

The Growth 730

Chapter 730 12: Golden Crow Hatchling

Boom!!!

As the massive mushroom cloud rose from the earth, the violent solar windstorm swept across in an instant.

The observation tower closest to the "Abnormal High Temperature Area" inevitably became the first victim of this helium flash fusion.

Rumble...

The tall and majestic observation tower suddenly collapsed, high temperatures mixed with the storm sweeping in.

Despite reacting immediately, Feng Rong was still hit by the falling stones.

"Ah!"

Due to the suddenness of the event.

Feng Rong didn't have time to activate any implants, and instead took the impact of the stones with his own flesh and blood.

For the Quanfeng Race, not known for physical strength, this already counts as a severe injury.

"Are you okay?"

Quickly transforming into a flame entity, the Flame Race blocked further stone impacts for Feng Rong.

The remaining Mountain and Sea People also avoided the sudden crisis in their own ways, then looked in shock at the still rising mushroom cloud.

The slowly rising mushroom cloud was the aftershock of the helium flash, another form of "sun".

As high-intensity radiation spread outward with the aftershock, Feng Rong's implant quickly detected high-energy particles that could destroy most carbon-based life forms.

"Quick! Activate the implant!"

With wide-open eyes, Feng Rong's order transmitted through the communication channel to each Mountain and Sea Person.

It was only at this moment that the Mountain and Sea People realized—the high-energy radiation was eroding their bodies, damaging every cell.

So, within a very short time, various implants appeared on the Mountain and Sea People.

Although these implants aren't professional radiation-proof implants, they can significantly strengthen the Mountain and Sea People's physical qualities, helping them reduce some of the high-energy radiation damage.

As for the subsequent side effects?

In the current Mountain and Sea Civilization, as long as your soul hasn't entered reincarnation, there are ways to keep you alive.

"What happened inside?"

Struggling to stand with the help of the Flame Race, Feng Rong asked.

Unfortunately, no one present could answer Feng Rong's question.

After all, with the appearance of the helium flash and mushroom cloud, even the most skilled observers and analysts couldn't know what happened inside.

The only certainty is that something significant must have occurred in the Abnormal High Temperature Area.

"The abnormal high temperature... disappeared!?"

At this moment, an observer responsible for monitoring abnormal temperatures spoke.

Despite being still in the radiation zone of the helium flash, this observer found that the original abnormal high temperature had disappeared, now it was just the aftershock and radiation of the helium flash.

"Disappeared?"

The Flame Race immediately went to the observer, looking at the recorded data from the obviously damaged instrument.

The data clearly showed that the abnormal high temperature area disappeared the moment before the explosion.

"Is the problem solved now? Or not?"

With these doubts, the Flame Race once again looked towards the central area of the helium flash.

.....

"Was it solved?"

Unaware of what was happening outside, a mass of flesh was slowly forming in the center of the mushroom cloud—that was the Rebirth of Shu Hai.

Even though it looked a bit unkempt, the body structure was still in the differentiation stage, Shu Hai's voice and tone remained so calm.

This is the confidence given by the Immortal Body to the Immortal People, also the character underlying most Immortals.

Aside from being curious when seeking thrill, Immortals are mostly indifferent, fearless of heaven or earth.

Ka... ka... ka...

Unexpected, yet reasonable.

A familiar sound of wheels turning suddenly emitted from the mushroom cloud, accompanied by the piercing sound of metal scraping.

However, when Shu Hai took a closer look inside, he found things were completely different from his imagination.

After the helium flash explosion.

The transforming module of Demon Vanquishing Seven was completely destroyed, the remaining fragments ceaselessly rotated according to the pre-set program.

Theoretically, Demon Vanquishing Seven should have been scrapped by now.

Yet inside the body of Demon Vanquishing Seven, an inexplicable power forcibly maintained its operation.

Unsure if it was Shu Hai's illusion, he even felt a kind of sadness from that inexplicable power.

This sadness was so strong, it even profoundly affected the usually indifferent Immortals.

"Is it... crying?"

With the curiosity unique to Immortals, Shu Hai cautiously approached the remnants of Demon Vanquishing Seven.

Shu Hai originally thought this sadness came from Demon Vanquishing Seven.

But when Shu Hai was less than ten steps away from Demon Vanquishing Seven, the power swiftly rose from its body, revealing its most essential form.

"Woo!"

It was a golden, illusory fledgling crow.

As if warning Shu Hai, the fledgling crow struggled to spread its wings, forbidding him from coming closer to Demon Vanquishing Seven.

To be honest, Shu Hai wasn't unfamiliar with the fledgling crow's behavior.

Since in nature, some young ones show this kind of bluff when their mother is dying, prohibiting any creature to approach their mother.

Furthermore, when Shu Hai tentatively extended his hand.

The already vigilant fledgling crow's wings suddenly lit up, once again releasing frenzied solar particles.

It was evident that this fledgling crow was the culprit behind the series of events.

"Shouldn't be, right?"

Seeing this, Shu Hai immediately took a step back.

Then he exchanged an uncertain gaze between Demon Vanquishing Seven and the fledgling crow.

Faced with such a situation, even the knowledgeable Shu Hai fell silent.

One is a mechanical structure crafted by the Mountain and Sea People, the other an unknown life form suspected to be a Demigod...

The two seem impossible to be the same kind at first glance.

But the behaviors of Demon Vanquishing Seven and the fledgling crow were unexpectedly like those of a real parent and child.

Especially as the fledgling crow poured its all to preserve the remaining remnants of Demon Vanquishing Seven, unable to even recreate a tangible body.

"Huh?"

Just as Shu Hai was pondering how to handle this matter, he suddenly noticed the fledgling crow secretly had a third leg below its belly.

The residual phenomenon of the Supreme Sun...

A golden fledgling crow with three legs...

Along with other obviously solar-related rules...

Not being foolish, Shu Hai suddenly realized, the disbelief in his eyes fully expressing his current feelings.

"Three-legged Golden Crow? Are you the offspring of that Supreme Sun?"