

The Growth 553

Chapter 553 - 23: Peacekeeping Combat Arsenal

At the same time, in the Marz World.

Almost at the moment Tian Lihen pressed the communicator button, a dazzling white light suddenly bloomed on a large square in the surface world.

"Signal received! It's the Celestial Human Realm!"

"Immediately compile the data! Adjust the coordinates!"

Amidst the rising and falling voices of the Burrowing Insects, the white light converged into a massive quantum wave in the center of the square.

Constantly twisting, constantly piecing together, constantly combining...

Finally, the quantum wave containing the coordinates of the Celestial Human Realm formed a pattern of the "Eye of the Creator".

"Coordinate analysis complete, volunteer force prepare to move!"

Through electronically transmitted high-frequency vibrations, a calm voice resonated in the ears of everyone present.

The next second, a tall, six-armed snake-tailed Skeletonman emerged from the building nearby, followed by a special combat squad it led.

Although the basic unit is referred to as a "squad."

In reality, the total number of this squad reached nearly a hundred members.

Besides the six-armed snake-tailed Skeletonman, the squad also had ten sub-leaders, each commanding their own team members.

They are battle-hardened warriors, elites possessing single-soldier Po Jun capabilities.

These are not mere descriptive words but are substantiated by genuine records of achievements.

Because these warriors have been active for years on the frontline against the Godslayer Civilization.

They only return to the Mountain and Sea Realm for recuperation and resupply if the squad is depleted or members critically injured.

Unless specifically focusing on this information, ordinary Mountain and Sea People may not realize that there's such a group fighting outside the Mountain and Sea Realm.

This brings us to the origin of this special combat squad.

Ever since the Godslayers invaded the Divine Fall Realm, forcing two supremes to reshape the world, Tianyou developed strong hostility towards this civilization aiming at "Godslaying".

Especially after becoming the leader of the Mountain and Sea Civilization.

Tianyou knew better than anyone else, that if the Godslayer Civilization continued to expand, a battle between the Mountain and Sea Civilization and the Godslayer Civilization would be inevitable.

However, Tianyou also understood that the current Mountain and Sea Civilization was still in its growth phase, unable to compare with the Godslayer Civilization, which was at its peak.

Adhering to the concept of "development can continue, but military readiness must not be slackened."

Ignoring the obstruction from other Zhiku members, Tianyou single-mindedly pushed the plan for the [Weihe Combat] initiative.

Periodically, he selected the best and most elite warriors from the Mountain and Sea Realm, forming a special combat squad to go to other worlds to battle with the Godslayers.

Externally, Tianyou claimed it was the Creator's mercy, unable to bear to see the Godslayers destroy the world and annihilate Life.

Thus, the Mountain and Sea Civilization dispatched special combat personnel to help resist the Godslayers and maintain internal world balance.

For this purpose, Tianyou also emphasized the concept of the "Weihe Combat Team"—to confront Godslayers without interfering with the normal operation of other civilizations.

Over time, the "Weihe Combat Team" from the Mountain and Sea Civilization naturally became a savior in the eyes of many worlds.

Because these combat teams indeed have the Power to confront the Godslayers.

Their understanding of the Godslayers was even clearer than ordinary Gods.

Even if a Godslayer personally stepped onto the stage without fearing death, these combat squads had ways to handle them.

As for internally?

Tianyou never concealed his purpose from those in the know.

Tianyou's deployment of the "Weihe Combat Team," exclusively targeting the Godslayer Civilization, essentially aimed to build a powerful army.

Once the Godslayer Civilization's expansion touched the grounds of the Mountain and Sea Civilization, this army would become the trump card against the Godslayer Civilization.

The extraction of a squad member of a hundred scale this time was Tianyou's new attempt against the Godslayer Civilization.

"The world we are aiding this time is the Celestial Human Realm, where mortal beings occupy most of the 'End of Dharma World'."

Standing at the forefront of the squad, the six-armed snake-tailed Skeletonman, in the role of the "General," commenced the pre-battle mobilization.

"And our opponent this time is also the Godslayers."

"Except this time, the Godslayers are somewhat different, they are a special branch of the Godslayers—the Celestial Beings."

"These Celestial Beings have varying abilities, more adept at augmenting themselves with external Forces than usual Godslayers..."

"But their weakness is the same as other Godslayers; they all possess the entities that can be killed as long as they appear in the material world."

Gods are truly high-dimensional Life, while most Godslayers only have partial high-dimensional traits as lower-dimensional beings.

Once understanding this point, Godslayers are not particularly difficult to deal with.

At least in the eyes of these "Weihe Combat Team" members, who have confronted more than one Godslayer, Celestial Beings are only slightly harder to kill Godslayers.

Moreover, intelligence particularly emphasized that this operation's world is an "End of Dharma World."

This means those Celestial Beings can't exert their peak Power in this world, perhaps even easier to handle than Godslayers in normal conditions.

"Oh, regarding the 'End of Dharma Environment' of the Celestial Human Realm, the top has prepared some new equipment for us this time."

Glancing around at the surroundings, confirming all members understood the importance of this mission, the six-armed snake-tailed Skeletonman supplemented.

"New equipment?"

"Are those experimental laboratory prototype equipment?"

"Wow, looks like we're lucky enough to be the first testers!"

Whispering in hushed tones, the team members were obviously surprised by the sudden equipment update.

And the six-armed snake-tailed Skeletonman's subsequent actions turned their surprise into elation.

It was seen removing a Ring from its finger segment, then directly throwing the Ring onto the ground.

Bang!

Instantly, a massive container appeared in the original spot.

Even before the team members could react, the giant container split open from the middle.

Looking far away, countless tiny parts and bearings automatically surged, astonishingly turning into a small-scale assembly line processing station right under everyone's eyes.

Beside this assembly line processing station, drones of various models and specifications were folded and stacked together.

Additionally, several huge mechanical arms spanned the entire processing station, cooperating with virtual projection's three-dimensional imaging technology, projecting various equipment commonly used by squad members.

From melee weapons like swords and spears, to long-range clustered heavy artillery, and fully automated drone operating platforms...

The dazzling array of design blueprints utterly mesmerized all the squad members present.

Even those Burrowing Insects who were long aware of the situation showed envy upon seeing these tangible items.
