

I Help A NPC Become The Legendary Witch

Chapter 751 - 751: Opening a New of the Sakuragi Island Era

Chapter 751: Opening a New Chapter of the Sakuragi Island Era

“Give us justice! Give us justice! Give us justice!”

“It’s useless...It was useless...Can’t you see? The strength of the Three Courts is no longer enough to open up a new base island, and the existing refuge islands are also full, so we are the abandoned batch. We have already been abandoned...”

“Sob... Sob, sob, sob. Mommy’s place is so scary...I’m so scared. Can we go back...Wuwuwu...”

At the side of the temporary port on Sakuragi Island, a dense crowd had gathered.

These were the extra residents of the Thousand Islands outside the defense line due to the lack of capacity. It was Vivian’s original suggestion that the three executive officers finally handed over this population to Sakuragi Island.

Now, some of them were noisy, some were shouting, and many were perhaps driven by the surrounding atmosphere, crying in despair.

Many of the Sakuragi Island players who were maintaining order were angry, but they couldn’t say anything.

After all, how could they not be like this back then? She cried and wanted to leave.

Although the image of Sakuragi Island in the players’ hearts had long been reversed, in the hearts of the natives, it was still an ominous island full of disasters and misfortune.

Even with the efforts of Vivian and the players, the curse on the island had been removed, the thunderstorm had subsided, and the evil of the curse had disappeared.

However, from the perspective of an ordinary person, these were not bonus points. They were the most basic. The real bonus points should be the reassuring tall buildings, the natural environment with birds and flowers, and the fertile land. Unfortunately, the current Sakuragi Island did not have any of these.

Perhaps the only bonus point was...

Everyone in the Thousand Islands knew that Sakuragi Island was the base camp of foreigners. In terms of the number of foreigners, all the islands on the Thousand Islands combined might not even be half of Sakuragi Island.

"Hmph, if you ask me, these people who are protesting are really out of their minds! If it were me, I would have died of joy after knowing that I was assigned to Sakuragi Island. These people actually protested and wanted to apply for a change of island!"

"Don't they know that fighting power is the most important thing in this situation? In terms of fighting power, I don't think two Moon Abyss Island's combined can match half of our Sakuragi Island!"

On a high slope not far from the temporary dock, Zhao Jie looked down at the people from the Thousand Islands who were causing trouble. He was fuming with anger.

After all, when he received news from Vivian that a large number of people from the Thousand Islands were about to be sent to Sakuragi Island, Zhao Jie immediately asked the workers of the Chamber of Commerce to put aside the forging of weapons and equipment for the time being and work overtime. Only then did they rush to build this temporary dock that could accommodate a large number of people.

But now, the temporary dock had become a place for them to gather and protest.

Zhao Jie suddenly felt that his kindness had been fed to the dogs.

Although the total number of people in this group should not exceed 20,000, compared to the hundreds of thousands of people who were transferred to Sakuragi Island, it was only a small number.

However, this was often the case. The voices of a small number of people drowned out the silent majority, and it could disgust you to death.

Fortunately, there were still people who were reasonable.

"Uncle Zhao Jie, please calm down. I think it's probably because everyone is afraid now, which is why this tense atmosphere has been created."

Looking in the direction of the voice, he saw a pair of sisters walking toward him. The one who had spoken just now was the orange-haired girl with a long ponytail who was walking in front.

Even in the current situation in Thousand Islands, the young girl's face was still full of vitality and vigor. Compared to her extroverted and cheerful sister, the short-haired sister who wore glasses behind her looked a little introverted. She always carried a notebook with her and kept writing with her head lowered.

When he saw the sisters, Jie was stunned for a moment, but he quickly recognized them. It should be said that businessmen who did business in Thousand Island had more or less heard of these sisters. At least, they had heard of the elder sister. After all, Nagano Smoke Shop was very famous in Thousand Island.

“Miss Nagano Miyako, you, why are you...Here?” Zhao Jie couldn’t help but ask.

This was because the Nagano Smoke Shop was located on the Moon Abyss Island. With its reputation, it was impossible for them to be driven out. Many people from the Thousand Islands had tried their best to escape to the Moon Abyss Island. However, the Nagano sisters had appeared here, which meant that they had taken the initiative...Did he come from Deep Moon Island to Sakuragi Island?

“Well... Hehe, it was actually my sister Kasumiko who dragged me here. She said that this place was definitely the safest.”Nagano Miyako scratched her head and explained.

Zhao Jie then looked at the younger sister behind Nagano Miyako. He looked at her carefully and suddenly widened his eyes. Zhao Jie finally recognized her. Wasn’t she one of the passengers on the Astorokis? He didn’t expect her to be the younger sister of the Nagano family.

Since it was related to the Astoro-Logis, Zhao Jie immediately associated it with Vivian. Then, the decision of the sisters made sense. If they knew Vivian, they would not have such a deep prejudice against Sakuragi Island like the other Thousand-island people.

Chapter 752 - 752: Opening a New of the Sakuragi Island Era

Chapter 752: Opening a New Chapter of the Sakuragi Island Era

“We think so too!” Following Zhao Jie, a few new workers followed behind him.

One of them, who should be the captain, stood out and said,

“The villagers of White Plume Island all know how good Lord Divine Wizard is. When the officials of the Three Supreme Courts asked us to evacuate to Moon Abyss Island, most of the villagers refused!”

“Because when the foreigners in winter were causing trouble on our island, where were the people of Sanxing? “Instead, he turned against us. Boss Zhao spoke up for us, but in the end, he sealed Boss Zhao’s factory. From then on, we didn’t believe in Sanxing anymore.”

Zhao Jie did not know if this could be considered a blessing in disguise. Previously, he had the intention to move all the production lines of the entire Chamber of Commerce to Sakuragi Island and settle down here for development. However, the wishes of the workers and the transportation were difficult to resolve.

But it was fine now.

In the face of the Fallen Abyss, the workers had no choice but to stay. Compared to the other refuge islands that they were unfamiliar with, they believed more in the islands where their Chamber of Commerce had taken root.

As for the transportation, although Zhao Jie knew that this was not the right idea, he was still a little happy. Because Sanfeng was responsible for all the transportation work, it was equivalent to transferring more than half of the manpower and resources of the entire Chamber of Commerce to Sakuragi Island without him paying a single cent.

This was also why they were able to build a temporary dock that could accommodate tens of thousands of people in less than three days.

If Zhao Jie had brought 30% of his forces to develop on Sakuragi Island, then the Chamber of Commerce on the island would have 70% to 80% of its forces now, and its production capacity would have more than doubled.

“Ah! Uncle Zhao Jie, I came to find you because I have something to ask of you and your Chamber of Commerce...”

When Nagano Miyako said this, Zhao Jie immediately guessed something.

As expected.

“Uncle Zhao Jie, after I came to Sakuragi Island, I realized that I had come to the right place because I could feel that the people here needed me...Ah, no, no, no, it’s not me, it’s fireworks!”

Nagano Miyako walked to the front of the high slope and looked down at the noisy crowd protesting at the dock. She then looked at the silent majority who had lost their confidence in Sakuragi Island and were about to give up and wait for death.

This girl who had always been optimistic and cheerful also had a sad expression on her face. However, she quickly regained her composure and turned to Zhao Jie with confidence.

” The Nagano family has always believed that fireworks can rouse people’s emotions and convey happiness and hope. Even in the most difficult moments, as long as the fireworks are released, even if there are only a few of them, I believe that everyone will be roused and cheered up!”

Nagano Miyako’s expression darkened as she spoke. No matter what, the fireworks were more like an amplifier. If they were released stiffly, the effect would be very poor.

It would be best if there was a piece of good news that could give everyone a little hope. That way, with the fireworks, it could amplify this sense of hope.

She had originally planned to create such good news with the cooperation of Zhao Jie’s merchant association. Just as Nagano Miyako was about to discuss with Zhao Jie how to carry out the plan and how much good news they could achieve within their capabilities...

The noise from the dock suddenly became louder.

And it was getting louder and louder.

Just as Zhao Jie could not hold it in any longer and was about to send someone to calm down the troublemakers...

“Zhao... Boss Zhao, the fleet, the fleet!”

“The people at the docks seem to be shouting that they saw many fleets with foreign flags sailing towards our Sakuragi Island!”

Chapter 753 - 753: Because Someone Stained Your Hands With Blood (1)

Chapter 753: Because Someone Stained Your Hands With Blood (1)

After the initial shock, the first reaction of the protestors gathered at the dock was fear.

The ordinary people of the Thousand Islands only knew about the request for help from the Yan Domain. They didn’t know the details.

Therefore, there was no need to rush them. The people crowded on the dock naturally all retreated, leaving the dock empty. Then, they stared at the Yan Region's fleet with confused and timid eyes.

On the other hand, the people on the Flame Field's fleet were the complete opposite. They were all looking at Sakuragi Island with curiosity and excitement.

"This is Sakuragi? I feel fine. It's not as sinister as what you said on the forum."

However, Luo Chen's words were quickly met with the rolling eyes of the new Thousand Islands players.

"Back then, when this island was at its most difficult, you weren't around. What you're seeing now is the result of our hard work day by day since the server opened!"

"I see..." Fallout nodded. He casually flipped through a few pictures and videos of Sakuragi Island that the Thousand Islands players had posted before. Then, he compared them to the island in front of him. It was as if he had stepped into a normal world from Cthulhu. He could not help but feel a little respectful towards the results of the Thousand Islands players.

"Brothers, don't worry. Leave the rest to us. Let me tell you, we're doing infrastructure work. We, the old players of Flame Domain, are professionals!"

While the Flame Field players were rubbing their fists and rubbing their palms, wanting to perform well and not lose to the Thousand Islands players, Liz, who was standing on the bow deck, was also looking down at the island below.

Before she came, Liz had made use of her time in the Fire Code Library to research information related to Sakuragi Island. To be honest, she had already prepared for the situation to be many times worse than it was now. She had to put more than half of her strength into safety, but now it seemed that the danger factor of Sakuragi Island was almost zero. It was just that it was too desolate.

But was the desolation scary? It wasn't scary. The people that Lily brought this time were the least afraid of desolation.

The ships anchored, docked, and teams of fully armed men got off the ships. Of course, if these couldn't make the Thousand Islands people who were watching from the periphery of the dock not far away understand the situation, then the large boxes that were unloaded from the following ships made their eyes widen.

"Hey, hey, hey! Look, those boxes seem to be made of wood?"

"Wood? Why did these foreigners bring so much wood here?"

“It’s not just the wood. Little Takehiko ran over to take a peek just now. There were also food, medicine, and clothes in those boxes that were unloaded... There were so many of them!”

“This! Are these foreign fleets here to support us? Has San Fengxiu not given up on us?”

Outside the pier, the crowd is watching, the crowd is protesting, leaving Sakuragi Island, the crowd is getting restless, many people want to get closer, contact, ask, ask about the situation.

However, at this moment, a few voices suddenly sounded from the crowd.

“Calm down. How do we know that these supplies are for us?”

[illegible]

“Everyone, don’t split up. At this critical moment, we should gather together and unite our strength. Only then can we speak for ourselves!”

“That’s right! We can’t forget our initial goal. We must let San Fengxing send us back to Moon Abyss Island! Deep Moon Island was the safest and most reliable place!”

Under the influence of these few voices, the wavering intentions of the protesting crowd were suppressed again, and they continued to demonstrate their strength.

Liz had naturally noticed these people long ago, but she only glanced at them and ignored them.

The first thing she did after disembarking was to gather the outlanders 'leaders, who were the guild leaders like Fallout.

Liz took out the map of Sakuragi Island that she had prepared earlier. On it, with the Yaei Shrine as the center, it was divided into five regions.

Now, there were more than 300,000 people on Sakuragi Island. Even she couldn't manage so many people at once. The first thing Liz did was to divide the population of more than 300,000 people into five regions.

This was like a dungeon. It was the same principle to decide whether it was easier to deal with a 300,000 HP Boss or five 60,000 HP monsters.

Following that, Liz's little tricks were revealed. She turned the construction of these five regions into a bidding conference. Just by promising some naming rights, the players began to fight for the qualifications.

The wolf cub, who had been watching the entire scene, felt a little emotional and gratified.

Liao Zixuan knew that Red Flame Town, which he had specially left for Liz to practice, had indeed worked.

Due to the fact that the pre-test storyline was so outstanding, the Flame Domain became the publicly recognized novice village of Fallen God. Countless players regarded the Flame Domain as the starting country, and Fire Code City and Red Flame Town could be said to be the center of the Flame Domain, the places that players yearned for and flocked to the most.

In this way, Liz would naturally have the opportunity to interact with the players far more than other NPCs. This was the most precious treasure the wolf cubs had left for her.

From the girl's every move, it could be seen that...

What Liz brought from the Sisre family were not skilled craftsmen or politicians. Instead, they were a large number of very ordinary record-keepers and skilled accounts that specialized in keeping accounts for nobles.

The purpose of these people was naturally to "record" the players, build infrastructure, reclaim land, distribute resources, and maintain law and order... If the target was a native, they would definitely think that this was a form of distrust and supervision. However, the players were the opposite, because these were all contribution points!

With these contribution points, they could exchange for the naming rights that Liz had promised them. For example, the name of the town could be proposed by the guild with the highest contribution points in the future. The guild with the highest individual contribution points could also erect a stone tablet with their own name and image sculpture. At the same time, as long as their contribution points were in the top few, they would be recorded in the history of the island for future generations to read.

For the players, what else could be cooler than leaving their ID in the official scene of the game?

Many people had already missed out on Red Flame Town once. Now, they had to grab hold of Sakuragi Island, which clearly had greater potential!

After all, in the future, when the newbies in the next version fell into the trap, he would bring them here. Then, he would point at a stone tablet or a building to let the newbies see the system introduction that popped up on the interface. On it were a few large words that were his ID, and then he would enjoy the incomparable worship of the newbies. Who would know the feeling?

Not only that, but according to the current situation of Sakuragi Island, unlike Red Flame Town, which was a large place, Liz wanted to give the players the right to build their own shops and guild bases. As long as the players could manage the area and reach a certain level of construction, they were allowed to build their own shops and guild bases.

It was no wonder that the Fire Domain's guild leaders, including Fallout, looked at each other with hostility. Of course, this was not only for the Fire Domain's players, but also for the Thousand Islands players.

Although some of the methods were still a little immature and seemed very deliberate, there was no need to worry. The players could imagine it themselves. For example, the leaderboard. If there was no leaderboard, could it still be called an online game?

Even if some of the old foxes might complain about the old tricks and old tricks, they wouldn't complain about the NPC Liz. Instead, they would complain about the so-called various game plans.

In any case, if they were uncomfortable, the producer would take the blame. This was an old tradition in the gaming world.

Seeing that Liz was getting more and more skilled at getting something out of nothing and starting to squeeze the players dry of their labor, the little wolf cub could not help but look at his little girl beside him.

Vivian's eyes seemed to be filled with stars of admiration as she looked at Lissy, who was very skilled in dealing with the players. She gave out commands one after another and arranged the players in an orderly and orderly manner. The little girl almost went up to ask for an autograph.

Sigh...

They were both NPCs, but why was there such a huge difference?

Forget it, forget it.

The wolf cub sighed.

After all, Liao Zixuan didn't expect a village girl to catch up with a noble lady who had been in the upper class since she was young and had received the education of management.

After assigning the tasks, the next step was to take action.

The guild leaders who had won the bids for a few regions did not waste any time. They immediately led their subordinates to the planned places and started working.

The other group of players was responsible for leading the 300,000-odd people gathered on the outskirts of Sakuragi Island to the five regions.

Everything was going smoothly. The only small setback was the group of people who wanted to protest at the dock.

They expressed that they were unwilling to cooperate with Liz's plans, much less be separated into five different regions. They insisted on appealing for them to be sent to the Moon Abyss Island.

As for this group of people, Liz's original plan was that they were unwilling to go, right? Alright, then you guys can continue shouting at the dock and ignore it.

When the foreigners built the infrastructure and saw that the people who came to the island in the same wave had all lived in houses while they could only endure the wind and rain at the dock in small broken tents. When they did not have enough to eat and wear, these people would naturally stop making trouble.

If they were still stubborn, it would be even easier. After five days, when the Fallen Abyss monsters arrived, if they could still insist on staying at the dock, Liz would be impressed.

But at this time, Vivian told the girl that she wanted him to give it a try.

The little girl walked among the crowd of protestors, constantly explaining and explaining the current situation to the people, trying to reduce the panic of the people. She constantly described the future to the people, hoping that everyone would trust Sakuragi Island and that everything would be better.

Well...

It could only be said that this style was indeed very similar to Vivian's.

Liz looked at the little girl who was still trying to persuade the protesting crowd. She and the wolf cubs who were also watching silently looked at each other.

The girl sighed and was about to go down to help convince the protestors with Vivian, but the wolf cub shook his head because someone had already taken action.

“What she said is true. I saw the latest announcement from Sanxing!” A young man in a sailor suit shouted from the crowd.

“Yes, I was on the ship at that time, but I saw with my own eyes that a Fire Domain Mage invited by this Lord Divine Wizard burned those sea monsters to ashes!” The other sailor also shouted.

Chapter 755 - 755: Because Someone Stained Your Hands With Blood (Part 1)

Chapter 755: Because Someone Stained Your Hands With Blood (Part 1)

“Eh? Why did you call her a Divine Magus?” Many of the protestors were immediately attracted.

The young man in the sailor’s suit pretended to be surprised, and then immediately said,”

“What? ” Don’t you know? Legend has it that in the past, besides Tsukifuchi Taisha, there was once another shrine that was on par with them. It was called Yae Shrine. The shamans there were symbolized by fox masks!”

Immediately after, a few people from the Flame Field, who were dressed in clothes similar to the protestors, began to hide in the crowd and shout.

“Fox mask? Ah, look, it’s on her waist!”

“Looks like it’s a Divine Wizard...It was Lord Divine Wizard? It turns out that there’s also a Lord Divine Wizard on this island. We’re saved! There’s hope!”

“That’s right, that’s right. And let me tell you, according to the rumors, these foreigners from the Flame Field were not invited by the Three Pursuers. They came to support our Li because of the face of the Divine Wizard!”

In a group of tens of thousands of people, these people who shouted changed their positions after shouting, so basically no one could see the person who spoke and could only hear the voice.

As more and more voices appeared in their ears, a familiar scene appeared. Everyone's thoughts were easily led away.

"Yuan... So it was like this! Then why wouldn't we believe in Lord Divine Wizard!"

"I'm willing to believe in Lord Divine Wizard!"

"Me too!"

As more and more people began to echo and shout, this wave eventually spread to the entire crowd of protestors. The tens of thousands of people who originally insisted on staying on the dock began to cooperate and gradually became willing to enter Sakuragi Island to go to the planned residential area according to their allocation.

"Wuwuwu... Mom, this place is so scary. I don't want to stay here. I want to go home, sob sob sob..."

Among the group of former protestors, there was a mother and son. The nervous mother was constantly comforting them. Beside her was a little boy who was only a few years old.

However, the little boy continued to cry in the dark, unwilling to follow the crowd deeper into Sakuragi Island.

Just as her mother was feeling a little lost, she suddenly heard her sister's pleasant voice from the side.

"Little brother, look here!" The voice seemed to have a magical power, making the little boy stop crying. He looked at the witch with his red and swollen eyes.

Vivian buried a seed in the soil and asked the little boy to close his eyes. When the little boy opened his eyes again, his little face was full of surprise because there was a beautiful flower growing on the bare ground.

She plucked the flower and gave it to the little boy. That was not all. Vivian smiled and let the little boy taste it. When the petals entered his mouth, they turned into sweet nectar and syrup, just like delicious candy.

"Is this place still scary now?"

"But...It was scary, but it wasn't that scary anymore because...Because it can grow sweet flowers!" Although the little boy was a little shy, for some reason, the witch sister opposite him gave him a strong sense of intimacy.

"Yes, yes. I believe that you can do it too. As long as we work hard together, we can let sweet flowers bloom all over the island. Can I give you this difficult task?"

“I, I...”

“You can’t say no to boys.”

“Sure! Leave it to me, sister! I will definitely plant a lot of sweet words so that everyone will never starve again!”

“What’s your name?”

“One...Yixiong!” Unknowingly, the little boy had gone from being behind his mother’s clothes to standing up on his own.

“Then let’s make a deal, Yixiong!”

“Pinky swear!”

After flirting with the witch, the little boy, who had been dragging his mother away from Sakuragi Island, began to urge his mother anxiously.

Of course, the mother couldn’t just leave like that. The mother, who was running away with her child, wanted to kneel down to the witch in front of her.

“God... Lord Divine Wizard, I was confused for a moment. I heard the people around me talking about the bad things about Sakuragi Island. Some of them even said that there were man-eating monsters and poisonous sewage inside, so I believed them, so... So, you call for me

“They said that as long as we stayed at the dock and protested with them, the three elders wouldn’t ignore us and would allow us to return to the Moon Abyss Island. I even gave them the few valuable jade pendants I had. They promised that when the three elders sent a ship to pick us up, they would definitely bring us mother and son.”

“But...But...”

His mother didn’t know how to continue.

According to Liz’s plan, this ” blindly following the crowd ” mother might still foolishly stand guard at the dock and believe the words of those who had promised her. After all, she had already paid the price of a jade pendant.

It was still fine for men, but the more women were in such a situation, the easier it was for them to lose their judgment.

However, even if an adult mother could handle it, the child beside her might not be able to.

In fact, the children were crying to a large extent now because the mother and son had been continuously staying on the dock without supplies like the surrounding protestors. They were hungry and tired.

When she finally realized her mistake and wanted to turn back, she might face the child's weakness, illness, or even worse.

Among the tens of thousands of protestors, there were definitely many people who were in a similar situation as the mother and son.

Lissy had left them to fend for themselves. If they hit the wall, they would know that the way to turn back was definitely the most efficient and time-saving method. However, there were inevitably some people who might hit the wall and fall, never having the chance to turn back.

And Vivian's silly, time-consuming and laborious behavior might be saving those who couldn't hit the wall. Although it was cruel, in the eyes of many people, this group of people had no value in being saved at all.

Even...

There was still value in using him.

Chapter 756 - 756: Because Someone Dipped Your Hands With Blood (Part 2)

Chapter 756: Because Someone Dipped Your Hands With Blood (Part 2)

Bugs usually liked to hide under damp and dark cracks in the rocks.

Not far from the temporary dock, behind a large reef.

"Old... Boss, it's not going to work. There are fewer and fewer people who are willing to stay and cause trouble." A young man ran over to report in a panic.

The men who had gathered here and covered the lower half of their faces with their scarves, judging from their clothes and the tattoos on their arms, were the notorious underground gang of the Thousand Islands, the Inagawa Gang, who had been wanted by the Great Fu for a long time.

Although they were wanted, the fact was that the Three Executors of the Thousand Islands had been corrupted to the point where they became the protective umbrella of the Inagawa Sect, making them even more arrogant.

Fortunately, with the great change of the Three Pursuers, the purple-haired woman whom the Inagawa Clan hated the most, the Six Paths Robe, came to power. Their days began to become difficult. Several strongholds were destroyed one after another, making them no longer as arrogant as before. They had to hide everywhere. If this continued, it was only a matter of time before they were all wiped out.

However, perhaps this is fate, this is time, pass on to the fall, fall into the abyss, descend on the news, the great pursuit of the attention to shift, originally sweep away the evil, the strength is also used to the line of defense, can say that is the loss of success, let the rice Chuan public, have to take a breather.

The chaos caused by the Fallen Abyss was a disaster for the ordinary people, but it was a great opportunity for them to make a comeback.

Right now, opposite the messenger youth, the burly man with a strong back and a stocky waist was the leader of the Inagawa Clan.

He frowned after hearing the young man's words.

Back then, they had taken advantage of the chaos to burn, kill, and plunder. They were so arrogant that they even dared to rob the relief vehicles of the Third Executive. Later, in order to avoid the storm, they had originally planned to find a random uninhabited island to hide for a while. Along the way, they happened to encounter the Third Executive's transport fleet, so they mixed into the crowd of more than 300,000 people and came to Sakuragi Island together.

The leader had also heard a little about Sakuragi Island. It seemed that a powerful witch had appeared and removed the curse on the island. However, in the end, the island was still poor and had no benefits. The leader had taken a fancy to it. This island was not under the jurisdiction of the Three Pursuers. It was simply the best harbor for them.

If they could hide like this, they might be able to escape. Unfortunately, the leader soon set his eyes on the 300,000 people who had been transferred to Sakuragi Island by the three executive officers.

Although most of them were ordinary people, those with power and influence had all gone to the Moon Abyss Island at once. However, there were many of them, and they didn't have those annoying fellows like San Shangxing.

If he extorted a sum from everyone, it would be a considerable sum.

As for how to make these people willingly fork out money, it was very simple. The leader easily made use of them. These people were afraid of the unknown and fear of Sakuragi Island, so he sent a few subordinates to fan the flames and spread some panic. For example, there were man-eating monsters on the island, the water was poisonous, and the three pursuers wanted them to die on this island...

When the fear and dissatisfaction in the crowd reached a certain level, the leader would secretly send someone to be the first protester. Then, with the help of the other subordinates, the scale would quickly increase from the original dozens to hundreds and thousands, and finally to a large-scale protest of tens of thousands.

At this time, the Inagawa community could sit back and enjoy the fruits of their labor. In the name of the organizer, they began to gradually collect fees. They used the excuse of protesting, or they lied that they had internal relations with the Three Pursuers. As long as the money raised by everyone was in place, they could start the operation and ask the Three Pursuers to send a ship to pick them up.

In the end, they didn't even need to take the initiative to collect money. A large number of people would take the initiative to pay them. They weren't bribing, but they hoped to leave a so-called boat position for themselves. Some of them were stupid, such as a mother with a boy who gave all her wealth to them in exchange for a verbal promise they casually made.

This business was too easy to deal with.

However, who would have thought that they would not be able to do it so soon after they had just tasted the sweetness?

"Send more people to shout in the crowd!" The leader ordered angrily.

"No... It's useless, Boss. No matter how our brothers incite them, they won't listen."

The young man shook his head with a bitter face. At this time, he could see that there were a few people around him. They were clearly members of the Inagawa Clan, but they were dressed as protestors.

He still remembered that when the Flame Field fleet arrived and saw the boxes of supplies and equipment being unloaded, the protesting crowd was somewhat shaken. However, suddenly, a few voices of conspiracy theories emerged from the crowd.

This group of people was the owner of the voice at that time, the people that Inagawa had sent to "stabilize the morale of the army".

If Vivian didn't come out, they would probably succeed, and they would continue to fool the tens of thousands of people at the dock, protesting and making trouble there, and extorting a few more.

But now, as the name 'Divine Wizard' began to spread among the crowd, the people of the Thousand Islands had a deep trust and sense of security in the word 'Divine Wizard.' Therefore, the power of protest, which was also their source of income, began to collapse like a snowy mountain.

Chapter 757: Because Someone Dipped Your Hands With Blood (Part 2)

"There's nothing we can do about it. Let's just leave it at that for now. We'll pull our men back. Since we're going to the Moon Abyss Island, these fools won't fall for it."

After the initial anger, the leader quickly calmed down because these 300,000 ordinary people...No, it should be said that the leeks were still on the island. There would be plenty of opportunities to harvest them later on.

He didn't know if Sanxing had really given up on this group of people or if he was faking it. He actually trusted the Thousand-island people to a witch so easily.

Well...

It seemed that he had been right to disguise himself as a refugee and follow the fleet to this island!

The leader was now considering whether to make Sakuragi Island their base.

"That, that boss, there are some people who are requesting to return the money that they gave us previously. Boss, look..." The young messenger trembled.

Upon hearing this, the leader looked over as if he was looking at a fool.

"Hey, hey! I say, are you pretending to be a protester? Your brain must have been damaged. How can you spit out the money you gave to our Inagawa people? Tell them to get lost."

"But, but boss, they, they already..."

Before the young man could finish speaking, the sound of footsteps could be heard from all around the reef.

Before the Inagawa Clan could react, they were surrounded by a group of people in sailor uniforms from all directions.

“You guys...Who is it?” The leader was shocked. On the surface, he was still pretending to be calm and asked, but in fact, his hand that was holding the hilt of the knife was already covered in cold sweat.

The fact that he had been surrounded without any warning meant that all the people he had arranged to keep watch outside had been killed. Moreover, they had been killed silently. Just this point alone showed that the other party's strength could not be underestimated.

Soon, the few lackeys next to the leader, who were previously in charge of disguising as extras, exclaimed, “Boss! It was them! I've seen a few people's faces before. It was these people who had been calling him a Divine Magus in the crowd back then! They were the ones who brought up the atmosphere of the Divine Wizard! They cut off our source of income!

After listening to his subordinate's information, the leader's brain spun quickly. He looked at the group of people who were dressed in sailor uniforms but did not look like sailors. They were all fierce and looked more like a mafia than the Inagawa Gang.

Soon, the leader reacted.

“Hmph, looks like you guys are also from the underworld, right? Alright, this time, we, the Inagawa Clan, admit defeat. The things we plundered previously are all over there. We don't want them anymore. Let's go!”

Ability to sit down, boss position, nature, self, ability to see the situation clearly, and very decisive, although he has a bit of heartache, gold, gold, small life, or can distinguish clearly, at present, it is obviously, black, eat black, self, belonging to very passive, one side, retreat first.

As he spoke, he was about to leave with his men. The leader had thought that since he had given up such a large amount of benefits and exposed the name of the Inagawa Clan, as long as they were a little sensible, they would not insist on it...

“Who allowed you to leave?”

A path slowly opened up among the people surrounding them. Soon after, a young bandit walked out and looked down at the Inagawa gangs under the shadow of the reef.

“You... Heh, young man, I advise you not to be so greedy. If you continue to be like this, I’m afraid you won’t even be able to get this money.”

“Money? Who cares about the stolen goods you swindled with such methods?”

Under the threat of the leader, the young thief sneered. The dagger in his hand suddenly stopped, and then he pointed the tip of the dagger at the nose of the Inagawa leader and said word by word,

“Today, I, Chris, will tell you clearly that the money you swindled will be taken back by our Treasure Thief Group on behalf of those commoners. As for you, the culprit...Leave your head as an apology.”

Thief... Treasure thieves?

The leader had heard of this organization before. It was said that it used to be an organization that spread throughout the nine countries. However, for some reason, it gradually declined and faded out of people’s sight.

But now that he had reappeared, the leader was just a little kid?

And what made the leader laugh even more was...

“Did I hear wrongly? You, a thief, are telling me that you want to return the money to the commoners? Hahahaha, young man, this is the funniest joke I’ve ever heard in the underworld.”

The leader seemed to be laughing at Chris’s words, but in fact, in a flash, he suddenly jumped up and took out a short blade from his pocket, stabbing it at Chris’s heart.

Many people around were still in the middle of their conversation. They did not react at all to their leader’s sudden attack.

Hmph, you brat, do you really think I’m in the mood to chat with you? I’m just letting you relax. I’m waiting for an opportunity. What are you waiting for?

The leader of Inagawa saw that the young Bandit did not seem to be able to react in time. The dagger was about to stab into his chest, and he was proud of himself. However, the next second, his expression suddenly changed. The dagger seemed to have pierced into his chest, but there was no feeling of it piercing into his flesh from his palm.

Not good!

By the time the leader reacted, it was already too late. Chris, who was in front of him, turned into a phantom and disappeared. Then, a heavy blow came from behind him.

Chapter 758: Because Someone Dipped Your Hands With Blood (3)

Plop!

The bone-piercing pain on their leader's back made him unable to stand up. The rest of the Inagawa Clan members were dumbfounded. They did not expect their leader to be defeated by the other party in just one move.

The Inagawa Clan members were trembling in fear as they looked at the disdainful young bandit who had trampled their leader under his feet.

Treasure Thief Group, counter...Chris...

He believed that this name had been deeply engraved in the hearts of all the Inagawa Clan members.

However, it did not seem to be of much use.

Because they were going to die anyway.

"The few of you, yes, send the few carts of things they swindled over to that Divine Wizard. Let her split them and return them to their rightful owners."

"Remember, don't tell her where these came from, and don't tell her who you are, understand?"

"Yes, Boss Chris!" The few Treasure Thief players who were named immediately spoke up.

At the same time, the system's voice sounded in their minds.

[Ding! You have received the quest "Return the Stolen Items" from "Treasure Thief Guild Leader-Chris".]

Seeing Chris's order, it didn't seem like a show at all. Besides, there was no need to put on a show at this time.

In other words, this terrifying Bandit was really here to...Justice?

Hence, the leaders of the Inachuan crowd were trampled under the feet. They could not understand, could not understand.

As if he wanted to die, he asked Chris in a hoarse voice,

"For...Why..."

"Why? If you also had an uncle knight who didn't dare to do anything every day and only knew how to stare at you, and a powerful and showy mage love rival who didn't want to admit it...Yes, although his brain wasn't very good."

Chris seemed to be talking to himself.

But very quickly, the expression in his eyes softened and turned into a yearning for beauty and hope. Chris smiled and said,

"Of course, the most important thing is that if you can also meet...If it was her, you would know why."

She was...Her?

Could it be!

The leader seemed to understand a lot in an instant, but unfortunately, this was also the end of his life. Chris took the leader's life without changing his expression. Then, with a wave of his hand, the rest of the treasure thieves swarmed over. The Inagawa people who had lost their leader almost did not resist and were all killed.

Who would have thought that this once notorious Yellow Loyalty faction of the Thousand Islands would end up like this?

The Treasure Thief Guild players who were watching this scene cheered in their hearts.

They did not expect that after taking such a big detour, as the "spies" of this expedition to the Flame Domain, they would still end up back here.

This person could be said to be publicly acknowledged as the top class class teacher for Thieves in the Flame Domain. It turned out that...Was it related to Vivian?

Moreover, the gentle look on Boss Ke's face when he mentioned " her " had almost blinded the players. It was a stark contrast to Chris's ruthlessness when he killed all of Inagawa's players without hesitation.

This... Was this the legendary white moonlight that could not be shaken in the heart of every gang leader?

The Treasure Thief Team players sighed in their hearts.

After dealing with the corpses of Inagawa's group, Chris and the others left. Search the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

From his previous mission to the players, it could be seen that Chris did not choose to tell Vivian about these behind-the-scenes things.

However...

It was probably five minutes after Chris and the others left.

The space twisted, and the witch with the fox mask on her waist appeared where Chris had been standing.

There was still the smell of blood around them, and fresh corpses were buried in the soil under their feet.

[Are you thinking that although they did something wrong, is it really necessary to kill them?]

A voice came from Vivian's mind.

The little girl pursed her lips tightly and did not say anything about the second personality's words. However, her silence already explained the answer.

[Although I don't really like that kid, if it were me...No, there's still Little Black, or perhaps it's Liz. I believe our choice will be the same as Chris's.]

[Vivian, this kind of thing will happen many times as your status gets higher and higher in the future. You have to remember that if you can still keep your hands clean, there is only one possibility.]

[Because someone will help you... stained with blood]

Chapter 759 - 759: The Story of the Card

Chapter 759: The Story of the Card

Green Maple.

Fire Inn.

“Look, look! On the pub’s bulletin board, the officials had made a new announcement. Another wave of expansion pack cards was about to be released for previewing!”

“After waiting for so long, it’s finally here!”

“Eh? Strange, why did he get a card this time? Just this? The officials are too perfunctory!”

“No, no, no. It’s different. The last time, there were too many cards because they were all blue and white. After you get closer, take a closer look at the color of this new card.”

“Color...F * ck! Purple? Is it an epic-grade card?”

Ever since the players had collectively complained to the officials about a certain bard who did not care about martial arts ethics when playing cards, and actually secretly used a new card that had not been released yet, they were caught off guard and seriously damaged the fairness of the game. That was why this scene had happened.

By the way, the official website that the players were looking for did not refer to the official website in the real world. In order to increase the players’ immersion in the game, any complaints from the players could be directly directed to the official NPC in the game.

For example, the Traveler’s Chronicle Card was issued by the Adventurer’s Association, so the players would naturally complain to the Association.

Since then, the association had officially introduced the concept of the [Expansion Pack] to the majority of Green Maple players and added a section similar to ”

In order to maintain the freshness and interest of the Travelers’ Chronicles, and to encourage adventurers to travel the world and explore the unknown, the expansion pack was born.

As the name suggested, the association would collect all kinds of events that happened in the continent. After the experts in the association and the masters of the Ji Xing card invited from various countries, they would study the new card together and expand the card pool of the Ji Xing card. All the new cards released during this period would be summarized into the “expansion pack”.

What the players translated was that every game version would release a new expansion pack at the same time, and all the new cards in the expansion pack were created according to the various plots in that version.

So...

Among the five countries that players could choose from, the Thousand Islands and the Flame Domain were both linked. From the scale, they should be the main storyline of the current version 1.0.

As for Guili and Lin Dong, they had their own storyline of “The Emperor’s retreat” and “Escape from the laboratory” respectively. In the main storyline, there were also scenes of “Northern Cross Fleet” and “Executor”.

On the other hand, Green Maple seemed to have the lowest presence among the five servers. Not only did it not participate in the main storyline, but it also did not seem to have anything worth mentioning in the local storyline. It was calm and peaceful, as if the entire country had been taken away by the legendary Wind God.

But in fact, just by playing the Traveler’s Cards, the players of Green Maple might have become the most abundant storyline in the five countries, even though their plots were all other people’s.

The opening curtain was the result of the players’ complaints. Originally, the Adventurer’s Association would only release the new cards in the expansion pack when they were all confirmed. Now, as long as there was the latest progress, they would use the tavern’s announcement method to let the players have a look at the new cards in advance.

This way, even if they were beaten up by someone else with a new card, the players would be convinced and wouldn’t scold people like “hanging on the wall by printing cards on the spot.”

Because of this, it was very important for Green Maple’s card players to be concerned about the information of the new card trailer, especially those with high rarity. This was because the strength of such cards was often very high. A single card could have a great impression of the battle.

Now that the purple “epic-level” card was being publicized, it naturally attracted the anticipation of countless players.

But...

[Fallen Witch]

[Rarity: Purple]

[Type: Unit Summoning Card]

[Mana Consumption: 3]

[Basic Attributes: 5/5]

" Card Effect 1: Discard three cards in your hand and randomly eliminate three friendly units on the battlefield."

" Card Effect 2: Corrosion

This...?

The Green Maple players in the Fire Tavern were dumbfounded and looked at each other.

They looked at the screen on the card. It seemed to be shrouded by black fog. The originally clean witch costume was covered by an ugly gray-brown cloak. The hood of the cloak covered most of the character's face. Only a pair of lifeless eyes that seemed to be disheartened could be seen in the shadows.

"This... Using three mana points to summon a unit with 5 attack and 5 health was indeed supermodel, but this card skill...Are you serious?"

"Not only did he discard his own hand, but he also killed three random units on his own?"

"Good fellow, sacrificing your teammates when you appear, right?"

"How can this be worthy of the rarity of an Epic?"

"My evaluation is that it's a pure 0-point trash card! Who brought who to be brainless!"

The players were all cursing one another.

Suddenly, a different voice sounded.

“Everyone, don’t be so anxious to make a conclusion. Isn’t there a second card effect for this card?”

Everyone looked in the direction of the voice and saw a familiar dark green cloak.

The harmless bard successfully attracted the curiosity and attention of the players and took out a card from his pocket.

Many players in the tavern opened their eyes wide, because this card was the Epic Card [Fallen Witch] that had just been released on the announcement.

Chapter 760 - 760: The Story of the Card (2)

Chapter 760: The Story of the Card (2)

“++! Why don’t I seem surprised at all?”

“Brother Meng, this guy is definitely an official insider! Otherwise, how could he take out a new card every time?”

“But he just said that this card isn’t that simple? What second card effect?”

“Indeed. What does this [Corrosion] description mean?”

The players discussed animatedly, waiting for the Bard to give them an answer, but the Bard pretended to smile mysteriously and kept them guessing.

“Don’t be anxious, don’t be anxious. The Travelling Chronicles Card originates from a true story. If you want to unleash the true power of this card, you naturally have to first understand the story behind it.”

After saying that, the bard took off his hat.

A few seconds later...

The anxious players thought to themselves, “Then tell me the story behind the card!”

Shaking his hat, shaking his hat... Search the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

The players were speechless.

Everyone stepped forward and placed their tips into the Bard's hat. The hat was quite magical. It was like a bottomless pit. No matter how many Silver Coins and Copper Coins the players put in, they would receive all of it. It did not look like it was full at all.

" Legend has it that a long, long time ago, a group of hungry migrating monsters targeted a human village. The only thing the villagers could rely on was the shrine maiden of the mountain shrine. When they invited the shrine maiden down the mountain, the monsters had already attacked the village. By the time the shrine maiden arrived, although the monsters were repelled, the villagers had already suffered heavy casualties."

" The witch felt guilty, so she decided to stay and help the village recover. However, although she was powerful, she did not manage the village well because she had lived in the mountains for a long time. Instead, the village declined."

" And so, people who wanted to leave finally appeared in the village. However, before they left, they had evil thoughts and wanted to steal all the wealth in the village. Fortunately, the witch found them in time, but the kind witch only confiscated the stolen things and chased them out of the village."

" However, the kind witch never expected that these resentful people would not be grateful for her kindness. Instead, after being expelled from the village, they would quietly return at night. This time, they did not steal anything. Instead, they set fire to the only granary in the village. After satisfying their desire for revenge in the raging fire, they left."

" By the time the witch and the villagers extinguished the fire, all that was left was the burnt granary. This caused the negative emotions of the villagers to finally explode. The villagers began to blame the witch for letting the traitors go. They scolded the witch for letting everyone gather together and distribute the food equally. They hated the witch for not being able to arrive in time when the demon attacked the village. They pointed their most vicious language at the witch to vent their anger."

" In the end, the villagers chased the witch out of the village. However, on the second day, the demons that the witch had repelled appeared out of nowhere. This time, the villagers who lost the witch could not resist the demons at all. In the end, the entire village became the food of the demons."

" The last villager who was lying in a pool of blood seemed to have seen a cloaked female figure among the monsters with his blurry vision..."

After listening to the bard's story, the players in the tavern finally understood how the effect of this card came about.

The death of the villagers corresponded to the elimination of friendly units, and the burning of the granary corresponded to the abandonment of the cards. The witch who had a tragic experience in the story had also completely replicated the travel card. Everyone hated her, just like how the players would despise this card when they saw it, and no one was willing to bring it.

But...

"That's not right! Hey! Singer, the story is over, but what does it have to do with you saying that this card isn't that simple?"

"That's right. There's no notification of corrosion at all, right?"

"This guy couldn't have made up a story to cheat everyone of their money, right?"

Facing the players' doubts and confusion, the Bard did not panic at all.

"Everyone, don't be anxious. There's still a second version of my story!"

"No... The second version?"

"Yes, it was the same village and witch, as well as the same hungry monsters that migrated through. But the difference was that when the villagers sent people to the mountain to look for the witch, a mage happened to meet this small village on the way. When the witch came down from the mountain and rushed to the village, the passing mage had already cleaned up all the monsters."

"After the crisis was resolved, the witch wanted to go back, but the villagers were afraid that the monsters would come back, so they asked the witch to stay in the village and trusted the witch to manage the village. However, this time, the witch knew that she was not competent enough, so she thought of another way. Whenever she came across a decision, she would use magic to contact one of her noble friends and ask him to help her manage the village."

"And so, with the help of the witch's noble friends, the village became richer and richer. But on the other hand, it inevitably led to evil thoughts in people's hearts. A group of villagers stole everyone's treasures and escaped from the village. But before they were discovered by the witch, they met another group of real thieves on the way."

"No one expected that the leader of this group of thieves had received a favor from the witch. After figuring out the situation, he killed these thieves and let the carriage carry the stolen treasure back to the village gate."

"Later on, the demons made a comeback. But this time, the witch didn't need to do anything herself. She had already formed a militia. The villagers, who had the money to buy iron armor and swords, repelled the demons with their own hands. After the war, the villagers saw their growth and wanted to thank the witch again. However, the witch had already left quietly.”

When the bard finished the second version of the story, the players in the tavern seemed to have grasped something. After seeing this, in the spirit of professional ethics, the bard finally took the initiative to solve the mystery.

He took out three ordinary blue and white cards from his pocket.

[Fire God Apprentice],[Tsundere Aristocrat], and [Treasure Thief Apprentice]

Under the curious gazes of the players, when he took out these cards and waited for the bard to show the players the [Fallen Witch] in his hand...

“F * ck...F * ck!” Many of the players in the tavern exclaimed.

Not only did the character portrait on the card face change, but there was no longer a tattered cloak, shadows, and black fog. Even the description of the card’s effects had changed.

” Card Effect 2: Purified. Replacing Effect 1 with: After playing this card, draw three cards and destroy three enemy units at random.”

“Awesome!”

“The design of this card is interesting. So it can be converted. So the condition is that in the first few rounds, you have to play a Mage, a Noble, and a Thief?”

“Although the trigger conditions are a little harsh, this effect is invincible!”

“I said that this is the strongest epic-level card. Who agrees and who disagrees?”

“Hurry up and open up the collection channel!”

After the players in the tavern calmed down a little, they realized a problem and looked at the bard again.

This fellow...

How did he know everything?

Then could he find out the way to obtain the card from him? If this guy already had one, then he definitely knew how to obtain it.

At present, the players of Green Maple could only obtain the basic pack by opening the card pack, but it was still a mystery how to obtain the new card of the expansion pack.

The bard shook his head.

Because he didn't know, or perhaps he hadn't thought about it yet. After all, once that decision was made, Green Maple might really become a country of cards, a country that swore to the alliance.

However...

The bard felt that he could reveal a little bit about what the next new card would be. It could be considered as leaving some suspense, and it would be better to...Cough, cough, to earn money for the next round of drinks.

If Feng 'er's message was not wrong, then the new card that might appear later would be...

"Legendary" Weapon Plate...Right?
