

The Growth 741

Chapter 741 23: Sun-Devouring Divine Monarch

When the alien mechanical body stabilized its form once again, it found itself suddenly back in its original space-time.

This was an era unknown number of billions of years after Li Hao's time node.

A glorious civilization illuminated the entire world, with magnificent floating cities swirling around the center of the world.

Outside of this world, small worlds and independent divine kingdoms orbiting like satellites, presenting a prosperity of many schools of thought and myriad blossoms.

If one gazes further into the distance, they would find that the space-time tunnels connecting various worlds had long become routine.

This is a mega civilization system with the Mountain and Sea Civilization as its core, continuously absorbing other civilizations and divine pantheons.

In this vast system, gods are merely fundamental individuals, and cross-world actions are considered normal.

Being in the Mountain and Sea Realm during the day, spending the night in other worlds...

Today's exchanging within a god's divine kingdom, tomorrow participating in combat on the civilization's edges...

Every moment, innumerable civilizations strive to apply to join this mega civilization system.

Every day, new gods and new divine pantheons are born within this mega civilization system.

As a member of this mega civilization system, the alien mechanical body felt proud of its origin and proud to be a part of this civilization.

"I... am back again?"

Standing in its divine kingdom, the alien mechanical body glanced down at its current appearance.

No longer in the form of a mechanical Golden Crow, but rather an alien mechanical structure resembling gears with constantly rotating external bearings.

Whenever the external bearings turned a circle, the internal dimensions of the alien mechanical body would change once.

It seemed to contain a complete universe, yet like evolution's eternal truth of All Heavens and Myriad Realms.

Similarly, the alien mechanical body's divine kingdom was no longer the mechanical sun it once was.

With the timeline reset, the past mechanical sun had transformed into an indescribable, dimensionally shifting mega factory divine kingdom.

Every moment, the alien mechanical body's divine kingdom produces various artifacts with high-dimensional structures, which in turn enhance and feedback the kingdom's power.

Low-dimensional aggregation, high-dimensional unfolding can be found everywhere in this divine kingdom.

Even a tiny speck of dust in this current divine kingdom holds complexity and life far beyond normal biological imagination.

"..."

Looking at this strange yet familiar divine kingdom, the alien mechanical body realized its "origin" had been rewritten.

Now it had returned to its original Demon Vanquishing Seven form, and Little Golden Crow You Wen, once merged with it, had truly experienced rebirth.

"You Wen..."

Suddenly raising its head to gaze at the sky, the alien mechanical body saw the sun suspended above the divine kingdom.

It was the first time knowing the name "You Wen", yet the alien mechanical body called out naturally.

The next second, the sun transformed into an enormous Golden Crow, descending with a sun storm capable of destroying everything.

Swish!

Wrapped in blazing flames.

The form of the Golden Crow swiftly shrank and finally landed on one of the alien mechanical body's gears.

"Mom, did you call me?"

Amidst the mighty voice mixed with confusion, You Wen evidently didn't understand why its foster mother suddenly called it.

"Did something happen?"

"Is there another foolish divine pantheon challenging us?"

"That would be great! I am so tired of staying here! Let us onto the battlefield quickly!"

Listening to You Wen's noisy chatter beside its ear.

The alien mechanical body maintained silence for a long time before replying with a slightly smiling voice.

"No, no war happened, I just wanted to call you."

"Speaking of which, where are your brothers? It seems you haven't seen them in a long time!"

Flapping its wings suddenly, You Wen replied disdainfully.

"Who wants to meet those brutes?"

"If it weren't for mother's instructions before leaving, I wouldn't bother cleaning up their messes!"

"Despite lacking power, they always like to provoke those strong divine pantheons where a Supreme God resides..."

"If you ask me, the Prophets shouldn't have agreed to let those brutes join the Mountain and Sea Civilization."

"They don't know the meaning of learning, all only thinking of fighting, yet none can win."

You Wen's complaints lasted a long time, but the alien mechanical body always maintained a subtle smile.

—This kind of future, doesn't seem too bad either?

.....
"Not quite?"

Slinking out its forked tongue, Hua She looked at Li Hao in confusion.

"Yes" is yes, "No" is no, what does a "not quite" even mean?

"He has great talent to become a 'God of Time'..."

"And the most critical point to become a 'God of Time' is to anchor one's 'uniqueness', jumping out from the time river's constraint."

"I simply provided him a chance to start over, hoping he likes the 'past' I sent him."

Thus, along with Li Hao's gentle narration.

A parallel space-time with completely different futures, from the current time node, unfolded before Hua She's eyes.

If the alien mechanical body hadn't become the God of Chaos...

If the alien mechanical body hadn't exposed its identity before Li Hao...

If Li Hao hadn't cared about Xi He's arrival and had let the Mountain and Sea Civilization handle the incident themselves...

If the Mountain and Sea Civilization hadn't realized the essence of the Golden Crow and had forcibly detained Demon Vanquishing Seven with the already became host of the Golden Crow...

Based on these possibilities, the past experienced by the alien mechanical body ensued.

In that parallel space-time, Little Golden Crow You Wen wasn't successfully nurtured and completed the ultimate rebirth.

It may be somewhat inaccurate to say that.

Correctly speaking, being trapped in Demon Vanquishing Seven's body for a long time, the premature death of Little Golden Crow became an inevitability.

Yet, the issue arose here.

Trapped within Demon Vanquishing Seven's body and forcefully detained by the Mountain and Sea Civilization...

The prematurely deceased Little Golden Crow not only failed to restart the resurrection ritual but gradually merged with Demon Vanquishing Seven over countless years.

It was a period lengthy beyond words.

So long that even the Creator's legend had transformed into a traceable ancient myth within the Mountain and Sea Realm...

Thus, upon detecting that heap of nearly scrapped "metal" nurturing consciousness.

While shocked, the later Mountain and Sea Civilization high-ups granted it normal rights as a Mountain and Sea People amid fierce arguments.

The shell was man-made machinery...

The consciousness derived from the prematurely dying Little Golden Crow...

And received comprehensive education from post-era Mountain and Sea Civilization...

Dubbed "Sun-Devouring Divine Monarch", Gu Wen for a considerable period was a renowned War God in the Mountain and Sea Civilization.

"Sun-Devouring Divine Monarch" pursuing the sun and moon, seeking the Creator's legend...

Gu Wen attempted to understand those buried histories to alleviate the increasingly severe personality and memory splits, ultimately confirming its identity.