

The Growth 727

Chapter 727 9: Demonpurge No. 7

As the pinnacle of Mountain and Sea Civilization's technology, the Mechanical Structure is a branch product of the Artificial God technology.

Ever since "Autonomy and Floating City" was officially renamed Gunlong and returned to the Mountain and Sea Realm, the Artificial God technology has made further breakthroughs.

Among them, the progress in developing the Autonomic Artificial God direction has been the greatest.

Imitating Gunlong's existence form, the Mountain and Sea Civilization tentatively endowed some Mechanical Structures with the ability for autonomous activity.

Among these, the reconnaissance-type structures, which are specifically responsible for exploring the Outer Realm and executing tasks in dangerous zones, naturally became the first batch of experiments.

"Demon Vanquishing Seven" is the culmination of the Demon Vanquishing series.

Unlike those specifically responsible for Outer Realm exploration like the "Star Monarch series" structures.

The original intent behind creating the Demon Vanquishing series was to hope they could autonomously execute reconnaissance and rescue tasks in some extremely dangerous environments.

Therefore, when conducting high-dimensional expansion, Demon Vanquishing Seven specifically mimicked Feng Xi's body structure and crafted a Transforming Module capable of transforming for it.

In its normal state, Demon Vanquishing Seven is like a gear-like mechanical structure.

Through the rotation of internal and external bearings, Demon Vanquishing Seven continuously generates an anti-gravity magnetic field, enabling it to move freely in any harsh environment.

And once it encounters danger or detects a target needing rescue.

Demon Vanquishing Seven will activate its transforming module, deploying various production tools and weapon models stored in its database as needed.

Even when the transforming module is not activated.

Demon Vanquishing Seven will continue to make various micro-adjustments to itself based on the surrounding environment.

In water, it has a water form; in lava, it has a lava form; in the air, it has an aerial form...

Although these forms look quite similar in appearance, they are actually the adaptive forms adjusted by Demon Vanquishing Seven.

Take the current Demon Vanquishing Seven for example.

To adapt to this environment akin to the surface of the sun.

The metal on Demon Vanquishing Seven's body surface not only evolved with extremely high temperature adaptability but also can provide its own endurance power by absorbing these solar particles.

Thus, even if the opponent is claimed to be the "Divine Walker" Shu Hai, Demon Vanquishing Seven remains evenly matched.

Of course, purely in terms of speed, Demon Vanquishing Seven is certainly not as fast as Shu Hai.

But the key problem is, while positioned in the Abnormal High Temperature Area, Demon Vanquishing Seven is not afraid of energy loss and can maintain high-speed operation mode for a long time.

Unless its parts suffer excessive wear and tear, Demon Vanquishing Seven can completely maintain its current speed for two or three hundred years.

Conversely, Shu Hai slowed down significantly after chasing Demon Vanquishing Seven for a few laps.

Long-term high-speed running combined with an extremely harsh environment can affect even the Immortal Shu Hai.

"Do I need to die once again?"

Watching Demon Vanquishing Seven's back fade into the distance once more, Shu Hai couldn't help furrowing his brow.

For the Immortals, Death can reset all negative states as a "refresh".

As long as Shu Hai dies immediately, his physical exertion and body wear would revert to the best state.

But it was completely meaningless, Shu Hai wouldn't want to waste time against an autonomic reconnaissance machine here for two or three hundred years.

Right now, the most important thing is to figure out why Demon Vanquishing Seven entered this abnormal state.

"Just running away without choosing to counterattack..."

"Just from this point, the structure is still able to normally recognize the Mountain and Sea People."

"But since it recognized the Mountain and Sea People, why did it choose to flee?"

This is Shu Hai's biggest confusion, Demon Vanquishing Seven's logic seems to exceed the original instructions but hasn't truly violated the initial settings given by its creator.

.....

At the same time, in the observation tower outside the Abnormal High Temperature Area.

"Messages from Shu Hai's side have already been received..."

Feng Rong was operating various devices in front of him while delivering his instructions to other Mountain and Sea People in the observation tower.

"According to the data from the research center, all the parameters and actions of Demon Vanquishing Seven haven't violated the underlying logic commands..."

A cluster of scorching flames gathered around Feng Rong out of thin air and quickly transformed.

The next second, a real Flame Race materialized from the flames spoke in a low voice.

"Demon Vanquishing Seven just activated the protection mode and identified Shu Hai as a potential threat to the 'protected entity'."

Upon these words, Feng Rong shook his fur in more agitation.

"You rascal, can't you stop being so elusive?"

"You disappear whenever a stranger comes, really can't tell whose personality you inherited..."

After a brief pause in tone, Feng Rong continued to ask.

"What do you mean by 'protected entity'?"

"What living creature in that place would need Demon Vanquishing Seven's protection?"

"Shu Hai is the Eldest Son of God, shouldn't Demon Vanquishing Seven's intelligence recognize what that means?"

"Forget about the Mountain and Sea Realm, even Mountain and Sea People who drift to Otherworld wouldn't think an Immortal would harbor any malice towards them, right?"

Immortals may be erratic, may not play by common rules...

But no Mountain and Sea Name would deny the Immortals' position.

For the Mountain and Sea People, you can unconditionally trust an Immortal at any time, any place.

"The problem arises here, Demon Vanquishing Seven's protection is not necessarily for the Mountain and Sea People."

Staring wide-eyed in disbelief, Feng Rong questioned the Flame Race.

"Not necessarily for Mountain and Sea People? What do you mean by that?"

"This is the Mountain and Sea Realm, what else could appear here but Mountain and Sea People?"

As one of the developers of the "Demon Vanquishing series", the Flame Race awkwardly looked down and defensively murmured.

"We thought so initially too..."

"That's why from the start, the instructions given to Demon Vanquishing Seven didn't specifically emphasize 'Mountain and Sea People' as an identity."

"In the fundamental logic commands of Demon Vanquishing Seven, the 'rescue the injured' command is above 'execute exploration tasks', and this 'injured' is not limited to creatures of the Mountain and Sea Realm."

Clenching his fist tightly, Feng Rong already understood the implication of the Flame Race's words, only making him want to punch him even more now.

"You bunch of idiots only demanding funding; didn't you realize how much trouble this command would cause in actual execution?"

Facing the loud shouting from Feng Rong, the Flame Race knew he was at fault and only muttered.

"That was indeed our mistake."

"Who would have thought non-Mountain and Sea Realm creatures would appear here?"

"After all, the initial intelligence clearly stated that no beings accidentally entered this Abnormal High Temperature Area, let alone Otherworld creatures. That's why the institute didn't temporarily alter this command."

"I'll report this situation later, ensuring no similar errors occur in the future."

Upon hearing this, Feng Rong abruptly raised his volume.

"Future? You still expect there to be a future?"

"The current issue is how to solve the present trouble!"