

The trio known as Wuhua, who were miles away, realized the berserk state of the Super Mimetic Entity, and Fang Xun, located at its core, certainly couldn't ignore such an abnormal condition.

"It's berserk! The Guardian has gone berserk!"

Under the protection of the Wave Tide Water Demon, Ashoron smoothly piloted the Plant Battleship to make contact with the Dragon Form.

"Berserk?"

With a slightly surprised tone, Fang Xun quickly received Ashoron's response to his query.

"The Guardian had once gone berserk in the Pandora World, and that was precisely when the Dragon Form killed the Godslayer."

"In a berserk state, the Guardian opens its own database, recklessly creating all sorts of powerful and terrifying monsters..."

"Given enough time, these monsters could destroy the entire world."

As someone who had personally experienced it, Ashoron knew better than anyone the horror of those monsters, which couldn't be killed by conventional means.

If the Godslayer hadn't needed this world as a 'womb' for his resurrection, the Pandora World might not have managed to linger on until now.

"It seems we need to speed up the pace."

Before his words were finished, the Plant Battleship piloted by Ashoron activated the official fusion mode.

Sizzling...

The vines on the surface of the Plant Battleship opened up voluntarily, intertwining with the already petrified Dragon Form.

In an instant, the unique plant network of Pandora World unfolded, and memories from the Dragon Form rushed into Ashoron's mind like a tide.

Those were the memories of the original natives' coalition...

Memories from the birth of the Dragon Form to its petrification...

Also memories from Pandora World itself...

The immense memory data nearly tore apart Ashoron's personality during the fusion.

Fortunately, at the last moment, Ashoron, who had fused with the Plant Battleship, abandoned all forms and transformed into a giant plant brain, completely integrating into the petrified Dragon Form.

To Fang Xun, this scene appeared as if the entire Plant Battleship had sunk into the body of the Dragon Form.

The materials originally making up the Plant Battleship rapidly transformed into active brain cells, leaving only the small space where Fang Xun was located.

However, although the movable space became smaller, Fang Xun's perspective became larger.

Now Fang Xun was like the true brain of the Dragon Form, clearly perceiving all the changes happening to the Dragon Form.

This experience allowed Fang Xun, who had already touched the limits of the Ascension Ladder, to fleetingly sense the entire process of a world transitioning from death to resurrection.

This wasn't an exaggerated description, but rather the significance symbolized by the Dragon Form itself.

The Dragon Form was indeed a product of the peak of civilization in Pandora World.

But it was more than a mere creation of civilization, it also bore the final hope vested by the World Will of Pandora World.

In some sense, viewing it as the last incarnation of Pandora World's will isn't entirely incorrect.

The World Will is not a specific creature, nor is it a God that transcends the dimension of life.

It is the resonance of the world and the beings within it, the survival desire of the world itself.

As the incarnation of this will, when the Dragon Form gradually shifts from petrification to life form, it symbolizes the world's process from death to resurrection.

.....

Rumble...

The earth trembles, the ocean shivers...

In this tumult as if the entire world is plunged into a Celestial Calamity, the first to react was the berserk Super Mimetic Entity.

Sizzling...

Its huge eyeball releases lightning, continually converting material into high-intensity energy.

At a glance, it seems the entire ocean water has been electrolyzed into vapor, with eye-visible dense fog rapidly spreading from the Deep Sea as its center.

Unfortunately, this attack by the Super Mimetic Entity didn't achieve the expected effect.

Even if the entire ocean evaporated, and the mist covered the sky...

The differing green light from the gray world still shone, with a tendency to spread across the entire world.

"Roar!"

In an instant, a dragon's roar came from the depths of the ocean.

Then, defying the fierce attack of the lightning, a sinuous and massive body rose, breaking through the confinement of the Super Mimetic Entity.

—That is... a dragon!

That is the thought that simultaneously appeared in the mind of every eyewitness to that immense figure.

The petrified shells on its body surface forcibly peeled off, revealing fresh and dazzling emerald light emitted from the vines...

The Dragon Form, reemerging, was so powerful that even the mist covering the world couldn't conceal its body.

"Roar!"

Another dragon roar echoed from the Dragon Form's mouth.

The vines entwining its body surface instantly detached, transforming into numerous aggressive Living Plants, battling against the Super Mimetic Entity's offsprings.

Boom! Boom! Boom!

Under the forceful attacks of those Living Plants, the previously menacing monsters fell into a difficult battle.

This wasn't because the monsters were less powerful in terms of raw strength than the Living Plants, but the Living Plants fundamentally didn't have the concept of 'weakness'.

You cut down one Living Plant, and the remaining Living Plants automatically split into two...

The result was a scenario where the opposing side only grew in number, while the attacking side was gradually wiped out.

This is the true terror of the Living Plants; they possess more resilient Life Force than ordinary creatures, a trait even the Super Mimetic Entity's offsprings cannot rival.

"Roar!"

Seeing the situation develop unfavorably for the Super Mimetic Entity, it finally let out its first sound since its debut, an emotion-filled, angry roar.

Boom!!!

In a series of earth-rending booms...

Two colossal beings collided, which led to a chain reaction affecting the entire Pandora World.

The Super Mimetic Entity, ever-changing, can transform parts of its body into weapons and limbs aimed at attacking the Dragon Form.

The Dragon Form leveraged its body size and advantages to the utmost.

Each attack forcibly tears a portion of the Super Mimetic Entity, then uses it as a base to parasitize, assimilate the opponent's Power.

Under such trade-offs, the Dragon Form would soon recover to its peak state by continuously plundering the Super Mimetic Entity's Power.

By then, perhaps only the Godslayer's personal presence could defeat the Dragon Form again.

Clearly, the Super Mimetic Entity realized this too, so it quickly adjusted its combat strategy, starting to produce more offsprings to infiltrate and assimilate the Dragon Form.