Chapter 530: End of Volume: Journey to a New World

"Sun-Hunting Gold Coin? Creation Gold Coin?"

Li Hao's departure did not change the chaotic situation of the Celestial Human Realm.

At the very least, Haoguang, who left the "Land of Rebirth," did not see any signs that the chaos was about to subside.

On the contrary, the great war between him and Yu Wei seemed to have become the fuse for this "War of the End of the Dharma."

Since the fall of Nine Peaks Mountain, wars have erupted all over the Celestial Human Realm unchecked.

The battles seen everywhere left Haoguang silent, for he knew he could have prevented this war.

Thus, to atone for his mistakes.

Haoguang had no choice but to devote most of his energy to studying the "Sun-Hunting Gold Coin" and "Creation Gold Coin."

There's no need to say much about the "Sun-Hunting Gold Coin."

It was the first Extraordinary Artifact Haoguang obtained, also the source and aid of his journey on the Path of Cultivation.

Before Haoguang matured, he always thought it was a Magical Treasure left behind by some Celestial Being in this world.

However, as his cultivation improved and his knowledge expanded, Haoguang gradually changed this shallow perception.

Especially after the Sun Star Monarch helped Haoguang reshape his Primordial Spirit, he felt that solar power from the "Sun-Hunting Gold Coin" for the first time.

— It was not a "gold coin" at all!

— It was clearly a sun existing in the form of a "gold coin"!

— And the brilliance and power of this sun far exceeded the sun of the Celestial Human Realm by countless times!

Due to the lack of corresponding knowledge, Haoguang couldn't imagine what an "Epic Divine Artifact" truly was.

He only knew that he seemed to have inadvertently mastered a power that didn't belong to this world at all.

Crucially, as the appointed heir of the Sun Star Monarch, Haoguang also inherited a portion of the faith mortals had for the Sun Star Monarch.

After decades of exploration, when Haoguang realized he could seemingly drive the "Sun-Hunting Gold Coin" through the power of faith, he actively created a secondary level of "Sun-Hunting Gold Coin."

Compared to the near-impossible-to-replicate Epic Divine Artifact.

The power of the Rare Treasure Level "Sun-Hunting Gold Coin" was evidently much reduced.

Additionally, as Haoguang had prior experience using the "Sun-Hunting Gold Coin," he successfully exchanged it for the "Resurrection Divine Artifact" he desired—the Ankh's Talisman.

Unfortunately, lacking a corresponding body and soul, the Ankh's Talisman ultimately failed to revive the Sun Star Monarch.

Instead, due to his own strength and broadened horizons, Haoguang vaguely understood the operation mechanism of this Divine Artifact while using the "Sun-Hunting Gold Coin."

Though named "gold coin," the "Sun-Hunting Gold Coin" was not actually about purchasing Divine Artifacts from the Egyptian Gods.

In Haoguang's view, holding the "Sun-Hunting Gold Coin" made him feel more like he was tapping into some underlying rule of equivalent exchange.

This underlying rule universally existed in All Heavens and Myriad Realms, similar to a natural phenomenon like universal gravitation...

As long as he offered the "Sun-Hunting Gold Coin" as an equivalent, he could materialize and create those Supreme Divine Artifacts that once existed in the list.

— Just like... the Creator!

This thought had appeared more than once in Haoguang's mind.

He once even fantasized whether offering the strongest "Sun-Hunting Gold Coin" could restore the Celestial Human Realm to its most flourishing era.

The result was predictable, Haoguang failed to find any artifact in the complex list that could restore the Celestial Human Realm to its former glory.

It was from that moment Haoguang realized the "Sun-Hunting Gold Coin" could not grant him the power akin to the Creator.

Through the "Sun-Hunting Gold Coin," he could only exchange for those Divine Artifacts that had existed in the list.

Besides that, Haoguang also realized one issue.

That the God who originally created the "Sun-Hunting Gold Coin"... might have already been dead.

After all, the existence of the "Sun-Hunting Gold Coin" was too bizarre.

Theoretically speaking, as long as Haoguang had enough faith, he could endlessly generate the "Sun-Hunting Gold Coins" and use that God's power without limitation.

Looking at it from any angle, this should not be a normal situation.

"So, can this 'Creation Gold Coin' also allow me to use the Exotic God's power?"

Thinking of this, Haoguang couldn't help but recall Li Hao's last words before leaving.

Even though he was also borrowing the power of an unknown God.

But Li Hao evidently had absolute discretion over the use of the "Creation Gold Coin."

Hoping to use the "Creation Gold Coin" like a universal wishing machine, similar to the "Sun-Hunting Gold Coin," was obviously impossible.

However, although the "Creation Gold Coin" lacked the limitless freedom of the "Sun-Hunting Gold Coin," it also had its advantages.

That being the creator of the "Creation Gold Coin" was a living God, and most likely still the Supreme God of some world.

"The followers of that Exotic God... I hope I am not inviting a wolf into the fold."

.....
Four Directions Mountain, Scripture Pavilion.

"Huff!"

Accompanied by a sudden gasp for breath, a figure formed from gathered Primordial Qi abruptly opened its eyes.

In the next moment, Yu Wei felt as if she were a fish that had just left the water, eagerly breathing in the oxygen from the air.

"Wasn't I dead?"

Her memory remained at the last moment when Nine Peaks Mountain collapsed, and Yu Wei was long unable to come to her senses.

"That guy... really became a Celestial Being without a word!?"

Recalling Haoguang's radiant "Sun God" stance in her mind.

Yu Wei, gritting her teeth, seemed to have developed a subtle mix of surprise and resentment.

Because Yu Wei knew that if not for the other party showing mercy at the last moment, she absolutely could not have perished together with him.

"So, was it that Exotic God who saved me in the end?"

Looking down to examine her current body, Yu Wei could no longer feel any "Qi" related to the Lotus Sect.

This meant that Yu Wei's century-long cultivation had vanished overnight, and she was once again just an ordinary person.

And this also meant that Yu Wei was no longer the Saintess of the Lotus Sect.

"Gathering Primordial Spirit and recreating a mortal body..."

"It truly is an incredible Divine Technique!"

Even though she had long overestimated that Exotic God's abilities, Yu Wei was still amazed by her own rebirth.

Immediately after, Yu Wei seemed to sense something, and suddenly opened her right palm.

Only to see a golden coin appear in her hand out of nowhere.

The front of the coin depicted the image of the Dragon Head God of Life, and the reverse showed an Eye of the Creator, half-open, half-closed.

Simultaneously, the method of using this "Creation Gold Coin" surfaced in Yu Wei's mind.

"Can I go to another world now?"

"A new world where cultivation has no limitations, and civilization is in its prime?"
