Chapter 646 4: The Three Siblings of the Dragon Race

Regarding the long-robed man's claim of being the "Hundred Eyed Dragon," Feng Xi didn't really have much of a reaction.

Because she had never heard of the Hundred Eyed Dragon from beginning to end, nor would she associate this genteel long-robed man with the grotesque tumor within the Artificial Apostle.

On the contrary, compared to the Hundred Eyed Dragon, what truly shocked Feng Xi was the eldest brother of the Hundred Eyed Dragon and the Golden Spirit — that being capable of taming and controlling the Divine Abomination.

"Old Dragon!?"

When Feng Xi first saw this eldest brother, the shock in her heart inevitably spilled out.

Despite looking more than a hundred times younger...

Despite having a demeanor and attitude that carried an air of aloofness...

But upon first seeing this eldest brother, Feng Xi immediately recognized his identity.

This was clearly the Old Dragon who had initially pulled her into the Earth Realm of Gunlong Village — that nagging, seemingly always true-to-his-nature old rascal.

"Old Dragon?"

With a frown and a cold eye sweeping over Feng Xi, the younger Old Dragon apparently didn't like this kind of forward familiarity from Feng Xi.

"Is this the Lost one?"

"Seems much ruder than I imagined."

After a simple assessment of Feng Xi, the younger Old Dragon then turned his gaze towards the Golden Spirit, who looked rather embarrassed.

As for the Hundred Eyed Dragon?

He had long since left here to handle other matters in the Oasis.

"Brother, I..."

Raising a hand to stop the Golden Spirit, who wanted to explain further, the younger Old Dragon merely said indifferently.

"I don't like explanations. Since she's the one you brought back, you'll be responsible for teaching her the rules here."

"As for her companion?"

"I've already checked in advance, it's just exhausted strength."

"I'll take it to Bone Erosion later. It should be able to wake up before we reach the Land of No Gods."

Until the younger Old Dragon left here, Feng Xi hadn't snapped out of her previous daze.

Because the younger Old Dragon and the Old Dragon Feng Xi had met, even if they weren't worlds apart, they could only be described as having no resemblance whatsoever.

Such a huge difference even made Feng Xi doubt herself, had she mistaken the person?

Especially that lofty coldness, it was hard to believe he would become a nagging old rascal in the future.

"Oh dear!"

"Why did you call my brother Old Dragon!"

"My brother hates being called old!"

"Now look what happened, I was planning to formally introduce you two!"

Tiptoeing over to Feng Xi's side, the Golden Spirit tugged at her sleeve with some dissatisfaction.

"Uh, it was just a reflex..."

Turning her head to look at the Golden Spirit, who was very forward, Feng Xi hesitated before explaining.

"Because I know an elder similar to your brother, so I blurted it out without thinking."

Hearing Feng Xi's explanation, the Golden Spirit's dissatisfaction immediately turned to curiosity.

"Oh? An elder similar to my brother?"

"He must be boring then, right? Does he also often stay like a Stone for months without saying a word?"

Reflecting silently on Old Dragon's character, Feng Xi, who couldn't imagine him being silent for months, shook her head.

"No, the elder I know is very talkative..."

"But like your brother, he's reliable, someone you can always entrust your back to."

Upon hearing this, the Golden Spirit joyfully said.

"Of course, my brother is the most reliable in this world!"

At the same time, in a small corner of the Oasis.

This was a gathering place for mice people less than thirty centimeters tall and also for a group planning to head towards the Land of No Gods as unbelievers.

They hadn't actively chosen to abandon their faith in the Gods, but because the Gods they once worshiped had died in a Divine War.

This group of weak and insignificant mice people naturally failed to be noticed by other Gods.

With no other choice, the mice people decided to venture to the Land of No Gods, hoping to find a place to settle in this godless area.

Unfortunately, the mice people were just too weak.

As soon as they stepped into this Yellow Sand Divine Kingdom, they were almost buried by the sand.

If not for the timely appearance of the Hundred Eyed Dragon, the mice people would have been wiped out.

Even so, the heavily punished mice people could only cling to life in a corner of the Oasis.

"Second King, how are the mice people? Can they be saved?"

The leader of the nearby group of mice people — the Rat King, followed closely behind the Hundred Eyed Dragon, looking up nervously at this great savior who had rescued the mice people from their plight.

"Hmm, it's all fine now. My brother has already agreed to help."

Smiling to soothe the Rat King's uneasy emotions, the Hundred Eyed Dragon showed his usual gentleness.

As the Hundred Eyed Dragon said, once the Old Dragon agreed to help, these mice people were already saved.

If it weren't for the Old Dragon disliking troublesomeness, his personal intervention might have been even more effective.

"That's good! That's good!"

"We are truly grateful for the kindness of you both, we have nothing to repay with!"

"If there's anything you need from us in the future, we won't hesitate to help!"

Firmly bowing to the Hundred Eyed Dragon, the Rat King's face was full of gratitude.

Due to the unique birth rate of the mice people, the Rat King's subjects were almost like its offspring.

Therefore, the Hundred Eyed Dragon saving these mice people not only rescued the Rat King's subjects but also held another special significance.

"Going through fire and water... not that extreme."

Upon hearing the Rat King's words, the Hundred Eyed Dragon, who was about to leave, suddenly paused.

He gently stroked his chin, then turned to the Rat King thoughtfully and said.

"If you really want to repay your debt, then help me keep an eye on those two newly arrived Winged and Cat people..."

"I want to know every word they say, without a single mistake."

Pausing momentarily, a smile reappeared on the Hundred Eyed Dragon's face.

"As long as you can do that, our debt will be squared."

Bowing deeply, the Rat King didn't ask the Hundred Eyed Dragon why he wanted them to watch the two newcomers. Instead, he assured him with determined words.

"Second King, rest assured, we will definitely complete the task you entrust us with."

Waving his hand casually, the Hundred Eyed Dragon said nothing more and turned to leave the mice people's gathering place.

Across the entire Oasis, besides the situation with the mice people, the Hundred Eyed Dragon had other matters to deal with slowly.

[God of Mechanical and Steel Trains?]

[But as far as I know, that 'God of Neutrality' has only recently arrived in this world and hasn't yet acquired a specific Divine Position.]
