

The Growth 543

Chapter 543 - 13: Reclaiming the Creation Gold Coin

Returning to the normal timeline, a month later in the Mountain and Sea Realm.

Tianyou had just finished a meeting when he immediately received a notification from the Civilization Game.

Immersing his consciousness into the avatar of the Civilization Game, Tianyou suddenly envisioned the image of a "Golden Eye."

"You've changed your appearance again?"

Recognizing the true form of the "Golden Eye" at a glance, Tianyou said in a somewhat helpless tone.

Within the Civilization Game, the avatar's appearance is not fixed.

As long as it conforms to the characteristics of the body, users can change their appearance an unlimited number of times.

But the problem is that the vast majority of life forms cannot frequently alter the appearance of their avatars, except for those creatures that inherently have the ability to change.

According to what Tianyou knew, the "Golden Eye" before him obviously did not possess the ability to transform at will.

Yet he was indeed able to change the appearance of his avatar each time, using different identities to engage actively in the Civilization Game.

"Just to be on the safe side."

When Haoguang's familiar voice reached Tianyou's ears, the identity of the "Golden Eye" was self-evident.

Since Haoguang inherited the identity of the "Sun Star Monarch," the Sun-Hunting Gold Coin in his hand was no longer just an ornament.

By absorbing the Power of Faith from the Sun Star Monarch, the Sun-Hunting Gold Coin had long derived more than one subordinate Sun-Hunting Gold Coin.

Leveraging those subordinate Sun-Hunting Gold Coins, Haoguang successfully exchanged for many Divine Artifacts from the Egyptian Gods.

Besides the Golden Eye—the Eye of Horus.

Haoguang most frequently used the Golden Mask—the Tutankhamun Mask.

The Tutankhamun Mask is entirely made of gold and inlaid with gemstones and colored glaze.

On the forehead of the mask are the Eagle God and Snake God, symbolizing the protective gods of Egypt, Nekhbet, and Wadjet.

With the empowerment of the divine power of these two protective gods, Haoguang could change his appearance at will, even deceiving the audit mechanism of the Civilization Game.

It is due to this special transformation ability that Haoguang dared to use the Creation Gold Coin left by Li Hao to gradually contact the unfamiliar Mountain and Sea Realm.

"Sometimes you're just too cautious."

"You've known us for so long, don't you trust the Mountain and Sea Civilization yet?"

To be honest, from Tianyou's personal perspective, he was actually reluctant to get involved in that big mess of the Celestial Human Realm.

The civilization development trajectory of the Celestial Human Realm indeed holds reference value, but only limited to "reference value."

With the existence of the Space-Based Telescope Array, a special civilization development trajectory like that of the Celestial Human Realm might indeed be hard to find, but it's not impossible to find another.

By comparison, the hidden crisis of the Celestial Human Realm does not match the value it brings.

Unfortunately, others in the Mountain and Sea Realm did not think so. They firmly believed that it was also a world favored by the Creator.

Tianyou had no intention of evaluating this universal value because the Mountain and Sea Civilization had always progressed in this manner.

Helping the weak, spreading civilization, promoting the Creator's faith...

The vast world cluster centered on the Mountain and Sea Realm was gradually formed through this process.

As the leader of the entire civilization, Tianyou's task was to weigh the crisis and value to the greatest extent to ensure the maximization of the Mountain and Sea Realm's interests.

In fact, this was also a major reason why the Mountain and Sea Civilization had only been in knowledge and technology exchanges with the Celestial Human Realm for such a long time.

While Haoguang certainly did not trust the Mountain and Sea Civilization.

But Tianyou was also unwilling for the Mountain and Sea Civilization to be drawn into the internal conflicts of the Celestial Human Realm.

Considering this, Tianyou had never even thought of letting other people from the Mountain and Sea Civilization contact Haoguang but instead communicated through the Civilization Game as an intermediary.

However, this still wasn't quite safe.

Because Tianyou knew that Haoguang still had a coin from the Creator.

In Tianyou's understanding, that was actually a promise from the Creator to Haoguang.

Perhaps the Creator himself did not care...

Perhaps the Creator gave Haoguang that coin on a whim...

But given the Creator's status in the Mountain and Sea Realm, if Haoguang held the Creation Gold Coin to make any unreasonable requests to the Mountain and Sea Civilization, those Great Prophets would probably not refuse.

Thus, another reason why Tianyou was willing to continue interacting with Haoguang was to retrieve that Creation Gold Coin from him.

The Creator's token can only exist in the Mountain and Sea Realm.

A thought flashed through his mind, and Tianyou's gaze was fixed on Haoguang opposite him.

He was unsure whether the other party knew the importance of the Creation Gold Coin to the Mountain and Sea Civilization.

After all, during such a long period of interaction, no matter how Tianyou subtly guided him to use that Creation Gold Coin, Haoguang always feigned ignorance.

"Do you think I should trust you?"

Even though it was just an eye, Tianyou seemed to see a certain expression of amused indifference in the other party's eye.

The Mountain and Sea Civilization's assistance to the Celestial Human Realm certainly was not altruistic.

Under Tianyou's insistence and leadership, the Mountain and Sea Civilization was willing to provide Haoguang with various knowledge and technology to help them swiftly break free from their primitive agrarian civilization.

And Haoguang, for his part, also taught the Mountain and Sea Civilization a variety of cultivation techniques, sincerely explaining their key points and principles.

Possibly within less than a hundred years, many cultivators would emerge within the Mountain and Sea Civilization.

Many of the Mountain and Sea People would have an additional option, an additional Ascension Ladder directly leading to the Divine Throne.

"I think we should trust each other a bit more."

Facing Haoguang's probing, Tianyou thick-skinnedly changed the topic quickly.

"As for your request for assistance, we are still discussing it in meetings on our side..."

"After all, your world is truly too dangerous, we must consider it..."

Before Tianyou could finish his words, Haoguang abruptly interrupted him from the other side.

"What if I say, I'm willing to use the 'Creation Gold Coin'?"

Seeing the eyes of Tianyou widen suddenly across from him, Haoguang spoke in a calm and composed tone.

"If your Mountain and Sea Civilization helps our world solve this crisis, I am willing to return the 'Creation Gold Coin' to you."

While saying the last sentence, Haoguang specifically emphasized the word "return."

Despite having understood the importance of the Creation Gold Coin long ago and being fully aware of the Creator's status and ability.

Yet, as long as he could save his world, Haoguang did not mind handing the Creation Gold Coin back to the Mountain and Sea Civilization.

In Haoguang's eyes, who had experienced many life-and-death situations, the Creator's token paled in comparison to the significance the Celestial Human Realm held in his heart.

"Deal!"

"But before that, you must tell me the specifics about those invaders!"
