

The Lord 871

Chapter 871: Universal Corps

The orb seemed to contain images of all living creatures and even some that Zhao Fu had never seen before. Zhao Fu felt quite shocked about this. He had never thought that it would be like this. Originally, Zhao Fu had thought that the image would be of a Wyvern, but it turned out that this was not the case.

The rainbow orb containing countless images slowly descended from the sky and turned into a stone stele. All of the images were fused into the stone stele, and Zhao Fu was quite curious.

Just based on the abnormal signs alone, it seemed that this Corps would be stronger than an ordinary Special Corps. As such, Zhao Fu immediately went up to look at it.

[Universal Corps]: With the Universal Den as the vessel, this stone stele has received a massive amount of power from the Universal Den, greatly raising all attributes. All members of the Corps can receive Universal Power, and the Corps Formation will be a crystal orb. The limit for this Corps has increased by one million soldiers.

So this was what it was like. What caught Zhao Fu's attention was the Universal Power, as well as the detailed description.

The so-called Universal Power was a power of countless Races fused together. This sort of power was naturally extremely powerful and was not much weaker than the world's source energy.

The Universal Corps was more or less the same as other Special Corps, but it had an ability that distinguished itself from others. No other Corps could rival this ability, and with this ability, the Universal Corps would be one of the top Corps in the world.

This Corps was simply too powerful,] and would be able to suppress all Corps – after all, the Universal Corps' ability was to suppress all other Corps. No matter if it was a Royal Corps or another powerful Special Corps, everything would be countered by the Universal Corps.

The true use of the Universal Corps was to make other Corps ineffective for a certain period of time. It was a Corps that could dissolve other Corps' power.

If another Corps charged over with a ferocious aura and condensed a terrifying tiger, the Universal Corps' ability would render that Corps' powers ineffective – their buffs would all disappear, and the tiger formed from the Corps' Soldier Aura would dissipate as well.

This was because the Universal Power could nullify all powers and had its own Universal Domain. Any Corps that entered this Domain would have their powers suppressed and nullified as if they had dissolved.

This Universal Corps was a great counter to all Corps. However, it might not be as effective against Corps with very high Stage soldiers. If the gap in strength between the two Corps was too great, the Universal Corps would not be as effective.

However, obtaining this Universal Corps was a great surprise, and Zhao Fu could not help but rejoice that he had obtained the Universal Den. It had simply helped Great Qin far too much.

It could spawn Wyverns and also establish a Universal Corps; nothing in Great Qin could compare to it.

Zhao Fu grinned as he put the stone stele away. After creating the Universal Corps, there were still four Corps Cores, and Zhao Fu went to the Corpse Soul Blood Lake.

There was a dense stench of blood here, as the hundreds of meters wide blood lake was formed by dissolving countless corpses in order to provide Great Qin with Corpse Soul Soldiers and Commanders every day.

After arriving at the Corpse Soul Blood Lake, Zhao Fu did not feel too confident, as the Corpse Soul Blood Lake was not a City or a Den.

Even though he was not sure, he still decided to try. Zhao Fu took out a Corps Core and threw it towards the Corpse Soul Blood Lake. The white orb of light floated towards the blood-red stone at the bottom of the Corpse Soul Blood Lake before slowly fusing into it.

The process was quite slow, and Zhao Fu could only wait beside the lake.

Suddenly, countless rays of blood-red light shot out from the water, and a massive power burst forth from beneath the water. All of the water in the lake started to quickly spin, forming a gigantic blood-red vortex.

The blood lake gave off terrifying sounds as it quickly spun, and traces of blood-red aura floated out, forming a vicious-looking monster in the air.

This monster looked quite like a Corpse Soul Soldier – it had a tall, muscular body; gray skin; and no hair. It had a savage appearance, with its mouth filled with fangs, and a pair of sharp claws. It looked quite terrifying and could scare children.

After this monster appeared, it turned into a stone stele with a monster engraved on it, which floated above the water. After this, all of the abnormal signs ceased.

Seeing that the fusing had succeeded, Zhao Fu looked quite pleased and grabbed at the air. A formless hand brought the stone stele to Zhao Fu, and he looked at its description.

[Corpse Soul Corps]: With the Corpse Soul Blood Lake as the vessel, this stone stele has received a massive amount of power from the Corpse Soul Blood Lake, greatly raising all attributes. All members of the Corps can receive Corpse Soul Power, and the Corps Formation will be a Corpse Soul monster. The limit for this Corps has increased by one million soldiers.

After reading through this description, Zhao Fu found that the Corpse Soul Power still brought with it a berserk and chaotic power, which ordinarily could not be controlled well. Only people from the Death Race or other Races with powerful bodies could use this power, or they would be harmed.

Right now, the only Death Race seemed to be the Ghost Soldiers. However, the Ghost Soldiers were not suited to this barbaric power, but luckily, Zhao Fu had a group in mind. These were the Orcs – with this power, they would become even more powerful.

The Orcs had naturally powerful bodies and a savage nature, so they would be quite compatible with the Corpse Soul Power.

Zhao Fu put away the stone stele. Now, there were only three Corps Cores left. What else did Great Qin have that could be used as a vessel? He sank into his thoughts when an idea flashed in his mind, and he realized that he had forgotten about something.

During the Six Day Festival, Zhao Fu had obtained three Cities: Celestial City and Sword Mountain had been obtained from the event, while Disaster City was a City that had fused with the Disaster Seed.

They most likely could be used as vessels – firstly, they were all Legendary grade, and because they all contained immense power, there should be no problem. Zhao Fu just so happened to have three Corps Cores remaining.

Zhao Fu first went to Disaster City. The three Cities had already been developed into Great Cities and had even greater power now. Disaster City did not have a big population, as it was Disaster-attributed and was harmful to ordinary people. Ordinary people who remained there would get sick, but those with the Disaster attribute were immune.

The Corps Core fused into the City Heart, and a powerful aura of disaster rippled out. The City Heart shined with light as a berserk wind blew. A bolt of lightning blasted out, an icy wind rushed out, and a wave of searing heat rippled out...

All sorts of natural disasters appeared in the City Hall before a black fog appeared, giving off an aura of disaster and turning into a stone stele with fog engraved on it.

Chapter 872: Disaster Corps

[Disaster Corps]: With the Disaster City as the vessel, this stone stele has received a massive amount of power from the Disaster City, greatly raising all attributes. All members of the Corps can receive Disaster Power, and the Corps Formation will be disaster fog. The limit for this Corps has increased by one million soldiers.

In the more detailed description, there was information that the soldiers part of the Disaster Corps would not be negatively affected by Disaster Power and would instead be able to control it.

Following this, Zhao Fu went to Celestial City. This was a City that any Cultivator would like because it naturally gathered the Spirit Qi in the surrounding hundreds of kilometers. The things grown here also had a trace of spirituality, and it gave off the aura of a holy land.

Those who lived here had faster Cultivation speeds, and their bodies would be nourished by Spirit Qi, making them less susceptible to illnesses and increasing their lifespan. As such, there were many people living in Celestial City, a clear contrast to Disaster City.

Zhao Fu fused the Corps Core into Celestial City's City Heart, and a dense, white wave of Spirit Qi rushed out, instantly filling the City Hall. It was as if a white fog had filled the hall.

The City Heart gave off a sunset glow, and a figure seemed to walk out. This figure was an illusory image and seemed to be a man. He was wearing white clothes and gave off a powerful aura, with a dense celestial qi around him. He seemed like a real celestial.

Following this, the image turned into a stone stele with a celestial man engraved on it.

[Celestial Corps]: With Celestial City as the vessel, this stone stele has received a massive amount of power from Celestial City, greatly raising all attributes. All members of the Corps can receive Celestial Power, and the Corps Formation will be a celestial image. The limit for this Corps has increased by one million soldiers.

The Celestial Power was indeed the power that belonged to Celestials, but it was quite relatively weak, not even 0.001% of true Celestial Power. However, it was still quite powerful, as Celestials in the Heaven Awaken World were peak experts who stood at the top of the world.

Following this, Zhao Fu went to Sword Mountain. Ge Nia was the City Lord here, and almost everyone learned the way of the sword. Zhao Fu went to the City Hall and once again fused a Corps Core into the City Heart.

Shing!

A clear sword hum sounded out as the City Heart exploded out with a sharp sword qi. It was enough to cut even Zhao Fu's skin, so he put up his Emperor's Domain to resist it.

At that moment, the City Heart gave off countless sword lights that gradually gathered into a white sword. This sword of light was three meters long and 15 centimeters wide, and it gave off a massive sword aura as if it could slash through everything.

Following this, the sword of light turned into motes of light and formed a stone stele with a sword engraved on it.

[Sword Mountain Corps]: With Sword Mountain as the vessel, this stone stele has received a massive amount of power from Sword Mountain, greatly raising all attributes. All members of the Corps can receive Sword Mountain Power, and the Corps Formation will be a sword. The limit for this Corps has increased by one million soldiers.

The Sword Mountain Corps' power leaned towards destruction and was one of the most powerful Corps in terms of attack. Overall, it was one of the best Corps that Great Qin had.

Now that Zhao Fu had established 13 Special Corps, he could finally relax. Zhao Fu smiled, as Great Qin now had a massive advantage. Right from the beginning, it was a Level 5 Barony and had 13 Special Corps. Whether it was now or in the future, they would be a big part of Great Qin's strength.

It was now early in the morning, and it would nearly be dawn. Zhao Fu finally returned to the palace, and after opening the door, he found that the women were all asleep, so he did not disturb them.

It was nearly time for the morning audience, and Zhao Fu had many important matters to discuss with his various subordinates. Now that he had taken care of the Official Positions and Corps, it was time to start acting again and level up Great Qin.

The real world had not yet been devoured, and the Heaven Domain Boundary had not disappeared yet. And yet, Great Qin had already established a Kingdom. This was a massive advantage, and after the Heaven Domain Boundary disappeared and the Grassi people attacked, they would be shocked when facing Great Qin, which had been developing as a Kingdom for many years.

The sun started to rise, causing sunlight to cover the land, and the morning sky was incredibly blue. Even though most people had partied and drunk for most of the night, with their powerful Cultivations and constitutions, they were not greatly affected.

At the morning audience, Zhao Fu asked his subordinates what Great Qin's next step should be.

Unexpectedly, everyone's thoughts were the same: to destroy Vietnam. Vietnam was North of Great Qin, and of its 350 regions, Great Qin had taken over 120 of them, leaving 230 regions.

If Great Qin took over these 230 regions, any further north would be the ocean. Anyone who wanted to attack the north of Great Qin would have to cross the ocean, and as long as Great Qin set up some defensive lines there, it basically would not have to worry about anyone attacking from the north. That way, Great Qin's north would be completely secure.

When that time came, they would only have to defend the eastern, western, and southern sides, greatly reducing the pressure of defending. As such, all of the Ministers and Generals supported taking down Vietnam.

What should they do after taking down Vietnam though? Vietnam was already Great Qin's for the taking and could be conquered at any time. What was more important was what Great Qin should do after doing this.

After conquering Vietnam, Great Qin would have to face a large number of system factions from the east, west, and south. There were also the two countries next to Vietnam, Myanmar and Laos.

This still gave Great Qin some pressure, as they would have to face many enemies. Now, they had two options: attack the two countries next to Vietnam or attack the system factions in the three directions.

"Your Majesty, this subordinate has an idea," Wei Liao stepped out and bowed before speaking.

Zhao Fu nodded and motioned for him to continue. Wei Liao said, "This subordinate believes that after conquering Vietnam, we should first attack the system factions on the three sides. Right now, the biggest faction is to Great Qin's west, and they only have 900 or so City Lords. The eastern side has 700 or so City Lords, while the southern side has 600 or so City Lords.

"In total, they only have 2,200 City Lords, which Great Qin can take down quite easily. The western faction occupies 300 regions, the eastern faction occupies 230, regions and the southern faction occupies 190 regions.

"Even though they've grouped together, many of those regions have become empty. Despite there being many player factions in those 'empty' regions, with Great Qin's power, dealing with those player factions will be no problem at all.

"If we take down all of those regions, Great Qin will have 720 regions, and with the 230 from Vietnam, Great Qin will have 950 regions. More than half of the northern side of China will fall into Great Qin's hands. This will be enough for Great Qin to stably develop for a while."

Chapter 873: Hong Bang Dynasty

“There is also the problem of Myanmar and Laos, as well as what Your Majesty will do with the 80 million players who live in Vietnam. If we kill all of them, it will come at a great cost to Great Qin and will cause a lot of anger.

“If Great Qin slaughters an entire country, the whole world will fall into panic and join together to attack Great Qin. Right now, Great Qin does not have the strength to resist an entire world.

“As such, we should never slaughter an entire country. This subordinate believes that we should scare them off; not only will this reduce Great Qin’s losses, but we will also be able to avoid slaughtering a country.

“This subordinate has a plan to achieve this: After conquering Vietnam, we can conquer some regions between Myanmar and Laos and gift those regions to Vietnam. After dying, Vietnamese people will be able to spawn there.

“However, that will be the region right between Myanmar and Laos, so they most likely will not accept the Vietnamese people. After all, it won’t just be a few Vietnamese people but an entire country. Their resources will be decreased by half, their living space will be decreased by half, and their opportunities will be decreased by half.

“This will affect the countries’ benefits and cause conflict. They will start to fight amongst themselves, helping us deal with the issue of 80 million players and whittling away at Myanmar and Laos’ strength. In the future, it will be much easier for us to take down those two countries.

“As for whether or not they will band together, with the selfish nature of humans, this is impossible. After all, this will come at a great cost to their interests, which is something that they will not be able to accept.”

“As long as Great Qin temporarily expresses that it will not attack them, they will not band together, allowing the conflict between them to continue.”

This plan caused Zhao Fu to slightly smile, and he looked at the others as he asked, “What does everyone else think?”

“We have no objections!” the other subordinates bowed as they simultaneously replied.

Zhao Fu felt quite pleased and decided to use this plan. However, because Great Qin had only just established its Kingdom, it was not ready to attack yet, and they would have to wait a few days for the other factions to let down their guard.

Indeed, the other factions all felt quite wary of Great Qin because it had just established a Kingdom, and they were worried that Great Qin would attack. However, after half a month, Great Qin had not done anything, so they started to slightly relax.

Before, Great Qin had 2,628 Great Cities and 521 Basic Cities, which was roughly 3,000 or so City Lords. It now had 1,800 Basic General Seals and 180 Intermediate General Seals, which was around 2,000 General Seals in total. This meant that Great Qin had around 5,000 City Lords.

The Vietnamese system factions had around 600 or so City Lords, and the player factions had around 400, which was less than 1,000 or so City Lords in total.

Moreover, all of those City Lords belonged to different factions and could not all gather together, so they were a pile of loose sand. This would make it quite easy for Great Qin.

The only thing that they had to worry about was the Hong Bang Dynasty, which controlled Vietnam's only Nation Armament. It was Vietnam's most ancient Dynasty and was seen as the beginning of Vietnam.

The Hong Bang Dynasty was established in 2,879 BC and lasted until 258 BC. The rulers were called 'Hung kings,' then 'Xich Quy,' and then finally 'Van Lang.' The 'Luo Yue' mentioned in China's ancient chronicles was related to the Hong Bang Dynasty.

This Dynasty had 2,000 or so years of history and had an immense amount of Fate, which was why it was able to birth a Nation Armament.

In the end, the Hong Bang Dynasty was destroyed by An Duong Vuong. An Duong Vuong was a prince of the state of Shu. After Great Qin destroyed the state of Shu in 316 BC, the royal family escaped to the northern part of Vietnam and established the kingdom of Au Lac.

Zhao Fu had complete confidence in taking down this Dynasty. After all, it was just a single Dynasty Legatee, and he was nothing to Zhao Fu.

Zhao Fu decided to use his top-tier battle force to destroy them, as they had not yet established a Kingdom and did not have any Corps to use. As such, Zhao Fu could unreservedly use his most powerful forces.

However, when they conquered Vietnam, the two other countries could interfere. After all, they understood that after Vietnam was destroyed, Great Qin's next target would be them; that was the only reason why they would be willing to help Vietnam defend against Great Qin.

That would be when Great Qin's Civil Officials came into play; they were unable to attack and could only defend.

On a dark night, when there was no moon or stars, the lighting was quite dim and it was difficult to see into the distance. A cold wind blew, and with the darkness of the night, it created an eerie atmosphere as if there were ghosts hiding in the darkness.

Zhao Fu looked at the 5,000 people behind him and said, "Your goal is to take down the City; don't waste any time with soldiers and residents. After taking over the City and relocating it, immediately leave!"

Everyone else replied in the affirmative and started to quickly move. Figures turned into rays of light and disappeared.

At a large assembly area, this was one of Vietnam's two largest factions. There were 300 or so Cities gathered here, and they spanned across ten or so regions. These regions were completely controlled by the system main cities, and there were practically no players here.

Suddenly, powerful auras shot towards the City Halls of the system main cities on the outskirts. The City Lords were greatly shocked and quickly drew their weapons as they quickly notified the other City Lords to come and defend.

However, what surprised them was that not a single City Lord came to help; this made them feel quite startled, and they came to a terrifying conclusion.

A chubby middle-aged man looked at the five City Lords in front of him with an unsightly expression. One of the people laughed coldly and said, “Vietnam is about to be conquered by Great Qin. We’ll give you one chance: Will you surrender to Great Qin?”

“So it’s Great Qin!” the chubby middle-aged man’s heart plummeted. Hearing that all of Vietnam was going to be conquered, his body felt a chill as a sense of grief and terror washed over him.

Boom!!

The five City Lords did not give him much time to think. They did not waste any more words and directly attacked. A terrifying saber light, bringing with it a massive amount of saber qi, flashed out, and the middle-aged man could only quickly dodge. He did not have the ability to fight against five City Lords.

The five City Lords all unleashed monstrous saber lights, reducing everything within 1,000 meters to rubble. There were massive gashes on the ground, and even though the middle-aged man had focused on running and dodging, he had not been able to avoid all of the attacks. He was blasted out by a shockwave and was somewhat injured.

Right now, he had only a single thing on his mind, which was to run – he definitely was not a match for those five people.

Chapter 874: King’s Seal

Not only did the five people hold a numerical advantage, they had better equipment. The chubby middle-aged City Lord knew that if he stayed here, he would die. As they had said, Vietnam was going to be conquered, so there would be no one to come and save him. As such, he could only run.

However, even though he wanted to run, how could those people allow him to? The five people scattered and rushed at the chubby middle-aged man. One of them stabbed his spear towards the middle-aged man, who used his sword to block. However, another person immediately attacked from the side, forcing the middle-aged man to dodge to the side.

Unfortunately, he was not very agile, and even though he was able to dodge the second person’s attack, he was unable to dodge the third person’s attack from behind. The massive saber, bringing with it a sharp saber qi, split open the middle-aged man’s back, causing blood to fly out.

The five people quickly dealt with this chubby middle-aged man and relocated his system main city before turning into rays of light and flying away, leaving behind the furious residents and soldiers.

Within the center of the assembly area, all of the most powerful Cities were gathered there, and the City Lords of those Cities were stronger than most.

Suddenly, a gloomy-looking man woke up from his sleep as he sensed something. His expression changed, and he rushed out of the room. He saw a young man wearing white robes and holding a steel sword in the darkness slowly walking towards him.

The young man's entire body gave off a sword intent, and it seemed incredibly sharp. It was as if the aura itself could take someone's life. This person was definitely incredibly dangerous – of course, it was Ge Nia.

"I don't want to kill unnecessarily; submit to Great Qin!" Ge Nia calmly looked at the gloomy-looking man without any emotion in his eyes.

Seeing that he was being underestimated like this, the gloomy-looking man instantly felt quite furious. He took out a bone halberd and exploded out with an eerie aura as he tapped off the ground, causing it to crack. His body shot out like an arrow, reaching Ge Nia in an instant.

The gloomy-looking man gripped his bone halberd with both hands and stabbed forwards. The head of the halberd gave off Yin Qi and a terrifying destructive power as it stabbed towards Ge Nia's chest. If he was hit, his body would definitely be pierced, causing him to die.

Shing!

Facing this terrifying attack, a clear sword hum sounded out as a silver-white sword light flashed out. Ge Nia continued to stand on the spot, his sword in the same position, but there was now a few drops of blood rolling down from it.

The gloomy-looking man looked quite shocked as he gripped his throat and looked at Ge Nia in disbelief before collapsing to the ground, dead.

A gray City Lord Seal floated out of his body, and Ge Nia's expression did not change much. He waved his hand, putting the corpse and City Lord Seal into his spatial ring. He then headed to the City Heart and relocated the system main city. Ge Nia was incredibly strong and was one of the top fighters in Great Qin.

Because the system main cities were all Great Cities, Great Qin used the City Lords of Great Cities to deal with them. The City Lords of Basic Cities were used to deal with player factions.

Countless City Lords suddenly descended on player factions and started to kill the City Lords. Great Qin had never even considered taking in any player factions and directly killed all players. As faction after faction was destroyed, all of Vietnam became panicked.

News of Great Qin attacking Vietnam not only traveled through all of Vietnam but was also spread to all factions monitoring Great Qin.

Everyone had the same thought, which was that Vietnam was finished. In the future, Vietnam would no longer exist in this world. Great Qin was simply too terrifying; after establishing its Kingdom, the first thing it did was destroy a country. This shocked everyone.

Zhao Fu led 500 or so City Lords to the Hong Bang Dynasty. Zhao Fu had detailed information on the Hong Bang Dynasty's strength. It had eight million residents, one million players, and 50 or so City Lords.

News of Great Qin attacking Vietnam had not yet spread because everyone was acting simultaneously. Zhao Fu's target was the Hong Bang Dynasty, so he directly took his group and descended there.

Even though they had not noticed Great Qin attacking Vietnam, there was still heavy security. There were soldiers standing guard everywhere, warily monitoring the situation.

Great Qin's 500 City Lords went near the Hong Bang Dynasty. They had never expected Hong Bang City to have a powerful void formation that made it impossible to fly in the area around the city.

However, this power could restrict 100 City Lords' power. As such, Zhao Fu and his City Lords simultaneously released their power, blasting apart the void formation, and they charged into the city.

They savagely attacked everything, and their powerful attacks leveled Hong Bang City. Shockwaves rippled out, killing many people, and pained cries continuously sounded out as Hong Bang City also fell into chaos.

Zhao Fu took out the Death Disaster Sword and sent his Emperor's Power into it. The sword gave off an intense gray light, and Zhao Fu slashed out. A ghost-like figure, giving off a massive amount of deathly aura, surged towards the City Hall.

The massive amount of deathly aura swept forwards, and those who were covered by it were corroded and instantly lost their lives. Immediately, 40,000 to 50,000 people died, most of whom were residents.

A crimson energy barrier appeared around the City Hall as it went into self-protection mode.

Suddenly, Zhao Fu felt a stabbing pain in his heart. He frowned as he found that the eye from the Clear Sable Sword seemed to be stabbing at his heart. This was not a fleshly pain but a pain in his spirit.

At that moment, Zhao Fu inwardly cursed at the Clear Sable Sword, saying that it was not a good thing and that he had fallen for a trap.

Normally, the eye did not show any abnormal signs, but after killing those 40,000 to 50,000 civilians, the eye had suddenly stabbed Zhao Fu. The reason was clear, as the Clear Sable Sword was a sword of kindness.

Instantly killing so many people was naturally quite evil and was contrary to the path of kindness. The pain started off quite minute, but it was growing stronger and stronger.

Boom!

A massive aura exploded out as a thin young man gave off terrifying power and rushed at Zhao Fu. This young man was the Hong Bang Dynasty's Legatee, Hung Song.

Zhao Fu used his Emperor's Power and forcefully suppressed this pain. At that moment, Hung Song gripped his saber and hacked at Zhao Fu, bringing about a massive saber wind.

Facing this attack, Zhao Fu's sword gave off an immense sword light as he sent Hung Song flying back. Hung Song's body crashed to the body, smashing open a ten-meter wide crater.

Zhao Fu now had the power of a Barony Royal City, and he had a true King's Seal's power. The Great City's power that Hung Song had exploded out with seemed incredibly small in front of Zhao Fu.

Chapter 875: Crimson Ghost

Zhao Fu did not even put his full strength into that strike because he had only just suppressed that eye when Hung Song had attacked.

“Arghhh!!” a roar sounded out from within the crater as a crimson aura exploded out like a wild gale. A crimson dragon rushed out from within Hung Song's body, shooting into the sky and giving off a massive roar.

The crimson dragon's body gave off a powerful crimson light, dyeing the entire sky crimson. The Spirit Qi in the surroundings quickly gathered, causing Hung Song's strength to continuously rise.

Zhao Fu started to unleash the true power of the Great Qin Seal. An even more powerful energy ripple came from Zhao Fu's body. He held the Death Disaster Sword with one hand and slashed out, causing a 1,000-meter long gray sword light, giving off a boundless deathly aura, to fly towards Hung Song.

Hung Song looked quite startled and quickly used his saber to block in front of him. However, he was still sent flying, crashing through many structures and coughing up a mouthful of blood.

Even if he used up all of his Fate to increase his strength, in front of Zhao Fu's King's Seal, he still could not put up much resistance.

Zhao Fu looked at the heavily-wounded Hung Song and prepared to kill him to end this quickly.

Suddenly, an incredibly terrifying aura instantly covered all of Vietnam. Everyone in Vietnam sensed this monstrous aura, feeling a sense of fear within their hearts.

A statue of a monster giving off intense crimson light appeared in front of Hung Song. This monster statute was that of a Malicious Ghost. It had a tall body with crimson skin, a savage face, and a horn on its head, with beast skin covering its body.

This was the Hong Bang Dynasty's Nation Armament, the Crimson Ghost Statue. As a Nation Armament, its power was quite shocking and was not something that ordinary people could resist.

Facing this power, Zhao Fu did not plan to use Great Qin's Nation Armament. After all, the Hong Bang Dynasty's Nation Armament was only a Level 5 Nation Armament; the higher level a Nation Armament, naturally, the more powerful it would be.

The things that determined the level of a Nation Armament was one's Fate and the strength of one's faction. The more powerful one's Fate and faction, the higher level one's Nation Armament would be.

Zhao Fu felt that his King's Seal – the Great Qin Seal – would be enough to deal with this, so he did not bother using his Nation Armament or any of Great Qin's Fate, which was incredibly precious.

Boom!!

An explosion rocked the surroundings as the Great Qin Seal within Zhao Fu's body gave off black flames. Countless black aura rushed out from within Zhao Fu's body, causing his aura to become stronger and stronger. Clouds started to swirl as nine black dragons that were two meters long floated around him.

Zhao Fu slowly lifted his Death Disaster Sword and sent the Great Qin Seal's power into it. A shocking sword light shot into the sky, and a gray-white deathly intent covered everything within 100 kilometers.

Boom!

Another massive explosion sounded out as Zhao Fu slashed downwards, making it seem like a thousand mountains were falling. The air exploded as a terrifying sword light slashed down at Hung Song.

At that moment, facing Zhao Fu's attack, Hung Song did not dare to be careless at all. The Crimson Ghost Statue fused into his body, and a massive power rippled out. A Crimson flame burst forth around his body, and the ground beneath him continuously collapsed.

"Hah!!" Hung Song roared as he gripped his saber with both hands and slashed out as well, sending out a crimson sword light towards Zhao Fu.

Boom!

A shocking explosion sounded out as the two attacks clashed, seeming as if two worlds were colliding. A blinding white light covered the surrounding 100 kilometers, forming a terrifying shockwave that obliterated countless structures.

The people in the surroundings looked at these monstrous shockwaves in terror, and they could not help but tremble.

Hung Song was sent flying by the shockwaves and crashed hundreds of meters away, coughing up a mouthful of blood. Zhao Fu was also sent back dozens of meters, and a trace of blood leaked out from his lips.

Zhao Fu wiped away the blood; he had somewhat underestimated this Nation Armament's power. His gaze became cold, and he turned into a ray of light as he shot at Hung Song.

Hung Song was now severely injured, and seeing this, he hurriedly dodged to the side.

Boom!!

A massive explosion sounded out as if a mountain had dropped out of the sky. An enormous impact caused the surrounding 1,000 meters to cave in, and even though Hung Song avoided being directly hit, he was still hit by the shockwaves and was once again blasted away.

The air seemed to freeze as Zhao Fu's terrifying eyes looked at Hung Song in the air. His body blurred as he once again rushed up.

Seeing Zhao Fu shooting at him, Hung Song loudly roared and forcefully stopped his body from flying back. He gripped his saber and slashed out towards Zhao Fu, sending out a terrifying crimson sword light.

Boom!

Zhao Fu also slashed out, and a gigantic explosion rang out as the two terrifying attacks collided, shaking the surrounding ten or so kilometers.

The two people at the center of the explosion were also sent flying backward. Zhao Fu was sent flying 100 or so meters before he stabilized himself. His clothes were in disarray, and he coughed up a mouthful of blood, whereas Hung Song's entire body was bloodied and he crashed to the ground, looking gravely injured.

This was Zhao Fu's best opportunity to kill Hung Song. Zhao Fu immediately walked towards him, and a Hong Bang Dynasty General fighting nearby desperately escaped from a few City Lords' attacks and rushed at Zhao Fu, yelling to Hung Song, "Your Majesty! Hurry and escape!"

Seeing the General charge at him, Zhao Fu disdainfully stabbed out, causing a sword light to easily pierce through that General's chest, killing him instantly.

Zhao Fu arrived at Hung Song's body, and Hung Song prepared to release the last of his strength to fight with Zhao Fu to the end. However, Zhao Fu did not give him this opportunity and ended his life before he could do so.

A crimson City Lord Seal, as well as a Crimson Ghost Statue that was as big as a palm, floated out of the corpse. The City Lord Seal had turned dim, but the Crimson Ghost Statue still had some power and turned into a ray of light as it tried to escape.

Zhao Fu grabbed at the air, locking it down. The 500 City Lords he brought forcefully suppressed the Hong Bang City, and a mournful dragon's cry sounded out in the northern side of the Midland Continent, concluding this operation.

At that moment, Great Qin received urgent news that a large number of system factions and player factions in the east, west, and south had gathered together and were attacking Great Qin. There was also Myanmar and Laos, who had gathered two massive forces and were also attacking.

Chapter 876: 13 Corps

After hearing about this, Zhao Fu and the other City Lords quickly returned. The factions attacking Great Qin had never thought that Great Qin's forces would be able to return so quickly, so they instantly lost their confidence and stopped attacking.

Luckily, Great Qin had not used its army, only its City Lords, so the Civil Officials and soldiers in the army were able to hold on until Zhao Fu and the other City Lords returned.

If it wasn't for the Civil Officials and Great Qin's massive army, it was possible that Great Qin would have been broken through.

After all, the enemy forces had come with immense momentum. The western side had sent 800 City Lords, 80 million soldiers, and ten million people from player factions; the eastern side had sent 600 City Lords, 60 million soldiers, and ten million people from player factions; and the southern side had sent 500 City Lords, 50 million soldiers, and ten million people from player factions.

Myanmar and Laos had also formed an army of ten million people and were attacking from the north; it could be said that Great Qin was being attacked on all fronts.

This was something that all of the attackers had planned. If they had not made preparations, they would not have been able to act so quickly at the same time.

Moreover, those people from the player factions were not actual players; after all, no one dared to go up against Great Qin with its Reality-Harming Talismans.

Rather, these people were all spawned from Villages of player factions; most of them were actually indigenous residents.

After all, if Great Qin was to destroy everything, they would naturally also be wiped out, so they had to join the resistance against Great Qin as well.

There was a total of 240 million people attacking, and Great Qin also had 200 million or so soldiers. Moreover, they were all Stage 1 soldiers. As Great Qin's City Lords returned to defend, with the Civil Officials, the attackers naturally did not dare to continue.

However, they did not leave, as they knew that they had to fight with Great Qin sooner or later. As such, both sides faced off in a stalemate.

Great Qin did not take the initiative to attack, as it held the geographical advantage, and there was no need to let go of this advantage. At the same time, they were choosing people to join the various Corps.

Great Qin now had 13 Corps, and there were no special restrictions. All excellent soldiers could join a Corps and obtain that Corps' attributes; there was no need for any special attributes to join.

If there were people with special attributes joining a Special Corps, the effects would naturally be better. For example, the residents from the Disaster City innately had a Disaster attribute, so after joining the Disaster Corps, their Disaster attribute would become much more powerful.

Because Great Qin's 13 Corps were all Special Corps, they could all have three million soldiers, while the Great Qin Imperial Corps could have five million soldiers. In total, this meant that Great Qin could have 41 million soldiers in the Corps.

This event gave Zhao Fu a warning to be more careful when sending out his army. There were far too many people investigating Great Qin, and if Zhao Fu sent out too many soldiers, how could they defend against a force of 240 million soldiers?

Right now, both sides were facing off against each other. Both sides gave off intense auras, filling the surrounding 100 kilometers with an aura of oppression. Zhao Fu went to the western side; this was where the largest attacking army was.

“Why have you suddenly attacked Great Qin? Great Qin is friends with everyone and has maintained friendly relations with everyone. Great Qin has treated you all with courtesy, and yet, you have all done such a shameless thing. This is such evil and treacherous behavior.”

Zhao Fu stood in the air, speaking with a loud voice that rivaled a wave crashing onto the shore. Even though Great Qin had long since decided to attack them after dealing with Vietnam, it was them who had attacked first, so Great Qin could stand on the side of justice to rebuke them.

There were benefits to this, as it placed Zhao Fu on the side of righteousness, which would result in many people supporting them. At the same time, it would decrease the morale of the other side; after all, Great Qin had treated them well, and yet they were attacking Great Qin.

Another benefit was that this would prevent factions further away from joining in right now. Great Qin did not threaten them, and because Great Qin was in the right, they naturally would not help others attack Great Qin.

Afterward, Great Qin would continue to maintain fake friendly relations with those factions. Now that things had become like this, there was no more need to keep pretending, and they would destroy these factions first.

Facing Zhao Fu's criticism, the western factions felt incredibly angry. They could tell that Great Qin would make a move on them, so they had decided to attack first. They were simply protecting themselves but were said to be evil and treacherous.

Zhao Fu's words also caused the other sides' soldiers' morale to slightly decrease. Even though these soldiers completely followed their City Lords' commands, it seemed like they were indeed in the wrong.

Someone noticed the changing atmosphere in the army and shouted angrily, "Everyone, don't listen to Great Qin's Legatee's nonsense! Great Qin has always planned on conquering us, and them attacking Vietnam is proof. With how bloodthirsty and ambitious Great Qin is, we were forced to attack to protect ourselves. We've done nothing wrong."

Hearing this, Zhao Fu rebutted him, saying, "China is the Celestial Empire, and clearing out other nations is only right and proper. You are all part of China; has Great Qin ever attacked you in the past year?"

This made the other side speechless, and this sounded quite reasonable. They could not find any way to rebut this, making them feel quite sullen and angry.

Zhao Fu did not continue talking to them, and he ordered the army to continue to defend this place; if the other side attacked, they were to vigorously fight back.

At the same time, Zhao Fu ordered Li Si to send out ambassadors to factions far away and to send big gifts while also telling them about these factions' evil deeds. This would cause Great Qin to receive more support, and it would also make Great Qin seem more righteous and the attacking factions seem evil, so that anyone would think that those factions deserved to be destroyed.

Following this, Zhao Fu left them to their own devices. If they wanted to fight, Great Qin would fight; Great Qin was not afraid of them. Zhao Fu still had many things to take care of.

There was the issue of their gains – this time, Great Qin had taken down a Dynasty Legacy, four Nation Legacies, and countless system main cities and player Cities.

All of the Dynasty, State, and player Cities had been relocated, and Great Qin had not taken anything else. Many of the system main cities had surrendered in front of Great Qin's pressure.

300 system main cities had surrendered, providing Great Qin with 100 million residents and 30 million Stage 1 soldiers. These gains were quite shocking, so right now, Zhao Fu did not want to fight. After completely devouring Vietnam, they would start attacking those around them.

Chapter 877: Relocation

Taking down all of Vietnam had brought immense benefits. In total, they had obtained 620 system main cities and 300 Cities. These Cities were essentially all from players. Of course, it was likely that there were some that they had missed. After all, the factions had suddenly attacked, so Great Qin had not had enough time to properly clear out those regions.

Vietnam was now essentially finished. Whether they were system main cities or player factions, they had all perished, and Vietnam had no more strength as a nation.

The indigenous residents had all given up on their identities as Vietnamese indigenous residents and had sought refuge in other countries.

The 80 million players were in a state of panic. Because Vietnam had been destroyed, they had nowhere to go. The place where they were now was no longer Vietnam's territory but Great Qin's territory.

Some people suggested banding together and fiercely attacking Great Qin together with the other factions. However, they were all scattered and belonged to different factions, and they were not united. Most importantly, they were scared of death.

Before, Great Qin had killed millions of people like they were ants; this had dealt a great blow to the minds of all Vietnamese players.

Countless factions were quite rational; now that Vietnam was gone, there was no need to cling onto it. What was most important was to survive, so they set their sights on Great Qin.

Now, Vietnam was essentially part of Great Qin. With how powerful Great Qin was, if they could become part of Great Qin, they would have nothing to worry about in the future.

As such, countless factions did not resist Great Qin, and they instead expressed their goodwill to Great Qin. They understood that Vietnam had perished, and because they were not a match for Great Qin, they could only give in and submit to Great Qin.

Many famous people and upper-class people understood this too and tried all sorts of methods to try to enter Great Qin.

All former officials, aristocrats, geniuses, and beauties had to act subserviently and bow down to Great Qin.

This was the state of the chaotic world: there was no order, and fighting was everywhere. Those who were strong ruled and those who were weak perished. Anyone who wanted to live had to follow the law of the jungle.

Fortunately, Great Qin was not weak. As a strong faction, it had the power to establish a new order. Since they wanted to join Great Qin, Zhao Fu naturally would not reject them. When the real world was destroyed, Vietnam would also disappear.

However, Zhao Fu would not accept them right now; currently, Great Qin was not taking in any player factions.

Seeing that they were so willing to cooperate, he naturally had to properly use them. For this, Wei Liao had already thought up a plan.

With these factions leading the way, it would be even easier for Wei Liao's plan to succeed, which was to have a large number of players enter the regions between Myanmar and Laos.

Even though many factions were willing to submit to Great Qin, there were still some factions and ordinary people who greatly hated Great Qin. This was their land, and it was likely that they would not leave and might even resist Great Qin in trying to clear it.

For this, Zhao Fu had to even create a crisis. Right now, Great Qin's soldiers were tied up by the attacking factions, but luckily, Great Qin had another card up its sleeves.

"I just saw so many Skeletons rushing towards where we are! Those Skeletons don't look weak at all, and there are so many of them; what should we do?" a terrified cry sounded out.

"It's not just our region; every single region is filled with Undead. What's going on? Why have so many Undead appeared all of a sudden?" another shouted out.

"It's Great Qin! It's definitely Great Qin! Only Great Qin has this ability! They want to use Undead to slaughter all Vietnamese people; I don't want to die!" someone yelled.

They were not sure how Great Qin killed people and thought that if they were killed by the Undead, they would die a true death.

This caused all of Vietnam to fall into a state of panic, as everyone was afraid of a true death. At that moment, a faction acted like a light in the darkness, holding up Vietnam's last flag.

"Don't worry everyone, the Vietnamese Alliance will protect you. We can't stay here anymore; this is already Great Qin's territory. We don't hold any advantage here, and there are Undead Disasters everywhere; if we stay here, we can only die.

"Even if we can stop this Undead Disaster, Great Qin will still find other ways to destroy us. Do we have the power to stand up to Great Qin?"

“Follow us, we have a place to refuge. Even though it’s not entirely safe there either, it’s definitely better than staying here. If you don’t want to die, come with us.”

The Vietnamese Alliance was made up of the top-tier factions, and it was now the biggest faction in Vietnam. Most people were able to trust them, and they understood that what the Vietnamese Alliance said was true – they were not a match for Great Qin at all.

They were in utter chaos, and no one knew what to do or what Vietnam’s next step would be. The appearance of the Vietnamese Alliance was like a torch guiding them in the darkness, so they naturally chose to believe in it.

In actuality, they had no choice but to trust in the Vietnamese Alliance. The Vietnamese Alliance was made up of 70% of all of the top-tier factions, and if even they were leaving and not choosing to resist Great Qin, what could they, the ordinary people, do?

The ordinary factions were the same. Since these top-tier factions had left, staying here would be the equivalent of committing suicide. As such, they also followed the Vietnamese Alliance and left. As for those who dared to stay, there was soon news of their true deaths in the real world.

This made everyone who had left feel quite relieved. If they had not left, then they would have turned out the same. They were now terrified of how cold-blooded Great Qin was and felt incredibly grateful to the Vietnamese Alliance.

The regions that they were teleported to were regions near the center of Laos’ territory. This made countless people feel quite surprised, but this land evidently belonged to Vietnam, not Laos.

The Laotian people were also quite shocked. Laos had plenty of regions, and it was only slightly weaker than Vietnam, having roughly 70 million people.

However, their regions had suddenly been taken over by Vietnam, and a large number of Vietnamese people had suddenly been moved over. How could they accept another country’s people staying within their territory?

All of the Laotian people wanted to chase these Vietnamese people out, and many of them even formed groups and attacked the Vietnamese players. However, there were simply too many Vietnamese players, and they failed in the end.

This was because whether it was in terms of strength or numbers, Vietnam was overall stronger than Laos, so it was only natural that small groups of Laotians could not drive the Vietnamese players out.

Chapter 878: Emperor Phoenix

Right now, their only advantage was in their player factions' City Lords and system factions. The system factions were all gathered together and had given up many regions. As long as Vietnam did not threaten them and only took over the regions they had given up on, they did not care much.

As such, the only ones who would be willing to do anything were the player factions' City Lords. Only through them could the Laotian people chase the Vietnamese people out.

On the other hand, the Vietnamese people had finally found a safe place where they did not have to fear Great Qin. Before, because of the Chaotic World, various countries had fought, and there had been some conflict between Vietnam and Laos. As such, the Vietnamese people intensely resisted being chased out.

There had been many large battles between the two sides. Because they had an advantage in terms of top-tier forces, Laos was able to suppress Vietnam, making the Vietnamese side feel quite sullen.

However, something greatly changed the situation, forcing Laos to give up on chasing out Vietnam, as Great Qin suddenly started to attack Laos. It continuously conquered 20 or so regions, sending all of Laos into a panic. In order to prevent the tragedy that happened at Vietnam, all of the Laotian players factions went to defend against Great Qin's invasion.

In light of the threat of Great Qin, getting rid of the Vietnamese people was but a minor matter.

The Vietnamese side also suddenly obtained dozens more City Lords, allowing Vietnam to stand their ground within Laotian territory. The unsettled Vietnamese players could finally relax, and they felt incredibly grateful to the Vietnamese Alliance.

There were all sorts of coincidences in this, such as the appearance of the Vietnamese Alliance. It was as if some invisible power had fused all of the top factions together and helped them take over some of the Laotian regions and transported the countless Vietnamese players to those regions.

Moreover, just when the Vietnamese people were in crisis, Great Qin had suddenly attacked Laos, resulting in the safety of the Vietnamese people.

Everything pointed at Great Qin, and it was indeed Great Qin who had orchestrated all of this.

The original plan was for Great Qin to chase the Vietnamese players into the neighboring two countries, but the Vietnamese factions had been incredibly cooperative, so Zhao Fu had changed his plan and had them invade Laos.

Comparatively speaking, Laos and Myanmar were weaker than Vietnam, so with Great Qin's help, Laos would not be able to chase away the Vietnamese people. The Vietnamese people were now an important piece that Great Qin had buried in Laos, and they would be quite useful in the future.

Of course, none of the ordinary players or factions knew anything about this. Perhaps some of the Chinese people could tell what was happening, but they did not have the time or strength to do anything about it. They were currently fighting against Great Qin themselves and were completely invested in this struggle.

After Great Qin destroyed Vietnam in one night, the atmosphere in China changed and became darker. Everyone knew that they had to resist Great Qin because just from this development alone, they would never be able to surpass Great Qin, and the gap between them would grow wider and wider.

If they did not destroy Great Qin, they would be destroyed by Great Qin sooner or later. All of the Dynasty and Nation Legatees all decided to start to target Great Qin, but during this time, all of the Hundred Schools of Thought and Sects all fell silent.

Most of them chose to remain neutral. Even though they had opposed Great Qin a few times before, that was only when Great Qin had threatened the world.

The various Legatees, factions, and heroes would all vie for supremacy sooner or later, and originally, the Hundred Schools of Thought had been planning to help various factions obtain victory and establish an eternal empire.

However, things were different now – the rise of Great Qin was simply too shocking, and they had already offended Great Qin many times. If they continued to casually get involved and if Great Qin won, they would definitely be destroyed.

As such, they could not support either side in this conflict. They would only support whoever won, as they would be the new rulers.

Within the grand palace, Zhao Fu sat on his throne and looked at the 600 or so Vietnamese women below. There were women from the Hong Bang Dynasty and the various Nation Legacies, and they were all relatives of the Legatees, such as their mothers, sisters, aunties, cousins, etc.

There were 65 of these relatives, and the women from the Hong Bang Dynasty were crucial for refining the Nation Armament. There were another 570 women who were all top-tier beauties from Vietnam. They all had different statuses and all had decent amounts of Phoenix Qi.

Most of these women had come voluntarily, and Great Qin had not gone out of its way to capture them. When Vietnam had perished, most of these women had been sent over by Vietnam's large families, wanting to provide a safe place for their families. Others were here for their own interests, but they were all gathered here in the palace.

The women gathered here could represent 80% of Vietnam's top-tier beauties, and they were all gathered in Great Qin. This was something that countless men could only dream of; who else could gather all of the beauties in a country for themselves?

Zhao Fu calmly looked over them as Li Si, who had their information, was writing Imperial Edicts. Li Si then handed them to Zhao Fu, who took out the Great Qin Seal and stamped them, filling them with the Great Qin Empire's power.

As the King's Seal of Great Qin, the Great Qin Seal controlled all authority in Great Qin. Before, Zhao Fu had used the Imperial Ruler's Seal for Imperial Edicts, but now that Zhao Fu had his own King's Seal, it was better to use the Great Qin Seal rather than China's Clan Armament.

Now, making these women concubines was not as simple as before. Because he had established a Kingdom, Zhao Fu had to follow certain rites and systems.

Li Si stood beside Zhao Fu and read out all of the women's names, and the Imperial Edicts turned into rays of black light and entered their bodies.

Immediately, a massive wave of Phoenix Qi rose up out of the women, giving off shocking sounds, and Zhao Fu was somewhat startled at how much Phoenix Qi there was.

The Phoenix Qi was guided by a formless energy and floated out of the palace.

“Skreeee!!” A massive aura exploded out, shaking the heavens and the earth and causing the weather to change as a phoenix cry sounded throughout the entirety of Great Qin. Feeling those terrifying ripples, the golden dragon said, “The Phoenix Statue has reached the level of a Nation Armament, and it is finally going to be useful.”

Hearing this, Zhao Fu felt quite surprised and also quite excited, because even the golden dragon had been shocked by the Emperor Phoenix Statue. As long as he provided it with enough Phoenix Qi, it could surpass even Clan Armaments.

Zhao Fu went out of the palace and looked up at the 1,000-meter wide golden phoenix dancing elegantly in the sky. There were countless birds flying alongside it, and it gave off a golden light that dyed the entire sky gold.

All of Great Qin’s territory was covered by this golden light, and traces of golden phoenix-like aura fell as countless traces of black dragon-like aura rose from the ground, and the two auras fused together in the air.

Chapter 879: Qin Ghost

All of Great Qin’s residents felt an energy descending onto them, healing anyone who was sick or injured and making their bodies even stronger.

All of Great Qin’s Fate became even purer at that moment, and Great Qin’s massive amount of Fate seemed to solidify and become incredibly stable, making it difficult for it to scatter or dissipate.

This was most likely the effect of the Phoenix Qi. Phoenix Qi was used for solidifying one’s country and establishing a foundation.

However, that was only one of the functions of the Emperor Phoenix Statue. Another function was actual power. Now that Great Qin had gathered many women with Phoenix Qi and they had gathered almost 80% of the Phoenix Qi of Vietnam here, the Emperor Phoenix Statue’s power reached Nation Armament level.

When using it, Zhao Fu would be able to obtain power equal to a Nation Armament, but it did not use Fate, using Phoenix Qi instead.

Great Qin had once again obtained a Nation Armament level item. What's more, this Emperor Phoenix Statue could continue to evolve and had the potential to surpass Clan Armaments.

However, that was still not the extent of the Emperor Phoenix Statue's functions. The golden phoenix flying in the sky circled in the air above Zhao Fu, causing countless traces of golden light to fall down onto his body, and a massive wave of Phoenix Qi entered his body.

At the same time, all concubines' bodies gave off Phoenix Qi, and it floated towards Zhao Fu's body before rushing into him. Soon, a golden crystal condensed within Zhao Fu's body.

This golden crystal was spherical and transparent. It was only as big as a peanut and gave off a powerful Phoenix Qi aura and a powerful Fate aura.

Following this, the abnormal signs gradually disappeared, and the golden phoenix became the Emperor Phoenix Statue again on the Heaven Prayer Platform.

"Congratulations, Your Majesty! Felicitations, Your Majesty!" After seeing this, everyone understood that it was something good and congratulated Zhao Fu after it was all over.

Zhao Fu sensed the power within his body and smiled as he nodded. He took everyone back to the palace, and looking at the women, he said, "You've all contributed to this, so I will reward you all. You may all leave, but the women from the Hong Bang Dynasty are to stay."

The women all felt quite happy. They did not know what they had done, yet they were going to be rewarded, so they thanked Zhao Fu before leaving with some palace maids.

Now, it was just the women from the Hong Bang Dynasty who looked at Zhao Fu with either looks of anger or fear. An elegant middle-aged woman said angrily, "You've already destroyed the Hong Bang Dynasty; you can kill us or torture us if you want, but we won't submit to you!"

“Mother, I feel the same way. This person killed my big brother and destroyed the Hong Bang Dynasty; he’s our greatest enemy. We definitely won’t submit to him; even if I die, I’m not afraid!” a beautiful young girl said bravely.

“Mm! That’s right! The worst that can happen to us is dying. I heard that Great Qin’s Legatee is incredibly perverted; whenever he takes down a faction, he always violates the female relatives of the Legatees. I won’t submit to you either; kill me if you dare!” a valiant-looking woman said resolutely.

A few other women nodded, but others looked at Zhao Fu fearfully, seeming ready to submit and not even try to resist.

Facing these women, Zhao Fu lightly laughed as he walked down, disregarding their words. He had heard these things many times, and he looked at them as he said, “Let’s go! I’ll spare your relatives if you cooperate!”

This caused the women’s expressions to change, and thinking about their relatives, they could only fall silent and follow behind Zhao Fu.

Within the refining building, a cacophony of moans and thumps sounded out, resulting in a chaotic scene. Zhao Fu put on his clothes and took the Crimson Ghost Statue, which was no longer resisting, with him, leaving the women on the warm ground.

Zhao Fu once again gathered the ten Generals and conducted the Great World Refinement. A massive explosion sounded out as Heaven and Earth Essence Qi rapidly gathered, forming a massive cauldron. A formless fire lit up, starting to refine the Crimson Ghost Statue.

The 100,000 Vietnamese indigenous residents were also prepared, kneeling on the ground and shouting that they were willing to submit to Great Qin and pledge their loyalty to it.

All of the Crimson Ghost Statue’s aura was wiped away by the formless flame, and Great Qin’s Fate madly rushed towards it. The Crimson Ghost Statue hungrily devoured all of the Fate.

Boom!!

A massive explosion sounded out as the enormous cauldron dissipated and scattered, and a statue giving off blood-red light appeared in the sky. It gave off an incredibly powerful aura and seemed incredibly shocking.

The Crimson Ghost Statue's appearance did not change much, but the light that it gave off was no longer crimson-red but blood-red. It also seemed even more savage, and it gave off a bloodthirsty, evil aura.

The statue gradually descended, and Zhao Fu stretched out his hand to catch it. He looked at it closely before giving a pleased smile. He then renamed it Qin Ghost Statue.

Now, Great Qin's Nation Armaments were the Twelve Metal Colossi, Nation-Suppressing Pillar, Great Qin Demon Saber, and Qin Ghost Statue. The Emperor Phoenix Statue could also be counted as one now, and Great Qin's two Clan Armaments were the Imperial Ruler's Seal and Great Qin Emperor Peacock.

Great Qin's strength was now simply monstrous; who else had so many Nation Armaments? This was simply impossible.

Zhao Fu placed the Qin Ghost Statue next to the City Heart so that it could also be nourished by Great Qin's Fate, and that was the end of that.

Now, it was time to deal with those 230 Vietnamese regions. Even though Great Qin had taken over those regions, they were not formally part of Great Qin's territory yet. Only land that had formally been made Great Qin's territory could cause the Kingdom to level up.

If Zhao Fu wanted to make these regions Great Qin's territory, he would have to clear out all of the factions and obtain complete control over those regions. He would have to then construct a Great Wall to protect those regions; only then would these regions form part of Great Qin's Kingdom.

However, most of Great Qin's soldiers were being tied down by the various attackers, so he did not have many soldiers to come and clear out regions. After talking about it with his subordinates, Zhao Fu decided to first construct a Great Wall to protect those regions first.

After all, Great Qin soldiers were defending here and had to be wary of attacks from Laos and Myanmar. If they constructed a Great Wall, they would be able to leisurely clear out those regions without any worry.

Now that Great Qin had such a large population, even though the formal army was tied up, Great Qin could make a few civilian armies to clear out the regions.

They had all sorts of buffs and good equipment, so it would be no problem for them to deal with the ordinary Villages. If they encountered any Towns, they would just remember the location so that Zhao Fu could send some soldiers to deal with them later.

Chapter 880: Secret Meeting

While Great Qin prepared to extend the Great Wall and clear out those regions, the various Dynasty Legatees also started to act.

People wearing cloaks, hiding their faces and auras, walked into a hidden room. There were 30 or so of them, and they sat in a circle.

When they took off their cloaks and revealed their appearances, what was shocking was that they were all Dynasty Legatees or Nation Legatees.

Even Great Xia's Legatee, Si Ji, was here, and apart from Great Qin, all of the Dynasty Legatees from China were here, and there were 20 or so Nation Legatees.

They had secretly gathered here not because of anything good. Great Qin had already established an Empire, and this greatly threatened and shocked all of China. They had only one goal, which was to destroy Great Qin.

They had learned their lessons from previous times, and they did not feel too confident, so they were currently discussing what to do.

This was because they had entered the final stage of the Chaotic World, so even if Great Qin perished, there would not be any more invasion events. As such, they did not have to worry about any negative consequences of destroying Great Qin.

Those gathered here included the Xia Dynasty, Shang Dynasty, Han Dynasty, Jin Dynasty, Sui Dynasty, Tang Dynasty, Song Dynasty, Yuan Dynasty, Ming Dynasty, Qing Dynasty – 11 Dynasties in total and 11 Nation Armaments, as well as countless soldiers. If they allied together, they were almost invincible.

This was even more so the case with another 20 or so Nation Legatees joining. Together, even a large country would fear them, as no one would be able to defend against an attack from them.

Only Great Qin could make them feel so fearful and willing to gather together.

Seeing that everyone had arrived, Si Ji said seriously, “We Dynasty Legatees can send four million soldiers each, and you Nation Legatees can send two million soldiers each; this way, we will have 100 million soldiers. At the same time, the Dynasty Legatees will send 50 City Lords each, and the Nation Legatees will send 20 each, for a total of 1,000 City Lords.

“However, this sort of power is not enough; we need to ally with even more factions and not just limit it to China or even those in the Midland Continent. Those in other Continents can use special methods to help; only by doing this can we destroy Great Qin in one fell stroke.”

Speaking to there, a trace of a smile appeared on Si Ji’s face, and he took out letters and handed them out to everyone present, making them feel quite delighted.

These letters came from many neighboring countries. Many Legatees from other countries, such as Russia, Mongolia, Japan, the Philippines, India, Indonesia, Korea, Kazakhstan, Thailand, Myanmar, and Laos had all expressed their willingness to help.

With their help, they had much more confidence in destroying Great Qin. Great Qin was indeed powerful, but it had no way of defending against all of them. The destruction of Great Qin was now already determined, because they were not only gathering their military forces but also 20 or so Nation Armaments.

In front of their alliance, Great Qin now seemed incredibly weak. Great Qin could only blame itself for being too threatening and making them feel unsettled.

However, someone read through those letters and frowned as he said, “In the end, this is China’s matter; are we going too far?”

Hearing this, someone else immediately mockingly rebutted him, saying, “Who gives a damn if Great Qin’s part of China; do you have the power to stop it? Only by allying and taking all opportunities can we destroy Great Qin. Otherwise, we'll be the ones destroyed by Great Qin; do you want to be destroyed by Great Qin?"

Hearing his words, the person who spoke sighed and did not say anything else.

At that moment, the entire Continent was filled with an oppressive calmness, like the calm before a massive storm.

This sort of dangerous and oppressive feeling was sensed even by the countless ordinary people, and they looked towards Great Qin.

"Su Zhe, what did you want to see me for?" A cheerful-looking woman with a seductive body sweetly smiled, and she looked at the handsome young man in front of her.

This handsome-looking young man was called Su Zhe, and he was the Legatee of a large family. He was quite talented and handsome and was naturally liked by many women.

The woman's name was Bai Yue, and she was part of the Flower Moon. She and Su Zhe had been dating for four years, and they were extremely close and sweet; they had long since decided to spend the rest of their lives together.

Because Flower Moon prohibited becoming close with any factions, as Flower Moon always remained neutral, this sort of relationship was prohibited. As such, the two of them could only keep their relationship a secret.

Su Zhe lightly smiled as he pulled Bai Yue into his embrace, and he looked down at her lovingly as he said, "Of course it's because I missed you!"

Bai Yue felt a warmth within her heart, and she gave a sweet smile as she tightly hugged Su Zhe.

"Yue Yue, there's something I want to talk to you about," Su Zhe said as he hugged Bai Yue.

"Oh, what is it?" Bai Yue softly replied.

At that moment, Su Zhe became slightly nervous as he said, “Can you give me the information that Flower Moon has on Great Qin?”

Bai Yue felt quite startled and looked at Su Zhe as she asked, “Why do you want information on Great Qin? Great Qin and Flower Moon are currently working together; I can’t agree to that!”

Su Zhe’s heart sank, but he explained, saying, “Great Qin is going to be destroyed. We’ve gathered 30,000 or so City Lords and 700 million soldiers, as well as people you can’t even imagine coming to help. This time, Great Qin will definitely be destroyed!

“Flower Moon is currently quite close with Great Qin, and they’ve already decided to make a move on Flower Moon after destroying Great Qin. When that time comes, everyone in Flower Moon will be faced with death.

“Even though Flower Moon is ‘working together’ with Great Qin, Great Qin has always been on its guard against you and has even taken your women and still not released them. You all work so hard to provide information reports to Great Qin, but Great Qin only sees you all as tools.

“Are you really going to allow Flower Moon to be destroyed because of Great Qin? I feel that this is unfair for Flower Moon, and I’m also worried about your safety.

“I’m sure that because of how wary Great Qin has been, Flower Moon does not have that much information on it anyways. Perhaps anyone could provide this information, and as long as you don’t tell anyone and I don’t tell anyone, no one in the world will know about this.”

Hearing this, Bai Yue started to feel quite hesitant. Indeed, she did not have a positive impression of Great Qin, and they did not have much information on it. However, it was still more than what other factions had.

If she gave this information to someone else, it could cause Great Qin to stop working with Flower Moon and even more serious consequences. She did not dare to make this decision by herself.
