

The Growth 639

Chapter 639 23: Who Is the Divine Abomination?

The sky was filled with lightning, rolling thunder...

In this shattered Divine Kingdom, all colors were overshadowed by blinding electric light.

The steel giant dragon clashed with the ancient Huanglong, and every friction and collision between them created a celestial calamity unimaginable to ordinary beings.

This was a truly half-god level battle, a battleground that ordinary life forms could not possibly interfere with.

Among all the participants present, the only one qualified to intervene in this battle was the Ten-tailed Dragon Carp, similarly endowed with a high-dimensional perspective by Hephaestus.

Sharing part of the Gods' abilities should have been an honor reserved only for the Apocycles.

Yet, things had come to this point, and Hephaestus did not dwell on formal rules and processes, decisively sharing his abilities with Marquis Yi, Feng Xi, and the Ten-tailed Dragon Carp.

After all, Hephaestus was never a God who followed rigid rules, nor did he ever care for so-called protocols.

The only pity was that as a God not particularly adept in combat, the only capability Hephaestus could confer to the Ten-tailed Dragon Carp was the high-dimensional perspective.

And in the genuine contest of Demigods, the high-dimensional perspective was merely an entry ticket.

Boom! Boom! Boom!

Seeing the impasse was about to continue, the Sky City in the distance finally decided to officially join the battle.

Strands of single-particle impact beams shot out from the Sky City, along with countless secondary cannons.

The Sky City's all-out firepower, even across two worlds' distance, posed a substantial threat and assault to the Steel Giant Dragon.

"Roar!"

The steel scales were shattered, and the soul fragments purged...

Under the fire coverage of Sky City, the Steel Giant Dragon had no resistance whatsoever, helplessly watching as its body disintegrated.

Even more remarkable was that Sky City's bombardment targeted only the Steel Giant Dragon, not harming the Huanglong which was almost in hand-to-hand combat with it.

Such precise shooting, such ferocious intensity...

Throughout the entire Disaster Realm, it could only be achieved by the Sky City personally controlled by the "God of Autonomous and Floating Cities."

The pity, however, was that the firepower of the Sky City, after crossing two realms, ultimately could not inflict a truly lethal damage on the Steel Giant Dragon.

Of course, at this moment, Sky City, although unable to deal a direct fatal blow to the Steel Giant Dragon.

Nevertheless, should such a bombardment continue, the Steel Giant Dragon would also gradually be blasted into fragments, completely losing its movement ability.

At this point, the bizarre aspect of the "Steel Cast Soldiers" technique became apparent.

Seeing the Steel Giant Dragon's body being blasted apart bit by bit, the nearby unmanned guards immediately ignited with intense flames.

Swoosh!

Then, those unmanned guards rushed toward the Steel Giant Dragon's shattered parts, using their bodies and souls to patch those broken areas.

In fact, apart from those unmanned guards that entered the domain of Gunlong Village.

A constant stream of flame-engulfed unmanned guards was also pouring from the City of No Gods at the other end of the Space-Time Rift.

Compared to those temporary self-igniting unmanned guards.

The newly emerged unmanned guards seemed more like liquid copper and iron water that had long been smelted, ready to amend the battered body of the Steel Giant Dragon.

In such circumstances, the artillery strike from Sky City consumed a large amount of resources from the City of No Gods without causing any truly effective damage.

The combined efforts of the external Huanglong, Ten-tailed Dragon Carp, Sky City, and a host of the Mountain and Sea People barely managed to restrain the Steel Giant Dragon's movements.

Meanwhile, Marquis Yi, Feng Xi, and Hephaestus, who had long sneaked inside the Steel Giant Dragon, did not remain idle.

Under the gaze of a high-dimensional perspective, the Hundred Eyed Dragon hidden beneath the Reversed Scale became so conspicuous that it took hardly any effort to lock onto its position.

This is where the difference between Marquis Yi and Feng Xi emerged.

Marquis Yi was the type who strategized before making a move, hence the five-colored stream of light he transformed into possessed both offensive and defensive attributes.

Feng Xi, being a pure warrior with astonishing insight endowed by the Celestial Eye at his forehead, always preferred cutting the Gordian knot and going straight to the point.

"You're too reckless!"

Seeing Feng Xi dart straight for the Hundred Eyed Dragon, Marquis Yi could only helplessly accelerate and follow.

Upon reaching the Hundred Eyed Dragon, the two finally discovered it was completely different from those residents of the City of No Gods caught up in it.

Not only was it not in a soul state, it even retained its complete self-awareness and consciousness.

However, the Hundred Eyed Dragon itself wasn't quite normal.

In the high-dimensional perspective, the soul fragments within the Hundred Eyed Dragon were clearly visible.

It was those countless soul fragments that formed the entity of the Hundred Eyed Dragon, granting it the qualification to drive the Steel Giant Dragon.

"As expected, I knew you would be able to arrive here."

Nearly a hundred eyes turned simultaneously, the hundred-eyed monstrosity floating in mid-air appeared genuinely terrifying like a real monster.

Especially when nearly a hundred eyeballs simultaneously stared at Feng Xi and Marquis Yi, it inadvertently sent chilling shivers down one's spine.

"Are you that Divine Abomination?"

Squinting his eyes unconsciously, Marquis Yi cautiously watched the Hundred Eyed Demon opposite him.

"Divine Abomination?"

"Do you mean 'Pixiu'?"

"Sadly, I am not 'Pixiu,' I am just someone seeking the meaning of life... a human."

When uttering the word "human," the Hundred Eyed Dragon noticeably hesitated.

"Someone told me I could find the meaning of living on you."

"I didn't actually believe what it said, but your performance has indeed been impressive."

By this time, the Hundred Eyed Dragon's voice clearly contained a hint of laughter—a kind of laughter with a tone of envy and jealousy.

"If I kill you, will I find the value of my existence?"

Listening to the other's obviously twisted and frenzied words, Marquis Yi said nothing more.

Because he knew that with a monster whose thoughts are already distorted like this, continuing any conversation was entirely pointless.

"Want to kill us?"

"Well, it depends on whether you have that capability!"

Always faster in action than thought, Feng Xi arrived in a flash, already holding two long swords transformed from feathers in his hands.

Simultaneously, more feathers shot out from Feng Xi's wings, transforming into a rain of swords that flew straight toward the Hundred Eyed Dragon.

Clang!

In a flash of electric light and fire, a hundred divine rays shot from the Hundred Eyed Dragon's eyes, swiftly and accurately intercepting all of Feng Xi's attacks.

However, to its complete surprise, just when it was about to launch a counterattack, it was suddenly shocked to find its body felt as if stuck in a swamp, difficult to move.
