

I Help A NPC Become The Legendary Witch

Chapter 731 - 731: Indeed, I... Have a Little Network in the Flame Domain (Part 2)

Chapter 731: Indeed, I... Have a Little Network in the Flame Domain (Part 2)

The Fire Code Conference was held at the top of the Fire God Tower, which was located at the center of the Fire Code City.

When Du Lin arrived, the hall was already full of people.

At first glance, the most attractive thing to Du Lin was the handsome young man sitting in the seat of the Fire God Sect. Although Damir was wearing the traditional archbishop's clothes, it couldn't hide his youthful face. It was a strong contrast to see such a young man in such a high position.

However, since he had mentioned this, Du Lin looked at the 'noble' seat that belonged to his side. It was the other young girl who made people unable to move their eyes away. Even in front of a genius like Damir, she didn't lose her imposing manner.

Liszt Sisl

The young girl's appearance did not decline with the heavy work after she took up a high position. Instead, she became more and more energetic.

Her fair skin seemed to be fragile, and her facial features were becoming more and more exquisite. Many of the other noble ladies could not even be jealous. They were only left with envy and even admiration.

However, if he only saw the girl's doll-like beauty and treated her as a doll, then Du Lin was sure that person would die miserably.

With Du Lin's arrival, Lissy turned her gaze over. They were also high-level nobles, and they nodded to each other.

Du Lin didn't know if it was an illusion, but whenever he looked at Lissy, he always felt like he could see a flash of blood in the depths of the girl's eyes. When Lissy opened her mouth, he would see a pair of sharp fangs in the depths of the girl's mouth. It was as if if he made the girl dissatisfied, the next second, his neck would bleed like a fountain.

Sigh...

Times had changed. The young people of today were beyond Du Lin's understanding.

Or perhaps from the moment he went against that "little girl", he was destined to be abandoned by the times.

However, the difference between him and the previous generation of the underground black list and the Treasure Thief Group was that he knew how to surrender in time. This might be the reason why he was still alive and standing here.

Now that he thought about it, Harvey, the Knight Commander of the Fire Law Knights whom he hated and disliked the most, was the only one among the three that could make him feel slightly relieved.

"Since almost everyone is here and the situation is urgent, let's get started and get to the point." Harvey spoke first.

He waved his hand to order the guards to close the door of the conference hall and went straight to the point.

"I'm sure everyone already knows the contents of this Fire Code meeting. So, the first thing we need to discuss is whether we should go to the Thousand Islands to support them."

As soon as Harvey said this, he received Damir's rolling eyes and Liz's frown.

* Cough cough *

After coughing awkwardly, Harvey, as the oldest and most traditional, insisted on a show of hands.

"Those who don't agree to go to support, please raise your hand." The weathered uncle's voice echoed in the conference hall.

Then, he would not get Harvey's information.

As far as the eye could see, not a single hand was raised. The hall was completely silent.

"Alright, very good. It seems that we can move on to the next topic. How far should we support them and how should we carry out our plan?" Harvey shrugged.

"Regarding this, everyone should listen to his report first."

Liz spoke, and then a stranger walked out from the crowd behind the girl.

Yes, after the battle at Fire Code City, the Flame Domain's acceptance of foreigners could be said to be the highest. No matter which organization it was, they began to accept foreigners. Naturally, there was a small group of powerful players with powerful methods. They had already reached the level where they could participate in such a top-level meeting.

The Fire God Cult behind Damir and the knights behind Harvey also saw three or four foreigners.

Like the other NPCs, the players in the venue were now looking at the outlander who walked from behind Liz to the center.

Compared to the other natives, the players were already familiar with each other.

Dust Fall.

He was the Guild Leader of one of the famous large guilds in the Flame Domain, the Stellar Tower.

"We have a friend of this stranger on the Thousand Islands. We can learn about the latest situation on the Thousand Islands from him."

When Lissy explained that she was a friend of Fallout, she naturally referred to Bi Wei Rong. Back then, Lissy had intentionally helped Bi Wei Rong to go to the Thousand Islands. Now, it seemed that it had come in handy.

Next, Fallout told everyone about the current situation of the Thousand Islands, the Fallen Abyss images that the Thousand Islands players had obtained from their investigation, the tactics that the Three Pursuers had adopted to shrink the front line, and finally, Vivian's Sakuragi Island.

The more Damir listened, the more anxious he became, especially after learning about the scale of the Fallen Abyss's descent on the Thousand Islands and the strength of the monsters. He was so worried and anxious that he almost had the safety of a certain little girl written all over his face.

Thus, just as Fallout finished speaking, the young Archbishop, who had been unable to hold it in any longer, was the first to stand up and slam the table.

"We have to quickly support Wei... Cough, a thousand island! According to the information from this foreigner and the Three Enforcers of the Thousand Islands, there are only a little more than two days left before the Fallen Abyss descends. Under normal circumstances, it would take three days to travel from our Flame Domain to the Thousand Islands. Therefore, I suggest..."

“I will personally lead the team! Go find Wei...Cough, go and reinforce the island as soon as possible!” Damir didn’t mind the shocked expressions of the others in the hall at all and brazenly recommended himself.

Chapter 732 - 732: Indeed, I... Have a Little Network in the Flame Domain (Part 2)

Chapter 732: Indeed, I... Have a Little Network in the Flame Domain (Part 2)

This time, the plot was revealed.

But Damir quickly explained.

” Although I specialize in the fire element, I can cast low-level spells of other elements as long as they are below Transcendent. This way, with my wind-type spells, the arrival time of the support fleet can be greatly shortened to one day. We can meet up at the Thousand Islands before the Fallen Abyss arrives!”

Seeing that Harvey was about to refute and protest, Damir immediately beat him to it and added,”

Sure enough, I know the special identity of today, should not leave the fire domain so hastily, but no matter how you want, anyway, the thousand island is in my heart, can say that the thousand island is as important as the fire domain, I like the fire domain as much as I like the thousand island, I must not accept the thousand island has any damage, I don’t want the thousand island to be there fighting alone, but I can only watch!”

In Damir’s passionate speech, those who didn’t know might really believe the young man’s nonsense and think that Damir and Thousand Islands had a deep friendship.

As for people like Harvey who knew all about the details of Damir...

he~tui!

Bah!

Harvey had watched Damir grow up. This guy had never even been out of the Fire Code City, let alone the Thousand Islands. He spent all his time in the library reading magic books, and he even liked the Thousand Islands. He even said that the Thousand Islands were very important to him.

Are you talking about the Thousand Islands? I'm too embarrassed to expose you!

However, no matter how shameless the young man was, he was right. The young man might have said that he had mastered many spells, but any real mage would know how difficult it was.

The vast majority of mages could only focus on one Element to the end. There were probably only a few mages in the entire Flame Domain who could sub-cultivate other Elements like Damir. Since the Flame Domain believed in the Fire God, almost all mages were of the Fire Element. It would be very difficult to find a Wind Mage who was more powerful than Damir in a short period of time.

Sigh...

Harvey sighed and swallowed the words he wanted to say.

On the other side, the young archbishop saw this and clenched his fists excitedly under his sleeves. He wished that this meeting could end as soon as possible so that he could immediately lead his team to the Thousand Islands.

As soon as Damir finished, Liz spoke as if she had been waiting for a long time.

"See, Elena, what did I say? Now that we have Archbishop Damir with us, you won't be worried about my safety anymore, right?"

Liz seemed to be talking to the silver-haired maid beside her, but if she were to look closely at the Rank One girl, the people in the conference hall could not sit still anymore.

"Liz, you're going too?!" This time, there was no need for Harvey. Damir was the first to stand up and ask in surprise.

"Is there a problem?" Liz glanced at Damir indifferently. This young man, whom she had once looked up to as a goal to pursue, was no longer a hot topic for her, and her attitude was even a little cold.

"No! You can't go! This is too ridiculous! Besides, why are you going to the Thousand Islands?"

"Judging from the current situation of the Thousand Islands, Sakuragi Island will become a key point. If Sakuragi Island wants to accept the last batch of people from the Thousand Islands, they must at least set up the most basic living facilities on the island in a short period of time. In this regard, I believe that no one in Fire Code City is more experienced than me.”

“After all, the Red Flame Town was almost exactly the same as Cherry Tree Island. I can rebuild Red Flame Town in such a short time, so I have the same confidence in Cherry Tree Island.”

Indeed.

No one could find a reason to refute Liz’s words. After all, Red Flame Town was such a big proof.

However, Damir still felt that it was inappropriate and wanted to refute something.

Seeing this, Lissy snorted and began to imitate Damir’s previous words.

“Also, to be honest, I really like the Thousand Islands. The Thousand Islands are as important to me as the Flame Domain. I can’t let the Thousand Islands be harmed by the Fallen Abyss.”

“You!” Damir glared at Liz, wanting to say something, but swallowed it back in the end.

After all, he was the one who had just used the excuse.

Well done!

Lady Liz!

Fallout watched the conversation between the NPCs and was delighted. He belonged to the Liszt camp. The more support positions Liszt could obtain, the more people the Stellar Tower could send to the Thousand Islands.

“Brother, as expected, this old fox had already expected this!”

Among the Mages behind Damir, there were two siblings whispering to each other. After seeing the IDs ” Spring Summer ” and ” Autumn Winter ” above their heads, it was obvious that they were the top Mages in the Flame Domain.

After listening to his sister’s complaints, his brother shook his head.

“Actually, I had a feeling about this when the Stellar Tower volunteered to fight for the ship slots to support the Thousand Islands. The Stellar Tower is not stupid.”

At the same time, some of the Harvey Knights sighed as they looked at Luo Chen.

"This time we lost to the Stellar Tower." The Guild Leader of Blood Moon, Blue Blood Sky Blade, shook his head in disappointment.

To be honest, his eyes had opened wide today. This was the first time he had seen the NPCs of the Flame Domain, who they looked up to, fight to get to the Thousand Islands.

Chapter 733 - 733: Indeed, I... Have a Little Network in the Flame Domain (3)

Chapter 733: Indeed, I... Have a Little Network in the Flame Domain (3)

No, how was this the Thousand Islands...

"Damn it! This couldn't be blamed on the guild leader. Who knew that the Flame Domain's players would suddenly change their minds? Wasn't it obvious that they were not going to support them?!"

The vice leader of the guild who was following Blue Sky Blade was still a little unwilling to accept this. This was because the main force of their guild had gone out to carry out other missions and would not be back for a while.

Judging from the current situation of the meeting, this wasn't a small event. This was definitely the main storyline of the current version 1.0!

For the Stellar Tower, they were all waiting for this opportunity to snatch the quota. Most of the reinforcements would be eaten by the Stellar Tower.

This was equivalent to someone else entering the main storyline before them. The difference between them could be said to be huge.

When he heard the vice president's anger, Sky Blade shook his head and said, "It's not a matter of the higher-ups of the Flame Domain changing their minds. Haven't you realized? All of this seems sudden, but where did it all start?"

After being stunned for a few seconds, he suddenly said, "President, are you referring to the committee of the Adventurer's Association..."

"Learn your lesson. I now understand why those old players in the closed beta would admire that NPC called Vivian so much. It seems... It's not without reason. We're the ones who can't see the situation clearly."

On the other side, after feeling the gazes of the surrounding players, Fallout suddenly experienced the feeling of thirty years in the east and thirty years in the west.

All the pent-up anger in his chest was spat out at this moment. Just one word...Awesome!

Do you think we, the old beta players who have been looking for Vivian, are fools?

Did he think that since the public beta had not appeared for the time being, it was equivalent to retreating from the environment!

Looking down on old NPCs!

This meeting was equivalent to slapping all the players in the face!

It was not just him. There were also those watching the live broadcast outside. The long road was long, and he could eat a big watermelon in one bite. He was a close-combat Archmage...The old players who had formed the Vivian Alliance by liking and recognizing each other as Vivian felt rejuvenated.

They're back, they're all back!

The familiar feeling of being dominated by Vivian!

It was too wonderful!

The other wave of players who were in civil engineering and farming were all excited. Yay!

Back then, some people didn't manage to make it to Red Flame Town's infrastructure, or they didn't get to enjoy it. Now, the entire island was here to build infrastructure for them. Just thinking about it was f * cking exciting!

Long live farming!

That was not right.

It seemed that what they should do now was to quickly sign up for the Thousand Islands 'support team and seize the stern?

Damn it!

Why didn't they sign up earlier!

Unlike the excited and regretful gamers, a certain old man in the meeting room was really tired.

Sigh...

Harvey sighed deeply.

Was this the new generation of youths from the Flame Domain?

All of them are concerned about the Thousand-island, right?

Harvey covered his face helplessly.

He suddenly had a feeling that he shouldn't be worrying about the Flame Domain now, but rather the Flame Domain that everyone liked the 'Thousand-island.'

Harvey was a little emotional. He recalled the first time he saw the little girl from the countryside. She looked so young and immature.

Back then, the little girl seemed to have nothing but that wolf cub that was inseparable from her, right?

However, in the blink of an eye...

The young lady today was able to mobilize the entire Flame Domain's government just by relying on her name and a commission. Such connections...

Oh no, Harvey had already lost count of how many times he had sighed. He had almost forgotten about another person when he mentioned Vivian's connections.

Although he could not appear in such an official occasion, he could not be ignored. After all, he was the black boss who controlled the entire Fire Code City and even the underground factions of the Flame Region...

Forget it.

Harvey had also given up on the treatment. Besides, he actually treated the little girl like family. If she was in trouble outside, her family would naturally help!

Now, Harvey was looking forward to seeing the expression of the Thousand Islands 'officials when they received the help from the Flame Field.

The other thing was...

Fallen Abyss, if you really have consciousness...

You really picked a 'good time' to descend.

Harvey couldn't help but touch the sword on his waist. It was the sword that Margie had given him. He was burning with anger. Back then, he could only watch as Fallen Abyss took Margie away and many innocent lives in Fire Code City. Harvey's hatred for Fallen Abyss was unquestionable.

So...

Good luck, Vivian!

Once again, just like in Fire Code City, he would teach those evil monsters a harsh lesson!

This is also...

It's time for our Flame Domain to 'return the favor' to Fallen Abyss!

Chapter 734 - 734: Reinforcements (1)

Chapter 734: Reinforcements (1)

It only took about half an hour for all parties to finish discussing the specific details. The Fire Law Conference ended. This might be the quickest Fire Law Conference in the history of the Fire Law City.

In the history of the Flame Region, they were the three great...Oh no, this was the most tacit cooperation between the four factions.

The nearest dock to the Thousand Islands was Red Plume Harbor, which was located at the border. However, it was definitely not enough time to rush there from Fire Code City by normal means. The method used by the Fire Domain was the same as Vivian's, the teleportation circle of the Fire God Church.

However, unlike the little girl who still needed to teleport from city to city, the Fire God Sect welcomed the era when Damir became an archbishop. Whether it was the overall strength of the mages under their banner or the use of various spells, they had greatly improved.

Mages of the Fire God Cult who were Tier 3 and above had sprouted like mushrooms after the rain. There were even two more Tier 4 Transcendent-level "bishops". At the same time, under Damir's improvement, the teleportation circle's maximum teleportation distance had increased dramatically, and its efficiency had greatly increased. It was now possible to easily teleport to any city in the Flame Domain as long as there was a Fire God Cult stationed there.

Don't look down on an otaku who has been single for 20 years and dedicated all his youth to studying magic!

Far away in the Thousand Islands, the little wolf was clear about this point, so he was not in a hurry. After all, Damir was the publicly recognized version of the child in the previous life. Although in this life, he was in front of the players, but he was snatched away by a little girl who was more open. However, it did not mean that his energy had regressed.

One batch after another of Fire God Cult's Advanced Mages, the elites of the Fire Law Knights, disaster relief supplies, advanced craftsmen of various fields, and the players who were selected in the end all disappeared into the teleportation circle in Fire Law City.

There were about 10,000 people in the reinforcement team this time. Although the number of people did not seem to be a lot, it was not an exaggeration to say that their combat strength could crush an entire town.

In fact, there were still a lot of reserves in the Flame Field. Not to mention the natives, the simplest example was how many players were crying on the forums because they could not get a boat position.

That's right, another key reason for limiting the number of reinforcements was the lack of transportation capacity. The Flame Domain was not a maritime country, and there was not much trade with foreign countries. It was already the limit to be able to transport a fleet of tens of thousands of people.

Of course, in addition to the above-mentioned personnel configuration, since it was a large fleet, ordinary personnel such as sailors and handymen were also essential.

"Wait a minute!" The Fire God Cult deacon who was controlling the teleportation array stopped the last batch of laborers who were about to be teleported away.

He walked over to the leader who was supposed to be in charge of managing this batch of sailors and looked at him with a strange and scrutinizing expression.

"Are you the sailors who were recruited to support the Thousand Islands?" The deacon revealed a suspicious expression.

"Yes, Sir Mage." The leader nodded.

However, the deacon was still a little suspicious. He did not know if it was his imagination, but he felt that these sailors all had fierce expressions and did not look like good people. Instead of saying that they were doing odd jobs on the ship, they looked more like... Bandits?

Thinking of this, the warden instantly became vigilant.

“Show me your ID!”

“They are all here, my lord.”

The Fire God Cult deacon took it and glanced at it. His frown immediately deepened.

“Chris? I remember the name of the person in charge of the sailors on the list.”

” Sigh, I’m not happy with what you said, Sir Mage. I was just a temporary substitute. When that guy heard that he was going to the Thousand Islands and that he was going to fight the terrifying monster that attacked Fire Code City, he was so scared that he didn’t dare to come. So, I had no choice but to take the lead.”

Looking at the young man shaking his head and sighing, the Fire God Sect deacon was a little suspicious at first. However, after thinking about the young man’s words, he thought about it again. They were not merchant ships that were going to trade, but to fight in the front lines. Which bandit group would be so bored that they would be willing to disguise themselves as sailors to board such a ship?

Wasn’t that a sucker?

On the contrary, as the young man in front of him said, it was normal for them to run away.

“Alright, you guys can go.” Thinking of this, the Fire God Cult deacon in charge of the teleportation array no longer worried. He waved his hand at the young man, signaling for him to let him go.

Even after the other party entered the teleportation array, this Fire God Cult deacon even expressed his appreciation and blessing to the head sailor named ” Chris ” who was willing to take over the position.

Finally, they sent off the last batch of people to Red Plume Harbor. The Fire God Cult deacon in charge of the Teleportation Formation was exhausted. He thought he could rest, but half an hour later, a team of knights rushed over.

“Where are the sailors? Could it be that he has already entered the teleportation array?” The captain of the knights asked the deacon anxiously.

The deacon didn't react and nodded.

"Damn it! Was he still a step too late? What were these treasure thieves trying to do?"

"Thief...Treasure Thieves?" The Fire God Cult's deacon was shocked when he heard this name. Even with his position, he had to be wary of this underground force.

It was said that the new leader of the treasure thieves was a Tier 4 Transcendent Bandit. Any mage would tremble when they heard these words.

"That's right. We just found a large group of sailors who were knocked out and tied up in an abandoned warehouse. Now it seems that they have been switched!"

Chapter 735 - 735: Reinforcements (2)

Chapter 735: Reinforcements (2)

"But... Damn it! Why did the Treasure Thief Gang do this?"

The leading knight gritted his teeth, but suddenly, as if he had thought of something, his expression changed drastically.

"This is bad! Not good! You have to inform Archbishop Damir quickly. I suspect that the leader of the treasure thieves is also inside. He might be taking the opportunity to assassinate Lord Damir!"

"Wha... What?" The Fire God Cult deacon's face turned pale when he heard this.

Just as the scene was about to fall into chaos, another voice rang out in time, pulling the situation back from spiraling out of control.

"Okay, okay, okay, okay, okay. Don't be so nervous, okay? Although those two brats don't usually deal with each other, but when it comes to that little girl..." Sigh, perhaps this is the only time they can make me feel at ease."

As the owner of the voice walked in, the captain of the knights immediately puffed out his chest and saluted.

"Commander Harvey!"

The deacon of the Fire God Sect immediately said respectfully, "Sir Harvey!"

He nodded. The reason why Harvey had arrived at such a perfect time was because Chris's subordinate had delivered the letter to Harvey's table right after Chris had successfully disguised himself as a sailor and passed through the teleportation circle.

The general meaning of the letter was to inform Harvey of their actions and to express that they had no ill intentions. It was just a boat ride. Chris probably expected this to happen, so he greeted Harvey.

In fact, such incidents had happened many times before, and Harvey had turned a blind eye to it. This was because the New Treasure Thief Group under Chris's leadership was indeed different from the previous ones that were purely evil. This could be seen from the sharp drop in the crime rate in Fire Code City.

"By the way, how did you know that it was the work of the treasure thief group?" Harvey asked the captain of the knights.

Logically speaking, Chris and the others shouldn't have been discovered so easily.

"Reporting to Commander Harvey, we found out that among the sailors who were knocked out and switched, there was also a member of the Treasure Thief Group!"

"Wha... What?"

The mighty reinforcement troops set off from Red Plume Harbor and sailed at high speed on the surface of the sea.

The sails of each ship were held up to the highest degree. From afar, it looked like a white ocean, a magnificent sight.

This was all thanks to the wind spell of the young archbishop on the leading ship. With the support of Damir's magic, the fleet would always have a smooth journey, sailing at double the speed towards the Thousand Islands.

Looking back at the interior of the cabin, it was different from the Astorokis that Vivian had built. On these ships, which were mainly used for transportation, there were very few individual rooms.

In one of the rooms, Liz sat by the bed, looking out the window at the rolling waves outside. The pocket watch in her hand kept flipping back and forth, revealing her nervous heart and...Anticipation.

We can finally meet, Vivian, and... That stinky fellow!

What should he say then?

What would their expressions and reactions be when they saw him? Happy? Surprise? Excitement...No, wait!

They seemed to have experienced a lot in the Thousand Islands. Don't tell me you've forgotten about me?

No, no, no!

Vivian was definitely not that kind of person!

But Bai...That fellow Bai...

Humph! If you dare to forget about me.

Humph...

The girl's expression was sometimes sad, sometimes happy, and sometimes angry.

However, in the end, Liz's hand could not help but touch her rosy lips.

She recalled the last night when Bai left the Flame Domain, the kiss they had on the small boat on the God Splitting Lake.

Even though she was the one who initiated the kiss, even though it was in her wolf cub form, it was still her first time.

Liz clearly remembered that for the next week, she would always touch her belly. Every day, she was both afraid and secretly looking forward to it.

It was not until later that the maid, Irina, could not hold it in anymore and explained to her that kissing would not make her pregnant. Moreover, their kiss was not even considered a kiss. After all, she had only kissed the wolf cub's face.

When she recalled this embarrassing incident, Liz's face turned red, and the anger and embarrassment on her face became even stronger. She...She didn't say anything about being disappointed!

Sigh...

He sighed.

Liz shook her head. What was wrong with her? They hadn't even met yet, and she was already like this...But she really couldn't be blamed for this.

Ever since she had absorbed the blood of the White Auland, she seemed to have sunk deeper and deeper into it, unable to extricate herself. Every night, in her dreams, she would recall the scene at that time. Liz felt that her body was like a dry riverbed that urgently needed to be filled up.

Thinking of this, the young girl couldn't help but lick her lips with her delicate little tongue. Her pupils flickered with a scarlet light, and her legs involuntarily tightened.

If the other members of the Sisre family saw the young lady's current appearance, or if the players saw the Countess 'current appearance, they would probably be shocked. The original image of the noble and arrogant Countess would completely collapse.

Fortunately, there was no other room...

"I've really seen a good scene." Suddenly, a cold female voice sounded in the room.

Almost at the same time as the voice sounded, Liz immediately reacted. Her previous appearance had completely disappeared. In an instant, she immediately switched to her vampire form.

However, when the owner of the voice walked out from the shadows of the room and saw his appearance, Liz heaved a sigh of relief and retracted her expression as if she was facing a great enemy.

But of course, the animosity on the girl's face didn't decrease at all.

"Don't you even know the basic courtesy of knocking before entering someone else's room? Hmph, a demon is a demon. As she spoke, Liz glared at a tall woman leaning against the corner of the room.

The woman did not wear shoes. It was likely that the female had never had the habit of wearing shoes. Her bare feet stepped on the wooden planks of the cabin, and her snow-white hair fell on her shoulders.

Unlike a young lady like Liz, whether it was her long, round and powerful thighs or her long, snow-like eyelashes, the woman exuded a wild aura.

Facing Liz's counterattack, the woman nodded in agreement."Indeed. After all, we demons can't be like you humans, who can go into heat anytime and anywhere."

"You!" Liz's chest heaved.

But it was true that her appearance just now was a little indecent. However, who was Liz? She was not shy at all. She flipped over on the spot and mocked,

"Sigh, it's a pity that some guys don't even have an exciting scene to reminisce about ~"

The tall woman in the corner did not change her expression on the surface, but in fact, her hands behind her clenched and loosened. Liz's words had indeed dealt her a critical blow.

To be able to have such a passionate exchange with Liz...Er, no, only Xue Li was bickering.

The two girls 'tit-for-tat' was almost a daily occurrence after the wolf cubs and Vivian left.

"When I saw that you didn't come to look for me, I thought that you didn't plan to come. Looking at your clothes...Is it a boat disguised as a sailor?"

Liz sized up Shirley.

"No, it was a group of bandits. I knocked one of them out. Forget it, let's not talk about this for now. I came to look for you for another very important matter."

Seeing that Cher had become serious, Liz also put away her hostile expression.

Then, Xue Li reached out and grabbed something from the side. A passage that emitted the evil aura of the Fallen Abyss was opened by Xue Li, and she quickly took out a few...Corpses?

"This, this is..." Liz's eyes widened as she looked at the corpses and took a few steps back.

Even though she didn't recognize these corpses, she was able to recognize them from their characteristics.

There was no mistake. This aura was... Blood Clan!

Why would Cher have the corpse of a vampire? No, why would the Blood Clan appear in the Flame Domain? ?

Wait, could it be!

Cher nodded as she looked at the young lady who seemed to have guessed something.

"These fellows are here for you, but..."

"I took care of it in passing."

Chapter 736 - 736: Of course, We Should Help Each Other

Chapter 736: Of course, We Should Help Each Other

Err...

Liz didn't know what to say.

Fortunately, Xue Li added in time,

"Don't misunderstand. You should know my special physique. I'm extremely sensitive to all evil thoughts. Although I don't know what your kind wants to do to you, I'm sure that it won't be anything good. Of course, if you still don't believe me..."

"The best evidence is their current corpses." Shirley, who was leaning against the wall, pouted.

"Corpses?" Liz followed Cher's words and carefully observed the corpse. She immediately understood.

There weren't any fatal wounds on the corpses, which meant that they weren't killed by Cher in battle.

Then another possibility was obvious.

"They are...Suicide?"

"That's right. After I caught them, seeing that they had no hope of escaping, before I could ask anything, they used a secret technique that should belong to the Blood Race. After a blood mist exploded from their bodies, they lost all their vitality."

Shirley nodded and briefly recounted her experience.

While Lissy listened quietly, her mind was working rapidly.

First of all, Xue Li would not lie to her about such matters. This was without a doubt.

Secondly, the performance of these Blood Breeds 'men of sacrifice also proved that they were indeed doing something that could not be exposed.

Then the last thing left was the reason. Why did they...

The answer was already clear in the girl's mind.

Awakening.

It was because she had awakened the bloodline that came from her mother.

"Of course, although they died very quickly, it's not like they didn't get anything. From their clothes and luggage, your fellow Blood Tribe members should be from..."

Before Cher could finish her sentence, Lissy had already noticed the large number of feathers, dandelions, fallen leaves, and other patterns. Only one of the Nine Kingdoms would frequently use these.

"Green Maple." The girl pursed her lips.

Green Maple belonged to the country of the Wind God, one of the nine gods.

It was also the country furthest away from the Flame Domain on the eastern continent of the world map.

Mother... So it was there?

No.

Or should it be said that even though she was so far away, her "mother" still had to come all the way here to pursue this "illegitimate child" of hers?

Liz suddenly felt a sense of absurdity.

The girl gritted her teeth and didn't even notice that her nails were digging into her flesh.

It was clearly this so-called "mother" who had caused her family to be destroyed and her father to suffer so much. In the end, she had given the Fallen Abyss an opportunity to turn her father into a monster that was neither human nor ghost. She had clearly not said that she would seek revenge on that woman, but in the end, in the end...

Instead, the other party sent someone over first?

But no matter what.

"Thank you, Shirley." Liz took a deep breath and thanked the tall woman leaning against the wall from the bottom of her heart.

Cher was used to quarreling with this human Countess. She was not used to being thanked by a young girl. Her eyes were wandering.

“There’s no need to thank me. After all, we can still be considered colleagues. I also... Well, I took quite a bit of money from you. This time, it’s a bonus service.”

But soon Shirley straightened her face again

“However, it was also because of this... So I want to hear what you plan to do next.”

The room fell into silence.

The only sound that came from outside the cabin was the sound of waves. It was like the girl who had subconsciously gripped the bedsheet tightly and was struggling in her heart.

Seeing Liz’s expression, Shirley had already gotten her answer.

She said mercilessly,

“Let me guess. You should be thinking to find that human mage and ask him to teleport you back to the Flame Domain while we’ve just set off, right?”

” The reason is very simple. After knowing that I’ve been targeted by my Sanguine mother, I’m not sure if there will be a second or third wave of people who will come looking for me.”

“Lord Black and the others are at a critical juncture in their battle with Fallen Abyss. You originally wanted to go over to support them, but now it’s very likely that you’ll become a burden and burden. Therefore, in order not to burden Lord Black and the others, you’re prepared to give up on going to the Thousand Islands.”

“Am I right?”

The room was silent. The girl on the bed pursed her lips. What Cher said was the same as the first thought that popped up in her mind.

Humph.

Shirley snorted unhappily and leaned against the wall. She crossed her arms and stared at the ceiling.

“That’s why I said that sometimes you humans will become fools for no reason.”

“Liz, think about it. If your mother really wants to send people to look for you, do you think that with the huge commotion of our Flame Domain’s reinforcements, they won’t know that you’ve gone to the Thousand Islands? In that case, even if you return to the Flame Domain now, your mother’s Blood Tribe subordinates will still come to the Thousand Islands to find trouble with Lord Black and the others.”

Although Cher didn't even look at the young girl, she seemed to have predicted that Liz would continue to argue. Cher didn't give the young girl a chance to speak at all and immediately continued,

"Alright, even if those Blood Breeds used some special method to locate your location and knew that you had secretly teleported back to the Flame Domain from the ship, so they did not chase after you to the Thousand Islands, at first glance, it seems that you did not implicate Lord Black and the others, but..."

Shirley's gaze shifted from the ceiling to the girl.

Chapter 737 - 737: Of course, I Want to Help Each Other

Chapter 737: Of course, I Want to Help Each Other

"Have you ever thought about yourself?" she asked."

"Now, the higher-ups of the Flame Field have all gone to the Thousand Islands. Even I'm not by your side. If I were your mother's Blood Tribe subordinate, I'd definitely be overjoyed. After all, is there a better opportunity than this?"

"And once something happens to you... Humph, I hope you don't misunderstand. It doesn't matter to me what happens to you, but to Lord Black and Lady Vivian, I believe that they will give up the Thousand Islands and fight against the Fallen Abyss just to save you."

" So, I'm sorry. I'm not like you humans, who like to beat around the bush and take into account other people's emotions. I can tell you bluntly, Liz, your self-righteous spirit of sacrifice is dragging everyone down."

After Shirley's blunt words, the room fell silent for a long time.

In the end, the girl's sigh broke the silence.

"I apologize to you, Xue Li. I was foolish. You are right. It is meaningless for me to return to the Flame Region now, but..." Liz was still a little sad.

In fact, it was not difficult to understand the girl's feelings now. She could not get around this. She was obviously going to help, but suddenly it became a hurdle that might cause trouble for Vivian and the wolf cubs.

"No buts. I feel like you haven't recognized that yet." Shirley interrupted the girl impatiently.

"If I had to choose the safest place in this world, I would answer without hesitation. It would be to follow Lord Black. In Lord Black's eyes, he is not afraid of protecting you, but...I couldn't protect you."

After Shirley's words, it was as if she had finally untied the knot in her heart. She even felt a little bit like she had used drugs.

The young girl began to look at the barefooted woman by the wall with a strange gaze.

"What are you doing?" Cher felt a little uncomfortable being looked at by Liz as if it was the first day she met her.

"It's nothing. I just realized that you're getting more and more familiar with us humans." Liz shook her head.

Shirley raised her chin proudly and puffed out her chest.

"Of course. In order to study humans, I've read more than a hundred novels. I've seen too many third female lead characters like you. For some reason, they always like to do stupid things that make people angry."

"The most classic one is that when something happens, he always likes to take responsibility for it and doesn't look for the main character. In the end, it's still the main character who comes to clean up the mess. The ones with a better ending might have a scare but no danger, while the ones with a worse ending... That was to die, and then let the main character have another target for revenge. Every time I read this, I would get angry. Did they really not know that the main character's side was the safest? Couldn't he have discussed it with the main character?"

The young girl looked at Cher, who was gritting her teeth as if she had been "poisoned", and her mouth twitched.

She really didn't have the heart to tell this monster woman the truth. The third female lead characters in Cher's stories weren't stupid, but from the moment they were created by the author, their fates were already destined.

In other words, when the author needed them, they would be injured and sacrificed by the author to stimulate the protagonist and give the protagonist the motivation to move forward so that the story could continue.

After all...

"Wait a minute! Shirley, if I'm the third female lead, then that's not right. What about the second female lead in the middle?" Liz suddenly reacted and questioned the woman by the wall.

Shirley immediately asked, "Is there a need to ask?" "She looked at him with a foolish gaze.

This did not anger the young girl.

"Hehe, may I ask if the skin of your wolf race demons has always been so thick?"

It was back to the familiar bickering.

Liz felt a lot more relaxed.

Thank you, Shirley.

Of course, these words were whispered in the girl's heart.

But...

Liz knew that even though Cher seemed to be able to educate herself, if one day in the future, Cher really had to face some incredible trouble, Liz believed that at that time, Cher would also become a fool like her and shoulder it alone.

Not only her, but Liz also believed that Vivian would be the same. People were like that. It was easy to say it to others, but it was different from doing it yourself.

Therefore, the young girl swore to herself that she would definitely be like Xue Li now, dissuading the other party. At least...He had to protect them.

After all...

Back to the sentence that Liz hadn't finished saying in her heart.

After all, no matter how much they fought with each other, they would never become the "indispensable" female lead in the novel.

Liz believed that life was a story in a novel, and that fate was the author of it. The various causes and effects they had now might be the arrangement of "fate."

Since that was the case, in order to have a happy ending, in order to not let that unknown "author" sacrifice them, these "female leads" naturally had to help each other!

” Right, since you mentioned the Blood Breeds, I suddenly remembered that Vivian and the others asked me for a portion of blood essence and asked me to send it over through the Adventurer’s Association. Now it seems that there’s a connection between the two?”

Chapter 738 - 738: Of Course We Have to Help Each Other

Chapter 738: Of Course We Have to Help Each Other

Liz said to Shirley.

The girl here referred to the fact that she was at the foot of the mountain at the Yae-Shrine. In order to find a breakthrough from Owl, the little wolf cub asked for help from Lissy, who was also a vampire.

However, in order not to worry Liz, Vivian and the others did not tell her the specific details and uses.

“Yes, it’s possible. Perhaps your mother’s people used that bottle of blood essence to confirm your identity.” Shirley nodded.

In fact, she had always been confused about how Liz’s mother knew that the young girl had awakened. If she was really in Green Maple, it was equivalent to crossing the entire Eastern Continent with the Flame Domain and sensing her daughter’s condition. Just this perception alone was so terrifying. Just how strong was Liz’s mother?

However, Cher received Liz’s denial.

“No, I’m very sure that from the moment I awakened my bloodline, my mother knew, because... Because...”

Liz recalled the bloody illusion she had seen when she had just awakened, as well as the look that the female master of the blood mirror had given her.

From then on, Liz knew that her unknown ” mother ” had cast her gaze at her for the first time.

This was also the reason why Liz was worried. She could vaguely sense the power of this bloodline. In other words, the power of her mother.

However, after Shirley heard Liz's words, she relaxed a little.

"If your mother is really that strong, then I have to change my previous speculation. It seems to explain why those Blood Breed men of sacrifice are so hostile to you."

"I understand now! You mean...Inheritance?" Liz was a little ashamed. As a noble, she should know this the best, but it was Cher who reminded her.

That's right!

It was this right of inheritance!

Therefore, those Blood Breed men of sacrifice were not sent by his mother, but by him...Brothers and sisters? In this way, everything would make sense. Their goal was to eliminate a competitor, and the reason for their suicide was...Was he afraid that his mother would be exposed to this kind of killing?

"Speaking of which, I've wanted to ask from the beginning. These Blood Breed death warriors shouldn't be weak, right?"

"Indeed, each of them has reached the fourth stage of Transcendence." Shirley nodded calmly.

However, Liz, who was opposite her, instantly widened her eyes.

"Super...Transcendents?"

Although there were a few more Transcendents in Damir's era, in the Flame Domain of Maggie's era, Transcendents were definitely rare and definitely strong.

That was not right.

After regaining her composure, Liz looked at the tall, slender, barefooted woman who liked to wear a ring-shaped accessory on one side of her leg for some reason.

"To be able to suppress four Transcendent Blood Breeds...Xue, Xue Li, your current strength..."

"I just stepped into tier 5."

Looking at how Liz was looking at her in shock like she was looking at a god, Cher didn't feel proud of her sudden increase in strength. This wasn't to say that she was being humble, but...

This was...Fallen Abyss.

The power from Fallen Abyss.

It allowed her to easily reach unimaginable heights. After all, only such power could cause people to fall into the abyss.

Thus, Cher constantly warned herself that this power didn't belong to her. She constantly hated and hated this power, but this didn't stop Cher from using this power as a tool.

Use the enemy's strength to defeat the enemy.

"Alright, I should get going. When I took out these corpses from the Fallen Abyss, their aura was exposed for a moment, attracting the attention of that human Great Mage and your maid."

"Hmph, your perception is quite powerful."

"I'll have to trouble you to deal with them later." Shirley waved at the young girl.

He watched Xue Li disappear from the room.

Not long after, as expected, Damir and Elena came knocking on the door one after another. It was worth mentioning that there was a sailor who had entered the wrong room in the middle.

All of this made Liz feel even more deeply.

That was...She was no longer alone.

Through Vivian, she had unknowingly gathered a large circle of reliable friends around her. Through Vivian, she had gathered these forces that might have been scattered one by one.

Through Vivian, they were no longer the Flame Domain that could do nothing.

He looked out the window at the boat that was braving the wind and waves.

The corners of Liz's lips curled up.

She could not wait to let the little girl on the Thousand Islands and the stinky little wolf cub by her side experience it...

One...

The Flame Domain that could do anything!

Chapter 739 - 739: This Will Be a Bloody Battle!_1

Chapter 739: This Will Be a Bloody Battle!_1

[16 hours, 29 minutes and 53 seconds until Fallen Abyss Descends]

Deep Moon Island.

Three courtyards.

" Lord Jingfu, the granary in Nairi Town has been used up. We urgently need to transfer a batch of supplies from other places to support them..."

The foot of the mountain of the shrine was packed with people asking for divination from the Water God. They said that they wouldn't go back until they saw the shrine. The shrine witches couldn't persuade them to leave at all!"

" General Luo Sha, the local underground gang of Qianye Island, Inagawa Gang, has attacked a group of local disaster relief vehicles. We are requesting for reinforcements from the headquarters of the Grand Fudge Sect to recover them!"

" The people of Haiye County are fighting over the distribution of food..."

"Doctor! Santian Village urgently needs a doctor. The dense crowd has caused the plague. If this continues, it will probably spread to the town..."

"Damn it! Most of the weapons that were piled up earlier have been seriously affected by the moisture. They were clearly not equipped enough to begin with..."

Under the emergency mobilization, it was bound to trigger one bad thing after another that needed to be dealt with. They were sent to the three executive offices, making everyone very busy.

Almost all the officials of the Three Enforcement Departments looked exhausted. After all, they had been working for more than 50 hours since the video of Fallen Abyss was sent over. Even so, everyone knew that this was a critical moment for the future of the Thousand Islands, so they were all holding their positions despite their fatigue.

Although Vivian wanted to help, she was not an internal member of the Three Pursuing Departments. She knew nothing about the various administrative processes and the

The wolf cub gave Vivian a reassuring look after howling in dissatisfaction.

The little wolf cub had been getting information from the player forum for a long time, so he naturally knew the Flame Domain's response to Vivian's request. Therefore, Liao Zixuan was actually worried about the opposite of Vivian.

He wasn't afraid that the cardiac stimulant wasn't effective enough. What he was a little afraid of was whether the dosage of the injection would...Too big?

"Ms. Vivian, have some water." A gentle male voice came from behind. The little girl turned around and saw a blue-haired young man.

"Thank you." Vivian took the cup and thanked him. If she remembered correctly, this blue-haired young man should be the new head of the society.

"No, we should be the ones thanking Miss Vivian. You don't have to stay here with us all the time."

"It's fine, it's fine. I just thought that if the Flame Domain's reinforcements came, I would be able to receive the news at the first moment and receive them together with you. After all, I was the one who initiated this mission."

Vivian shook her head and explained.

However, before the blue-haired youth could speak, another voice of persuasion sounded from the side.

"Vivian, I think the head of the family is right. You should go and rest. Even if the Flame Domain really responded as quickly as possible to the commission you sent yesterday, it will take time for the fleet to arrive. It will take at least three days to sail from the Flame Domain to the Thousand Islands, and only one day has passed..."

The owner of the voice was the Six Paths Robe, who was wearing the battle armor.

She sighed silently in her heart. It was indeed as she had said. The ideal situation was that a batch of reinforcements from the Flame Region would arrive three days later. However, three days later...Luo Sha shook her head in her heart. The Fallen Abyss would attack in a few hours. They probably couldn't wait that long.

Chapter 740 - 740: This Will Be a Bloody Battle!_2

Chapter 740: This Will Be a Bloody Battle!_2

Three days was too long for the Thousand Islands.

The blue-haired young man next to him moved his lips. He wanted to say that if he was proficient in sea navigation and the weather was smooth enough, he might be able to arrive in less than three days. The fastest would be two days.

But in the end, the young man did not say anything.

After all, even he knew that this was not realistic. Even if there was some powerful navigator in the Flame Domain, the weather could not change. Unless a miracle happened, the possibility of a smooth journey was almost zero.

In that case, it would be better not to give everyone the hope that they would arrive in two days.

Vivian felt that she was being too impatient when she heard the two leaders say that. She also understood the hidden meaning behind the Six Paths Robe's words.

There were very few high-end combat forces in the Thousand Islands, and Vivian was one of the absolute main forces. The Six Paths Robe did not want the little girl to waste her energy here.

"Alright, then I'll go rest first..."

Vivian nodded. Just as she was about to leave with the wolf cubs, she heard hurried footsteps coming from outside.

"Luo... Lord Luo Sha! Not good! "We found traces of the Piranha monsters starting to move in large numbers in the outer waters of the various islands. They... They have already surrounded us."

The countdown of the Fallen Abyss did not mean that the monsters of the Fallen Abyss would attack after the time reached zero. Instead, it was similar to a countdown of shrinking circles. As time passed, the various creatures of the Fallen Abyss would slowly approach the Thousand Islands.

The leading monsters were naturally the largest number of man-eating fish. They continued to occupy more and more sea areas, reducing the range of activity of the Thousand-island people.

Sanxing had noticed this long ago, so the Six Paths Robe only frowned. She was even more puzzled as to why the reporting warrior was so panicked.

Logically speaking, she had already passed on these things and the bad situation that would happen in the future. All the warriors who practiced the great ceremony should have been mentally prepared...

"No! Lord Luo Sha, the warriors at the border and the foreigners, we found not only the piranha monster, but also... There were also many fleets that came from outside. They seemed to have been blocked by the fish!"

As soon as the messenger warrior anxiously shouted out this sentence, the entire Sanhuo Institute seemed to fall into silence in an instant.

The first reaction in everyone's mind was...

Fleet?

What fleet?

Wait, could it be that the Flame Field's reinforcements had arrived? But, but it had only been a few days! He didn't even finish a day!

His second reaction was...

Not good!

"Hurry up! Immediately mobilize all the reserve troops and emergency battalion's Grand Fuxi Executors to follow me to the sea area where the fleet is located to provide support. We must kill a way for them to enter the monster circle!"

The outer area of the Thousand Islands was now the territory of the piranhas. The Six Paths had witnessed the power of these piranhas. Even the elite battleships of the Great Fu Sect would sink if they were surrounded, let alone ordinary ships.

Thus, Six Paths Luo Sha made a prompt decision. She put down everything she was doing and rushed over to help. If this was really a fleet from the Flame Domain, whether or not she could help them enter was secondary. She was more worried about the safety of these fleets.

"The shrine maidens of the Moondeep Shrine will also be participating in the battle to assist General Luo Sha." The blue-haired young man, the new head of the society, also realized the importance of this matter. He immediately went to make arrangements with a serious expression.

As for the last one, of course...

"We'll come too!" The little girl picked up the wolf cub without saying anything and followed behind the Six Paths Silk Robe.

In less than 15 minutes.

The elite battleships carrying the banner of the Thousand Island set sail, heading towards the sea area where the unknown fleet was located.

After a while, the first thing they saw was a black sea. Without a doubt, those black spots were the Fallen Abyss Flesh-eating Fish that were densely packed on the surface of the sea.

And on the other side of this "black sea" was another batch...No, it was a large number of foreign fleets. The reason why they described it this way was that from their current point of view, they could not see where the other fleet ended.

"That's right! It's the Flame Field, it's the Flame Field's fleet!" Vivian, who was born in the Infernal Domain, recognized the symbol of the Vulcan Cult on the other side of the "other shore".

She was excited and pleasantly surprised that the Flame Domain did not disappoint her. They had really arrived so quickly. Moreover, from the scale of the reinforcements, the number of reinforcements was definitely not the kind that was perfunctory.

However, at the same time, the little girl was still anxious. She did not know who the leader of the Flame Field was and whether he had the ability to lead the fleet to deal with the group of man-eating fish that was about to encounter them.

"Not good, they seem to have been targeted by the Piranha School! More and more piranhas surrounded them!"

From the perspective of the Thousand Islands, the black tide that had split them into two had begun to move more towards the Flame Field's fleet.

To deal with the Piranha School, the fleet had to keep moving at all times. Otherwise, if they stayed on the water for a long time, the bottom of the ship would be eaten by the Piranhas. This was the experience that Thousand Island had gained over the past few days. However, it was obvious that the Flame Field's fleet did not seem to know. They did not show any signs of escaping when they were surrounded by the Piranha School.
