

The Growth 394

Chapter 394 - 16: Yunding Mountain

Divine Fall Realm, near the Divine Ruins.

This is the site formed by the remains of a Divine Body left after an Ascender failed to elevate the Divine Throne.

In the Fallen Land of this Ascender, the omnipresent clouds and lofty mountains appear in this region in an abrupt manner, utterly discordant with the surrounding environment.

From the remains of this site, it can be seen that this Ascender followed a rather retro "Cultivation School."

The Ascension Ladder has never had just one path, and the method of Ascension far exceeds a single kind.

In addition to the Cultivation School, which focuses on talent and opportunity, opening the Ascension Ladder with the power of civilization and technology is also a pathway to the heavens.

The difference lies in that the Cultivation School hardly requires assistance from others, focusing more on oneself.

While the Civilization School's Ascension Ladder is often linked with universality and convenience, testing the overall strength of the entire civilization.

"Yunding Mountain?"

"This is the Fallen Land of the so-called 'God Heimū.'

Standing on the outermost layer of the clouds and mist.

A Scorpion-like Ascender gazes into the depths of Yunding Mountain, an expression full of yearning and caution.

Just like all the Divine Sealers who failed in their Ascension.

The Fallen Land of God Heimu attracts countless Ascenders, all hoping to seize a sliver of the chance to become a God.

Scorpion is one among them, and comparably more cautious.

He waited until other more impatient Ascenders ventured deep into Yunding Mountain before gradually revealing himself.

Because, judging from the actions of those Ascenders, God Heimu's remains and power have likely not been obtained by anyone.

Otherwise, given the character of the Ascenders, the interior of Yunding Mountain would have erupted into conflict long ago, it wouldn't be as quiet as it is now.

"Should we go in?"

As Scorpion was gazing towards Yunding Mountain, a voice emanates from the Yunleir Insect parasitized on him.

As a creature that completed a symbiosis with Scorpion's race a long time ago, the Yunleir Insect enables Scorpion to wield the power of lightning.

And after Scorpion advanced to become an Ascender, the Yunleir Insect ascended along with him.

From this angle, the current Scorpion can actually be regarded as a 'fusion' of two Ascenders.

There were once many enemies who ignored this point, only to be counter-killed by Scorpion and the Yunleir Insect.

The power of one Ascender is likely inferior to that of two.

If those two Ascenders possess complementary abilities and personalities, then their combined power could even challenge Demigods who are close to Divine Investiture, requiring serious consideration.

Of course, the Ascenders who dare to seek opportunities in the Divine Fall Realm possess somewhat extraordinary abilities.

Thus, Scorpion never belittles any Ascender who dares to appear in the Divine Fall Realm.

"Go in, this is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity."

With no hesitation, the cautious but not cowardly Scorpion said this in a low voice.

Typically, after a Demigod fails to elevate the Divine Throne, their flesh and soul are quickly devoured by wolf-like Ascenders.

This is an order and rule etched in the Divine Fall Realm, rarely violated by anyone.

However, God Heimur seems to be an exception.

His ascension was so secretive that it almost escaped the notice of most Ascenders in the Divine Fall Realm.

Even in the failure of his Ascension, Heimur's remains are still hidden in this cloud-shrouded area that isolates all detection methods.

In theory, whoever can find God Heimu's remains before others can solely enjoy the authority that comes from the Gods.

"Be careful, God Heimu is very likely to have mastered some Divine Position related to 'secrecy.'

"Without clarifying whether He is truly dead, any related matters warrant vigilance and caution."

The Yunleir Insect did not oppose Scorpion's decision; it merely reminded him, as a "think-tank," of points that required attention.

"Rest assured, I'm not an amateur ignorant of the Gods; I am aware of the dangers of the Divine Relic."

After briefly responding to the Yunleir Insect, Scorpion decisively advanced into the depths of the clouds.

Subsequently, Scorpion's actions seemed like a signal.

Soon after Scorpion entered Yunding Mountain, more bizarre Ascenders emerged, venturing into the unpredictable mist.

Only when almost all the observing Ascenders had entered Yunding Mountain did the surroundings return to their previous tranquility.

However, no one knows how many crises are hidden beneath this seemingly calm surface.

The only certainty is that the Ascenders entering Yunding Mountain like Scorpion are not the first batch, nor will they be the last.

As long as God Heimu's Divine Format remains undiscovered.

The Ascenders in the Divine Fall Realm will, like sharks drawn to the scent of blood, pour into Yunding Mountain from all over the realm.

.....

Rumble...

Just as the crisis-laden Yunding Mountain was about to embark on a new "gu" cultivation journey.

A highly distinctive explosion sound suddenly came from above Yunding Mountain, followed by the emergence of a giant vortex of time and space.

"Mountain and Sea Realm? The subordinates of the Supreme have arrived?"

Gazing up at the sky, a few Ascenders who dared not enter Yunding Mountain abruptly widened their eyes.

Like the Maitreya Realm, the Mountain and Sea Realm is a world of subordinates under the two great Supremes.

Every subordinate from the Supreme who arrives in the Divine Fall Realm deserves the attention of all Ascenders.

Initially, no one paid much attention to the Ascenders from the Mountain and Sea Realm and the Maitreya Realm.

Until they succeeded in their trials time and again, seizing opportunities and finally elevating the Divine Throne.

Only then did the Ascenders realize the gap between themselves and the subordinates of the two great Supremes, as well as the difference with themselves, who have no backing.

Therefore, under the joint protest of the Ascenders.

The Great Sage Equal to Heaven of the Divine Fall Realm specially set a rule against the Mountain and Sea Realm and the Maitreya Realm.

That is, whenever Demigods from these two worlds descend to the Divine Fall Realm, the appearance of them will be announced to all Ascenders.

Collaboration or confrontation...

Ascenders of the Divine Fall Realm could interact with Demigods from the Supreme World based on their stance, ensuring they wouldn't seize the majority of Ascension opportunities in the realm.

Of course, this is actually unfair to the Demigods of the Mountain and Sea Realm, Maitreya Realm.

But the fact is, they indeed have massive home-field advantage in the Divine Fall Realm, compelling ordinary Ascenders from other realms to specifically target them.