

The Growth 377

Chapter 377 23: Mother of the Stars·Doumu Yuanjun

Three days later, in the Central City of the Central Fertile Plains.

"So, have you decided how to deal with these guys?"

Through a specially encrypted channel, the voice of Kuilong echoed in the meeting hall.

Appearing simultaneously with Kuilong's voice were the seven deformed Ghost Dragons trapped above Yu Yuan.

Due to their presence and influence, Yu Yuan had completely become a place without daylight, and the sun's rays could no longer reach that sea area.

If this situation continues, Yu Yuan's original ecosystem will be completely destroyed, and the Canglongs will have to consider the problems of migration and relocation.

This means that the century-long efforts of the Mountain and Sea Civilization will be in vain.

"Have you tried contacting Celestial Pillar City of the Four Seas?"

"They are researching devices that can affect the weather, they should be able to resolve the clouds over Yu Yuan, right?"

Gently waving her tail, the Great Prophet of the Nine-tailed Race was the first to speak.

Unfortunately, Kuilong didn't even need to speak; sitting in the most prominent position, Tianyou decisively rejected her suggestion.

"No, the weather devices they are researching are still in the trial phase, it's impossible for them to disperse the clouds over Yu Yuan."

"Moreover, without understanding the side effects of these weather devices, rashly changing the weather environment on a large scale will only cause unimaginable serious consequences."

Since the Longbo Country incident, Tianyou had become the sixth-generation leader of the Mountain and Sea Civilization.

Unlike A Su, who was solely obsessed with research, Tianyou's style was evidently more decisive and forceful.

Of course, another interpretation of being decisive and forceful is being autocratic.

If Tianyou didn't have enough achievements and his abilities hadn't been recognized by the majority of the Prophets in Zhiku, he might not have become the sixth-generation leader of the Mountain and Sea Civilization.

Even so, during his tenure as leader, Tianyou still made many actions that left the Prophets helpless.

For instance, instead of appearing on the frontline of the battlefield in the form of mercenaries as before, he organized specialized teams to join the war against the Godslayer Civilization.

According to Tianyou, since the stance of the Godslayer Civilization had been determined, preparations must be made for the possible war.

Rather than organize an army temporarily to respond and resist after the war officially involves the Mountain and Sea Civilization.

It's better to further organize an army to fight them before the Godslayer Civilization pushes the battle line to the Mountain and Sea Realm, to understand their combat philosophy and combat methods.

— To strike the enemy before they strike.

Such a violence-leaning style once reminded certain elders of the Mountain and Sea Civilization of the former Tyrant Xiong Pi.

Additionally, Tianyou advocated that whether for the development of civilization or the advancement of technology, the first field to use them must be the military.

Only with enough deterrent force can the results of the civilian field be retained within the Mountain and Sea Civilization, rather than be snatched by opponents and enemies.

— Forewarned is forearmed; always be ready for combat.

This phrase, often on Tianyou's lips, made all members of the Zhiku distinctly aware that this was a leader unlike any of his predecessors.

Fortunately, all of Tianyou's propositions are built on the foundation of "maintaining peace."

Upon confirming that Tianyou had no intentions of bullying the weak or invading other worlds, the Zhiku members could only adjust their original thoughts as much as possible and keep pace with this new leader.

The Prophets of the Zhiku naturally adopted the same mindset for the sudden "Ghost Dragon incident."

"Since experimental weather weapons cannot be utilized, how should we deal with the seven deformed Ghost Dragons?"

Slowly coiling its massive body, the Great Prophet of the Serpent Race asked in a low tone.

"If Geng Chen consumes them like the previous Ghost Dragons..."

"Although it can temporarily resolve this crisis, it would only postpone the crisis for later."

"We all are aware of Geng Chen's potential..."

"Once, like the eighth-generation Ghost Dragon, he is unable to control his power, we will be facing a rampaging True God!"

In fact, the concern expressed by the Great Prophet of the Serpent Race was what Kuilong had always feared.

Regardless of public or personal reasons, Kuilong would never allow Geng Chen to ascend the Divine Throne by consuming his kind, as previous Ghost Dragons had.

"Don't worry, I'm not that stupid."

Glancing at the Great Prophet of the Serpent Race, Tianyou was a bit puzzled about the image he held in her eyes.

"Geng Chen has now broken through the limits of the 'Ascension Ladder,' glimpsing the realm of the True God."

"He only needs a statue beneath the temple of the Creator Altar for him to ascend the Divine Throne through the faith of the Canglong Race."

"How could I let such an 'seed candidate' for True God risk becoming the container to seal those seven Ghost Dragons?"

After succinctly stating his thoughts, Tianyou suddenly shifted his tone.

"I remember Doumu Yuanjun had been conducting research on 'Star Weapons,' right?"

"Do you think, these seven deformed Ghost Dragons, could potentially be the best material for the 'Star Weapons'?"

All the Prophets present fell silent after Tianyou's words.

Even Kuilong, who was listening to the meeting via the communication channel, had also become silent.

Doumu Yuanjun is an extremely secretive True God in the Mountain and Sea Realm.

Besides a few high-ranking officials of the Mountain and Sea Civilization, almost nobody knows of her existence.

This is certainly not only because of her exaggerated and manic style, but because she was the first to ascend to godhood in the Mountain and Sea Realm with a mortal body.

Unlike those demigods consecrated by the Celestial Tao System.

The 'Ascension Ladder' that Doumu Yuanjun pursues is the power of the sky, the power of the night, the power of the stars.

"If it's the 'Mother of All Stars,' she can indeed properly handle these seven Ghost Dragons."

After a long silence, the Great Prophet of the Merfolk Race slowly spoke.

"The question now is, where can we find the 'Mother of All Stars'?"

Although the Mother of the Stars-Doumu Yuanjun was the first True God to ascend with a mortal body, she was not close to the Mountain and Sea Civilization.

Compared to those who had also ascended with mortal bodies.

Even compared to those successful demigods, Doumu Yuanjun was distant from mortals.

"I know the whereabouts of the 'Mother of All Stars.'"

Without playing coy, Tianyou looked around at the surroundings and said.

"She is in the place closest to the sky and the sun in this world, I need someone to accompany me there."

Surprise, amazement, realization, all sorts of complex emotions flickered across the faces of the Prophets.

"The World's Peak, the Immortal Goddess' garden, the legendary Land of Immortal Trials..."

"You want Geng Chen to undertake the 'Immortal Trial'?"