

The Growth 632

Chapter 632 16: Have I Truly Lived?

The beast-faced monster, or rather the Unmanned Guardian, flapped its wings, staring coldly at the four invaders not far away.

Compared to the massive Ten-tailed Dragon Carp, the combat program of the Unmanned Guardian told it that the three little figures on the opponent's back were the truly dangerous ones.

Especially the smallest invader, who even triggered the highest command of the Unmanned Guardian.

That command was only activated in the face of Gods or Divine Abominations.

"Detected 'Divine Abomination Level' crisis!"

"Following supreme command, initiate unlimited combat mode!"

A cold, mechanical voice emanated from within the Unmanned Guardian, and high-temperature lasers covered its entire wings through its feathers.

Already steel-winged, the Unmanned Guardian was now endowed with molecular-level high-temperature cutting attributes.

Whoosh!

In an instant, the Unmanned Guardian sliced through the sky like a stream of light.

From a distance, only a crimson stream of light ripping through the air, causing a sonic boom, before reappearing right in front of the Ten-tailed Dragon Carp in just a moment.

However, this was not the most despairing thing.

The truly despairing part was that this Unmanned Guardian was just an advance guard.

Behind this Unmanned Guardian, more bizarre Unmanned Guardians were pouring in this direction, as if the entire city had been agitated.

In fact, Marquis Yi and the others had indeed alerted the entire Uninhabited City.

Realizing that there were foreigners secretly infiltrating the city and exploring the "Land of Ten Extremes," all residents were notified of the lockdown order.

Anyone still wandering in the city at this time, whatever they were doing, would be killed as invaders by the Unmanned Guardian.

After all, these invaders were so peculiar that the City of No Gods monitoring system couldn't detect their presence at all.

In such cases, it was indeed the right approach to rather wrongly kill than to let go.

"Don't hold back!"

Realizing the severity of the situation first, Feng Xi gave a low shout.

Unlike Marquis Yi, who was a trained Mountain and Sea Person, Feng Xi, who often roamed the dangerous edges, knew better than anyone the importance of making choices.

"I know! I'm not stupid enough to sympathize with the enemy!"

Waving and launching two more five-colored streams of light, Marquis Yi smoothly retreated and concealed himself, avoiding the Unmanned Guardians' lock-on.

"Good to know!"

Without further entanglement, Feng Xi stepped hard on the Ten-tailed Dragon Carp under her feet, shooting skyward like a cannonball.

Whoosh—Boom!

The speed was so fast that it left a series of sonic booms echoing behind Feng Xi.

With her wings spread, Feng Xi no longer held back, initiating the combat program tailored specifically for her implants.

At this moment, every cell within Feng Xi's body became active, with countless invisible to the naked eye nanoworms replacing her body's basic life circulation.

Needing to enhance Power, forcefully driving her heart to beat...

Needing to enhance speed, recklessly increasing lung capacity...

When a reaction needed to be enhanced, letting nanoworms replace the nerve nodes for signal transmission...

In short, all physiological Functions could be replaced and enhanced by the implant of nanoworms, just to let this flesh body exert functions beyond mechanics.

—Combat Implant - Nanomachine Enhancement!

.....

City of No Gods, Monitoring Center.

"Who... exactly are they?"

All eyes widened, Hundred Eyed Dragon looked astonished at the battle occurring in the "Land of Ten Extremes."

The shape-shifting, overwhelmingly powerful Dragon Carp...

The Gathering and Dispersing Formless, transforming into Escape Light, Marquis Yi...

The rampaging, tremendously powerful Feng Xi...

And Hephaestus, occasionally assisting from the side, using high-level techniques to take away key parts of the Unmanned Guardian...

The terrifying degree of this battle was entirely beyond Hundred Eyed Dragon's imagination.

It simply could not believe that besides the Gods, such terrifying beings existed in this world.

"It's not surprising, because ninety years ago, the ancestors of this city survived the battles with such monsters."

"This city has been peaceful for ninety years, oppressed for ninety years, also forgotten for ninety years..."

A dark shadow appeared again from behind Hundred Eyed Dragon, with a furious yet helpless voice saying.

"This city... no, the whole world has become a hunting ground for Gods and Demons again!"

"They are the reality of this world, they are the original appearance of this world!"

"To live doesn't need to be so hard and challenging!"

"The ancestors of the City of No Gods exhausted all efforts, consumed their lives to allow more people to live."

"But the current City of No Gods has long betrayed the will of the ancestors, feeling nothing while sacrificing others as long as they can survive.""

Silently watching the battle on the screen, for the first time, Hundred Eyed Dragon absorbed the words of the shadow into its heart.

For some unknown reason, as the battle continued, Hundred Eyed Dragon seemed to vaguely recall some things — things from before its birth.

"How was this city originally supposed to be?"

After a brief silence, Hundred Eyed Dragon finally became interested in the state of the city ninety years ago.

"This city was originally supposed to be a peaceful city, where the residents would help each other instead of being vigilant of one another."

"And this city was also not supposed to have a watcher like you."

"Everyone was voluntarily running for the city's future, wanting to build a better future spontaneously."

The shadow twisted its form freely, causing its voice to tremble.

"But, everything changed on that day."

"He was born and completely changed the appearance of this city!"

Hearing this, Hundred Eyed Dragon gently rotated its eye, the current state of the city appearing in its mind.

If the current state of this city is wrong, what role does it play in all of this?

Hundred Eyed Dragon was never a fool, quite the contrary, it was surprisingly intelligent.

Just from the shadow's few words, Hundred Eyed Dragon had already detected a conspiracy and began to doubt its own origin.

What am I exactly...?

Thinking this way, Hundred Eyed Dragon dispersed its gaze, using nearly a hundred eyes to look at the now locked-down City of No Gods.

[Have I truly lived?]
