

The Growth 460

Chapter 460 - 8: The Immortal Angels

After being chosen by the "Power of the Holy Spirit" and walking with "God" for three hundred years...

Enoch deeply understood an undeniable fact—the Yawei World was gradually edging towards destruction.

However, Enoch was powerless to do anything about it.

The Yawei World is a world-class "Ark" created by the Greek Gods.

The technology and concepts it holds are far superior to those of ordinary worlds.

Even if a general Supreme God descended, they might not be able to mend this world which has long been shattered and broken.

Moreover, the "Power of the Creator" of the Yawei World has been divided into three, fundamentally eliminating the possibility of repairing the Yawei World.

Unfortunately, not all the Yawei Gods think this way.

Some Gods and Angels who know Enoch's identity have placed their hopes for saving the Yawei World on him.

After all, Enoch is both a Cherubical Angel favored by the Holy Spirit, and Adam's eldest grandson.

If Enoch were to find Adam, who had long been exiled from Eden, and reclaim the "Power of the Holy Father" from him...

Then he might very well become the second Holy Spirit with absolute dominance over the Yawei Divine Pantheon, following the first-generation Holy Spirit.

If Enoch could further go to the [Fallen Area] and find the "Power of the Holy Son," then his trinity would truly hold the possibility of saving the world.

At the very least, the state of the Yawei World wouldn't continue to deteriorate.

With this consideration, upon learning the intelligence about the [God of Chaos], Enoch decisively seized the [God of Chaos] from Gus.

Because he needs to use the power of the [God of Chaos] to venture into the [Fallen Area] to search for the possibly non-existent Holy Son Jesus.

The [God of Chaos] searches for the "Power of the Holy Son" in the [Fallen Area].

Enoch's true self was also not idle; instead, he was searching for the Holy Spirit's Firstborn Son, Adam, who had been expelled from Eden.

After countless years of pursuit and exploration, the Yawei Gods finally found the world where Adam was secluded and relentlessly drove their world towards it.

Thus, an apocalyptic catastrophe befell this originally peaceful world.

In the sky over Adam's hidden world, the Holy Spirit shone brighter than the sun, and angels singing hymns appeared around the Holy Spirit.

These angels were bizarre in form, with multiple eyes, wings, and rings, yet none resembled human beings.

—Created in terrifying grotesque forms to awe all creatures, this was the original intention of the angels' creation.

Those angels, singing hymns, formed legions and continuously spilled into this world from the Holy Spirit World.

The "core" of these legions were unspeakable monsters exuding holy light.

They possessed four distinctly different faces, each facing in a different direction.

The front was a human face, the back was an eagle's head, the left was a lion's visage, and the right was a cow's countenance...

The four faces symbolize four different dominions, four different powers.

Above this enormous head, four equally enormous wings firmly enveloped it, imparting a subtle and elusive sense of holiness.

These are the Upper Rank Angels of the Yawei Divine Pantheon—Wise Angels·Cherubim.

They are reputed to possess "God's Wisdom" and can connect with the entire angelic legion through a special Spiritual Chain ability, commanding the Lower Rank Angels in battle as effortlessly as moving an arm.

Of course, to focus on commanding the entire legion in battle, the Wise Angels have specialized angels for protection.

They are the Throne Angels·Ophanim, known as the "Divine Throne."

These Throne Angels are generally composed of hundreds or thousands of golden eyeballs forming multiple concentric rings.

These concentric rings protect the Wise Angels securely in their central position, only deploying a golden barrier to guard them when a creature breaches the legion's defense line, attempting to attack the Wise Angels.

The cooperation between the Wise Angels and the Throne Angels makes it very difficult for even Main God Level Gods to breach their defenses.

After all, apart from the Cherubim, the Wise Angels and Throne Angels, before being assimilated by the Holy Spirit, were mighty gods infinitely close to the level of Main Gods.

Some valiant and battle-ready Wise Angels and Throne Angels were, in fact, beings that descended from Main Gods.

Beyond the Upper Rank Angels, come the more numerous Middle-Rank Angels and Lower Rank Angels.

Among these, the Middle-Rank Angels are undoubtedly the backbone of the entire legion.

Their appearance is somewhat better compared to the Upper Rank Angels, but still hardly resembles normal creatures.

Because they were originally True Gods from other worlds, only after being assimilated by the Holy Spirit did they grow wings symbolizing "angels."

As for the lowest class Lower Rank Angels in the legion?

The appearance of those Lower Rank Angels is significantly better, at least no longer instilling indescribable terror at first glance.

Most of these Lower Rank Angels are Ascenders, the cannon fodder of the battlefield.

"Kill! For the glory of the Holy Spirit!"

"With the Holy Spirit above, annihilate these heretics!"

"Foolish lay creatures, today is your day of death!"

...

Amidst the rising and falling cries of slaughter, the angels, under the radiance of the Holy Spirit, fiercely battled the native beings of this world.

However, though the hordes of angels were formidable, the native creatures of this world were no easy prey either.

They mobilized nearly all resources and manpower available within this world.

Various powerful anti-air weaponry constantly fired from the surface, and countless Godslaying Mecha appeared in succession.

Though these mechas' maximum cap merely brushed the baseline of the gods, they indeed posed a threat to the Middle-Rank Angels.

In fact, to better assimilate those gods from other worlds, the Holy Spirit often significantly weakened their inherent abilities.

This directly led to the Middle-Rank Angels, who were originally True Gods, underperforming in combat compared to before.

Not to mention, every True God is an elite among billions of creatures; wisdom and decisiveness are their most crucial powers.

In contrast to those paper-like angels who know nothing but obeying the Wise Angels' orders to kill.

The native True Gods of this world, paired with Godslaying Mecha, can completely create a scenario of one-sided domination.

The only pity is that this is already the limit of what the native world can achieve.

The essence of Middle-Rank Angels is True Gods, high-dimensional beings ordinary creatures cannot kill.

Unless their life dimensions are struck down, Middle-Rank Angels will continuously stream into this world from the Holy Spirit World, at most consuming a bit of Eden's Holy Water.

This is what makes the Yawei World truly terrifying.

Years of accumulation have granted the Yawei World a far surpassing normal quantity of True Gods.

And those immortal angels can make the Yawei World increasingly powerful through a method of nurturing battle through battle.