

I Help A NPC Become The Legendary Witch

Chapter 821 - 821: Aba Aba

Chapter 821: Aba Aba

In the face of the tentacle that was about to reach her in a blink of an eye, Shirley didn't panic. The pitch-black Spear of the Fallen Abyss quickly crystallized in her hand and stabbed at the tentacle.

Puchi!

The sharp tip of the spear pierced through the skin of the tentacle, and black liquid flowed out of the wound, but that was all.

The seemingly soft tentacles were several times tougher than he had imagined. The Spear of Fallen Abyss stopped at the surface and could not pierce any deeper.

Due to the stimulation, the tentacle's muscles tensed up, trapping the Spear of Fallen Abyss within, preventing Shirley from pulling it out.

Very decisively, Cher gave up on the spear and stepped on the hardened tentacle, using the force to kick backwards...

Whoosh!

Cher, who was flying in the air, perfectly avoided the tentacle that shot out from the water below. If she had been a little slower, she would have been hit by this tentacle.

On the other side.

The scythe appeared in Vivian's hand. Just as she was about to go to help, she was forced to swing it diagonally below her.

As if sensing that the little girl was approaching Shirley, two tentacles appeared from the sea below Vivian's feet and blocked her path.

For a moment, the situation was in a stalemate. Although the Fallen Abyss Octopus in the water was fighting two people alone, it was not at a disadvantage. The main reason was that its tentacles were thick and tough. Even if one of them was cut off, new tentacles would soon shoot out from the bottom of the sea.

However, the opponent's weakness was also very obvious. Their lethality was too weak. This could be seen especially from Shirley's battle.

The thick and powerful tentacles had no other physical attacks other than slapping and sweeping. After figuring out the path, it was easy to avoid them.

As for Vivian.

Perhaps the little girl did not notice. She was still using her sickle to cut off the tentacles in the way, trying to meet up with Shirley. However, as Vivian got closer to Shirley and emerged from the water, more and more tentacles blocked the little girl.

However, the wolf cub, who had not made a move and was watching the battle from the side, noticed something.

On Shirley's side, although the tentacles were not very lethal, they were very aggressive. On Vivian's side, the wolf cubs had never seen the tentacles like they did to Shirley. They whipped or swept at the little girl.

The tentacles seemed to only want to surround Vivian. Instead, the little girl's side had been occupying the dominant position of attack. However, even though the tentacles were cut off by Vivian one after another, they still did not make any attack.

In the eyes of the anxious Vivian, these tentacles would be seen as an attack by the little girl if they approached her.

Why did he have to explain such strange behavior...

The speculation about the octopus that Vivian had raised in the meeting room reappeared in the wolf cub's mind.

Could it be...

If he followed Vivian's logic and looked at what had just happened, everything seemed to make sense.

The only difference between Vivian's and the stranger's ship was that Shirley was on the ship.

Perhaps in the eyes of the octopus, Shirley was a monster like it, the leader of the Fallen Abyss, and Vivian was a human like the foreigner.

It directly used its tentacles to destroy the ship. Perhaps its purpose was not to destroy, but to force Shirley, the "dangerous monster", away from Vivian. Search the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

It was for... Save the little girl?

That was why he continued to use the tentacles to attack Cher, as if he was trying to drive Cher away. Later, when Vivian was about to get close to Cher, the tentacles would also block in front of the little girl. It was not to attack her, but to stop Vivian from getting close to danger.

The more he thought about it, the more he felt that it made sense. The wolf cub hurriedly sent a voice transmission to Vivian, telling her not to be anxious and to try retreating in the opposite direction of Shirley's position.

After the little girl did as she was told, as expected, the tentacles in front of Vivian retreated a lot.

"This..."

Vivian could not understand. It was only after the wolf cub told her what he had guessed that her eyes widened.

Yes... That's right!

Why didn't she think of this! No, it should be said that she was flustered by the sudden attack, so she denied her original guess. Fortunately, there was Little Black, who was watching the situation.

Therefore, the next question was how to let this "friendly" octopus know that Xue Li was different from the dangerous Fallen Abyss leaders.

"I got it! Little Black, help me hold these tentacles!" Vivian quickly made up her mind. After saying this to the wolf cub, she joined Shirley again.

Seeing that Vivian was approaching again, the tentacle could not help but approach again, trying to stop her like before. However, this time, the little girl dodged and a huge black wolf appeared behind Vivian.

These tentacles might be very difficult to deal with for Shirley and Vivian, but for a high-level monster, they were nothing.

The black wolf's claws could easily knock these tentacles back into the water. Even Cher's spear couldn't pierce through these tentacles, so it would only take a few minutes for the black wolf's sharp claws to tear them apart.

When it came to hand-to-hand combat, the demons were always number one, and the forbidden demons were the king of all demons. Fighting above their level was as easy as a meal, and this was because Liao Zixuan had shown mercy.

- Chapter 822 - 822: Aba Aba (2)

Chapter 822 - 822: Aba Aba (2)

Chapter 822: Aba Aba (2)

Otherwise, under normal circumstances, he would have directly used Dark Flame to attack the other party. That would not be sending him back into the sea, but directly eating takoyaki.

With the help of Little Black's tentacles, the pressure on Vivian was reduced. Even so, the octopus did not forget to use one or two tentacles to "dissuade" the little girl from approaching Shirley, but Vivian nimbly moved them over.

"Xue Li!"

As she approached the white-haired woman, the little girl shouted. Just as Shirley thought that Vivian was going to join forces with her to break out of the encirclement...

"Hold my hand!" Vivian's anxious voice echoed in Shirley's ears.

Xue Li was stunned.

Wha... What was that?

But before her brain could react, she saw Vivian rushing over and reaching out to pull her. Out of trust, Shirley subconsciously gave up on other actions and responded to the little girl.

Holding hands, Vivian and Shirley successfully stuck together.

However...

The two of them were stuck together, but from Cher's perspective, she could see that a tentacle that was heading straight for her was about to skewer them into candied haws.

"Lady Vivian, little...!"

Shirley immediately opened her mouth anxiously, wanting to retaliate and dodge, but Vivian held Shirley with one hand and protected her behind her. Then she quickly turned around and faced the tentacles that were stabbing at her, showing no intention of dodging.

To be honest.

Shirley was scared to death. She would rather be pierced than see Vivian get hurt.

Fortunately, it was the next moment.

The tentacle finally stopped less than a meter away from Vivian, as if it had suddenly braked. It swayed back and forth restlessly, as if it was hesitating and confused.

But there was no doubt that it had stopped moving forward.

Seeing this, the wolf cub silently retracted its dark flame.

As for Vivian, she had gone from holding her breath nervously to smiling with relief.

“Come on, Shirley.”

Vivian led Shirley, who was still confused about the situation, out from behind her. During this time, the tentacles could be seen moving restlessly. Perhaps it was because of Vivian’s protective behavior just now, or perhaps it was because Vivian had been holding Shirley’s hand tightly from the beginning to the end. In the end, even without Vivian in front of her, the tentacles did not choose to attack Shirley again.

Obviously, the little girl had used her actions to successfully convey what she wanted to express to the octopus under the sea.

Xue Li was not in danger.

They were together.

The tentacles returned to the surface of the sea, but before they could let out a sigh of relief, they suddenly floated up again.

Each tentacle was carrying some pieces of wood that had been soaked in water. If one took a closer look, they would find that they were the wreckage of the ship that they had just destroyed!

The tentacle tried its best to piece the wooden planks back together and assemble them into the original boat again. However, how could this be possible? In the end, the tentacle could only give up. Then, like a child who had done something wrong, it was afraid... He had escaped.

” Lady Vivian, could it really be that...” By this point, even without Vivian’s explanation, Shirley could understand.

Xue Li’s face was filled with disbelief.

She was one with the Fallen Abyss, so she knew how evil the monsters born from the filthy power were. She never thought that a " Vivian " could be born in the Fallen Abyss.

"Shirley, can you try to communicate with it?" Vivian's words pulled Shirley back to reality.

The woman's eyes lit up as she nodded.

Judging from the octopus's performance just now, it had at least the intelligence level of a human child. Shirley felt that it was worth a try.

After making up her mind, Vivian propped up a magic barrier, and the two of them and the beast immediately began to sink to the surface of the sea, diving deep into the sea.

After a while, the deep trench that the players had seen in the video appeared in front of them.

The Fallen Abyss monsters that had disappeared in the fourth sea area previously now filled his field of vision. They were densely packed in the trench, and he could not see the end of them at a glance.

If it was before, Cher and the wolf cubs would have thought that the other party was up to something.

But now it seemed like...

These Fallen Abyss monsters might really have been forced into the trench by the octopus, making them stay there obediently and not move anywhere.

With that, there was an answer to why the fourth wave of Fallen Abyss did not arrive.

However, figuring out the current situation was not what they wanted. The purpose of Vivian's visit was to solve this problem.

Unfortunately, in the largest gully at the bottom of the sea, where the octopus was hiding, it seemed to have sensed the arrival of Vivian and Shirley. It even sealed its " door " with its tentacles, as if it was afraid that they would come to settle the score.

However, it could use its tentacles to block the ravine, but it could not block Xue Li's spiritual will. In the Fallen Abyss 'regional network, after Xue Li's bombardment, finally...

The octopus couldn't take it anymore. It emerged from the ravine helplessly. From its mouth, it let out a vague sound similar to " Aba Aba " to Shirley.

At this point, Vivian and the wolf cubs could not help much. They could only watch Shirley and Octopus talk in the Fallen Abyss channel.

However, even though they didn't understand, they could still tell from their auras that one of them was a big sister who was a bad woman, and the other seemed to be a primary school student. They were bullied so badly that even before Octopus could finish a sentence, he was rebutted by Xue Li with three sentences.

Towards the end, it even evolved into a situation where Xue Li would spit out a syllable, and the octopus would tremble before nodding vigorously.

"Lady Vivian, the negotiation is over. Clark has agreed to assist us in defeating the snake in the deepest part of the abyss. She has also taken the initiative to take on the task of controlling the other creatures in the abyss. She has ensured that our army will be able to reach the hinterland without any obstacles and fight the snake."

"Ah? This was...Really? Xue Li, you're amazing! How did you do it?"

Vivian's eyes sparkled. She had never thought that Shirley would be able to do it in such a short time.

And the answer that Shirley gave was...

"Nothing. I just told her that the boat was Lady Vivian's family heirloom. It's unique in the world and is extremely important to you. Now that she broke it, she naturally has to compensate us."

"Then she asked me how I wanted to compensate her, so I casually said the biggest one. At first, she was unwilling to agree, but then I told her that you don't want to see such a cute human girl cry because of you, so she agreed."

Shirley briefly recounted their negotiation.

Vivian was speechless.

At this moment, the little girl suddenly understood why Little Black always sighed at her back then. It seemed that she was still alive and had not been cheated away...

Thank you, Blackie!

When they returned to the surface of the sea, there was a white and soft little octopus on Vivian's shoulder. It was the leader of the fourth wave of Fallen Abyss. They learned its name from Shirley, and it was the same as what the players had detected: clara.

"Aba?"

"Aba..." Aba..."

"Aba! Aba!"

“Aba! Aba!”

Looking at the little girl chatting happily with Clark, the wolf cub couldn't help but twitch his mouth. He looked up and asked his temporary wolf climbing frame, Shirley.

“Are they really chatting?”

Shirley shook her head with certainty.”

The unspoken meaning was that they were all talking nonsense and were not on the same channel.

However, seeing the little girl giggling and the little octopus waving its tentacles excitedly in the air, it seemed like they were really having a good time...

“Alright then...”

Chapter 823 - 168-The Eve of the Decisive Battle

Chapter 823: Chapter 168-The Eve of the Decisive Battle

He had to admit again that Vivian had indeed made a great contribution. Although it seemed that the communication was done by Shirley, the most important thing was that Vivian thought that the octopus was friendly and wanted to negotiate.

If it was not for Vivian, that novel "rescue" perspective would have left such a mark in the wolf cubs' hearts.

Then, when the octopus attacked their ship, the wolf cubs would never have realized this and realized that it was a misunderstanding. It was very likely that in the end, it would turn into a big fight.

As for what the outcome of this world line would be, the little wolf cubs did not know, but they were sure that they would never get such strong external help.

He had dealt with the fourth wave of Fallen Abyss without wasting a single soldier. He had even fast-forwarded to the final battle with the snake.

Now that they had achieved their goal, Vivian did not forget the advice of the Six Paths Robe, so she did not get too cocky and gave up the idea of going deeper into the Final Waters.

However...

Looking at the dark clouds in the distance and the looming shadow of a giant snake dancing wildly in the thunderstorm, the little girl clenched her fists secretly.

Please... He had to endure for a while longer.

Vivian believed that they would come back soon, and by then, it would not be just a few of them like now. Instead, there would be countless Thousand Islands Fleet behind her.

This snake had protected the Thousand Islands for hundreds of years. This time, the people it protected would turn around and free it from the corrosive pain of the Fallen Abyss, allowing its imprisoned soul to rest in peace.

The group of people chose to return home and bring this news back to the Three Executors and the Thousand Islands...It's time to counterattack.

The ship that had come was destroyed, and they could only fly back. However, the mini octopus on Vivian's shoulder took the initiative to jump off the little girl's shoulder and into the sea.

After a small splash, the sound of huge waves rolling was heard.

Clark stuck out its big head from the sea, then waved its tentacles and rolled Vivian onto her head. It was obvious that she would be the little girl's substitute tool at sea.

If it was said that the previous Xue Li had deceived and threatened the ignorant Octopus into signing the black-hearted contract...

Through the "Aba" conversation with Vivian, it could be seen that Octopus was sincerely willing to help this new human sister who she had just met. She was beautiful, sweet, and had a pleasant voice.

Then, while they were sailing out of the Fallen Abyss on the "Octopus", she showed showed them that although she didn't seem to have a high IQ, she was very surprised by the authority of the Fallen Abyss.

Especially when the first three Fallen Abyss leaders had all died, she had almost taken over 90% of the Fallen Abyss army's control.

Needless to say, the fourth sea area was her territory. When she arrived at the third sea area, the octopus waved its tentacles like a commander, and all the Fallen Abyss creatures in its path made way.

This wasn't the end. Xue Li could also do this, but the range of control wasn't as large.

But then...

“Aba?” Aba?”

“Ah...Ba? Abba?” Vivian tilted her head.

“Aba!”

After a short cross-server communication between Octopus and Vivian, the little girl exclaimed and was lifted high into the air by the tentacles of Clark.

In this field of vision, Vivian could see that many of the fallen abyss creatures that were originally floating on the surface of the sea or in shallow waters had begun to dive.

After a while, the third sea area seemed to have been ” purified ” and became the same as the original territory of Clark. It was calm and peaceful, and there was no sign of the Fallen Abyss monsters.

Suddenly, a black shadow leaped up from the sea. It was a creature that was infected by the Fallen Abyss like a killer whale. Although its skin was festering and its originally smooth skin was now full of pits and covered with filth, it struggled violently when it was caught by one of the tentacles of Clark. However, it soon became more and more stable. Then, a scene that shocked everyone appeared in front of them.

The ” Fallen Abyss Transformation ” on the killer whale’s body was actually slowly fading away. Its rotten appearance was recovering bit by bit, and its skin was once again bright and smooth.

No, it wasn’t right to describe it as ” fading “. Shirley narrowed her eyes and carefully observed the scene in front of her.

She could feel that the Fallen Abyss aura on the killer whale’s body had not weakened. It had only become more stable from its original extremely active state. Instead of saying that it had faded, it was more accurate to say that...

Evolution!

Speaking of which, as the leader of the Fallen Abyss, there was no decay or filth on her body. In fact, because of her extremely special milky white skin, she looked a little crystal clear. If she was placed in the octopus tribe, she would be at least a princess, right?

As if she had demonstrated her skills to Vivian, she soon continued to communicate with the surprised little girl.

However, Shirley’s heart was a little heavy.

That was because...

It wasn't difficult to level up a Fallen Abyss creature. All Xue Li needed to do was to infuse her Fallen Abyss energy into the target, just like the Rotten Rat King at Flame Domain City.

Chapter 824 - 824: The Eve of the Final Battle (2)

Chapter 824: The Eve of the Final Battle (2)

However, what Clark did in front of her didn't make the killer whale's strength improve at all. However, whether it was its appearance or stability, it even showed signs of regaining its consciousness...

Comparing the two, the difference was obvious.

She was able to influence Fallen Abyss creatures and make them evolve from their roots. From this point alone, Shirley knew that her authority in Fallen Abyss was above hers.

If she had to use her analogy, it would be as if she was born in the wild, while the other party was the orthodox with the true inheritance.

Xue Li had mixed feelings, and the wolf cub in his arms was also deep in thought.

It looked like...Sure enough, the Fallen Abyss was not as simple as "a group of brainless crazy monsters". It seemed that the Fallen Abyss was about to show a corner of its true "race".

In the end, there is still too little information, but there is no relationship, there is a clara, this seed, there is a future, there is time, it is possible to dig deep into the secrets of the abyss.

The ability that Clark showed completely dispelled the little wolf cub's concerns, and also explained why the octopus dared to agree to Shirley's request at that time.

The second and the first sea area were the same. All the Fallen Abyss monsters sank to the deepest part of the sea.

In this way, the Thousand Islands 'fleet would be able to attack the Yellow Dragon without any obstacles and launch the final battle with the Fallen Abyss Serpent.

At the edge of the Fallen Abyss Sea, the Six Paths Robe, who was nervously ready to rush in to save Vivian, was stunned when he saw the little girl riding a big octopus.

When they found out that the giant octopus was the leader of the fourth wave of Fallen Abyss, and that it had been tamed by the little girl and even led all the monsters of Fallen Abyss to defect...

A few generals did not believe it at first, but when they sailed to the first sea area, they really found that the black mass of monsters that used to fill the sea had disappeared. They all made the action of slapping themselves, thinking that they were dreaming.

Of course, there were also people who suggested that this was a trap. The octopus was pretending to be friendly and deliberately dispersing the Fallen Abyss army. Its goal was to trick the Thousand Islands Great Troops into attacking first. Then, when their main force was deep enough, they would suddenly rise up and let the Fallen Abyss monsters that had previously submerged to the bottom of the sea surface again to surround them.

Such voices were not rare in the conference room. A large number of officers also put forward new suggestions. They believed that the safest course of action at this moment was to kill the fourth leader who had come to them voluntarily.

Facing the gazes that were directed at him, many people were pointing their fingers at him.

Shrinking back into a mini form, clung to Vivian's shoulder, and felt a little confused, like a curious baby seeing the outside world for the first time.

She didn't know what these humans were doing, so she subconsciously asked the first "friend" she made.

"Aba...Aba?" (They...) Are you talking about me...)

The mini octopus whimpered in Vivian's ear.

The little girl ignored everyone's gazes and nodded softly in response,"

"Aba, uh... Abba!" (They are thanking you for being willing to stand on the side of the humans, and... Yes! He said that you have made a great contribution to the peace of the world!)

"Aba, Aba, Aba..." (Actually... I can feel it... That snake...It was very...

Pain...He wanted to...Deep sleep...It didn't fight with me... Control...

Put everything together. Give it to me...However, my strength is still insufficient...I can't help it... Therefore, I also want to thank...

You guys... Can make it...Rest in peace...)

“Aba! Aba!” (We...Together... Trying to end it...Each other...

Harm)

“Yes, yes!”

Vivian nodded heavily. Although she didn't understand what Clark was saying, and she didn't know if Clark could understand her, the little girl believed that most of the time, language didn't need to be exchanged. It was only necessary to rely on the emotions inside to communicate with each other.

After comforting the little octopus, Vivian faced the officers in the conference room again.

She could understand Sanxing's distrust of Clark, but it also showed that if the fourth leader was really killed, it was very likely that the control of all the Fallen Abyss monsters would return to the hands of the final snake.

At that time, the Thousand Islands would have to bear the most terrifying Fallen Abyss Descent. Moreover, this time, the snake would take the initiative to attack. Even if they could win with difficulty in the end, the damage to the Thousand Islands would definitely be huge.

Therefore, it was better to keep Klara and gamble this time. This way, they could shift the final battlefield from their homeland to the sea, and they could directly avoid the need to fight with the vast Fallen Abyss army.

He had to admit that this temptation was indeed very strong.

However, none of the generals present dared to speak.

The reason was simple.

They couldn't bear the responsibility of failure.

However, after a short silence, the purple-haired commander, who had not spoken since the beginning of the meeting, raised his hand in agreement.

She first looked at Clark and then at Vivian.

“I don't believe in any Fallen Abyss monsters, but... I believe in you, Vivian, so I agree with this battle plan. Within three days, gather all the forces that can be mobilized in the Thousand Islands and sail into the Fallen Abyss for the final battle! After being passively beaten for so many days, this time...”

Chapter 825 - 825: The Eve of the Decisive Battle of Kerala

Chapter 825: The Eve of the Decisive Battle of Kerala

“It’s time for us to take the initiative to attack!”

Of course, after the passionate speech, the Six Paths Silk Robe did not forget one thing.

“If there are any accidents in this operation, I will bear all the responsibility.”

“Luo Sha...” The little girl was very grateful.

Although Vivian did not say it, she swore in her heart that if something really happened, she would bear the responsibility alone.

With the Grand Fudi Practitioner’s Robe backing Vivian up, and since his superior had spoken, the generals naturally did not say anything and all walked out.

At this point, when the news spread throughout the Thousand Islands, the people of the Thousand Islands were first shocked. They had not yet reacted to such a rapid change in attack and defense, but soon, a wave of excitement and excitement swept across the country.

The three-day-long mobilization was completely launched.

On the other side.

On the night of the meeting, Shirley finally took away the mini squid that had been clinging to Vivian. The reason was that Shirley hoped to learn more about the Fallen Abyss from her.

Of course, Vivian had no reason to refuse, and the wolf cub returned to the little girl’s arms. He only glanced at Shirley and did not say anything.

Liao Zixuan understood what Xue Li was going to do, but he also tacitly agreed to Xue Li’s approach.

Although she was a little reluctant to leave her human friends, Shirley ranked higher in her heart than Vivian.

Because she could feel a sense of intimacy from Shirley, which only "her own kind" had. Although she was a little afraid of this fierce race, at least Shirley's existence let her know that she was not alone.

The next day, when she ran back to chat with Vivian, the little girl could clearly see that the little octopus seemed to be in a much more dispirited state. Even the frequency of waving its tentacles when talking had decreased a lot.

Vivian thought that it was because she was not used to the environment and did not sleep well, but in fact... After Xue Li exchanged a glance with the wolf cub, she quickly retracted her gaze.

Last night, Cher had temporarily taken out part of the Fallen Abyss core.

The core of the Fallen Abyss was as important as the heart of a Fallen Abyss creature. Giving the core to someone else was equivalent to giving up their life. Search the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

This was insurance, and it could also be said to be a test. Fortunately, this result did not disappoint.

It was only at this point that the wolf cub finally thought that the last piece of the puzzle of "taking the initiative to attack" had been filled in.

At the same time...

On the Astorokis.

The noble woman stood on the deck and looked into the distance, the new round sunrise, the morning sea breeze blowing her hair under her sunhat.

"Is this your plan, Floka? As expected of the Water God...As expected of...The God of Fate was indeed much more capable than his sister, the Fire God Taoist priest. Much bolder."

The noblewoman shook her head and muttered.

"Ms. Louise, w-what did you say?"

A warrior behind him asked in confusion.

It was Ichiro, who had been on the reconnaissance ship back then.

"Nothing, I say, the direction of the wind..." It has changed." Louise elegantly raised her arm, her fair palm caressing the sea breeze.

" Back to the main topic, Mr. Ichiro. The Astorokis is about to set off for the battlefield. Since you have been appointed as one of the adjutants of this ship..."

" I've heard some rumors about this ship. It's said that there are actually some unknown and extremely hidden additional functions on the Astorokis. I wonder if Mr. Ichiro... Are you interested in this " extra function "?"

Chapter 826 - 826: The End of the Thousand Islands, The Final Battle (1)

Chapter 826: The End of the Thousand Islands, The Final Battle (1)

Three days passed in the blink of an eye.

The dark clouds above the Thousand Islands seemed to have sensed that today would be the end of everything. They were much thicker than usual.

The dark and depressing sky was accompanied by muffled thunder from time to time. It was like a dying dragon trying to scare off the heroes who came to attack it with its roar.

But this was just a useless struggle.

One after another, the thousand-island ships crossed the line of defense and sailed into the waters of Fallen Abyss without fear. The leading warship at the forefront had a flag of a Divine Wizard hanging high above it. A phoenix emitting dazzling flames lit up the darkness and flew with it.

Therefore, the heroes who came to crusade against the evil dragon would not be scared away by the roar, nor would they be blinded by the dark clouds. They had the best guidance.

And everyone firmly believed that they were going to do it.

After today, the dark clouds that covered the sky would dissipate. The warm sunlight would once again cover the Thousand Islands, and the dark sea would return to its azure color.

Vivian was in front, and the Six Robe was in charge of bringing up the rear.

The purple-haired general stood at the bow of the ship and looked around warily. From the trembling fingers of her bow, one could tell that she was nervous.

If the octopus was deliberately luring the enemy in, then this was the best time to ambush them.

However...

When the fleet of warships safely sailed through the first four seas and arrived at the entrance of the fifth sea area, where the Yamata no Orochi was located, the Six Paths Robe finally heaved a sigh of relief.

Nothing unexpected happened.

They really did it, they came to the great serpent, they came to the source of all disasters.

After heaving a sigh of relief, the Six Paths Silk Robe continued to tighten.

Because the real battle...

It's only begun when I reach here

Accompanied by a clear and loud phoenix cry, the final battle officially began.

The Divine Phoenix that was flying around the battleship had disappeared, and in its place was the Blazing Witch who was holding a flaming greatsword.

Vivian took the lead. The blazing light of the flames cut through the darkness, and the fire wings of the phoenix appeared behind her. The little girl rose from the warship and faced the Yamata no Orochi at the center of the vortex. She raised her greatsword and slashed at one of the snake heads.

As for the attacker, the eight-headed... No, the current snake was no longer worthy of this name. As early as on the Astorokis, Vivian and the wolf cubs had fought with this snake and had seen the true appearance of the Yamata.

However, the giant snake only had five heads. Its entire body was rotten and rotten. The scales that gave off a deep and dark glow and were full of beauty and lines were no longer there. Instead, they were replaced by new scales that were covered in filthy mud, just like the Demon King Crab. Search the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

The closer they got, the more Vivian could feel the pain of the snake. A soul that had died in its twilight years was still being manipulated like a marionette. Even though the Yamata's consciousness had dissipated, the body of the forbidden monster still held on to its pride and constantly fought against the will of the Fallen Abyss.

One of the heads of the Fallen Abyss Serpent shot a torrent at Vivian. The little girl on the Astorokis could only dodge, but now, the eight-headed snake was no longer the eight-headed snake, and the little girl was no longer the little girl.

Vivian did not back down. The flames on her sword were overwhelming and continued to accelerate. The flames collided with the torrent, but this time the flames were not extinguished. Instead, the torrent could not withstand the high temperature and turned into white steam. In the end, it could only serve as a foil to the girl with the big sword who rushed out of the air wave with invincible momentum.

Roar!

The Fallen Abyss Serpent roared when its first move was ineffective. It seemed to know that it could not fully exert its power. The Yamata no Orochi's original water power over the ocean was simply given up and turned to bite Vivian with its head.

The controlled body of the forbidden demon was also a forbidden body. When the little girl's flaming sword collided with the snake's head, it could be seen that the sword was forced to stop after cutting into about 30% of the snake's neck. It could not go any deeper.

The snake's remaining four heads danced wildly in the storm, as if mocking Vivian's weakness. They could not hurt its vital points at all. They took advantage of the little girl's sword stuck in its neck and launched a surprise attack, forcing Vivian to either abandon her sword and escape, or become a living target for its four snake heads with bloody mouths.

At first glance, the little girl seemed to be hesitating and did not react. However, when the other four heads had reached the limit of the distance, Vivian immediately let go of the greatsword and stepped on the snake's neck to kick back. Her body was in a perfect arc, just in time to dodge the pincer attack of the four heads.

Since when did Vivian have such exquisite movements? It was all thanks to the [Dusk Steps] that she inherited from the real fox-faced witch.

Evasion was only the first step. No one knew who she learned it from. During the beautiful backflip, Vivian snapped her fingers.

This seemed to be a signal. The Firewood Greatsword, which was half-stabbed into the snake's neck, began to emit a bright red light. The heat energy within the sword body increased at a rapid speed in the blink of an eye. In an instant, it reached a terrifying limit, and then...

Bang!

The flaming sword turned into a huge fireball that was like the sun. The scorching flames of the explosion spread in all directions. Even if the four giant snake heads wanted to dodge the explosion, it was already too late.

Chapter 827 - 827: The End of the Thousand Islands, The Final Battle (1)

Chapter 827: The End of the Thousand Islands, The Final Battle (1)

They could only watch helplessly as the inertia caused the heat waves to collide head-on.

Wu...

The snake let out a painful cry. It turned out that the explosion caused by the flames was not the main point. It was nothing to the body of a forbidden demon. However, the flames that followed the explosion and began to spread throughout its body were the reason why the Fallen Abyss Snake was roaring.

Although Xin Yan's flames were not as lethal as the little wolf cubs, the power of the little phoenix was life and death. The phoenix's flames could heal all wounds in the world, but it could also turn into a deadly poisonous fire, sealing the enemy's healing ability and sealing the Fallen Abyss's best recovery ability.

When the Fallen Abyss Serpent finally extinguished the phoenix flames on its body, its originally ugly body was now even more miserable. The filthy mud that was the "protective layer" of the Fallen Abyss was burned to ashes in the flames, revealing the dried and withered body of the serpent.

This was Vivian's real goal, and also the strategy that the wolf cubs had planned the night before.

Although the Fallen Abyss Serpent's level was much lower than in the past life, it was only level 59. However, its level as a Forbidden Monster was destined to have a terrifying amount of HP.

Vivian alone might not even be able to kill them in a day, and it would be a waste. Their other biggest advantage was their numbers.

Ants could kill an elephant, but they had to break its skin first.

What Vivian had just done was to burn the outer shell of the Fallen Abyss Serpent. Now, the little wolf cub had sent it over to investigate. From the panel of the Fallen Abyss Serpent, it could be seen that its dual resistance had been greatly reduced.

However, even at this level, it was still powerless against players who were generally only level 20.

Therefore...

After exiting the Witch's attire, the exhausted Little Sparrow lay in Vivian's palm. The explosion of flames just now was very taxing for Xinyan.

Vivian carefully handed Xin Yan over to the little wolf cubs to look after. She then rose into the air again. This time, circles of magic circles began to rise from the void beneath her feet.

Some of the Thousand Islands players did not know what the Fox-faced Witch was doing.

However, a small portion of the older players who had gone through the closed beta, such as Fallout, who had a long way to go, and a big watermelon in his mouth, all revealed a familiar expression.

Because that was...

Halo!

"May your sharp sword cut through everything and be indestructible..."

"May your shield be as solid as a rock, unbreakable..."

"May you be favored by the elements, and your magic power will never run out. May you be surrounded by the sea and heal all your wounds. May you... Being embraced by beauty..."

The pure and clean voice of the little girl echoed on the battlefield and in the ears of everyone in the Thousand-island Fleet. As the natives, the Thousand-island Warriors felt an indescribable power surging from their bodies, while the players...

[Ding! You have received the "Sword-wielding Chapter" halo from Vivian. Attack +500%, and you have received 50% Armor Penetration.]

[Ding! You have been inspired by Vivian's "Pan's Shield Chapter" halo. Defense +500%, and receive 40% damage reduction.]

[Ding! You have received the "Element Chapter" and "Healing Chapter" from Vivian. Magic recovery speed +500%, HP recovery speed +500%]

[Ding, you have received Vivian's blessing. Your luck has temporarily increased by 8 points.]

"F * ck!"

"Wha... What's going on?"

"Why don't my skills consume mana?"

"Everyone, look at the status bar!"

The Thousand Islands players had yet to react and were still looking at their own interface to see what was going on. On the other hand, the veteran players of Flame Domain, who were really old fans of Vivian, had already started killing people.

During the closed beta, they had enjoyed the feeling of being strengthened. They did not expect to be able to relive it now. It was obvious that as Vivian's strength increased, the strength of the halo was getting more and more ridiculous.

He had increased his attack and defense by five times and automatically recovered his mana and health. He was just short of writing the words "You've been strengthened, hurry up and go".

If he was unhappy now, when else could he wait?

Meanwhile, the Thousand Islands players finally reacted. When they saw the veteran players from Flame Domain hurling their skills at the Fallen Abyss Serpent, they did not even have time to curse and quickly joined in.

And soon, they found out that he had been suppressed.

"Eh? Was there something wrong with this critical hit rate?"

"Haha, I've already dealt 6 critical hits in a row. This time, I'll definitely be in the top 20% of the damage rankings."

"The last halo seems to have added luck value. It should be related to this, but it only added 8 points. Why do I feel like I'm getting critical hits every time?"

"8 o'clock? Idiot, can't you see the number horizontally?"

"The case has been solved, f * ck!"

“Now, the official daughter has revealed her chicken feet. She even said that you didn’t cheat!”

With the buff of the halo, the players went all out. Even the most ordinary player could deal four-digit damage to the Fallen Abyss Serpent.

As for the real big shots, they were overjoyed.

3w! 3w! 9w!

A player who pursued the ultimate critical hit damage and had an extremely low critical hit rate looked at the terrifyingly large numbers that popped up one after another. His mouth was almost crooked from laughing. He quickly took a screenshot. In the future, he would be invincible in PVP on the forum.

When the ants really started to bite the elephant, the elephant’s flesh and blood would disappear very quickly.

Chapter 828 - 828: The End of the Thousand Islands, The Final Battle (1)

Chapter 828: The End of the Thousand Islands, The Final Battle (1)

The Fallen Abyss Serpent could clearly feel its HP rapidly dropping. It finally realized that it could no longer let these ants attack recklessly.

At the very least, they would not be able to live so comfortably.

One of the heads of the Fallen Abyss Great Snake began to chant some kind of ritual. Soon, bubbles began to bubble from the surface of the sea. Soon after, the descendants of the Yamata no Orochi, once the most loyal guards of the Water God Palace, were now enslaved by the Fallen Abyss along with the fallen snake.

Even though they knew that this was wrong, they still listened to the snake’s orders and climbed onto the players’ boats from the sea to fight them.

For a moment, the players’ attention was indeed drawn away, and the pressure on the Fallen Abyss Serpent was significantly reduced. However...

A loud wolf howl came from the front of the fleet. The Fallen Abyss Serpent could summon its offspring, but could he not?

The little wolf cub had long noticed the Summoner profession among the Flame Domain players.

It was obvious that this batch of players were old beta players. Only they would have a Summoned Beast like the Silver Earth Wolf, which they had obtained from the wolf cub's Summoning Stone.

The Summonmoners who were still in the low end had now gained the ability to take charge of their own. Although the closed beta was a deleted file test, the little wolf cub still used a small BUG in the system to seal the souls of the Earth Silver Wolves and hand them over to Xue Li. After the open beta, if these players were really persistent and had not forgotten, they could get their companions back from Xue Li through a series of missions.

He didn't expect that the seed he planted back then would bear fruit here.

"Revenge! Be careful!" On one of the battleships, Lu Man Man was nervously watching her Summoned Beast, which was fighting with four or five of the snake's offsprings.

It was already good enough for a normal Summoned Beast to be able to block one of its offspring. Even a purple-grade monster like the Silver Earth Wolf could only block one more.

However, it was different on the other end of the long road. He relied on his own faith and money to exchange for the king of the pack, the Silver Wolf King.

However, even the Wolf King was still struggling under the siege of four to five cubs. He could only watch as his Wolf King's HP bar kept decreasing.

However, he didn't forcefully take it back, because he knew that this was the obsession of "revenge". Back then, the Silver Wolf Clan was exterminated because of the Fallen Abyss. Destroying the Fallen Abyss was their greatest obsession, which was why he gave the Wolf King the name "revenge".

Judging from the expressions of these cubs, the Wolf King had clearly seen their shadows in the past, so he would rather die than fight to the end.

But if this continued...

Just as Man Man was anxiously trying to do something, the wolf howls in the distance finally reached them.

[Ding, your Summoned Beast "Earth Silver Wolf King" has received the "Royal" encouragement from "Little Black". All its attributes have been greatly increased!]

Before Long Road could react, the Wolf King, who was at a disadvantage just now, suddenly seemed to have been injected with chicken blood, and its movements were more than twice as fast.

With a claw, a bite, and a final swing of the wolf's tail, the four troublesome snake offsprings were actually killed in minutes.

After doing all this, it seemed as if the Wolf King finally had time to spare. It was not in a hurry to continue chasing. Instead, it seemed to be responding to the first howl. It stood up straight and howled towards the sky.

Ow—

Like a relay, more and more wolf howls began to ring out on the battlefield. Not only the Silver Earth Wolf, but the other wolf-type monsters also became excited, and their combat strength increased.

The Summoner players who had been envious of the other classes had now turned the tables around. They were indeed unable to attack the snake for the time being, but they could deal with the spawn and make room for the other long-range classes to attack. They were definitely the best.

Hiss... Roar!

The Fallen Abyss Serpent, which was once again being targeted by the players, finally couldn't hold on any longer. It actually chose to shamelessly escape. Its huge five heads were about to plunge into the depths of the Haiti.

And at this moment...

A ship that had to be described as a "monster" began to move at an unbelievable speed, raising huge waves and crashing toward the diving snake.

Compared to this ship, the other battleships around it were like small wooden boats. Its huge hull could even support half of the Fallen Abyss Serpent's body.

There was only one ship on the Thousand Islands that could do this.

The Astorokis.

Chapter 829 - 829: The End of the Thousand Islands, The Final Battle (2)

Chapter 829: The End of the Thousand Islands, The Final Battle (2)

Shua!

The blade flashed, and the son's body fell on his back, revealing Ichiro, who was panting behind him.

Due to the massive size of the Astorokis, it naturally became the target of the descendants summoned by the snake. The deck, which was dozens of meters tall, had already fallen into a chaotic battle.

However, thanks to the blessing from the fox witch, even if they were to face these terrifying Fallen Abyss monsters, not only the players, but also the aborigines, the Pursuing Warriors, had the strength to fight.

This was already the fifth offsprings that Ichiro had killed. Although his body was already at its limit, victory was right in front of him. The giant snake in the distance was clearly in a worse state than him. It was already covered in wounds and could not hold on for much longer.

Therefore, Ichiro gritted his teeth and continued to carry his saber toward the next son who had jumped onto the ship from the sea, buying time for the outlanders to attack.

But at this moment...

"What happened? Is it my imagination? Why does the snake feel smaller and smaller?"

"That's not turning small, it's diving!" It's starting to drill into the water!"

"Down... Dive? Not good! That giant snake is trying to escape!"

Due to the distance and visual problems, the people on the Astorokis noticed this a little later.

Upon hearing this news, the captain's deputy was still a little stunned and said happily, "He won? We won?"

However, he was quickly shouted back by the captain.

“Win my ass! Once it returns to our nest, we won’t be able to hide. All our efforts to heavily injure it in this battle will be in vain! Once it recovered, it would soon make a comeback. This would never end. He could not let it go back!”

Some of the people who reacted quickly, like the captain, immediately realized the seriousness of the problem. Adjutant Ichiro was one of them.

Stop it, we must stop the other side of the river from running away!

But the problem was how to do it.

Such a century-old forbidden monster was twice the size of their Astorokis. Just to injure it would require the firepower of the most elite fleet of the Thousand Islands. If the other party wanted to escape, they would have no way to stop it.

The fox-faced witch on the main battlefield had clearly realized this as well. She was desperately trying to stop the snake, but she could only slow down its diving speed. The snake had a total of five heads, and one of them would always take advantage of the gap to continue chanting and casting, continuously reducing the buoyancy of its body.

Could he really only watch helplessly as the Fallen Abyss Serpent slowly disappeared into the sea?

No, that’s not right!

There was one more!

“Immediately send someone to the control room and ask the witch of the society to adjust the power of the Heart of the Sea to the maximum!”

The captain’s assistant was clearly a little confused by the captain’s order.

“Wha... What?”

“Turn the ship’s power to the maximum. We... Charge over! We are the only ones who can stop that snake! Only the Astorokis!”

“But...”

” Don’t make me repeat myself!!”

“Yes... Yes!” As the captain roared, hesitation flashed in the deputy’s eyes, but it was quickly replaced by determination. He rushed to the control room at his fastest speed.

Soon, with a shake of the Astorokis, everyone could clearly feel that the ship was accelerating.

The Astorokis, which was originally in the center of the fleet, began to shift its position bit by bit and advance toward the snake.

However...

Slow, still too slow.

Although the Astorokis was one or two times weaker than the Orochi, it was still a behemoth measured in tens of thousands of tons. Even with the Heart of the Sea, which was a replica of the Heart of God, it was difficult to increase its acceleration in a short period of time.

If they could not increase their speed, even if they were in front of the snake, the power of the collision would be greatly reduced. It was like a large truck moving and a speeding truck. The destructive power of the latter was obviously several times higher.

What was even more despairing was that after accelerating for less than five seconds, the speed of the ship stopped increasing, as if it had reached its limit. It was obvious that when the Heart of the Sea was designed, for safety reasons, the Astorokis was not allowed to accelerate indefinitely. There was a limit to the maximum speed.

But...

Bang!

The captain knocked on the guardrail unwillingly.

With their current speed, not to mention fantasizing about dying with the snake, it was a problem if they could even knock it into a daze.

At this moment, an adjutant suddenly ran towards him, shouting something as he ran.

The captain only heard the other party's words when they were closer.

"I have a way to increase the speed of the ship!" Nervously, he ran to the captain and took out a small booklet from his arms.

At first, the captain was very excited, thinking that Ichiro was really a technician. However, when he quickly took Ichiro's booklet and read it, he frowned when he saw the name.

[Astorokis Operation Manual (Enhanced Version)]

When he flipped open the thin booklet and read the contents, the captain was so angry that he almost kicked Ichiro into the sea.

The entire booklet only had three pages, and the entire operation manual ended on the first page with only four sentences.

[How to activate the ultimate mode of Astrologis]

Close the Heart of the Sea

Gather everyone to head to the Magic Furnace Room and think of a way to break through the maximum speed limit of the Heart of the Sea and trigger the restriction seal.

The seal was successfully removed in the order shown in the picture (Snake, Fox, Sakuragi, Witch).

Chapter 830 - 830: The End of the Thousand Islands, The Final Battle (2)

Chapter 830: The End of the Thousand Islands, The Final Battle (2)

Restarting the Heart of the Sea, releasing all reserve energy

On the second page, the author's name was written: Louise Dracula, one of the greatest ship engineers at the end of the century. She had participated in many major projects and had given suggestions for improvement. She was well received and famous.

The third page of the booklet...The captain didn't have the patience to look at it anymore.

He resisted the urge to throw the booklet into the sea. Although the information on it was extremely unreliable and the name of the foreign author was mentioned in the end, at least the booklet did remind the captain of something.

Magic Furnace Room!

The Astorokis also had such a power room, which could burn magic power and turn it into a power system. However, it was almost forgotten by everyone because there was no need for a magic furnace room with the Heart of the Sea. Moreover, the efficiency of relying on a magic furnace room to drive such a huge ship was too low.

But now, he had no choice but to try. The reason why the captain dared to take such a gamble was that the ship could be said to have the largest number of passengers in history.

There were hundreds of foreigners who could provide raw materials for the magic furnace, and many of them were Fire Mages from the Flame Domain, which greatly increased the efficiency.

The captain immediately ordered Ichiro to be the captain of this temporary operation. He gathered the foreigners, closed the Heart of the Sea, and tried to turn the ship into a "magic furnace" to drive the ship. However, Ichiro hesitated again because if he sent too many people to maintain the magic furnace, it would inevitably mean that the combat power on the deck would decrease greatly.

However, the captain did not give Ichiro a chance to speak. After returning the booklet to Ichiro, the captain had already led his guards to personally go into battle to fill the gap in their combat strength. If they only needed to guard the entrance of the cabin and drag their descendants on the deck, they could still do it.

Ichiro finally understood what the captain meant. From the moment they decided to crash into the giant snake, the fate of everyone on the ship was already decided. It was just a matter of time.

And what he needed to do now was to use all his strength to reach the finish line! They would use their destiny to change the future of the Thousand Islands!

Soon, the Astorokis began to slow down. This was because the Heart of the Sea had closed.

Meanwhile, in the Magic Furnace Room, a large number of players who had received the [Lone Wager] quest from Ichiro were throwing their skills at a floating core in the middle of the furnace.

Of course, they weren't destroying the cores. Instead, they were using this method to charge the core furnace. When the players' skills hit the core furnace, the core's surface would flash with a halo, absorbing all the mana in the skills and providing it as power to the furnace.

This was definitely not the working principle of a normal magic furnace. Ichiro was 100% sure of this. He had never seen a core that could absorb magic power from attacks like this. The magic furnace on the Astorokis must have been modified by someone.

But Ichiro couldn't care less about that now. He had to admit that this method of charging an unlimited number of people with attacks was much more efficient than transferring mana one by one.

But... Search the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

Just a little more! Just a little more!

The core that had absorbed a large amount of the player's skill's magic power shone brightly. The power furnace even let out a rumbling sound as if it could explode at any moment.

However, every time Ichiro felt that he was about to die, the engine furnace, which was already red-hot and overloaded, was still working. It was unknown whether it was originally of such excellent quality or had been modified like the core.

"Sir! We'll help too!"

Not only were the gamers working hard, but the sailors of the Astorokis were also pushing carts of high-quality magical crystal ores to the Magic Furnace Room.

When Ichiro asked where these rare and precious magic crystal ores came from, the sailors replied that they had found them in the warehouse and that they had been piled up there since some time ago.

If one were to think about it carefully, they would find too many suspicious points. But now, Ichiro's heart was filled with joy. He began to fill the power furnace with magic crystals together with the sailors. They filled it again and again, desperately filling it up...

Just like that...

The Astorokis finally reached the maximum speed of the Heart of the Sea. The Heart of the Sea, which had been shut down, began to flash with blue light. The other team of players who had been waiting there for a long time saw the seal pattern that had appeared on the Heart of the Sea.

When they found the sequence of the instruction manual and solved it...

Weng!

A blue halo burst out from the Heart of the Sea and enveloped the entire Astorokis. The shaman controlling it had never seen the Heart of the Sea so violent. It was as if the shackles had been removed, and the magic power in the Heart of the Sea was rising steadily, driving the entire Astorokis to speed up.

Cheng... He had succeeded!

There's no need to say more.

The huge inertia of the ship indicated that the people on the deck could not even stand steadily, let alone fight.

At this moment, everyone on the Astorokis only had one belief, charge!

Hiss...

Roar!

The Astorokis had become the center of attention. Even the Fallen Abyss Serpent, which was being held back by Vivian, had to pay attention to it. The human ship, which was one-third the size of itself, was charging at a terrifying speed.