

The Growth 479

Chapter 479 - 1: Combined Divine Artifact

In the blink of an eye, Li Hao had already been at Lu'an for over half a month.

After enduring the initial college military training, Li Hao gradually became familiar with his new campus life.

Whether it was relationships with classmates or professional courses, Li Hao handled them all with ease and was even exceptionally invited to join the Student Council early by his advising teacher.

Although Li Hao himself didn't show much interest in it.

But he remembered well the advice from his parents and Li Yun.

To try to experience more new things in college, rather than confining his life to just the classroom and dormitory like in high school.

Thus, without hiding and never intending to hide his talents, Li Hao naturally became a well-known figure among the new batch of students.

Most freshmen knew that there was a big shot in their batch.

Not only was he professional and skilled, but he was also highly valued by the professors in his major.

Even the Student Council and various clubs were actively reaching out to him, where he also performed outstandingly.

To be honest, as a top-tier university in Lu'an, Lu'an University had seen its fair share of geniuses with high emotional and intellectual intelligence.

But Li Hao was significantly different from them.

Everyone could see that Li Hao had a kind of maturity and... curiosity? that did not match his age.

Yes, although these two words seem contradictory, this was indeed the impression most people had of Li Hao.

In terms of how he handled matters, Li Hao showcased a maturity and rationality far beyond his peers, naturally earning goodwill from almost everyone who interacted with him.

But when it came to professional courses or things he was interested in, Li Hao behaved like an innocent child, full of curiosity and a desire to explore.

Archeology, after all, was a dead-end major.

The future job prospects were so narrow that they only include places like museums, archeological institutes, and antiquities auction houses.

And coupled with the university's inherently loose learning atmosphere.

A top student like Li Hao, with both high IQ and EQ, who was diligent and ambitious, was almost a rare find.

Thanks to this, Li Hao smoothly formed a small club named "Mythology and Archeological Research," with a professional teacher acting as the club's advising teacher.

.....

Lu'an University, Boys' Dormitory Building C, Room 318.

"Wow? How rare!"

"Our busy guy is back to the dorm so early today?"

When Long Tao pushed open the dorm door, the first thing he saw was Li Hao, sitting at his computer, typing away on the keyboard.

As Li Hao's roommate for the next four years, Long Tao was a local of Lu'an and would go home every weekend and bring back various homemade specialties for his roommates.

Therefore, in terms of roommate relations, Long Tao might be the most popular one after Li Hao.

"Yeah, I don't need to check any extra materials today, so I came back earlier."

Hearing Li Hao say this, Long Tao immediately looked at him with envious eyes.

"Is it related to Professor Zhang's project?"

"It's only been a few days since the semester started, and Professor Zhang already dares to let you practice."

Aside from the fundamental studies of history and culture, practical activities were the most important aspects of the archeology major.

And these practical activities were also divided into two parts: identifying and researching ancient relics and personally inspecting archaeological sites.

Generally, these are content that would only be gradually encountered in the next academic year.

But Li Hao had already finished learning the entire semester's content in advance; only practice was left.

"Who asked you guys not to be interested in these things..."

Smiling, Li Hao playfully teased Long Tao before refocusing his attention on the computer.

In fact, Long Tao was actually among the new batch of students who were relatively interested in the archeology major.

It's just that he was interested in antique collection and jade appraisal.

Unlike Li Hao, who specialized in mythological legends and prehistoric sites, even within his major, these were considered highly niche topics.

"Don't compare us to a freak like you; we're just normal people."

Without intending to further disturb Li Hao, Long Tao went straight to his computer desk, skillfully turned on his computer, put on his headphones, and entered the game interface.

Seeing this, Li Hao just smiled and remained silent as well.

Because at this moment, Li Hao's computer was simultaneously running the programs [Mountain and Sea Realm] and [Vast Heaven Mirror], which were coordinating with each other.

This was yet another unresolved attempt by Li Hao.

Different from the combined use of [Cup of Hygeia], [Void Divine Hall], [Celestial Tao System], and [Chronicles of Time].

To integrate [Vast Heaven Mirror] as part of the Combined Divine Artifact was far more challenging than Li Hao had imagined.

The [Celestial Tao System] was a special system overseeing the entire Mountain and Sea Realm, responsible for recording and collecting various information and data, akin to a massive database.

Only with the power of the [Chronicles of Time] could the [Celestial Tao System] exert a terrifying intervention similar to that of a Creator.

Or rather, temporarily granting the usage rights of the [Chronicles of Time] to the [Celestial Tao System] was one way Li Hao used his powers as a Creator.

On this foundation, the [Cup of Hygeia], which could transform everything and reorganize matter and energy, could extend this special intervention beyond the Mountain and Sea Realm to other worlds.

Even if that world lacked Li Hao's followers, even if it was a chaotic and unordered Land of Chaos...

As long as he could provide sufficient energy, Li Hao could recreate the universe and create worlds anew.

Without a doubt, the [Void Divine Hall] was the component providing energy within the Combined Divine Artifact.

Through the Divine Hall constructed by the Long-Eyed God within the Void, Li Hao could continuously draw power from the Void to achieve his goals.

Compared to other creators, Li Hao did not have to worry about the cost of creating a world at all.

If he wasn't satisfied with this world, he could just start over from scratch.

Unlike other creators, who would exhaust all their resources just to create one world, possibly even falling into an unknown period of long slumber thereafter.

The [Game Realm] within the [Civilization Game] was a special world born under such circumstances.

Every thematic update of the [Game Realm] was essentially a replay of this world's creation.

In this context, Li Hao's attempt to integrate the [Vast Heaven Mirror] into the Combined Divine Artifact and leverage its unique function was not a problem that could be solved impulsively.

Fortunately, Li Hao had ample time and energy to make attempt after attempt, until [Vast Heaven Mirror] became a part of this powerful Combined Divine Artifact.