

The Growth 468

Chapter 468 - 16: Li Hao's Trump Card

[What audacity!]

Li Hao, who witnessed the battle in its entirety, couldn't help but exclaim in admiration.

Adam's final act of uniting the twin spears before throwing them was indeed partially intended to disrupt the relationship between Enoch and the Yawei Gods.

But on the other hand, Adam left a contingency plan.

In case Enoch finally caught up with the unified twin spears, both the Lance of Longinus and Cassius' Spear would simultaneously explode, dealing massive damage to the opponent in a near self-destructive manner.

In fact, Adam never believed this could kill Enoch.

Adam's true intention was to use the power of the Lance of Longinus and Cassius' Spear to forcefully breach the barriers between worlds, banishing Enoch from Mithra World.

As for which world the Lance of Longinus and Cassius' Spear would ultimately end up in?

Adam no longer had the mind to think it over; in any case, it was far better than falling directly into Enoch's hands.

This was the last thing Adam could do for Mithra World before his death.

Adam did not regret his choice.

He only felt somewhat regretful for ultimately breaking his promise, leaving Eve alone.

"I'm sorry... Eve..."

"Please... you must... survive..."

As his golden pupils dimmed completely, these words became Adam's final testament in this world.

.....

In the broken space-time rift, amidst the endless void.

"Adam!!!"

The eighteen Enochs reassembled into one, forming a complete form with thirty-six wings.

While holding the Lance of Longinus in one hand and Cassius' Spear in the other, his entire being exuded an even stronger aura than before.

Under the disturbance of this aura.

The shattered space-time transformed into chaos, the endless void reenacting order.

It felt as if balanced between life and death, yet simultaneously wielding the power of creation and destruction.

Enoch was just about to return to Mithra World when he was shocked to find the space-time he was in was bound by a will filled with hostility.

This will was specifically targeting Enoch, giving him a sense of deja vu.

The most critical point was that although the owner of this will had not reached the level of a Supreme God, they managed through some means to unleash power comparable to that of a Supreme God in a short period.

"I... finally found you..."

Surpassing the barriers of language and sound, a voice filled with malice echoed directly in Enoch's ear.

When Enoch turned around, what met his eyes was a humanoid Divine Abomination.

He had an exposed, malformed heart.

Those twisted hands held a Dragon-slaying Greatsword, larger than his own body.

Just one look at the other party's appearance and Enoch was shocked by the monstrous malice it exuded.

A Saint's body fallen into a Divine Abomination...

Driven by endless hatred...

Coupled with the Destiny Weaver hidden within him...

Having manifested, Gus roared and charged at Enoch, who was visibly stronger.

Rumble...

In an instant, the universe-shattering explosion obliterated this chaotic space-time.

In this place where all rules and orders were twisted, Enoch could only barely maintain his current form with his own Divine Power.

In contrast, Gus, who had completely abandoned his form, maneuvered freely within this distorted realm.

Boom! Boom! Boom!

In the blink of an eye, the battle between Gus and Enoch commenced.

Gus, a Godslayer who ascended to the Divine Throne from a mortal, possessed combat experience and resolve that was in no way inferior to Enoch, who was determined to save the Yawei World.

When such a Gus disregards life and death, intent only on dragging Enoch down with him.

Even Enoch, who surpassed Gus in strength, had to choose to retreat strategically.

Moreover, having gained the "Power of the Holy Father," Enoch also acquired the space-piercing power of the Lance of Longinus.

Thus, Enoch could faintly sense that behind this reckless and fearless Divine Abomination, there seemed to be a presence hidden at the end of space-time observing him.

[Is it another 'God of Chaos'!]

Such a thought flashed quickly in Enoch's mind, and his heart instantly sank.

Since acquiring the embodiment of the God of Chaos, Enoch was well aware of how troublesome other space-time Gods of Chaos were.

Especially those Gods of Chaos who, like him, were Supreme Gods.

They constantly eyed other space-time Gods of Chaos, waiting for an opportunity when they appeared vulnerable.

Truth be told, after obtaining the embodiment of the God of Chaos, Enoch reaped numerous benefits with this form, and correspondingly was willing to bear the costs.

Yet he never anticipated that the price would arrive at such a time.

.....

[How perceptive?]

Slightly surprised, Li Hao was stunned that Enoch could sense his presence at this moment.

However, considering Enoch was also one of the thirteen Supreme Gods before, Li Hao's surprise quickly turned into understanding.

The only thing Enoch didn't anticipate was that Li Hao wasn't originally one of the thirteen Supreme Gods.

Li Hao was the fourteenth Supreme God, inheriting that position after Enoch's fall.

This meant that even if Li Hao's information were exposed, Enoch wouldn't be able to speculate his identity.

[In fact, I have means to avoid revealing my identity entirely.]

A faint smile curved up at the corner of his mouth, Li Hao subtly twisted the space-time.

Instantly, a space-time black hole connecting to the future and the Fallen Area appeared near Enoch.

Swish... Swish...

The long-missed Hunting Fish emerged from the space-time black hole.

Without hesitation, this "unofficial member" subdued by Li Hao roared in Enoch's direction.

Buzz!

The planet-sized bulk endowed the Hunting Fish with terrifying strength.

Its extremely compressed mass gave it a black hole-like devouring ability.

Along with the Hunting Fish's inherent ability to freely ascend and descend dimensions, it directly accelerated the battle's course.

Swish... Swish...

The Hunting Fish did not impulsively join the fray.

In contrast, with the Mountain and Sea Civilization's constant development and progress, Li Hao had performed various modifications and upgrades on the Hunting Fish.

In addition to the physical upgrades, the naturally intelligent Hunting Fish now exhibited an astonishing ability to learn and adapt.

It needed no extra commands from Li Hao.

Like a shark lurking in the deep sea, the Hunting Fish was ready at any moment to deliver a fatal strike to Enoch.

Should Enoch be distracted or make any mistake in the ensuing battle, the Hunting Fish would pounce without hesitation.

Just like a Sword of Damocles hanging over Enoch's head.

The Hunting Fish, without making any attack move, instead maximized the draw of Enoch's vigilance and attention.
