

The Growth 693

Chapter 693 25: Seventh Celestial Father · Nameless

In the Ascension Area billions of years ago, a powerful divine level civilization was born.

It wasn't like the Mountain and Sea Civilization, which was a half-baked divine level civilization in the making, but a truly advanced civilization where all its members were gods.

The members of this civilization were demigods from birth.

Once they reached adulthood, they could ascend their life dimensions to become true gods.

Logically speaking, such a powerful civilization shouldn't just vanish without a trace; even if it were to perish, it should leave sparks to light up All Heavens and Myriad Realms.

Unfortunately, that divine level civilization sought to explore the truth of the universe and everything in it, no matter the cost.

To be honest, looking from the perspective of later generations, that divine level civilization was indeed quite abnormal.

Because a civilization is a collective of organisms and races, it should theoretically aim to preserve and perpetuate itself as its ultimate goal.

But that civilization embarked on an almost self-destructive and mad path to explore the truth of the universe.

In that civilization's theoretical model, All Heavens and Myriad Realms, all beings and things have beginnings and endings, origins and terminations.

If one follows normal logic to deduce, then there must exist an ultimate theory capable of explaining all situations in this world.

Be it the Great Dao or the truth...

No matter how the outside world refers to this ultimate theory, its essence remains unchanged.

The origin of the universe can be explained by this theory, and the destruction of All Heavens and Myriad Realms can be deduced according to this model.

If this model can be successfully established, then this civilization would transcend gods and become the truly singular supreme being of All Heavens and Myriad Realms.

In the theoretical framework of this divine level civilization, they even believed that the Celestial Father was actually a practitioner who had mastered part of the ultimate theory.

Perhaps they truly reached the limits of civilization...

Or perhaps the immortality made the members of that civilization tired of living...

This divine level civilization did not follow the normal path to explore the ultimate theory.

Instead, they bet everything as a collective, pouring all their resources and manpower into an incredible plan – simulating a Big Bang of the universe.

In their own words, once the potential of civilization was excavated to its extreme.

If they didn't make this all-or-nothing move, how could they further break through the limits of civilization?

If there was any hope or preparation for a way out, it would not only insult this plan but also show contempt for the Great Dao and truth.

Moreover, what if the execution of this plan reached its later stages and was just short of a tiny bit of resources and manpower?

In any case, this divine level civilization didn't leave themselves any way out and resolutely launched the plan to simulate a Big Bang of the universe.

Perhaps to prevent later generations from repeating their mistakes, that ineffable Creator did not show Li Hao the specific implementation process of the plan.

Yet, concerning the final data and results of that experiment, the other party did not hold back or conceal anything.

Upon learning of that data, the Celestial Tao System, which gathered all of Li Hao's efforts and essence, for the first time touched its limits and started to operate under overload.

[These data...]

In utter disbelief, Li Hao for the first time in a long while felt the threat of death.

The entity of the Fallen Area withered rapidly at a speed visible to the naked eye, as the vigorous life force was consumed by the limit operation of the Celestial Tao System.

In just the blink of an eye, Li Hao's entity had died hundreds of times.

And all this was caused only by the experiment data related to the simulated Big Bang received by the Celestial Tao System.

.....

Fallen Area, Divine Treasure Vault.

Li Hao, who was originally asleep, suddenly opened his eyes, and his original appearance withered away in an instant.

As his face aged, Li Hao's life also came to an end.

Along with it, the Mountain and Sea Realm and the entire Divine Treasure Vault trembled slightly, indicating a tendency towards decline.

"God of Gods!?"

Noticing Li Hao's abnormality for the first time.

Hua She immediately transformed into the form of a winged serpent, encasing Li Hao like the sun.

At the same time, Li Hao's Candle Dragon Mask also autonomously protected its master, transforming him into the full form of a Dragon Head man.

"I'm okay!"

Li Hao stretched out his hand to stop the overly concerned Hua She and spoke in a slightly aged voice.

The next second, this life-exhausted Li Hao was reborn again, reverting to the appearance of a young boy.

However, shortly thereafter, this life was also quickly exhausted, repeating Li Hao's entire process from youth to aging.

Once and again, over and over...

Even Li Hao himself couldn't remember how many times he had died before the Celestial Tao System finally fully received the experiment data about the simulated Big Bang.

In a daze, Li Hao felt as though he had personally experienced a Big Bang of the universe and from the omniscient perspective of "God" no less.

Li Hao even had the illusion that given the right conditions, he could entirely recreate a true Big Bang of the universe.

"No, that's not an illusion..."

Raising his hand slowly, Li Hao muttered hoarsely.

Being a mighty Creator in his own right, now he also possessed the complete data of a Big Bang.

Li Hao indeed could manifest a true Big Bang of the universe, just like that divine level civilization once did.

But the issue is, Li Hao couldn't possibly bear the cost of doing so.

Because the simulated Big Bang by that divine level civilization nearly obliterated a third of All Heavens and Myriad Realms.

Neither the Ascension Area nor the Fallen Area was spared.

As the cosmic Big Bang was about to destroy All Heavens and Myriad Realms, the Celestial Father of that time acted, using His supreme power to contain this disaster that swept across the entire heavens.

Afterwards, that Celestial Father was gravely injured and thus disappeared, never to appear again.

Meanwhile, that Big Bang also gave rise to a new Celestial Father, an unknowing supreme being.

He was the amalgamation of awareness of the entire divine level civilization and was the Big Bang itself.

He was a symbol of destruction, the Nameless that all gods heard of and feared.

"Seventh Celestial Father... Nameless!"

Unlike the Third Celestial Father, who lost name and deeds due to interfering with the timeline of All Heavens and Myriad Realms.

The fleeting Seventh Celestial Father was the true Nameless.

In the recognition of the gods, even the actual existence of this Celestial Father was in doubt.

However, now Li Hao could clearly tell everyone that the Seventh Celestial Father: Nameless indeed existed.

Tracing back through the history of the Disaster Realm, spanning billions of years of time river...

The Seventh Celestial Father, who nearly destroyed a third of All Heavens, left his remnant imprint in the past time river.
