

The Growth 606

Chapter 606 - 16: Five Elements Escape Technique · Innate Qi

"I'm the one in charge here. For now, I'm taking full responsibility."

Without even looking at the concerned MinAseerpentg She, Marquis Yi spoke calmly with composure.

"Until we ascertain the true cause of the 'Imaginary Number Core' crash, not even the members of the Celestial Council have the authority to stop my actions."

This is a policy established at the founding of the Sky City, designed to prevent situations where outsiders command the experts.

After all, in times of true crisis, professionals are the greatest guarantee of problem-solving.

As a Zhiku member elected as a Celestial Council member like Kangtao, he is more aware than most of the Mountain and Sea People of the importance of this policy.

"Besides, I'm not reckless."

Raising his head to glance at MinAseerpentg She, Marquis Yi continued with a smile.

"I know the risks involved, and I will take care of myself!"

Before his voice had faded, Marquis Yi flapped his wings and flew towards the distant [Super Large·Imaginary Number Core].

At the same time, Marquis Yi initiated emergency protocols and issued various commands to the entire energy center's staff.

Thus, the systems initially halted by this emergency crisis resumed operation, and staff made various adjustments and responses in accordance with Marquis Yi's orders.

Buzz!

Soon, the reactivated energy center had various emergency plans in motion.

Irrelevant personnel were quickly arranged to leave the area, while individuals with professional knowledge and strong abilities were rapidly transferred from other areas.

Moreover, the entire module of the energy center was also separated from other modules of Sky City.

In the event of an irretrievable crisis, the entire module of the energy center would be completely abandoned and cast into the Void.

In the face of the potential death of all personnel, the fall of Sky City no longer seemed so urgent.

The Mountain and Sea Civilization's regard for its individual members far exceeds the imagination and understanding of other civilizations.

With a typical lifespan of thousands of years, plus elite cultivation from an early age...

In the minds of all Mountain and Sea People, exchanging a Sky City for the survival of a Mountain and Sea Person is simply a matter of course.

This mentality corresponds to the common sense of responsibility and personal commitment among the Mountain and Sea People.

Just like Marquis Yi now...

Even knowing the dangers of entering the [Super Large-Imaginary Number Core], he didn't hesitate to go alone.

Whoosh!

Five-colored radiance burst from around Marquis Yi, the intense primordial qi fluctuation distorted the space-time around him.

In the blink of an eye, Marquis Yi's figure disappeared from everyone's sight, as if he had never existed.

——Five Elements Escape Technique: Innate Qi!

.....

Without relying on any implants, Marquis Yi's figure appeared out of thin air in the central zone of the [Super Large·Imaginary Number Core].

This is a Void Land created artificially, with energy being continuously extracted out of the Void and converted into power for the operation of Sky City.

As a foundational dimension maintaining the normal operation of the [Ascension Area], energy universally exists in every corner of All Heavens and Myriad Realms.

What Marquis Yi is doing now is turning himself into a small [Imaginary Number Core], extracting energy from the void to sustain his own existence.

Of course, in the Celestial Being's cultivation system, this direct extraction of void energy and simulation of all things is known as "Innate Qi."

Since the Celestial Being cultivation system became widespread in the Mountain and Sea Realm, it was not just the Skeletons who discovered the potential of this cultivation system.

Other races of the Mountain and Sea Civilization also began researching this unique cultivation system.

Because everyone realized that the Celestial Human Realm's cultivation system, or rather, the special existence known as "qi cultivator," has an extremely absurd compatibility with other Ascension Ladders.

As long as it's not an overly exaggerated plundering of the world's primordial power, a "qi cultivator" is arguably the closest path to Gods.

As for the weak performance of Celestial Beings in the Celestial Human Realm?

One reason is that the Celestial Human Realm itself is in the End of the Dharma Era, lacking the backing of primordial power, making them unable to fully exert their strength.

The other reason is due to the break in civilization, contemporary Celestial Beings no longer possess the glory of their peak times.

The more the Mountain and Sea Civilization studied the Celestial Human Realm's cultivation system, the more it was amazed that the past Celestial Beings could pass down their cultivation techniques, which was already quite an achievement.

As for the shortcomings in cultivation after becoming Celestial Beings?

Let's just say that not all Celestial Beings can, like the Demon Vanquishing True Monarch, go back to fill in the gaps in their cultivation path after achieving success in cultivation.

Since the break in civilization, only the Demon Vanquishing True Monarch appeared as a singular Mysterious Creature in the Celestial Human Realm.

Fortunately, the Celestial Human Realm's cultivation system ultimately found correct continuation and inheritance in the Mountain and Sea Civilization.

Today, Marquis Yi is a winged man who mainly cultivates the "Qi Refining Technique" and also practices "Exorcism and Spirit-Controlling Techniques."

"The 'Imaginary Number Core' is still functioning normally?"

Gazing at the central system extracting energy not far away, a trace of confusion appeared in Marquis Yi's eyes.

He originally thought that the recent forced-dimensional-lowering caused some issues in the operation of the [Super Large-Imaginary Number Core].

But the system is still normally extracting energy, unaffected by the previous dimensional lowering.

"Wait... there's still something different..."

Quickly bringing up the various data and parameters of the [Imaginary Number Core] from the brain-computer.

Marquis Yi quickly discovered that the extracted energy had not been transmitted to Sky City's energy system.

Instead, the energy lingered in the central district of the [Imaginary Number Core] as if with consciousness, forming a phenomenon similar to an energy storm.

The visible energy tides outside were merely the overflow of this energy storm.

"Is that energy... pulsating?"

Strenuously comparing the abnormalities exhibited by the [Super Large-Imaginary Number Core] with the normal data within the [Brain-Machine Implant].

Marquis Yi seemed to have vaguely guessed something but inevitably widened his eyes in the end.

"The pulse frequency of this energy... how is this possible?"

Gently covering his heart, Marquis Yi suddenly realized that the frequency of the energy pulse was actually synchronized with his own heartbeat.

It's as if... this [Super Large·Imaginary Number Core] is mimicking his own heartbeat.

"What's so impossible about that?"

"Flesh is not a necessary component of life."
