

The Growth 470

Chapter 470 - 18: The First Sun

In the mythological legends of the Yawei God Pantheon.

On the sixth day of creation of this world by the Holy Spirit, a male and a female of two monsters were created.

The female is Leviathan entrenched in the sea, while the male is Behemoth, who dominates the land.

When the end of the Yawei World arrives, Leviathan, Behemoth, and Xiz, the three monsters, will appear as sacrifices offered to the Holy One.

Thus, the Deep Sea Giant Snake Leviathan, the Earth Giant Beast Behemoth, and the Sky Giant Bird Xiz naturally became the guardians in mythological legends capable of protecting the world.

Crack...

Like a hatchling snake being incubated from its eggshell.

Leviathan, coming out of the cracked Yawei World, bears an extremely strange serpentine form.

Although its overall appearance is that of a massive sea serpent, what comprises the inner structure of Leviathan is countless tendrils and thousands of eyes.

The true nature of these tendrils and eyes are the already deceased beings of the Yawei World, each possessing their own independent will.

When these wills are unified into a whole, Leviathan, the largest creature created by the Holy Spirit, is born.

It is a terrifying existence even more abominable than the Divine Abomination, the strongest creature created by the Holy Spirit to protect its world.

Roar!

Like a ventral-slithering Dragon of Chaos.

Leviathan, emerging from the Yawei World, almost instantly encircled the entire world.

In terms of sheer size, Leviathan is even a bit larger than the present day [Hunting Fish], proving it must not be underestimated.

Thus, the battle situation once again fell into a deadlock.

Leviathan against the [Hunting Fish], while Gus continues to tangle with Enoch...

Both Leviathan and Enoch are distracted by the need to protect the Yawei World, so even if there's a disparity in overall strength between the two sides, the specific battle conditions aren't much behind.

Especially the [Hunting Fish], while Leviathan is indeed an Extinguisher Divine Abomination created by the primordial Holy Spirit.

But the [Hunting Fish] is also the most powerful biological entity created by Li Hao, possessing the ability of individual world extinction.

The crucial point is that unlike the Eight Great Apostles of the Mountain and Sea Realm, the [Hunting Fish]'s abilities and beliefs wholly belong to Li Hao, not the Creator of the Mountain and Sea Realm.

Even if one day Li Hao is no longer the Creator of the Mountain and Sea Realm.

The [Hunting Fish] will still remain his most loyal and powerful existence.

This unique identity position allows the [Hunting Fish] to wholeheartedly embrace Li Hao's power, without being affected in the use of this power by its own will.

Pure, fanatic, and fearless...

This is the [Hunting Fish], the most devout messenger and the most powerful biological weapon unwittingly created by Li Hao.

Rustling...

Accompanied by its unique eerie sound, the body of the [Hunting Fish] once again became intangible, entering the boundary between high and low dimensions.

As long as Leviathan dares to show the slightest negligence, the [Hunting Fish] would unhesitatingly rush out again, destroying the Yawei World it protects.

Mithra World, the Fallen Land of Adam.

With that massive explosion severing the connection between the two worlds, the Mithra World once again returned to a long-awaited peace.

The place where Enoch and Adam once battled turned into this world's spectacle, deep and dark like the starry sky.

It seems to be a piece of "patch" directly embedded on the world barrier, presenting a color completely different from the sky, earth, and ocean.

Forcing a comparison, it's akin to chaos and mosaic of the Data World, a zone where matter, energy, and rules are utterly chaotic.

And in this disorderly zone, the only thing still maintaining its form is Adam's remnants.

The head, long with closed eyes, and those fragmented limbs are all that Adam left in this world.

"No, we simply cannot enter."

Standing at the outermost edge of the disorderly zone, the War God of the Mithra World, who is also the Divine King, frowned and said.

And behind this Divine King, the Supreme Death God and the Goddess of Harvest each were holding the Supreme Divine Artifacts of the Mithra God Pantheon — the Holy Fire Order and the Sun Wheel.

These two divine artifacts originated from the first generation of Divine Kings in this world.

They were a Light and Sun God of one body, both good and evil, and the original sun of the Mithra World.

Before the Barbaric Gods constructed the [Heaven-Reaching Ladder], the Mithra Sun God was this world's only sovereign, the existence closest to the Supreme God.

Unfortunately, due to the chaotic nature of this Sun God, He ultimately split apart.

From then on, the Mithra World had the distinction between day and night.

And it wasn't long after the Mithra Sun God vanished before the Barbaric Gods found the two divine artifacts He left behind — the Holy Fire Order and Sun Wheel.

After a brutal series of battles and slaughter.

Two weak gods fortuitously obtained the Holy Fire Order and Sun Wheel respectively.

Thus, they were elevated to become the Main Gods, surviving into the era of the gods of civilization, becoming the current Supreme Death God and Goddess of Harvest.

— The Holy Fire Order presides over life and death, the Sun Wheel presides over day and night.

In the myths of the Mithra World, when both the Holy Fire Order and Sun Wheel appear together, the godly might of that original sun can be reproduced.

"Let us handle it then!"

Silently exchanging glances, the Supreme Death God and the Goddess of Harvest spoke almost simultaneously.

Seeing this, the gods behind the three deities very cooperatively made sufficient space, allowing the three strongest figures of the Mithra World ample room to exert their powers.

"But..."

Unable to resist turning back to glance at the Supreme Death God.

The War God hasn't forgotten their forced use of the Holy Fire Order's power to end the second "War of the Angels" incident.

Since then, the Supreme Death God's condition has been poor, to the extent of not partaking in the "third War of the Angels".

"Don't worry about my condition, after all, this time, it's not high-intensity combat."

Seeing through the War God's concern at a glance, the Supreme Death God smiled to dispel the worry.

"As long as it's not a being of the Hands of God level, the consumption of the Holy Fire Order actually isn't too great on me."

"Moreover, I have you all as my support!"

Hearing this, the Goddess of Harvest also laughed, speaking words of consolation.

"Indeed! You needn't worry too much about us. We've lived far longer than you, after all; we can discern the urgency of matters."

Seeing the situation, the War God knew he couldn't change their minds, unwillingly stepping aside.

"Remember, you are the very foundations of the Mithra Pantheon."

"If truly nothing can be done, abandoning the rescue of that 'Saint' won't draw any blame on you."
