Chapter 699 5: Rewriting Reality

Luo God, originally named Luo Xiaojie, was just an ordinary alternative punk girl.

If it weren't for discovering her superpower and going to the government building to expose herself immediately, and then coincidentally being discovered by He Bo, her fate might not have been much better than other possessors.

Fortunately, the worst didn't happen, and He Bo noticed Luo Xiaojie's emergence in time.

To help deal with and suppress the Ancient God within Luo Xiaojie, He Bo at the time opted to seek help from a higher authority.

Thus, before that Ancient God could fully revive, an investigation and sealing ritual specifically targeting that Ancient God was logically initiated.

Through a series of investigations by He Bo and others, they discovered that this Ancient God had once left a legend on this land.

He was the Mountain God of Wu Luo Mountain, worshiped during the Tang and Song dynasties.

According to local legends, this Mountain God was indifferent to morality, responding to anyone who prayed to him.

Unfortunately, over time and with the change of dynasties, the legend of this Mountain God was ultimately buried in the river of history.

It wasn't until Luo Xiaojie heard the voice of this Ancient God again that the story of this belief re-emerged in the world.

Once they understood the identity of this Ancient God, He Bo had almost no hesitation in deciding to help Luo Xiaojie suppress it.

After all, considering the former legends, this morally indifferent Mountain God was evidently not a benevolent character.

Once it influenced Luo Xiaojie, it's highly likely to cause calamity.

However, He Bo, who had almost everything calculated, didn't anticipate that the Mountain God of Wu Luo Mountain had already influenced Luo Xiaojie.

At the critical moment of the ritual, influenced Luo Xiaojie acted decisively.

This directly resulted in everyone involved in the sealing ritual being gravely injured, with He Bo nearly dying on the spot.

At the critical moment, the Civilization Information Library, protected by the Nine Songs God, hidden within He Bo, was triggered.

"At that time, I felt like I had become omnipotent!"

Standing deep within the forest, He Bo listened attentively to the strange thunderous explosions in the distance while whispering to himself.

"I understood the past and present, identified all things, and could even hear sounds from higher dimensions."

"It was a world full of gods, a world of clamorous gods and flourishing civilization."

"I had a feeling that if I wanted, I could break the dimensional wall and communicate with higher dimensional beings."

"Am I a human on Earth?"

"Am I a creature from a lower dimensional world?"

"Am I a minor character in a novel?"

"I don't know how to describe how I felt at that time, the only thing I could be sure of is that power didn't belong to me."

Time seemed to flash back to a few years ago, and He Bo fell into that memory once more.

"That ability to rewrite reality... is the power of omniscience..."

.....

Upon successfully triggering the Civilization Information Library, He Bo naturally comprehended the essence of Wu Luo Mountain's Mountain God.

Compared to gods of higher dimensions, the present Mountain God of Wu Luo Mountain was merely the lingering consciousness of a fallen god, a wisp of obsession not even called a soul.

With He Bo's ability at that time, annihilating the remnant consciousness of that Ancient God was an effortless task.

But from the perspective of "omniscience," He Bo knew he shouldn't simply destroy the Ancient God's remnant consciousness.

Because He Bo already perceived that within himself lay a truly complete Ancient God.

Although restricted by the world's rules and the shackles imposed by the creator, this Ancient God couldn't exert true Divine Power.

But once this Ancient God fully revives, he could overturn everything with the power of the Civilization Information Library.

Therefore, He Bo chose to transform the Mountain God's obsession and then rewrite it with the concept of a god from the Civilization Information Library.

From that moment on, the Mountain God of Wu Luo Mountain completely vanished, replaced by the resurrected Luo God.

Yes, Luo Xiaojie was indeed Luo God herself.

When the concept of the Mountain God of Wu Luo Mountain was rewritten, Luo Xiaojie no longer carried any part of the Ancient God.

Apart from not possessing the strength of the former Luo God, Luo Xiaojie perfectly inherited the status of Luo God, becoming a true Jiuge God.

Once Luo Xiaojie leaves the Fallen Area, she will shed her mortal coil and transform into a True God.

From this perspective, Luo Xiaojie is actually a reproduction of the Mazu condition.

However, perhaps precisely because Luo Xiaojie didn't inherit any characteristics of the former Luo God.

Additionally, He Bo purposely concealed all information about the deity when rewriting the Mountain God of Wu Luo Mountain.

Thus, even Li Hao didn't realize that this spiritual sister who was with Huo Dou day and night was actually a potential "Mazu."

"Is this what's called 'Divine Sorrow'?"

Intently staring at the absent-minded "Luo God" before him.

Li Hao knew no matter how hard she tried, she could no longer remember the past.

Because the current "Luo God" was no longer the past Luo God, He Bo didn't rewrite all the information of the previous Luo God.

The former Luo God was beautiful and reckless, lascivious.

She was the jealous god who, merely by her beauty, could incite battles between two powerful deities.

But the current "Luo God" is the new Luo God constructed on Luo Xiaojie's personality.

Other than still loving beauty, there wasn't a single similarity between the two.

"It truly is an incredible ability!"

To forcefully transform one god into another by rewriting the essence of the god.

This seemingly inconceivable act is what the Nine Songs God refers to as the Divine Sorrow which can resurrect gods.

Theoretically, as long as enough gods undergo rewriting, the Jiuge Divine Pantheon, long since perished, could fully "resurrect."

"He Bo, did you intentionally leave this thing for me?"

With a touch of skepticism, Huo Dou withdrew his hand from the heart aperture of Luo God.

Drawn out along with Huo Dou's hand was an endless scroll exuding an ancient aura.

This ancient scroll was the Bai Ze Map, also the Civilization Information Library hidden within Luo God by He Bo.

To prevent that Jiuge God from overturning everything.

At the time of rewriting Luo God, He Bo hid the Civilization Information Library within Luo God.

"To hide this Divine Artifact with the status of a True God..."

"No wonder that Jiuge God never realized until the end that what He was searching for was actually right under his nose."

Honestly, Li Hao never thought that the clues he sought would appear before him in such a manner.

With this Bai Ze Map, perhaps Li Hao could thoroughly understand the relationship between Bai Ze and the Jiuge Divine Pantheon, as well as why Ancient Gods of Mountains and Seas like the Candle Dragon frequently appeared on Earth.

But now there are some new issues that Li Hao urgently needs to solve.

What exactly happened with He Bo?

Why was Luo God's identity exposed to him at this time?

Moreover, is there still any need for his incarnation to intern at the museum?
