

The Queen 751

Chapter 751: Posting on Weibo

Identifying her as a talent show singer was not discrimination, but in front of such an ace manager, it was indeed not up to standard.

However, Su Cha had already joined it at that time, so she had no choice but to let nature take its course.

Who could have known what would happen next?

Tan Jinsui felt that Su Cha being selected for “The Legend of the Crane” was a good start.

But she could not waste such a nice voice.

“Yes, yes, yes.”

Su Cha was a little helpless. Tan Jinsui had said these words several times, but she had chosen the path herself. How could she have thought that these things would happen one after another?

“By the way, the invitation to Chanel’s show is coming out. You are a special guest, so the list with you on it will soon be released. When the storm comes, you have to be mentally prepared.”

Su Cha smiled. “What storm? It’s just random speculations online. I’m used to it.”

“Okay.”

Tan Jinsui hung up the phone and Su Cha continued recording songs.

Recording songs would take some time, and she was not doing anything else. She kept a low profile at work, but not on the news.

People had not seen much news in the past few months. It was all about Su Cha fighting with others.

Although it was not her intention, some of the people who became her fans because of her singing did have some opinions.

They wanted Su Cha to release an album.

Su Cha thought for a while and took a rare photo of the recording studio, revealing half of her face.

Su Cha Official: [Picture]

“Ao Ao Ao Ao, it looks like a new album is about to be released. It’s hard on us fans who are waiting to be fed!”

“This fairy is beautiful, beautiful, beautiful. I also bought the magazine. The photo spread is beautiful~!!”

“The magazine is here. For the sake of the pretty girl, I bought more than ten magazines.”

...

Once she posted on Weibo, many fans immediately followed her. She did not post on Weibo often, but she was not the kind of person who did not see people all year round. At least she would post one every few days, but most others did it daily, and the background was usually in various studios.

She was very particular about her private life and privacy. She basically would not post any photos of her private life.

Actually, fans were very cute. Every time a celebrity posted on Weibo, there would be a series of praises below. If ordinary celebrities did not see those anti-fans’ comments, they would indeed lose themselves in the continuous praises.

In the eyes of fans, everything was good. Even if it was bad, they would try their best to help you.

At this time, Su Cha interacted with her fans for a while. Due to the rare explosive news on Weibo this time, it showed that she was recording a song, which proved that a new album was already on the way. Many people followed her, and soon, Su Cha's Weibo post became trending.

Seeing the trending topic, many people started to move.

The show that she participated in, Dreams in Progress, had become a joke this year due to the shady dealings. Although the production crew had announced that Su Cha was the real champion, that left the original champion and runner-up in a very awkward position, especially since they had just debuted. They were currently participating in countless variety shows and promotions. Meanwhile, Su Cha, who had the benefit of Tan Jinsui's one-stop arrangements, did not need to worry about anything. This made other fans envious.

It was just an ordinary Weibo post that revealed her plans to the fans. As they went on Weibo, the fans of other contestants started to change...

Chapter 752: Useless

#Su Cha revealed recording plans#

Under this trending topic were all kinds of excited comments from fans.

[Thinking about how it's not just a casual remark that this world can be unfair. Our baby is still busy with activities, and some people have already started recording albums with their backing.]

[Look at the progress of this other company. I really can't help but say that Xinhua Entertainment is trash!]

[Actually, I feel sorry for all the contestants in this competition. One person turned a good competition into a joke, and the resources of others might be something you can never get in your lifetime. If you really have a backer, you can do whatever you want.]

[Hehe, having a good manager indeed makes things different.]

[It was not an equal starting line from the beginning. Why did she have to participate in the show to block others?]

Yes, it had been a while since the competition had ended, but while the other contestants were busy participating in various variety shows and trying their best to maintain the popularity, Su Cha had already started recording a new album and was in full swing.

Everyone who participated in the singing competition wanted to produce a new album, but the current situation was that a new album could not be released just because they wanted to.

Su Cha did not sign with Xinghua, and with them, the newly signed contestants could not record a new album so quickly.

It was very troublesome to find music producers and composers one by one. It was a plan that would take at least half a year to enact.

Su Cha made a move before Xinhua Entertainment could get anything started, which also made some fans of other contestants unhappy.

Most of the contestants vented their dissatisfaction with the company, but there were also some who looked at Su Cha strangely, as if it was not right for Su Cha to have such a background.

The fans could not speak uniformly. Su Cha's fans seemed to be watching a joke. Many marketing accounts intercepted these comments and unified them in a Weibo post. The language was ambiguous, allowing passersby to comment on it. Naturally, passersby mocked them.

"I'm dying of laughter. The people you stan are useless, so they drag others into it. Even if a certain someone signed with the same agency, the company would still have supported them to become number one in popularity. The ones you stan are just not good enough!"

"Is the company even to blame for not doing anything? The contestants are just not on the same level of popularity, so what's there to compare?"

"The other contestants are trying their best to participate in shows to stabilize their popularity. Su Cha doesn't need to do that, so why can't she concentrate on recording songs first?"

"Hehe, we can't compare with someone who relied on a sugar daddy to climb up the ranks."

...

The passersby were not blind. Su Cha's popularity had always been obvious to all, so the company she's with didn't really have a bearing in this matter. However, the smarter anti-fans knew that she was as quiet as a chicken. Later on, perhaps because of the excessive mockery, most of her fans could not take it anymore. When they saw their idol being mocked, they could not help but start criticizing Su Cha too. Some people even said that Su Cha's progress was so smooth because of the help of a sugar daddy. Those other contestants all went through the proper channels, and they were much cleaner than some people.

Although the logic was unreasonable, some passersby started to waver.

It was easy to incite passersby.

Since ancient times, this had been a sensitive topic. As long as a sugar daddy or a person was involved in a moral sense, a person's merits would be erased. Many people started to credit Su Cha's series of actions to the existence of a sugar daddy. It was as if she was nothing but a face.

Chapter 753: The Most Ruthless Moment

Su Cha's agency reacted quickly. When they saw these comments, they started to clean up. When Su Cha received the news, Tan Jinsui asked her not to interfere with the current Internet activity.

Since the company found it strange, they informed Su Cha.

Tan Jinsui took the initiative to call Su Cha and talked about his intentions. "Actually, we don't need to worry about this matter at the moment. Let them say whatever they want. The bigger the matter becomes, the better."

Su Cha paused. She did not question Tan Jinsui at once, but asked doubtfully, "Will this bring me benefits?"

She was smart, but she did not have much experience in the entertainment industry. She did not know all the rules, so she was naturally not as clear about it as Tan Jinsui.

Tan Jinsui answered affirmatively, "Yes. This is also the reason why I haven't come forward to clarify. From the moment you took on the role of the second female lead of 'The Legend of the Crane,' the news that you have a sugar daddy had started to spread. To a certain extent, it's correct, but it's not a straightforward situation. So, we don't need to clarify. Instead, it's most useful to announce your relationship with Bo Muye in the future. At that time, everything will fall apart. Those who defame you will only be slapped worse.”

Su Cha raised her eyebrows. “Can you tell me in detail?”

Tan Jinsui: “There have always been female celebrities in the industry who have a mysterious sugar daddy behind them, but your situation is very rare, or even unheard of. Celebrities with sugar daddies are in a hurry to clarify. Firstly, this matter is true. Secondly, the identity of the sugar daddy cannot be exposed. If they deny it themselves, it will also make the public think that they are not that kind of person. But you are different. Bo Muye is not your sugar daddy. He is your boyfriend. He is not a person deserving of shame, and he is outstanding enough to break people’s imagination. No matter how those people who slander you think about it, they will not think that you are with the boss of the Imperial Mu Group. You are also his legitimate girlfriend—his future wife. When that time comes, once you announce it, just think about how wonderful their expressions will be.”

At this point, he could not hide his light-hearted tone. “One’s horizons will limit people’s imagination. All they could come up with is the typical scenario, but you have a very outstanding sugar daddy who is top-notch in every aspect, and in fact, he’s your boyfriend. Perhaps you can even wait until you are officially married before announcing it. Think about it, can these comments still stand? They will be even more agitated and angry, but they will no longer be able to attack you. The best way to counter those malicious comments is to show them that you are better than they imagined.”

Su Cha immediately understood.

She narrowed her eyes. Tan Jinsui was indeed ruthless.

Most of the anti-fans and others like them were jealous of celebrities. Some people hated celebrities, but at least for other celebrities, that’s where it ended. Usually, such haters would not take the initiative to create rumors. They’d just hate this celebrity.

One could imagine the mentality of those who kept attacking someone and spreading rumors about them.

Perhaps there was a conflict of interest, or perhaps it was because they did not want to see that person doing well.

When that person's life turned out to be better than they imagined, that would be truly agitating to the haters.

The kind that could pierce through one's heart.

Hence, she immediately listened to Tan Jinsui's suggestion and nodded. "Okay, let's do as you say."

Regarding this rumor, they could adopt a half-indulgent attitude and let the anti-fans jump high and seek death. She believed that the truth would come soon.

Chapter 754: Chanel's Special Invitation

The rumors would become more and more intense. No matter how much they indulge it, it was just a rumor without substantial evidence.

Although the rumors could become true in people's eyes if they spread too much, once Su Cha's relationship with Bo Muyi was announced, their speculations would become a joke.

When they said that Su Cha had a sugar daddy, passersby would often ask, "Do you at least have evidence?"

Since they could not produce any evidence, they could only delete it and shamelessly say that they were only speaking the truth.

There were various versions of Su Cha's sugar daddy. The most conclusive one was that he was a higher-up in the Imperial Mu Group.

He was either a high-ranking official whose identity could not be revealed or a super-rich big shot.

In the end, Tan Jinsui was right. These people lacked imagination.

Su Cha found it interesting.

Doesn't it occur to you that the boss of that corporation is very rich, a typical top-notch, rich, and handsome man? He is also clean and honest and has never had any scandals, you know?

The others were all big-bellied senior officials or married people. Anyway, they were all old men.

If the anti-fans knew Su Cha's thoughts, they would definitely spit, "Dream on!"

If there was really such a man, how was that a f*cking sugar daddy? That was a prince charming, a person in love!

Tan Jinsui was right. One's horizons limited one's imagination.

This matter did not blow up too much. At most, there were rumors about Su Cha on the Internet. The anti-fans would occasionally have an orgasm. Soon, the real climax came.

Chanel announced the invitation list.

On the eve of the New York show, Chanel, one of the world's super luxury brands, officially announced the list of special guests from Asia.

There were two special guests from Japan and South Korea. Another was the famous film star Shao Tianwen, and then there was Su Cha.

At the same time, news came from overseas that Super Queen Zou Manni was also invited.

Being able to watch the show was a great honor, especially since she was invited by a brand.

It was said that Shao Tianwen was going to take on the endorsement of Chanel's perfume. Now that he had been specially invited, it proved the rumors. The other two Asian celebrities were also spokespersons for Chanel's local region. It was normal for them to be invited, but Su Cha???

Who the hell was Su Cha?

Did she have a representative work?

Was she famous internationally?

As a talent show singer, she did not even have a single thing under her belt. Could she still attend Chanel like this?

These big shots were becoming less and less picky...

A stone stirred up a thousand ripples. As soon as the guest list of Chanel was released, everyone's attention was no longer on the other big shots. All their attention was on Su Cha.

[Chanel's special guest. What right does she have? Is she worthy?]

[This year is really like some magical drama. A talent show singer without any representative work can actually be specially invited by Chanel... Does she really have a backer who can do whatever she wants?]

[Who said that she doesn't have a representative work? She had a magazine photo shoot. A magazine, do you understand? It's a fashion magazine!]

[I'm mocking her for not having a representative work. [LeiGO!] is a top-notch magazine in the country. Can you not step on people by stepping on fashion magazines?]

[In other words, it's a fact that Zhang Sen Media had given her a special invitation from Chanel in order to apologize? Otherwise, she wouldn't have had access to Chanel, right? Unexpectedly, Chanel actually agreed. I feel that it's better to have let Qin Bei go... At least she has some representation and popularity.]

[I'm afraid Chanel is the one who asked Qin Bei not to go. No matter how stupid Chanel is, they would not seek out someone who'd filmed a scandal video. Other than not having a representative work, Su Cha has a bright and smooth record, and her singing is very good. Everyone knows that she is a famous straight-A student. Why can't she go?]

Chapter 755: Easy Pass

When the news came out, it was indeed received with mockery.

After all, no one believed that Su Cha was qualified to be a special guest of Chanel.

Although there were some faint voices saying that Chanel must have considered the situation well before agreeing, the crowd did not listen.

In their eyes, Su Cha had no representative works. With her current strength, Su Cha was indeed not qualified to go.

The group of people who had mocked Su Cha before for having a backer jumped out again. They all expressed that with resources, one could do whatever they wanted. Their album was one step ahead of others, and there was no one else who had the resources to get into the fashion industry. To be chosen by Chanel was a step up.

There were also people who stood up and mocked her sarcastically. She was only invited by Chanel. She could not get any endorsement, and she was not even an ambassador. At most, she would go to watch a show. What could she do?

Bai Kun was dumbfounded.

What the hell was Chanel? If Miss Su was willing, the young master would probably have her snap up all the big-name global endorsements. Moreover, the Imperial Mu Group's reputation was not bad. If not for Miss Su's unwillingness, even if the contracts for Imperial Mu's endorsement deals had not expired, they would have already replaced them all with her.

So, what was being Chanel's special guest compared to that?

What sugar daddy? Hmph, they had probably never seen a sugar daddy as handsome as his boss.

It was not that Bai Kun looked down on ordinary sugar daddies, but how many people would be willing to stick up for them?

They could talk all they want now, but in the future, it's them who would feel their faces sting.

"Bai Kun."

Bai Kun's neck tightened when he heard someone calling him. He quickly put his phone away. At this time, it was best not to say anything bad to the young master.

"Yes, Young Master."

After entering Bo Muyi's office, Bai Kun spoke respectfully.

Bo Muyi turned around and pulled his tie clip. He picked up a document and asked casually, "Is everything in order?"

Bai Kun immediately understood what he meant. "Yes."

Bo Muyi nodded. "Watch the Killing Alliance closely. Also, pay attention to the recent changes in people. Tree Hall will probably not let it go."

Bai Kun nodded. "I've done as you instructed. I guarantee that nothing will go wrong!"

Bo Muyi lifted his eyes and glanced at Bai Kun. This glance made Bai Kun extremely nervous. He did not know what he was thinking about. After a while, he suddenly heard Bo Muyi say lazily, "What's the matter with Cha Cha?"

Although he didn't want to report such a negative thing, since the big boss had asked, he could only tell him honestly.

"Chanel has announced the special guest list for the New York show. Miss Su is on it, but because of Miss Su's identity... Uh, the comments online are not very good."

He tried to state things with subtlety, but Bo Muyi immediately knew what was happening when he heard him mention negative comments.

Thanks to Su Cha, Bo Muyi often paid attention to the Internet now. He had a rough understanding of those groups of Internet trolls. Now that he heard that they were being negative, he frowned and his eyes exuded a trace of anger. "Not very good? Isn't it only to be expected for Cha Cha to be invited by Chanel? How dare they question her identity?"

Bai Kun broke out in a cold sweat.

In the eyes of this master, Su Cha had no flaws at all. If others dared to question Su Cha's identity, wouldn't they be seeking death?

However, this kind of thing happened often, so he was familiar with it.

Chapter 756: Behind-the-scenes Discussions

Bai Kun calmed down. "Yes, Young Master. So should we discuss it with Chanel?" He paused for a moment and thought for a while. He more or less knew about Chanel's recent endorsement details.

"Recently, a perfume endorsement deal for Chanel is about to be vacated. Why don't we talk to Chanel?"

The other party was also a world-class luxury brand. Their endorser spot might be up for grabs, but they still had to have a good talk.

Unexpectedly, Bo Muyi rejected that directly. "No need."

His tone was cold, but there was a hint of warmth when he spoke Su Cha's name. "Cha Cha will deal with these things. I don't care if those people are being nasty..."

As he spoke, he became unhappy and frowned. In the end, he considered venting his anger on someone else. "In ten minutes, I will interrogate the person from the Killing Alliance!"

Bai Kun said loudly, "Yes!"

***

The Internet was in chaos. Some people were jealous of her.

No matter how one looked at it, her invitation from Chanel was very enviable. Most of the people who were angry and mocking her were passersby and fans, because if the celebrities themselves received the invitation, they would not care about whether they were mocked or not.

Su Cha's classmates in the acting department had more or less entered the entertainment industry.

They were all top students, so their qualifications were naturally not bad. Some opportunities started to come to them, but they were not as heaven-defying as Su Cha.

Su Cha and the rest had a physical education class today. They had to study everything in the acting department. Learning how to act was the most important, but training their physique was also a requirement for a performer.

Everyone knew that she had a good figure, although there were no people with bad figures here.

Before going to the physical education class, they would change into specialized body-sculpting clothes. Usually, students from the acting department would choose some dance styles to cultivate their movements. Those who could not persevere would not take on so much.

Su Cha did not apply for any dances. She just wanted to learn some basic acting styles, and this thing did not seem to be very useful.

Before entering the changing room, Su Cha had had to deal with some matters. She was standing a distance away from the door, but she could already hear the whispers inside.

"Sigh... Comparisons are odious. Now that she has been invited by Chanel, there's nothing to say."

"Even if there are no representative works, can you go to Chanel or watch the show as a special guest? Is that what the netizens think?"

"Yes, the next step is probably to sign a contract with Chanel."

"Chanel's endorsement contract? She's dreaming. Do you think Chanel's endorsement can be won just because she has connections? Let's see if she's qualified enough..."

Su Cha walked to the changing room.

Everyone fell silent.

No one expected Su Cha to appear at this moment. She did not stop, as if she did not notice the embarrassment of those people when they saw her. Under everyone's gaze, she went to her locker.

The person who mocked her was a girl from the same class. She was pretty, but there was an arrogance between her eyebrows that said she was unconvinced. When she saw Su Cha, she calmed down and touched her earlobe to hide her panic, pretending that nothing had happened.

No matter what, Su Cha had a strong background. Saying it behind her back was one thing, but she did not dare to mock her in front of others.

She could only pretend that nothing had happened.

Chapter 757: A Needle

The moment Su Cha reached out to open her locker, she paused.

She was about to open the cabinet, but such an obvious pause quickly attracted the attention of others. The others did not know what Su Cha was about to say, but they looked over nervously.

There were only a dozen or so girls in the changing room. At this time, they were in groups of two or three. It was extremely quiet.

Then, everyone saw Su Cha squint her eyes slightly. She suddenly reached out and pulled out a needle from the gap between the cabinet door and the closing.

It was an ordinary silver needle, just like the ones used in embroidery.

The others were stunned when they saw the needle.

The position of the needle was very insidious. The handle of the cabinet was very low. When Su Cha opened the door, her palm would accidentally touch the bottom. If she was not careful, the tip of the needle would pierce her.

The key thing was not the silver needle, but its tip. While others could not see it, Su Cha saw that the tip of the needle was red.

It was not red as if it had been dyed red.

She sniffed and smelled an extremely faint scent of blood. It was almost gone.

At that moment, Su Cha's eyes flickered with a ruthless light.

She did not think that the needle was placed there just to accidentally poke her. There was red blood at the top, so there was probably something wrong with the blood.

It was very likely that of a patient who was carrying an infectious disease.

Su Cha looked around.

Unconcealed murderous intent leaked from her eyes. Students who lived in peaceful times could not feel it, but they could feel that Su Cha's gaze was extremely terrifying at this time, making people tremble in fear. They hugged their arms, and wherever Su Cha's gaze landed, they would shudder.

All of them were afraid, including those who had mocked Su Cha.

There seemed to be no problem with everyone's expressions.

Su Cha paused and walked out of the changing room without opening the cabinet.

As soon as she left, the changing room exploded.

"Is she holding a needle?"

"Who put a needle there? Oh my god, I didn't notice it at all! My cabinet is next to hers, but I didn't see it!"

"There must be something wrong with that needle. Did they put it there just to stab Su Cha?"

“Oh my god, let’s talk about it. Isn’t the person who did it too ruthless? What kind of deep hatred do they have for Su Cha...”

“What is Su Cha going to do? What is she going to do with that needle?”

“It’s too scary. These things actually happened in our female changing room!”

...

After taking the needle, Su Cha went straight to the school’s infirmary.

The infirmary of the Imperial Capital University was different from other places. It was basically a small hospital. Usually, students from the Medical Department would come over, and they were all well-equipped. Su Cha took it over. There was only one student in the infirmary. Seeing Su Cha coming over, she was a little surprised. “Hi. What’s the matter?”

Su Cha took out the needle wrapped in paper. “Please help me find a teacher from the lab to test this needle and see if the red blood on it has an infectious disease. I will wait here for the results. Please.”

The student was stunned. The blood on the needle was enough to make one feel chills. Her eyes flickered as she thought of a possibility. She quickly nodded. “I happen to be from the laboratory. I’ll help you test it. Let’s see what the blood is like. The results will be out in an hour.”

Chapter 758: Who Is It?

Su Cha nodded and watched her enter.

She was sensitive, so she kept releasing her inner force to sense everything in the infirmary.

The female classmate was indeed helping Su Cha to test the blood. However, because this took a long time, she did not attend the physical education class, but the teacher did not call to rush her.

Other than injured students, not many people came to the infirmary. After a while, only a few boys helped each other over. It seemed that someone had fallen and scratched his skin.

There were a few more students in the infirmary. Most of them were from the medical department.

While their companion was being checked, most of the male students' eyes were on Su Cha.

Su Cha was now considered a celebrity in school. Even if one did not follow celebrity news, they should have heard of her by now. Everyone was puzzled. Why did Su Cha come to the infirmary?

After half an hour, the female student came out.

She looked a little shocked. "Where did you get the needle? The blood on it is from an HIV patient. It's infectious."

Su Cha's expression froze.

Being born in this society, she knew what HIV was.

It caused AIDS.

The surrounding people also heard the female student's words. In an instant, they looked a little frightened and subconsciously moved further away.

What the hell is AIDS?

It was a terrifying infectious disease. The particular ways one could get infected were hard to speak of.

In short, it was a thing that everyone feared.

Su Cha closed her eyes as if she was sighing. Then, she opened her eyes. "Thank you. Can you make a report about that needle for me?"

The female classmate looked a little troubled. "You have to explain the origin of this needle. Moreover, this is a very serious virus. I can't let you take it away casually. I have to report to the school..."

Su Cha nodded and said indifferently, "Report it. I took the needle from my locker."

She did not mince her words.

Those with normal intelligence could understand what she meant. The female student widened her eyes and quickly understood what had happened.

"What the..."

She was in disbelief. Soon, she called a school teacher and the dean.

This was no small matter. It was fine if it was just a small fight, but now that a needle carrying HIV had appeared on a girl's locker, it was simply infuriating.

In the dean's office, Su Cha watched the surveillance footage in the surveillance room with the others.

The troublesome thing was that the female changing room was a relatively private place. Other than the surveillance cameras at the entrance, the interior could not be seen.

"Student Su, are you sure that only your classmates were there?"

The dean asked Su Cha solemnly about the internal situation. Su Cha nodded. "We had a physical education class."

This was troublesome.

They looked at the camera at the entrance. There were surveillance cameras at both entrances, but there were at least a few batches of people who appeared in the changing room that day.

The changing room was very big. Other than the physical education department students, there would occasionally be other departments who would use it.

The surveillance video showed there were several groups of people that used it today. No one was particularly suspicious.

However, this matter could not be simply brought up. To use such a needle to harm someone, no matter where it was placed, it would be shockingly vicious. It could not be tolerated.

Besides, Su Cha was a celebrity.

She had not decided to call the police yet. If she did, it would be a big deal.

Chapter 759: Just Going In to Take a Look

Translator: Atlas Studios Editor: Atlas Studios

She watched the surveillance video several times. No strangers entered the female changing room.

The suspect could only be among these girls. If a needle was placed in a bag, who would see it?

Since they were entering the female changing room, it was naturally even more undetectable.

That person was not stupid enough to touch Su Cha's locker in front of others.

Su Cha suddenly asked, "Are the surveillance cameras functional during the night for the past two days?"

The dean was stunned. "Of course."

As they were a university in the Imperial Capital, it was naturally impossible for there to be any problems with their surveillance cameras. Usually, such things could be done in minutes.

Su Cha pursed her lips and said, "My last class was two days ago."

In other words, anyone could have had the chance to do something during this period of time. After all, apart from Su Cha, no one else would open her locker.

The dean nodded and asked the monitoring center to look at the video of the last two days and nights.

The surveillance cameras were also working at night. After watching for a while, she found something wrong.

A person wearing a hoodie passed by the female changing room in the middle of the night. They looked a little sneaky.

The female changing room was usually locked. This person seemed to have taken something to open the lock and looked around carefully before entering.

After about five minutes, the person walked out.

The person was short and should be a girl.

The surveillance camera zoomed in and they watched it carefully several times before confirming that the person was headed for the financial institute next door.

It was easy for her to be spotted in other feeds because she was wearing a hoodie. After checking around her several times, she finally pushed back her hoodie and revealed her face.

In the end, it was not a girl, but a boy from the philosophy department.

He was simply short and thin.

This result was not good. He went to the female changing room in the middle of the night, and at this sensitive time, the dean quickly called him over.

When he arrived, Su Cha noticed him at first glance.

His form was not good. He even had his arms around his waist. He did not look energetic and had a wretched posture. This was not to deliberately mock him. His aura just gave off a bad feeling, especially when he looked at the dean and at Su Cha. He was a little flustered. As soon as he entered the dean's office, his legs started trembling.

The principals of the Imperial Capital University were all in official positions. They were usually busy with work, so they were not called back for this matter. However, this had already been reported to them, and the principals' response was that they had to investigate clearly.

Two of the people in the office had been watching the surveillance cameras, except for this male classmate who had been called over.

"Cai Zhongyi, what were you doing in the female changing room in the middle of the night?" the dean suddenly exclaimed.

The thin male classmate, who was called Cai Zhongyi, was so scared that he cried and sniffled. "I... I've never been there."

"You have!"

The dean did not waste time talking to him. He moved the computer to a position. The image of him wearing a hoodie was very eye-catching, although there was only his back shown.

However, the dean showed other photos consecutively. They were all photos of Cai Zhongyi appearing in different situations.

They were all the same person. The cameras had taken a clear picture of him.

Cai Zhongyi was so scared that his legs went soft. He actually cried at that moment. His tears and snot were everywhere, making it hard for people to look at him. "I... I didn't. I just went in to take a look, to take a look..."

Chapter 760: Removing Suspicion

He looked like a coward who'd resort to poison.

It was as if he was afraid of being exposed after having done something else.

The dean felt a headache coming on. "I see that your grades are not bad, and you did not break any rules. But why did you go to the changing room for no reason? Do you know that something almost happened to Student Su? You are the only suspect!"

Cai Zhongyi was dumbfounded.

He looked at Su Cha, who was the only one present, and quickly cried, "I... I didn't do it. I don't have the guts. Dean, Dean, believe me, it's really not me. I don't know!"

The dean shouted, "Then tell me, why did you go to the female changing room!"

His words were stern and reprimanding. He even sounded a little disappointed.

Good or bad character aside, those who could enter the Imperial Capital University all had top grades. Why would they do such a thing?

Cai Zhongyi panicked. He seemed to be afraid of the dean's face. His face turned red as he said, "I... I am..."

Then, he said something very softly. If one did not listen carefully, they would not be able to hear it clearly.

However, when the dean heard it, he looked at Su Cha with embarrassment and helplessness in his eyes.

Su Cha's gaze never changed.

She had been as calm as ever since she met the boy.

That was the reason he stated.

It was indeed a little hard to say out loud. When he entered the changing room, he wanted to steal two female clothes. Unfortunately, he did not find them. Basically, all the lockers were locked, and no one hung their clothes outside.

So he came out in five minutes.

The dean felt as if a mouthful of blood was stuck in his throat. In this dignified Imperial Capital University, what had happened was ugly.

Such a thing would affect the school's reputation.

He had originally wanted to catch the one who targeted Su Cha, but he did not expect to catch something unexpected.

However, this matter was much lighter than Su Cha's.

The dean looked at Su Cha and said apologetically, "It seems that we don't have any leads for the time being. But don't worry, Student Su. I will check the people who went in and out of the changing room at night. However, I have a lot of work to do. I hope you can understand. However, there is a rather pertinent question to be answered. Have you had any conflicts with anyone?"

His question was calm and normal. Su Cha shook her head and sighed softly. "I'll have to trouble you, Dean. But if the results are not out in three days, I have to call the police. I'm sorry."

As they did not call the police, the intensity of the investigation was not that strict. Right now, the female students in the changing room should be investigated one by one. But although there was suspicion of harassment, there was no need to mention the serious nature of this matter.

He did not want to call the police because he was afraid that the matter would blow up and be known by the media. Su Cha was a public figure, so she would cause a big commotion.

However, because Su Cha was a public figure, the dean was still concerned about her. If she casually said anything, the hundred-year-old reputation of the Imperial Capital University would be in danger.

Even if they were very powerful, once they leave a bad impression, they would eventually blow up.

Cai Zhongyi raised his head and looked at the dean in fear, then at Su Cha.

The dean glared at him and promised Su Cha to investigate more before letting her leave.