

Chapter 11: Awakening

Serenity's POV

(Beep, Beep, Beep)

All I could hear was the steady beeping of the heart monitor. I must be in the hospital. Why can't I move my body? It felt like I was having an outer body experience. I could feel things, hear things, and even smell things. I'm confused. Kolfi!!! No answer. Now I'm on the verge of freaking out. You said you'll always be here for me! You promised I'd be strong so why do I feel so weak?! Why have you abandoned me? Why me? What did I ever do to deserve this? Here in that very moment I wanted nothing more than to die. Cold shivers ran through my body at each thought that crossed my mind....

Then out of nowhere I heard my room door open and I heard voices. "Doctor why hasn't she awakened?" The first voice said. "Well you see in most cases, when a werewolf is rejected by their mate a bond is broken and it takes a toll on both human and wolf physically, mentally, and emotionally. In serenity's case she still hasn't shifted yet so isn't strong enough to endure such trauma" said the doctor. I heard a broken sob. No don't cry! All I heard was silence. I felt like I was drifting in and out of consciousness. Days flew by, then weeks, then months. I don't know what time it's or what day. I just lay here with my thoughts.

Before I had knew it.... 3 years had passed and I was still stuck within the confinement of my mind. I've gone completely nuts and I still haven't heard from my wolf. But the good thing about this is that I'm taking the time to advance my way of thinking. I'm really good with using my senses. My ears and nose have been my eyes. I can hear through walls and smell things on the 3rd floor of the hospital but I'm seriously ready to leave. I don't know what to do.

Eryian's POV

It's been three years that my best friend has been in a coma. I've come to visit her everyday and there hasn't been any progress. Today is her birthday so I bought balloons and a bear for her. I know it may seem pointless but it makes me feel better knowing we celebrated it together. I'd do anything to have my friend back. Other than her parents, no one else cares in our pack. She's the ex beta's daughter for goodness sake! Yeah you heard me EX beta. Ashton took over as alpha a few months after Serena went into her coma. Who is the lucky Luna? Stephaine of course, she somehow worked her way into Ashton's head....

Needless to say things have been horrible, Ashton pushes the pack way too hard and if anyone is considered a weak link they are immediately exiled from the pack! It's terrible even children are exiled leaving their parents no choice in leaving the pack. These poor people are forced to leave their homes and families behind because some asshole thinks they are weak! I was always told strength comes in many shapes and forms but I'm not of any importance when it comes down to the hierarchy of the pack. I was also kicked out, not because I am weak but because I tried to speak the truth.....

(Flashback)

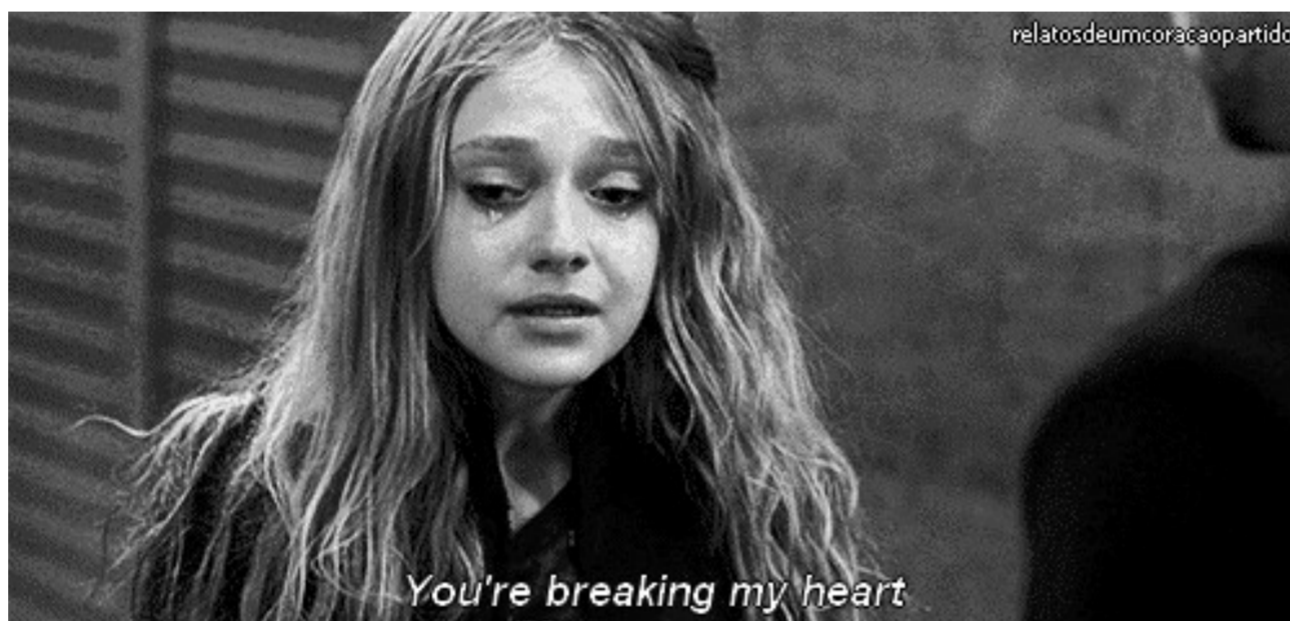

Ashton's party after rejecting serenity

I looked serenity's lifeless face. "Wake up, stay with me please" I screamed. "Somebody help!" I yelled. The sad thing is nobody helped me. I looked to my mate despite being mad at him for help. And do you know what that asshole did? He held his head down and walked away. He went back to partying like the rest of them. My eyes grew wide as something in me broke. I always thought that having a mate would be the most amazing thing in the world. I was wrong, I'll never forgive him! I held her in my arms. I was supposed to protect her! I failed her! My body trembles with this realization. This is my fault, I made her come here!

My hands shook as I did what I had to do for my friend. I picked her up and drove her to the hospital myself! I wasn't gonna leave her side ever, she is my sister and the only family I have. After finding out she was in a coma I went to alpha Jake to tell him what happened. Ashton denied my "accusation" and when he became Alpha I was banished.

(Present)

I'm sitting in Serena's hospital room watching her as she sleeps. I was choked up, I haven't missed a day with her. I miss you so much! My eyes start to water and my hands start to shake violently. "Please wake up! I'm so sorry I know this is my fault but I don't know what to do anymore". I shouldn't have forced her to go to that party! Serenity your all that I have" salt filled my mouth from my tears. I felt like someone was tugging on my heart strings. I cry out as I stare at her paralyzed body. " I promise serenity if you were to die from this I'll be right behind you sis." I said. Please wake up.

Just as I said that her eyes popped open. 🙄

She sprang out of bed and crouch down in a defensive stand and snarled at me baring her sharp teeth at me. Her eyes were pitch black, it was almost as if she was more wolf than human! I quickly become overwhelmed with fear, my legs were shaking. She was about to attack me !!! Omg omg omg
