

The Growth 645

Chapter 645 3: Yellow Sand Divine Kingdom

Due to not being quite accustomed to her wings and also carrying Laputa, Feng Xi's flying speed wasn't very fast.

Not until the oasis became visible to the naked eye did Feng Xi slightly speed up and arrived at the edge of the oasis.

In this boundless yellow sand, this rare oasis had become the habitat for the majority of creatures.

Even before descending upon this oasis, Feng Xi was already prepared to make contact with intelligent beings.

However, it wasn't until she truly descended that Feng Xi realized she perhaps had been too naive.

This is the Disaster Realm, a world of gods vastly different from the outside world.

Everything that appears in this world, more or less, has some connection to the Gods.

This "oasis" standing amidst the yellow sand is naturally no exception.

"Is this... not an oasis?"

At first glance, this oasis seemed no different from an ordinary oasis.

However, from the perspective of Feng Xi's third Celestial Eye, beneath this oasis lurked a monster entirely composed of gathered yellow sand.

That monster was inhaling sand, gathering storms, and gradually forming a fixed water source on its back, which resulted in the oasis Feng Xi now saw.

It could be said that every creature living in this oasis counted as the monster's "parasites."

Moreover, Feng Xi had the impression, perhaps mistakenly, that this monster gathered from yellow sand seemed to have some inexplicable connection to the endless sand desert.

Especially the form of this monster, shaped like a beast's skeletal remains, was sinister and terrifying.

Feng Xi even sensed a faint aura of divine presence from this monster...

"Is there a newcomer again?"

Just as Feng Xi hesitated about descending, a cheerful voice suddenly came from below.

Next, a human figure rode the wind away from the ground, quickly reaching the same altitude as Feng Xi.

"Dragon Lady?"

Upon seeing the figure clearly, Feng Xi opened her mouth in surprise.

For standing before her appeared a "Dragon Lady" fitting the stereotypical image of the Mountain and Sea Civilization.

This Dragon Lady had a petite humanoid body.

Yet, tiny dragon horns grew on her forehead, allowing her to easily command wind, clouds, rain, and fog.

But most striking was the golden scale on the Dragon Lady's brow.

The golden scale having an octagonal shape, shone brilliantly under the sun, more eye-catching even than Feng Xi's Celestial Eye.

"You recognize me?"

Excitedly waving at Feng Xi, the Dragon Lady was clearly surprised that she could recognize her identity.

"Are you also seeking refuge in the 'Land of No Gods'?"

"Haha, then you're just in time; we are also planning to head to the 'Land of No Gods' together!"

Blinking in slight confusion, Feng Xi once again missed Marquis Yi.

Were he here, surely he'd figure out the situation the quickest?

"Golden Spirit! You ran off again!"

Just as Feng Xi hesitated over how to explain her origin, another voice reached her ear.

The next second, a man in a blue robe rode the wind over, instantly appearing behind the Dragon Lady.

"Second Brother?"

Swiftly turning her head, the previously excited Dragon Lady now appeared somewhat intimidated.

Feng Xi was very familiar with the Dragon Lady's attitude now, clearly a child caught in mischief meeting an elder.

But looking at the gentle and elegant robed man, Feng Xi couldn't quite associate him with a dignified elder figure.

"Are you a Lost too?"

Gently patting the Dragon Lady's head, the robed man shielded her behind him, then turned to ask Feng Xi.

"Uh, sort of!"

Completely bewildered by the current situation, Feng Xi hesitated then nodded.

"Are you heading to the Land of No Gods?"

"Hmm, I mean, are you going along with the 'oasis' below?"

Now it was the robed man's turn to raise an eyebrow in surprise, then he warmly smiled.

"You could actually see through the 'Bone Erosion's true form?"

"It seems we'll have yet another capable companion this time."

Not waiting for Feng Xi to ask, the robed man promptly explained.

"Rest assured, Bone Erosion has been tamed by my big brother, it won't harm you proactively."

"And in this endless sand's Divine Kingdom, only this Divine Abomination formed from God's bones has the capacity to carry us safely to the true 'Land of No Gods.'"

At this point, the robed man's tone briefly paused.

"Regarding the challenging nature of this Yellow Sand Divine Kingdom, I believe you have experienced it before."

"This is not an ordinary desert; once trapped, even a Demigod would lose their way."

His gaze intentionally swept over the Laputa Feng Xi was carrying, apparently misunderstanding something, the robed man said so.

"Yellow Sand Divine Kingdom?"

Silently lowering her head, Feng Xi did not proactively clarify this wonderful misunderstanding.

After all, in such an unfamiliar place, even Feng Xi had a bit of caution.

"Then why don't you take a ride on the 'God of Mechanical and Steel Trains' train?"

Feng Xi remembered, on a previous occasion when Laputa had escorted her, it emphasized that all creatures of the Disaster Realm could board that time-space train by invoking 'Maitot' as God.

"You mean that 'God of Neutrality'?"

Slightly narrowing his eyes, the robed man continued to gaze at Feng Xi, his eyes flashing a thoughtful glint.

"Seems your information is quite outdated?"

"Don't you know that 'God of Neutrality' was severely wounded by the Gods of the Void God Alliance not long ago and has since been missing?"

—Void God Alliance?

—Another unfamiliar term.

A thought briefly crossed her mind, realizing she had slipped up, Feng Xi decided not to linger on this issue.

By now, Feng Xi was fairly certain she was no longer on the original timeline.

Whether it was the young version of Laputa she was holding, or the missing 'God of Mechanical and Steel Trains'...

All pointed to Feng Xi suggesting she seemed to have arrived in a distorted time-space.

So now the question arose, what should she do next?

"If I am also going to the Land of No Gods, could I hitch a ride with you?"

After a short silence, Feng Xi raised her head again and said.

Now that her secret was out, Feng Xi naturally didn't bother with further disguise.

Since she kept quiet, who would know she came from another time-space as a Transmigrator?

"Of course!"

This time, speaking was not the robed man but the Dragon Lady who had been excited for a long time.

Completely unaware of the potential confrontation between Feng Xi and her second brother, the Dragon Lady seemingly regarded her as just a Lost trying to head to the Land of No Gods, yet lost in this Yellow Sand Divine Kingdom.

"Well, since it's on the way, I certainly don't object."

Smiling, he gently ruffled the Dragon Lady's head again, the robed man said calmly.

"By the way, this is my sister Golden Spirit, you can call me Hundred Eyed Dragon."

"And you? How should I address you?"