Chapter 106 Queen Of Drama

Conrad looked down at his hand that Lillee was now piercing harshly while lost in thought, "You're hurting me." He gently said which made her jolt. She quickly dropped his hand while donning a pitiful look.

"I'm sorry, I was just nervous." She replied, which made him give her a comforting smile.

"Don't be," Conrad replied while heaving a sigh. He had been drawn to the smiling Tinsley's beauty so much that he even forgot about Lillee that was beside him. And it was only when Lillee pierced his arms with her finger did he jolted back to reality.

Tinsley calmly made her way to Lillee while holding Jarek with a beautiful smile. It was when the two stayed together that people finally began to evaluate them.

When it comes to beauty, Tinsley undoubtedly beat Lillee. When it comes to men and talent, a multi-talented Tinsley was also chosen and when it comes to dress and who rocks it best, Tinsley was also chosen.

The fans who were watching the live stream even drew a poll.

At that moment, people began to talk about how Tinsley looked like heaven and Lillee looked like earth.

Lillee was so annoyed, and she had a feeling that Tinsley had purposely attended in such a flashy way to humiliate her.

Since she wanted it that way, Lillee swore to make her pay. Lillee parted her lips to say something, but before she could, Tinsley interrupted her because she knew that whatever Lillee was bound to say would be against her.

"My older sister is finally getting married. I'll miss you so much." Tinsley cried out while feigning an innocent and sad expression.

She quickly dropped Jarek's hand and tried to hug Lillee which made Lillee frown but upon remembering that the crowd was watching, she pretended to smile and hug Tinsley.

Lillee gritted her teeth angrily, "What are you doing here? Quietly leave if you don't want to embarrass yourself." She whispered while hoping that Tinsley would reply angrily, and she would find a way to humiliate her, but Tinsley smirked.

"And, you aren't tired of trying to infuriate me every time this way, are you? Once bitten, twice shy."

Tinsley hid her smirk and by completing her words, she purposely gave Lillee a harsh pinch at her waist which made Lillee shocked.

Lillee angrily pushed Tinsley away from her due to the pain. "You bitch!" She yelled and glared at Tinsley angrily.

Tinsley purposely made herself fall into Jarek's embrace and smirked at Lillee.

Lillee froze upon realizing what she had done just now. She had let Tinsley get into her so much that she had lost herself in front of the crowd.

Jarek glared hard at Conrad and Lillee and took a threatening step toward them. Tinsley had crashed on him so hard, what'd happen if he wasn't there or Tinsley had fallen hard on the floor? She'll have definitely injured herself at that minute.

"Hubby, it's okay." Tinsley pretended to stop Jarek from lashing out at the couple. "I believe that my sister was only angry at me because of what happened seven years ago, but she had mistaken me. I have known hubby since seven years ago, how can I like Conrad? Elder sister, the truth is I have never had eyes for Conrad and if it's about wearing a wedding dress that day, we'll clarify it with Mom and Dad in privacy after the wedding so don't be angry." Tinsley softly cried as Lillee had always done.

Lillee was so stunned that she couldn't even find anything to say no matter how much she racked her brain. Tinsley had always been on the receiving end because of Lillee, how can it be that Tinsley was this perfect schemer now?

Tinsley pretended to be anxious upon seeing Lillee like that. "Elder sister, is it that you haven't forgiven me? I am really innocent." She said, which made Lillee fall into a dilemma.

If Lillee replied that she had forgiven Tinsley in that minute, people will believe that she had purposely pushed Tinsley away, and if she chose to say she didn't people will hate her.

The people who were watching became displeased with Lillee's actions. Even when Lillee didn't invite Tinsley, Tinsley still came in order to support her.

Ignoring the hate between them, Tinsley tried to hug Lillee, but she first hesitated a bit and first stared at the camera before she hugged Tinsley and when Tinsley would hug her, Lillee pushed her away angrily which showed that Lillee was far from being a pure goddess.

"Are you okay?" Rory quickly rushed to Tinsley with concern. "Such a violent push, it's all thanks to President Jarek that you didn't fall. You didn't sprain your ankles, right?" Rory asked in concern and

Tinsley pretended to hesitate before she nodded her head

"I'm fine, Rory. Jarek, I'm really fine. Sister is just being angry, and we are all okay, right?" Her innocent expression stabbed Jarek's heart.

He believed that the push must have harmed her because he could feel the impact of her fall. He clenched his fist and promised to make the couple pay.

"You, after all, you have done to Tinsley privately, you still dared to do something wicked like this?"

Rory yelled angrily, which made Lillee begin to panic.

"Rory, it's okay," Tinsley said innocently which made Rory sigh.

"You're just too innocent. Look, she's bullying you like in the past, okay?" She remarked which made everyone in the party murmur wondering what wicked things Lillee had done to Tinsley.

"What's happening here? Tinsley, Mom and Dad have been waiting for you. Why did you arrive so late?

Lillee and you had promised to be Lillee's bridesmaid, now you break your promise at the last minute.

You have both sworn to be by each other's side during marriage, how can your elder sister not be angry?" Mrs. William quickly tried to dump everything on Tinsley. "Sigh, you two are always a handful whenever you're at war."

Chapter 107 Queen Of Drama (2)

"Hey Mom, after seven years, I'm finally seeing you face to face except for the phone call that asked me to give my female lead role to Lillee. Mrs. William looked no different from before." Tinsley purposely said this in order to make Mrs. William's words backfire on her.

Mrs. William had accused Tinsley of breaking the promise to be by Lillee's side during the wedding which had successfully shifted the blame on Tinsley. She uses her words to point Tinsley out as a liar for saying that she wasn't invited to the wedding party.

Mrs. William's expression changed into anger when she heard Tinsley's words but she took a deep breath to calm herself down so she wouldn't make a mistake like Lillee had done earlier.

And most especially, getting the favor of someone like Jarek is what they wanted especially when their company is now on the brink of bankruptcy, and they won't want a conflict with Tinsley to be the one that'll destroy it.

"Son-in-law, we have been waiting for..." Mrs William called eagerly and tried to hold Jarek's hand as if they were familiar with each other but a freezing glare from Jarek immediately put an end to her fake actions.

"Come on, are you really okay?" Jarek ignored Mrs. William and instead turned to Tinsley and began to show concern.

Tinsley beamed at him and nodded her head sweetly, "Yes, I am Hubby." She said with a smile before turning to Lillee.

"Sister, happy married life. Own your stage." Tinsley said and turned away from them while holding onto Jarek and Rory.

"Tinsley." Lillee silently gritted her teeth in anger but what she was most annoyed about is Conrad's silence.

Jarek had sided with Tinsley when everything happened but Conrad didn't say anything or side with her throughout the event that happened which made her annoyed.

Noticing Lillee's sudden mood swing, Conrad couldn't help being worried so he asked her. "Are you okay?"

At that minute Lillee couldn't help but evaluate a great someone like Jarek and then someone like Conrad in her heart. That Tinsley bitch, how dare she have all the good things? She promised to destroy her soon.

"I am fine," Lily replied perfunctorily while holding onto his hand.

Seeing that she wasn't in the mood to talk, he immediately kept his shut.

For someone like Tinsley who doesn't like socialization, the party was nothing but boring to her. After all, the two families had arranged the party to meet and connect with wealthy people whose level is greater than theirs.

Not only that, but they also used it to flaunt that they had a connection with wealthy people which will further increase their status in their circle and hopefully help them find investors and business partners for their company.

"President Jarek. White Tigress." Many people began to crowd Jarek, all of them wanted to have connections with him. Instead of them going over to Conrad who was the groom, they all chose Jarek.

Tinsley sighed but stayed quiet and pretended to caress her hair. Jarek silently chuckled, he understood that she doesn't want to get involved in the business talk. "Go play if you want." He muttered to her which made her eyes light up and she immediately stood up.

Lillee's eyes had been fixed on Tinsley, she almost made a mistake during their wedding vows but she was able to recall herself and it made Tinsley excited.

She knew that Lillee would definitely try to embarrass her this time and it made her giddy with excitement which was also one of the reasons she left Jarek's side.

After all, it'll be bad if she can't take the star position that night.

"Tinsley." Lillee silently clenched her fist. She quickly beckoned one of the maids and whispered into her ears.

Since Tinsley wanted it the hard way then she'll show it to her. She smiled silently while watching Tinsley have a chat with people with a smile. Their eyes both met and they smirked at each other before turning away.

Tinsley had been staring at all of Lillee's mood in order to plan. She quietly watched the maid whom Lillee had just talked to.

Soon the maid appeared while holding drinks which made Tinsley nod calmly. Oh, this outdated scheming, well, she's a writer, how can she not be familiar with it?

"Such a sad thing!" Tinsley mumbled because she thought that it'll be a scheme that'll make her wrack her brain before she can find a solution.

Tinsley pretended to be calm as if she hadn't noticed what'd happen. Seeing that the maid was about to close in on her, Tinsley immediately turned and moved away in her previous direction, "Rory." She called.

And the next minute what everyone heard was the sound of the fall of the maid who was walking toward Tinsley's side, the maid had planned to pretend as if she had tripped so she could spill all her drinks on Tinsley.

Tinsley knew that if she didn't counter that way, the blame might fall on her because if Tinsley pushed the maid to avoid the drink from pouring at her, many would bash Tinsley or if she had ducked and tried to avoid the drink from pouring at her, many would bash her also for not lending a hand so she had purposely pretended to not know.

"Oh, are you okay?" Tinsley quickly rushed toward the maid with feigned care. Even though she pretended to care, the truth was, Tinsley's heel was purposely pressing on the girl's hand which made her face redden, with tears almost falling from her eyes.

"Are you okay?" Tinsley asked, which made the girl quickly shout because she felt that Tinsley was a devil she shouldn't have messed with, "I'm okay. Let me be. I'm fine." She yelled and quickly stood up before she ran away.

"That damn bitch!" Lillee gritted her teeth angrily which made Conrad turn to stare at her.

"Lillee?" He stared at her skeptically with disbelief written in his eyes.

Lillee had always pretended to be an innocent person who hated curses but he couldn't believe that she had cursed twice in front of him that day, especially to the sister that she had always said she loves.

"Lillee, is it true that you didn't give Tinsley the invitation card like you promised?" He asked.

Conrad had been in charge of giving out the invitation card to Jarek while Lillee promised to give one to Tinsley.

"Conrad you should know that I loved Tinsley and can't dare not to inform her about us so I instructed my assistant to send the letter to Tinsley. I was also shocked to hear that she didn't know about us."

Lillee expressed which made Conrad stare at her skeptically.

"Why would Tinsley need an invitation card to enter your wedding hall? You didn't meet her or inform her on the phone, did you?" He questioned which made her freeze.

Conrad sighed when he saw her expression and he couldn't help being worried.

The wedding continued with Lillee trying to find ways on how to put a stain on Tinsley without letting it backfire.

Chapter 108 The Drama Continues

The Drama Continues

Chapter 108 The Drama Continues

She hadn't expected Tinsley to come so she had been carefree and now she regretted it. Even when

Mrs. William had told her to calm down, she wasn't able to because of the anger that was coursing through her whenever she saw Tinsley grinning at her.

Soon it was the time that Tinsley had been anticipating; the time when Lillee's and Conrad's memories will be shown.

Lillee smiled knowing that she was about to take over her stage again.

She held onto Conrad's hand with a sweet smile which made his worries disappear. He knew she had been upset with all that happened with Tinsley so seeing that she was excited made him relieved.

On the projector showed little and cute Lillee running around with a cold-looking Conrad looking at Lillee fondly. "Conrad, let's always be happy, okay?" She said to him which made everyone clap about how wonderful and sensible she was when she was young.

Lillee's head raised high smugly, at the actions. So what if Tinsley pushed her to mess up in the first half of the ceremony? She was now in her glory and Tinsley would be the one who cried soon.

"Tinsley," Mrs. William called. "Remember not to alert Conrad. Just do it for us and your elder sister, please."

The scene that happened during the first marriage began to play on the projector. Everyone was shocked by what happened especially William's family who thought they had it cleared.

Mrs. William quickly ran toward the projector with a crazy expression. "Turn it off. Someone turn it off."

She yelled loudly which made Tinsley's smile grow wider but she pretended to also help while yelling for someone to turn it off.

"Send someone to the broadcast room to stop this from playing." Mr. William yelled angrily but after a few minutes, they all returned to report that they couldn't stop the video from being projected.

'No way. White Tigress was innocent? She wasn't interested in Conrad?'

The crowd all thought they'd seen it all not until the next scene where an audio record between Tinsley and Lillee began to play.

'You're so naive, dear sister. Do you think Mom and Dad don't know about my decision? You're so fucking dumb to fall into the trap. I want my fame and Conrad. I want to appear on my wedding day, you fool'

Lillee, who was behind Conrad, almost fainted when her voice was being played. "Turn it off. Someone turn it off." She shrieks.

Conrad stared at Lillee with disappointment, "So, this was what happened? You choose your career over me?" His voice was laced with bitterness and his hand couldn't help but release Lillee's arms.

"Conrad, I didn't. Someone must have purposely planned this to ruin our marriage." She suddenly turned toward Tinsley. "It's this bitch. She purposely wants to come between us. Bitch, I'll kill you." She uttered and ran toward Tinsley angrily but before she could, Jarek quickly pulled Tinsley into his arm which made Lillee fall flat on the body.

As if that wasn't enough, the next video that was played was of Lillee trying to seduce Jarek which made Tinsley and everyone shocked.

"Leave my party. You all should leave. Turn off the projector. Turn off the Livestream." Lillee was about to run mad at that moment as everyone began to point toward her:

'So she's in fact nowhere near the level of a goddess?'

'Such a whore and scheming bitch! How can she disgrace her sister like that?'

The disgrace that Tinsley went through seven years ago was now rewarded to Lillee but in folds.

Conrad pursed his lips, knowing that he and Lillee had been joined so it wouldn't be right for him to ignore her. Seeing how everyone was pointing toward Lillee, he quickly walked toward her intending to take her away from the venue but before he could, she pushed him away and ran toward Tinsley. "You bitch! You purposely tried to humiliate me! I'll kill you." She said while running toward Tinsley but before she could, Jarek cruelly kicked her away from them.

'This heartless bitch! Not only did she try to victimize herself after making her sister a villain, but she also tried to push the blame on Lillee.'

'The William's family are so wicked! Tinsley is their daughter, how can they behave that way to her?'

"Jarek let's go." Tinsley sighed and turned to leave.

Chapter 109 I'll Make You Pay

I'll Make You Pay

Chapter 109 I'll Make You Pay

Tinsley walked out of the wedding venue with Jarek's hand wrapped around her waist.

Jarek looked normal, but there was a hint of grimness in his expression. "Are you okay?" He asked, and she nodded to him with a sigh.

"I am." She replied and entered the car after he opened it for her.

"Lillee had been reduced into this state by me which made me wonder what move she'll be planning?"

Tinsley replied with a cheerful smile, but Jarek was able to decipher that it was all a facade.

"Be honest." He said and hugged her. "I didn't touch her like you wanted, so you have to be honest with me, Tinsley." He uttered, which made her sigh. She just can't hide the truth from the man.

Tinsley nodded and separated from him. She stared out of the window and rubbed her chest. "Jarek, I felt so guilty. Looking at all the humiliation that Lillee went through today made me realize that I've gone far. Do you think I'm also wicked? And I shouldn't have gone that far?" Her eyes were clouded with unshed tears. Tinsley had never done something so cruel before which made guilt gnaw her deep.

Jarek wrapped her in his embrace, he gently caressed her back which made the tears fall from her eyes, "Wife, I've done worse to those who did lesser than what she did. She totally deserves more of it.

So don't feel guilty." He comforted her. "Moreover, she tried to seduce..."

Tinsley's guilt immediately switched to anger, and she separated from him upon remembering that Lillee tried to seduce Jarek, "That bitch dared to seduce you?" Tinsley remarked angrily and pulled him by the collar. "And you, you daren't tell me about it? If I didn't come across it, I'll never know, right?"

She stared at him angrily which left him chuckling.

Tinsley harrumphed at him, "Chuckle. Chuckle all you want, I'm staying with the triplet tonight." Tinsley remarked, which made his chuckle wipe off.

He pulled at her hand innocently "Wife, don't be like this?" He said but she only harrumphed in reply.

Even after so much coaxing, Tinsley doesn't budge because her mind was made up, but Jarek also won't lie low easily; after Tinsley took her bath that night, she was shocked to see the triplet waiting for her on the bed.

"Wife, you're staying with the triplet tonight, right?" Jarek asked with a mischievous smirk which made her lips part in disbelief. She was about to refuse him, but before she could, six eyes stared at her with eagerness.

"Mom." The triplet called eagerly which made her lose her restraint.

Tinsley glared at Jarek angrily before she got onto the bed. This scheming man! She ended up not leaving his bed!

"Conrad," Lillee called anxiously at Conrad's bedroom door.

Conrad had driven them to his apartment after a lot of struggles but after taking her home, he had locked himself in his room without caring about Lillee.

Conrad felt as if he never knew about Lillee anymore, he couldn't believe that the lady he had always believed to be pure as a goddess was actually that scheming. Because of her career, the William's family and Lillee had both collaborated to destroy Tinsley.

He could remember that Tinsley had tried to explain herself, but he had been caught in Lillee's lies which made him believe that she was lying. And it made him wonder how many lies she had said to him.

"Conrad, I'm sorry. I love you..."

"And still you can seduce Jarek?" Conrad shook his head bitterly. "How many things have I not done to satisfy you? Lillee." Conrad muttered bitterly. "Was it because of his properties? Was it because of his wealth and his standing?"

"Conrad, are you calling me a whore?" Lillee muttered in a sad voice that was filled with grievances.

"No, I..."

"You also chose to believe that audio notes, right? Do you also plan to divorce me after tonight?" She uttered in a sad voice as if she was the one who had been bullied and lied to.

"Well, I guess you now hate me so much that you don't want to see me anymore." Lillee suddenly paused, which made Conrad have a bad premonition.

"So I would be leaving..." Before she could finish her words, an anxious Conrad immediately opened the door, which made a glint flash past her eyes.

Lillee knew Conrad the most, so she knew what would move him. She planned to tell him that she would kill herself, but she hadn't even finished her words when he came out.

"Where are you going?" He demanded in a harsh voice which made her expression change into one filled with fear.

Conrad's anger slipped immediately, but she continued to feign sadness. Lillee's eyes reddened more.

"You don't want me anymore, so I would just commit suicide..."

"Lillee!!!" Conrad uttered in disbelief.

"You hate me now. Mom and Dad probably hate me. Everyone hates me. What's the point? I should just go and die..."

"Lillee," Conrad exclaimed.

"There's no need to pretend, I'll leave. I wish you well with anyone." Lillee stated and immediately turned to leave.

Conrad was shocked, but he quickly pulled her wrist and she came crashing into his embrace, "Are you sick?" He scolded her angrily. He never expected that she would be thinking about committing suicide.

He sighed knowing that she was always a weak woman and he should have expected it.

Lillee trembled more in his embrace which made him sigh. "I was thinking..."

"Conrad, I'm sorry. About Jarek, it's not what you or everyone thinks. I went to Jarek because I intended to solve the case without worrying you, Mom, and Dad, but I never expected that it would end like this with someone using it to cause chaos at our wedding. I'm sorry, Conrad. I didn't plan to cheat on you." Lillee sobbed furiously which made his anger vanish.

"Then what about the wedding..."

"Conrad... I. I told Mom and Dad to patiently explain to you, but I never knew that they would use Tinsley. That's why I was always guilty of everything. Conrad, I'm really sorry but if you won't forgive me..."

"It's okay." Conrad cut her off. Conrad's right hand held her waist while his left hand fell by his side. His eyes lowered and there was a complicated expression on his face.

Lillee secretly smiled smugly upon seeing that he accepted her. Her eyes suddenly flashed with a sinister glint upon thinking about Tinsley.

A murderous expression filled her face and she clenched her fist angrily. 'Tinsley, I'll make you pay.'

Chapter 110 Outsmarted

Outsmarted

Chapter 110 Outsmarted

The Taming Her Team continued to market the movie around the country, Tinsley also went to join them on the trip a few days after Lillee's wedding.

The team kept on advertising on social media, billboards, etc. To catch the netizens' attention which definitely did.

The posters of Rylee and Aldean that were uploaded threw the netizens into a frenzy and everyone was more eager for the movie.

It wasn't a lie to point out that TAMING HER was the most expected movie at Ryle. In fact, many netizens who are anticipating its release even drew out a poll of the most anticipated movie, and Taming Her was chosen. Even without a release, Taming Her was already breaking records.

A few weeks later, Tinsley and the Taming Her team finally set a date for the release of Taming Her teaser which sent everyone boiling with eagerness but the most eager of them all was Lillee.

A week and a half before the release of Tinsley's movie, Lillee decided to call the spy she placed at the Taming Her crew since she was alone and since she wanted to forward in her plan.

Even the apology couldn't fix the damage in Conrad and Lillee's relationship; the two relationships had weakened a lot.

Ever since then, Conrad had left home and instead stayed at his office.

Even a month after their wedding they have not seen each other which made Lillee frustrated and more angry at Tinsley because she felt that if it wasn't for Tinsley, nothing would happen to the love between her and Conrad which further heightened her hate for Tinsley.

Lillee swore that as long as she lives, she would make Tinsley's life a mess. Lillee clenched her fist with a murderous expression as she waited for her spy to pick up the call

"You have the video now, right?" Lily asked the man cutting straight to the chase.

The man fell silent for a few minutes which made her frown angrily. "I have paid you another sum, don't tell me that you're still useless?" Lillee asked angrily.

"I have." The man finally replied after a little hesitation which made her sigh in relief.

"Send it." She ordered coldly and he immediately replied with. "I will send it."

Tinsley smiled sinisterly before she cut off the call. She stood up from Conrad's and her matrimonial bed and walked toward her computer. "Tinsley, after what you've done to me, I promised to make you pay in fold. You bitch." Lillee muttered and sat on the chair before she powered on her laptop.

It wasn't up to two minutes after Lillee cut off the call that she received a text from an unknown number.

She laughed in glee and quickly unlocked her phone.

Lillee tapped on the message---ignoring other messages---upon seeing that it was from her spy.

A cunning smile donned Lillee's lips upon seeing the pirated Taming Her movie. She quickly tapped on it and laughed in joy upon seeing the movie play.

"Tinsley, you had no idea of how I'll be ruining you, do you? How dare you make me become a shadow of myself in my marriage, set, and social media? I swear to make you question the reason for your existence."

Even though the Billionaire's Deed crew had been doing their best in marketing the movie, it didn't catch the fans' attention because Lillee, the evil goddess is present in the crew.

So whenever the Billionaire's deed tried to market they'll end up being humiliated by people until they kicked Lillee out of the marketing crew.

Since Tinsley ruined her, Lillee will also pay Tinsley back in fold.

Lillee cleared away her chaotic thoughts and quietly watched the movie. Even though Lillee does not want to agree, deep down she knew Taming Her was and will be the best movie of the year, even without editing she already knew.

Lillee clenched her fist angrily and she came to a decision that she had to stop it. Her eyes lit up and she soon came to a decision.

Not long after, Lillee immediately sent the movie to one of the people she does use for bad deeds with a sinister smirk on her face, she typed. "I need you to edit it for me."

A few seconds later, the person texted: "You know the payment, right? Your body or nothing."

Lillee's eyes darkened in anger but she quickly texted. "Yes. Once it's completed, I'll meet you."

It was only a few minutes after that a call came through Jarek's phone.

"President Jarek, the video had been sent to Miss Lillee." A masculine voice said immediately Jarek picked up the call.

"Hm," Jarek replied while going through the files that were sent on his laptop. He was about to click on it when an excited Jason and Mason barged into his study.

"Dad, we have finished the mission you gave me." Jason and Mason both sat on the chair opposite

Jarek and stared at Jarek eagerly which made him cut off the call and exit the file he was about to check.

Jarek sighed. These kids are just too knowledgeable when it comes to the uses of computers and he doesn't even know if it is a good sign or not.

Jarek stood up and rubbed their heads fondly which made them touch his hand eagerly. A sign that they wanted him to carry them which he did. "You have done well, Dad will take you out during the weekend." He promised, which made them smile happily.

They suddenly stopped laughing then they turned to stare at him eagerly again. "Dad, what's next?"

They asked, talking about their computer learning.

Jarek smiled and rubbed their head. "A break. A break for you to go through what I've been teaching you. Dad will be holding an exam for the both of you soon." He remarked, causing their eyes to shine with a competitive spirit.

"Dad, is there a gift?" They asked him.

"It's a secret." He replied which caused their eyes to light up.

"There's a gift." The two turn to themselves with happiness.

"Ok Dad, we'll go and study." The both of them announced happily and ran out of Jarek's study. Jarek sighed and watched their back frame with a smile before returning to the laptop.

Jarek quietly monitored Lillee's actions through his laptop.

Lillee thought that she had outsmarted Jarek but little did she know that when it comes to the smartest she was way below Jarek anytime, any day.

Jarek's expression changed upon seeing her plan. Maybe Tinsley told him not to hurt this person but for what she was about to do, he swore to humiliate her. If Lillee wanted to humiliate his wife then she'll have to pass through him.
