

The Growth 554

Chapter 554 - 24: Ultimate War Mode

"A space compression ring, a 3D printing device, a set of drone combat groups, and those complete equipment design blueprints..."

"You guys really pulled out all the stops this time!"

Standing on a high platform not far away, Duo Mu watched as the six-armed, snake-tailed Skeletons distributed equipment to the team members, ultimately unable to suppress a cry of amazement.

"They're up against multiple Godslayers this time, so no amount of equipment is too much for them."

Gently shaking her nine tails behind her, Wuhua, maintaining her mechanical humanoid form, answered with a smile.

Clearly a Nine-tailed Fox with outstanding spiritual talents, she had transformed herself into a mechanical structure that could freely switch to human form...

Even across the entire Mountain and Sea Realm, Wuhua was highly recognizable.

Not to mention, she teamed up with Chidan and A Meng to form a standard "arms dealing team."

In some sense, these three have experienced more wars than even the members of the Weihe Combat Team.

"Now, they can truly be considered a one-person army."

"With the 3D printing device and the matching design blueprints, these warriors can maintain sufficient combat power even in the harshest environments."

It's worth noting that members of the Weihe Combat Team are already among the most skilled fighters within the Mountain and Sea Civilization.

When these individuals have an equipment production line tailored to them by the Mountain and Sea Civilization, no one would doubt their combat capabilities.

Indeed, the Mountain and Sea Civilization had long since surpassed the stage of crafting equipment for warriors, directly granting them a comprehensive all-terrain combat equipment production line.

Duo Mu sometimes wondered if, were it not for the drone's Brain-Machine Receiver being too precious, this group of lunatics might consider mass-producing those drones.

Via the Brain-Machine Implant that every Mountain and Sea Person must possess.

These battle-hardened warriors can directly use brainwaves and thoughts to operate those powerful drones.

Theoretically, as long as the Brain-Machine Receiver of the drones isn't damaged, the remaining parts can all be printed by the 3D printing device.

This means that even when alone, these warriors have an entire corps' firepower providing support.

"This is the 'ultimate war mode' pursued by Burrowing Insects, unexpectedly realized by you in this way."

Before coming across the Mountain and Sea Civilization, Burrowing Insects had already developed autonomous mechanical technology to a certain extreme.

Yet even then, they had to have a large rear base to remotely control various autonomous machines for warfare activities.

However, the Mountain and Sea Civilization's Space Compression Technology and Brain-Machine Implant technology brought this terrifying "ultimate war mode" to the individual stage.

"This extreme war mode is only useful in an 'end-time world' where the power of the strong is infinitely weakened..."

Lightly shaking her head, having witnessed too many wars, Wuhua held her own view on it.

"When your enemies are those beyond your understanding, even impossible to touch, no amount of firepower is ultimately futile."

"Just like the Burrowing Insect Civilization back then..."

"Facing a real Divine War, they didn't even have the right to say 'no.'"

Finishing her words, Wuhua didn't even wait for Duo Mu's rebuttal before curiously looking at her counterpart.

"Are you going to the Celestial Human Realm this time too?"

"That legendary Great Prophet Balian permitted your visit?"

Among the Immortals, Duo Mu was one of the ones most frequently interacting with the Mountain and Sea People.

But precisely because of the excessive interaction, Wuhua knew how bad Duo Mu's temperament and preferences were.

To have such a guy involved in the action this time was beyond Wuhua's expectation.

"Do you think I wanted to?"

"It's because Balian said this event might not be a simple 'return of the Celestial Beings.'"

"So, to be prepared just in case, I'm reluctantly planning to go to the Celestial Human Realm with you to see what's going on."

Despite saying it was reluctant, Wuhua could tell that Duo Mu was actually very interested in this action.

"Could it be that Great Prophet Balian received a warning from the Creator? Foresaw something?"

Upon hearing this, Wuhua, who thought this mission was not dangerous, suddenly showed an expression of surprise.

"Perhaps?"

"That guy is always mysterious and never likes to speak clearly."

Shrugging indifferently, Duo Mu didn't mind it at all.

[I didn't give that guy any insight.]

From the void, Li Hao noticed the conversation between Duo Mu and Wuhua, could only sigh somewhat helplessly.

[However, that young guy is indeed sharp, maybe he really figured something out.]

From the standpoint of the Celestial Human Realm, the return of the Celestial Beings is merely another form of the War of the End of the Dharma, not worth much surprise.

Except for a few unique existences, people in the Celestial Human Realm wouldn't even think about why Celestial Beings would return after leaving.

But for Li Hao, who knows the truth, he's more concerned about why the timing is so coincidental?

His front foot just left the Celestial Human Realm, and the Godslayer Civilization just following, pinpointed the exact coordinate of the Celestial Human Realm.

If to classify this as pure coincidence, Li Hao was a bit skeptical.

Moreover, the Godslayer Civilization's obsession with the Celestial Human Realm isn't just because this world nurtured Celestial Beings?

[Successfully nurturing Celestial Beings might be part of the reason, but definitely not the main reason.]

At this moment, Li Hao recalled those Demigods in the Divine Fall Realm and the Dragon Form ones in the Pandora World.

In All Heavens and Myriad Realms, there are so many worlds disbelieving and rebelling against Gods, why is it that the Celestial Human Realm deserves specific attention by the Godslayers alone?

[Risking massive non-combat attrition, returning so many Celestial Beings to the Celestial Human Realm...]

[This action, rather than wanting to seize control of the Celestial Human Realm, seems more like searching for something.]

A thought flashed across his mind, Li Hao suddenly recalled the Sun-Hunting Gold Coin in Haoguang's hand, recalled the missing Fourth Celestial Father—Sun Hunter Ra.

[Looks like I'm not the only one gambling, those Godslayers seem to have sniffed out some clues too...]

[Thus, their logical behavior is well understood.]

[After recruiting those Celestial Beings, the Godslayers might have obtained some information from them, thus knowing the possible existence of Celestial Father's legacy within the Celestial Human Realm.]
