

The Growth 507

Chapter 507 5: The Creator's Livestream

Since the "Heaven Peeping Array" was built, the Mountain and Sea Civilization has gained another channel to understand other worlds.

And compared to other "Space-Based Telescope Arrays," or even the [Game Realm].

The information and data obtained by the "Heaven Peeping Array" are more timely and accurate.

After all, the information collected by the "Space-Based Telescope Array" not only contains a lot of invalid, dangerous information.

But it's also affected by temporal vortexes, causing delays of hundreds of years.

Although the information collected through the [Game Realm] is comprehensive.

The convoluted nature of it makes cross-referencing too difficult.

Only the information source from the [Vast Heaven Mirror] can obtain information from other worlds in a timely and precise manner, with low risk and identification difficulty.

The only thing that makes the Mountain and Sea Civilization a bit uneasy is that this behavior seems a bit of an affront to the Creator.

If it weren't for the insistence of the contemporary leader of the Mountain and Sea Civilization—Tianyou, the "Heaven Peeping Array" wouldn't have been approved even in the planning stage.

Tianyou's explanation for this is—since the Creator hasn't stopped our actions, this itself counts as a kind of tacit consent.

Call it heresy or enlightenment of the Creator's true intentions...

Tianyou's stubborn actions indeed successfully helped the Mountain and Sea Civilization enter a new phase.

In the information from the "Heaven Peeping Array," apart from the most common world types and ecological environments, there are occasional glimpses of the existence of other civilizations.

These civilizations are either more advanced or less developed than the Mountain and Sea Civilization, but without exception, they all broaden the horizons of the Mountain and Sea People.

Especially the unintentionally scanned concepts and knowledge by the [Vast Heaven Mirror], which have become critical inspiration for breaking certain technical bottlenecks in the Mountain and Sea Civilization.

It can only be said that the development of the Mountain and Sea Civilization far exceeded what Li Hao had imagined.

In this context, Li Hao, who was aware of the "Heaven Peeping Array," also chose to acquiesce.

Li Hao is curious about what other things this civilization, which has grown under his protection, dares not to do?

Or rather, to what extent can these audacious people go?

[Since you want to watch, I'll simply give you a live broadcast!]

.....

The Mountain and Sea Realm is unknown to the passage of time, and the Skeletons are a race that hardly cares about its flow.

In the blink of an eye, a decade has passed since Chi Qiu and Celestial Decree became staff of the [Space-Based Telescope Array].

During this time, Chi Qiu and Celestial Decree have always adhered strictly to the operational procedures outlined in the employee handbook, leading lives similar to those of previous staff members.

Until a day ago, when Chi Qiu, who was routinely checking various data from the "Heaven Peeping Array," let out a cry of surprise.

Celestial Decree immediately rushed over and then stared in shock with Chi Qiu at the clear images transmitted from the "Heaven Peeping Array."

To know, the essence of the "Heaven Peeping Array" is to observe changes in the [Vast Heaven Mirror] and thus reconstruct corresponding information on the big screen.

So, don't even mention clear visual information.

In most cases, Chi Qiu and Celestial Decree could only see a jumble of unreadable gibberish.

Parsing useful information from that jumble is the task of the "Heaven Peeping Array" brain-computer and Chi Qiu, along with Celestial Decree.

But the image currently displayed on the big screen is so clear, it doesn't resemble the gibberish data obtained through the "Heaven Peeping Array" by peeking at the [Vast Heaven Mirror].

On the contrary, it feels more like directly viewing the image from the [Vast Heaven Mirror], exceptionally clear.

"Is that... a world?"

After a brief silence, Chi Qiu was the first to come to his senses and murmured softly.

Because the scene currently presented within the "Heaven Peeping Array" is a high-altitude overlook of a world.

It seems like a human paradise shrouded in mist and clouds.

Even with just a high-altitude overlook perspective, one can see those Immortal Mountains floating in the air and the Archipelago drifting on the sea.

The Immortal Mountains floating in the sky are enveloped by clouds and mist, only displaying a faint glimpse of colorful radiance.

While those Archipelago drifting on the sea appear to have a sense of floating, as if some entity is carrying the Archipelago, making them drift.

As the high-altitude perspective crossed over Immortal Mountains, over the Archipelago, and landed on the true continent of this world, the astonishment on Chi Qiu and Celestial Decree's faces intensified.

Because the world's continent was fragmented, as if shattered by some invisible force.

Especially in the center of the continent, a clear five-finger imprint is etched, marking the origin from which the continent split.

Simply eyeballing it, it's not hard to see that the five-finger imprint occupies at least one-tenth of the entire continent's area.

And surrounding the five-finger imprint, Chi Qiu and Celestial Decree saw shattered mountain ranges, crisscrossing sword marks, peaks embedded in the earth, and seemingly ever-present blood pools...

Compared to the Immortal Mountains in the sky and the Archipelago offshore, the scene on the continent appeared so bizarre.

It was at this moment that Chi Qiu and Celestial Decree realized why the Archipelago on the continent's edge seemed to drift.

Those islands naturally belonged to parts of the continent, but due to some reason split and drifted out to the ocean.

"Did this world experience a 'War of the Gods'?"

Gazing in awe at the shattered continent, Celestial Decree couldn't help but voice the question.

Generally speaking, the Gods are protective of their worlds.

Even in the face of an invasion by a foreign Evil God, they strive to safeguard their world from destruction and ruin.

However, the current situation in this world far surpasses Chi Qiu and Celestial Decree's comprehension.

The fragmented continent is evidently a result of destruction wrought by a True God personally stepping into action.

Yet the issue is, none of the Gods involved in the battle seemed interested in protecting this land; instead, they used it to their fullest as a battlefield.

Such circumstances typically only occur when two Divine Pantheons stage a duel in an unfamiliar world.

"Now isn't the time for such thoughts, is it!?"

At this moment, Chi Qiu, who also regained his senses, finally realized the severity of the issue.

"What is the deal with the images captured by the 'Heaven Peeping Array'?"

"Is this the Creator's way of showing us, or has something invaded the 'Heaven Peeping Array'?"

Prompted by Chi Qiu's reminder, Celestial Decree's demeanor immediately became composed, with his expression turning from astonishment to seriousness.

"You notify the Prophets in Zhiku at once, and I'll document these data images here."

"Also, send all data prior to the mutation of the 'Heaven Peeping Array' to Central City, letting researchers there figure out what's going on."
