

The Growth 731

Chapter 731 13: Mechanical Golden Crow

[Golden Crow Fledgling?]

A curious Li Hao in the void was also examining the fledgling crow, having noticed the emergence of the "Abnormal High Temperature Area" even earlier than the Mountain and Sea Civilization.

Similarly, Li Hao knew it was a remnant effect following Di Jun's death.

However, Li Hao never expected that the "Abnormal High Temperature Area" would actually be an "incubator" for hatching Golden Crow fledglings.

From Li Hao's current perspective and dimension, he could clearly understand the essence of the so-called "Abnormal High Temperature Area."

It was a kind of sun authority from Di Jun, capable of invading and infecting the authority touching this world.

If this world still had powerful and intelligent gods, it would be fine.

They could use their own strength to limit the expansion of the sun's authority, preventing the whole world from being assimilated into a sun.

But if someone covets and craves this power, then they will become the vessel of this power, becoming the host of the not-yet-born Golden Crow.

Theoretically, the stronger the host, the more complete the fledgling Golden Crow that hatches will be.

If the one coveting the sun authority is a Main God, then the Golden Crow might even resurrect in its prime form.

Even if it's just ordinary beings that inadvertently enter the "Abnormal High Temperature Area," the Golden Crow would continuously absorb their life force until completing the resurrection ritual.

This is also the real reason why the worlds surrounding the Mountain and Sea Realm have been ignited time and again.

Because those worlds aren't strong enough to hatch the Golden Crow in one go.

So the Golden Crow can only use this method to reincarnate repeatedly, attempting to complete the resurrection ritual.

[However, the Golden Crow in the Mountain and Sea Realm seems somewhat abnormal...]

Focusing on the fledgling crow, Li Hao could distinctly sense its attachment to the Demon Vanquishing Seven, and its fearful yet brave deterrence against Shu Hai.

As the reincarnation of a Main God, this fledgling crow seemed to inherit none of the memories or legacy of the Golden Crow.

On the contrary, it was acting like a genuine fledgling bird, treating the first thing it saw, the Demon Vanquishing Seven, as its mother.

Of course, the real reason the fledgling crow considers the Demon Vanquishing Seven its mother must be more complicated.

After all, even if a Golden Crow's fledgling truly lost all memory and legacy.

Given their intelligence, it's absolutely impossible for them to be unable to distinguish their kin like ordinary fledgling birds.

[So what exactly happened here?]

Just as Li Hao harbored such curiosity, intending to further explore the events surrounding the fledgling Golden Crow, he suddenly paused.

Because outside the Mountain and Sea Realm, a familiar force appeared out of nowhere.

This force didn't hide its intentions, appearing as humble and courteous as a genuine visitor.

[Sun God?]

He cast his gaze towards the void outside the Mountain and Sea Realm.

Li Hao saw a space-time channel seemingly connecting to an Exotic Realm forming within the chaos, constantly emanating that uniquely characteristic sunlight.

[Di Jun isn't dead?]

A thought of surprise flashed through his mind.

Li Hao quickly dismissed his own guess.

Because on the other end of the space-time, although the Sun God had similar authority to Di Jun and could also resonate with the Mountain and Sea Realm.

In terms of pure power, he was clearly inferior to the real Di Jun.

It was merely a Main God, a Sun God whose strength was infinitely close to the upper limit of a Main God.

In fact, not to mention raising a broken world back into the [Ascension Area] like Di Jun.

Even the cross-space-time channel was opened with the help of another Supreme God, serving only as a coordinate itself.

[Who could it be?]

Sensing the friendliness radiating from this Sun God.

Li Hao swept through every god in his mind that could be remembered, finally locking onto a Sun God who once had a close relationship with Di Jun.

[The former Sun Lord of the Mountain and Sea Realm — Xi He?]

.....

In the indescribable high-dimensional space-time, hidden within the space of time vortices and broken worlds.

With other Supreme Gods gradually leaving, the newly arrived alien mechanical body chose to stay.

Looking at the Chaos Dragon wearing a look of surprise, as the alien mechanical body slowly rotated its body, it finally transformed into a three-legged mechanical bird.

"..."

Seeing that familiar image, a flicker of astonishment flashed in the eyes of the Chaos Dragon.

Because that three-legged mechanical bird was none other than a replica of the image of the Three-legged Golden Crow by the alien mechanical body.

"You should be familiar with this image, right?"

Before the Chaos Dragon could inquire, the alien mechanical body actively spoke.

"You know my identity?"

Maintaining its usual facade, the Chaos Dragon tentatively asked.

Not for anything else, just because the shock this alien mechanical body brought was far stronger than any other Supreme God.

"Great Creator, your grace spreads across the heavens, your benevolence is known to all..."

"I am merely a successor from a more distant future, having accidentally inherited your 'Chaos Incarnation,' thus roughly guessing your identity."

The Chaos Dragon was unsure whether this was the alien mechanical body's facade for itself or if it truly came from a distant future of its time and space.

"This is somewhat unexpected for me."

Indifferently coiling its body upward.

The Chaos Dragon gazed at the alien mechanical body with an almost condescending look and said.

"Then tell me, why would my future self abandon this 'Chaos Incarnation'?"

Clearly seeing through the Chaos Dragon's probing, the alien mechanical body only smiled nonchalantly and said.

"Great Creator!"

"You are always elusive, how could I possibly know why you would abandon this 'Chaos Incarnation'?"

After a brief silence, the Chaos Dragon neither confirmed nor denied, but rather curiously asked again.

"Then what is the reason for revealing your identity this time?"

"As the Bronze Divine Tree said, at this time-spanning communication gathering, hiding one's identity and space-time coordinates carries immense risk."

Upon hearing this, the alien mechanical body laughed once more.

"Since the risk of hiding identity and space-time coordinates is immense, it also indicates that the reward for revealing identity and space-time coordinates is equally immense."

"This time, I merely wish to attempt changing a piece of history."

The Chaos Dragon instinctively leaned forward its head, its face showing undisguised astonishment.

"What history do you want to change?"

Gazing at the Chaos Dragon, the alien mechanical body said in a firm tone.

"Change the future where my mother and siblings were killed by your clan!"