

Chapter 53 - Once Rejected, Thrice Accepted

Cherry ended up staying the night after she found me crying on the floor with my three mates sitting outside the bedroom door with scowls on their faces. She did give them a piece of her mind and then sent them on their way to actually be productive somewhere. She had to mention shoving something up their butt the next time we are screwing, and they scattered.

‘Luna, there was someone at the gate for you with a letter. They were from your old pack.’ One of the warriors linked jerking me from my sleep. ‘She said her name was Olivia.’

Olivia, like my ex- omega friend Olivia? I sat up shoving Cherry’s shoulder sending her off the end of the bed hitting the floor with a snore. What would Olivia be doing here? Did Shane send her to use against me?

‘Where is she now?’ I linked back rushing to get dressed almost falling on my face a few times from clothes getting stuck on my foot or over my eyes. ‘She can’t be trusted.’

‘We understand. We sent her straight to the dungeons and the letter is here waiting for you. We didn’t trust something to be wrong with it so I ordered no one to touch it.’ He stated emotionlessly. He was doing good at not being freaked out when everyone else would have flipped their crap if someone from that pack just walked up to the gate.

‘Good job, Warrior. I will be there shortly. Please call for a few extra guards for the dungeons and the main points of our borders.’ He agreed and I shut down the link.

Cherry was still passed out on the floor so I wrote a quick note on a post it and attached it to her forehead. Poor girl was worn out after all the girl talk and food we ate. The guys knocked throughout the whole night until she lost her shit. She shut the door behind her before starting in on them so I only heard a few ‘ouch’s’ and ‘Please, stop.’ They didn’t bother us again.

I whipped the door open sending Leo and Lucas flying backwards waking them up in fight mode, but I just jumped over them and ran down the stairs. Duncan was in the kitchen with several plates of pancakes in front of him with a look of concern covering his face.

“What’s wrong?” Leo shouted, doing his best to catch up to me after just waking up. Lucas was right behind him.

“Olivia is in the dungeon and the letter she brought me is at the gate.” I yelled back as I made my way out the door and off the porch. “I have to know what is in the letter.”

“Whose Olivia?” Duncan caught up to me and handed me a coffee mug with a lid. “Good thing I was already getting this ready for you. It sounds like you are going to need it.”

“Just remember this isn’t going to get you off the hook, mister.” I grabbed the mug and held it to my face before he even registered that I had taken it. A girl needs her coffee to function.

“I know. I will be making it up to you soon.” He jumped over a log and caught back up with me. “Now please tell us what is going on.”

I explained what the warrior said and a bit about how I knew Olivia. I couldn’t decide if I should trust her since she stopped talking to me on the orders of her mate and did everything he asked. He could have asked her to do something bad here and back then I knew she would do it without blinking. Now, that it has been a few months since I saw her, I wasn’t sure. I did know that she would have news on Lindy and that I had to have.

By the time they were caught up and they had sent a few orders out themselves we were at the gate. Two warriors were circling what looked like a letter on the ground with a few pack members nearby watching and probably wondering what the heck was going on. I was in the same boat. Did they think it was going to kill them by just touching it? Actually, it might just do that.

“Luna. Alpa’s. Advisor.” The warrior who linked me called out as he approached us in a hurry. “No one has touched it. I did have one of our more skilled searchers take a sniff test and it didn’t smell like its poisoned, but we didn’t want to take any chances.”

“We should run tests.” Leo suggested with his eyes unwavering as he started at the letter we were all now surrounding. “Is there a chemical we can put on it to rinse it?”

“NO!” I shouted looking at him with a hard glare. “You could ruin the writing. The information could be vital. Ill pick it up and we can go from here.”

“No way.” Lucas chimed in. “Let me find some gloves.”

The guys were too busy making a plan to test the letter that they let their eyes leave me. Idiots. I grabbed the letter and sniffed it before ripping it open.

“Gemma!” Duncan yelled, trying to take the letter from me. “Let that go. It needs to be tested.”

“No. Moonlight isn’t acting like anything is abnormal and I trust her. I am a lie detector and I feel like I could feel if something was off.” I thought about how to word it. “Like the poison would be the truth and the unsuspecting letter is the lie. I don’t know how to explain it better than that but I know in my soul its fine. Let me open it, please.”

The three of them nodded, stepping closer. My hands started to shake. It was either going to contain good news or something from my parents that would be something bad enough to break me or at least their attempt at it. There wasn't anything at that pack I cared about except Lindy, the youngest of the gamma children and one of my best friends I should have brought with me. I left her like a shit friend, and I had to fix that. They knew she was my friend, and I couldn't bear it if something happened to her because of me.

I pulled the letter out and something wrapped in a bloody napkin fell to the ground. Duncan swooped in and grabbed it. He opened it slowly, revealing part of an ear. An ear with an earring that looked like the ones I gave Lindy for her eighteenth birthday.

"Oh...Oh... They.... They have her." I cried, gripping the letter closer to my chest. "They have Lindy. I got her those." I gasped, thinking of everything they could be doing to her.

"We don't know for sure." Leo tried to comfort me with lies.

"Don't", I put my hand up to him. "I am going to read this letter and then I am going down to talk to that Omega and get some answers. It will be up to her if she gives it freely or if I am sending her matching ear back to my ex-pack."

Chapter 54: The Letter that changed the game.

Chapter 54 - Once Rejected, Thrice Accepted

Gemma,

There isn't much time before Olivia makes her second round with water. I am trusting her to bring this to you, so fingers crossed she gets it to you and doesn't give it to the Alpha and Luna. She has come to her senses after her mate raped a couple of girls with the alpha's permission. He was hitting her even before this, mostly to make sure she never carried a child to term. He would blame her for not being pregnant and the whole pack believed him. Things are going to shit in a handbasket, and I am doing something I never thought I'd do. I am begging you to save me. I am not mad at you for not taking me with you when you left. I got a few of the details of what happened, and I am so glad you got out. I am so glad you found yourself a couple of mates to take care of that pussy. I knew you would be a sex demon when you found the right guy.

I am in the dungeon. I have been for a few weeks now. I did something stupid, but I just couldn't let them get away with it. Now because I know too much I am here. Please save me. If you can't get to me, please save my sister Leila and our friend again, Olivia. They know enough to help deal with this pack and the others joining up with them.

They will attack in a months' time. You have enemies within your walls. Melinda visits here often and I heard she is at your pack. I don't know what story she has been telling you, but she is mated to one of the visiting Alphas, Alpha Talison and she deserves every hit she takes from him. From what I heard there are two omegas there who are getting bribed to help this shit pack. Sammy and Tyler. There is also a person named Tiberius who is spying for them but from what I overheard it isn't willingly. No clue what they have on him.

Guards are coming. There are two other spies who just signed up with this horrid back after some issues with their daughters and you taking their mates. That is all I know. I hope this gets to you. Please save me. Somehow or get me something to kill me. I can't hang on much longer before losing myself. I need you, bestie.

Your Bestie,

Lindy

Holy crap. I stopped feeling a freak out starting. Duncan almost ran into me but caught himself by wrapping his arms around me.

“What’s wrong?” He kept ahold of me helping me rein in my spiraling brain.

‘We need to talk with Leo and Lucas in our house. I am having Olivia brought to us by Tiberius.’ I linked him cutting the link off without a reply.

‘Tiberius, are you training right now?’ I linked him while Duncan stared at me questioningly. I just shook my head when he tried to speak.

‘Just ended. What can I help you with Luna?’ He replied a bit hesitantly.

‘Can you bring the prisoner, Olivia, to my home please?’

‘I will tell one of the guards on duty to bring her to you.’ He replied. His reply felt a bit off which pushed me to make sure he made it. I needed to know what that pack had over him so we could fix it.

‘No, I would rather you do it. I need to set up some training with you for myself.’ I replied before cutting off the link.

“Let’s head home. Will you tell the twins to meet us there?” I asked Duncan leaning my head on his chest. “We have a lot to discuss before we have a few visitors.”

The walk to our house was silent but wasn’t uncomfortable. Duncan held my arm as he led the way home while I reread the letter a few times figuring out a plan to save my friends and how to lead the spies down the wrong path giving us the winning edge. I felt like I was in a war movie planning our next moves on a map with little soldier men toys.

It was making this pack seem less and less safe. Maybe Britt shouldn't have stayed. I know she was having a blast but was her fun worth her safety? She would be one of the first ones to volunteer to protect this place but she still had so many years ahead of her before she needed to risk her life like that. I already knew it was going to be another fight with her but I would win.

Duncan tried to take the letter from me but I shoved it down my pants as soon as we walked in the door. "Nope, family discussion and a talk with Olivia before I share this. I just need it to happen this way, ok?"

He nodded. The twins walked in looking they had raced here by their red cheeks, heavy breathing, and glares at each other. Seems someone or some-two cheated.

"We gonna have to watch you fight to see who the rightful winner is or are you going to sit down so we can talk?" I sat on the floor stretching my legs out. Duncan had already sat down on the couch and this spot was far enough away he couldn't try for the letter.

"No, sorry. What's up?" Leo sat down beside me while Lucas took a seat on the couch with Duncan.

"Ok, so I read the letter."

"I wanna read it!" Lucas interrupted.

"No one is reading it yet. We have a few things to discuss while Tiberius is bringing Olivia here." I took a breath before starting. "Olivia has been captured for seeing or hearing something she shouldn't. She didn't go into too many details. I need to find a way to save her. I know what happens where they put here and if she has already been there awhile, I can't even think...."

Leo pulled me against his chest and kissed the top of my head. "We will do everything we can to save your best friend. If she is this important to you then she is just as important to us."

"Thanks. In the letter she explained why Olivia had gone against her controlling mate. I got why she did as he said back in the pack with her being a weak omega and him being the head trainer's son who was ranked as one of the top warriors." I laughed thinking of the past. "Anyway, the letter also includes who the traitors are within our pack. A few are doing it willingly and will receive the punishment they deserve. Another has something being held against them. I want to speak to them and ask for the truth before we do anything drastic. I know that if any of you were captured, I would do anything to get you back."

"Who?" Lucas stood up growling at me. "Tell us who right the fuck now, Gemma."

I laughed while tears ran down my face. "No. I know it seems like I am keeping something from you, but it isn't because I am on their side. I know what your wolves would do if you knew, and it wouldn't help the situation. This is a chess game not a battle right now, so it is all strategy right now. Please trust me."

"No," Lucas stated with a glare and a bit of teeth showing. "You are the Luna, and I am the Alpha. I decide what happens next not you."

"We are the Alphas and I trust in our Luna." Leo's wolf shoved forward with his eyes glowing and his hands turning into claws. "Sit the fuck down and think before you speak against our mate again."

I could feel the grief, pain, and anger rolling off each of them. Lucas's first reaction as normal for him and even though it hurt I knew it wasn't aimed at me. He was raised by a monster and, since becoming an Alpha of his own pack his control over things has helped calm him down. In this situation, he had no control which was pushing him back into his issues he never dealt with.

"Relax, baby." I put my hand on Leo's thigh, smiling softly. "He isn't really mad at me. It is over not having any control over the situation. We will work on it the next time we screw alone. I will show him having no control can be a thing of beautiful pleasure."

All three of them choked on air as I winked at Lucas and licked my bottom lip. They were so easy to handle sometimes.

The doorbell rang before they could say anything else. I had Lucas answer it to give him time to take a breather and give the other two time to stop thinking about stomping his head in.

"Gem...Gemma?" Olivia whimpered walking in between Leo and Tiberius. "I...am so sorry." Her whimpering turned into sobs as she fell to the floor.

'She is telling the truth.' Moonlight linked doing her best to fight back her own tears. 'Even her wolf is in tears. Willow was the reason they stayed with Shane and his wolf. She believed he would change and be the mate they deserved. She was wrong and doesn't believe there is anything she can do to make up for her being so stupid.'

"Olivia!" I cried letting my own sobs out. I crawled over to her as fast as I could and wrapped her in a bone-crushing hug. "I am so sorry for not seeing what he was doing to you."

"No...I am the stupid one."

"Well, if you guys have this handled," Tiberius took a step back from our tear-filled embrace.

"Stop." I ordered pulling back from Oliva but keeping my hands in hers. "I have a few questions for you."

"Um ok. Like what?" I could feel his nerves as his voice shook.

“Like what does the Bloodlust Growlers have over you that makes you spy on us?”

Chapter 55: Some answers are better than others as long as they are true

Chapter 55 - Once Rejected, Thrice Accepted

The guys were on him in seconds moving him to the couch keeping him locked in his spot by holding his arms and legs. Their wolves wanted his blood but one show of power from Moonlight they stopped and just kept watch. If I gave them the signal they would rip him apart without regrets. Olivia was shaking in my arms, but I wasn't sure if it was out of fear or her regrets replaying in her head.

“Answer your Luna,” Duncan snarled baring his teeth in Tiberius's face. “Tell her why you would sell us out, her out, to a pack that beat her every day of her life! A pack that stole her from her family and lied about it her whole life.”

“They have...” He gulped using his eyes to search for a friendly face finding none he latched his eyes on me. “He has my mate.”

“Bullshit!” Leo seethed twisting on Tiberius' leg until a pop sounded followed by a garbled screech from Tiberius. “You haven't found your mate yet. Tell us the truth.”

“It..is...” He huffed between each word working through the pain of his now dislocated knee. “Found her... last year at the royal ball. Name is Lindy. She doesn't know....”

“She wouldn't know.” I state calmly standing and walking over to the guys leaving Olivia to follow behind me. “Let him go.”

“What? No.” Lucas growled, holding even tighter onto their prisoner.

“I said let him go!” I yelled, pushing Moonlight forward. “Now!” No time for being nice when it involved my chosen family like Lindy.

The guys dropped what they were holding and moved back, each of their faces a look of anger and confusion. I knew I would be paying for this later but right now their feelings didn't matter. They would have to suck it up.

“Explain. Now.” I moved closer until my nose was almost touching his with my arms against the couch above his shoulders and my body was almost lying down on his. “I will know if you lie. Your Luna has some special abilities and right now I am thanking the goddess.”

He nodded his understanding before he started to explain. I stayed put knowing that invading his space was throwing him off his game. He had been lying so much to keep his treachery a secret it was going to be hard to tell the truth.

“I went with a few other unmated warriors to the royal ball. No one there was my mate so I stepped outside to find the kitchen and ask for a real snack instead of those small as cheese ball things they had.” He laughed, tried to, but started coughing from how sore this throat was. “She was in the kitchen with a few working omegas. She must have been underage because I scented her two rooms down but even when I stood in front of her and introduced myself she had no idea.”

“Truth.” I nodded toward the guys before focusing back on him. “Why didn’t you tell her? What has the pack been telling you that they have done with her?”

‘Find me Lindy’s ear that was sent to me.’ I linked Draco ignoring all his questions.

“My wolf made me promise not to. He didn’t want to freak her out or start something that we weren’t able to prove.” He shook his head. “I wanted to tell her, to hold her, to kiss her... But my wolf was right. Too bad we weren’t right in trusting someone from another pack when we were drunk and sad.”

“That’s how they found out and then...” He hung his head almost taking out my nose with his forehead before sobbing a yes.

“How do we know he is telling the truth?” Olivia asked, looking between me and the guys.

“Sorry, I didn’t mean to interrupt. I know it’s not my business and you have to reason to trust me but I want to prove myself. I want to help.”

I smiled back at her as I moved to sit beside Tiberius, letting him have his breathing room. He hadn’t lied yet so he deserved some room get more comfortable and share more.

“We have a lot to catch up on but before we can share that we need you to join our pack,” Duncan replied softly, doing his best to make her feel comfortable. “We can’t do that until we rescue Lindy, if we can.”

“Rescue her?” Tiberius’ voice boomed across the room. “What do you mean? They promised to take care of her and treat her like one of the pack unless I went back on our deal.”

“They lied.” Olivia shouted, swinging her arms around. “That whole pack is full of liars, cheaters, rapists, and pieces of shit. The only ones who are treated with respect is the ones with power and the whores who are fucking all of them. They all deserve to burn.”

“And they will but first we save the innocent before we slaughter them all.” I told her before turning back to Tiberius. “I want you to chat with the guys over what you have shared and how. I want you to show them any messages or recorded items you may have.”

“Why? What are you doing to do while we waste our time and let my mate stay in danger?” He yelled standing up over me.

I stood up on the couch, so we were eye level grabbing his throat. “I am going to go over anything and everything Oliva knows so we can map out the changes and find a way in to save my best fucking friend! So shut the fuck up and quit bitchin. Do your part in this and make up for almost getting me killed and raped!”

Chapter 56: I did have some good times at my old pack.

Chapter 56 - Once Rejected, Thrice Accepted

“Ok, Olivia, we have our pizza, our sodas, and our candy.” I stated smiling at my long lost friend as I sat down on our self-made inside picnic in the living room. “I also brought some paper, markers, and pens so we can go over all the ways we have snuck in and out of our old pack to see which are blocked or too well used now.”

“Right.” She nodded. She was looking better since she had taken a hot shower and had some of my clean pajamas on. They were actually a bit big on her making me a bit concerned because she was also on the curvy side which made her even more beautiful and now she was smaller than me who was barely at a normal weight.

“Are you sure about this? You can have a bit of a nap before we get started.” I piled my plate full of pizza and pulled my bowl of ranch closer. It made me wish Lindy was here with us even more. She used to put ranch on everything especially when we had the crap pizza from school.

“No. The sooner we do this the sooner we can get Lindy here.” She took a breath and shook her head like she was trying to shake away any negative thoughts still lingering. “I am so sorry I changed when I found out I was mated to Shane. In private he was so.. so sweet at first. He said he wanted what was best for me and being friends with the two losers of the school would only end up getting me hurt.”

I leaned over and put my hand on her knee. “I get it. We were the three loser amigos, and you got a chance at having friends, power in popularity, and days without someone tripping you or shoving your head in the toilet. I was never angry with you. Just the crap situation.”

She put her hand on mine smiling at me through her tears. “Thank you. Now let’s feed our faces with some greasy food while planning a jail break.” She laughed. “Remember all the times we talked about sneaking out of the pack? Now we are trying to get back in.”

“Yea. The irony isn’t lost on me.” Taking a big bite out of my pizza I smiled. “Let’s make sure to get our friend and her sister out while leaving some gifts along the way.”

She agreed so we got to work. Between stuffing our faces with sweets and pizza we drew the map of the pack lands including all the buildings, houses, and training grounds. They built another building on the outskirts, but she didn’t know what it was for. No one is allowed in there except the Alpha and his visitors along with a few of the next in line to power.

“We need to see what’s in there.” I stated putting marks where I used to sneak out as she crossed them out stating they were closed, guarded, or used by everyone “It could hold all the battle information or when they plan to attack the royals. They cannot be the ones in charge. Females would never be able to do anything for themselves and those sick old perverts would be raping all the sixteen-year-olds they could find.”

“Agreed. I haven’t seen anyone other than leaders go in there, but they have meetings at all hours of the day and night. It didn’t start until Alpha Alexander was taken prisoner and you all refused to trade him for anything.” She giggled. “Such a good idea on your part. I heard Shane bitching about them having you and that your ex-mate should have just fucked you every once in a while, to keep you there. He also mentioned wanting a piece of ruined and beaten bitch. I ‘accidentally’ bit his dick that night.”

“Well thank you.” I was forgetting one of the best hidden spots we used but nothing was coming to mind as I stared at the map. “Do you remember that one Thanksgiving we snuck out to the lake with Lindy and brought some of my moms rum we had stolen?”

“Hell ya.” Throwing her head back sending her laugh throughout the room. “And we got so stinking drunk we passed out under the stars barely waking up in time to sneak back in before patrol caught us.”

“Oh yea. They almost did. Thank goodness it was the older lazy patrol group.” Just remembering some of our actual fun we had in that pack was warming my soul. “Most of the time in that pack it was absolute shit for each of us but together we made it better. I hope once we get Lindy here with her mate and you reject yours to join our pack, we can have those again. The guys won’t know what to do with us when they find us drunk as skunks somewhere random on the pack lands.”

“Excuse me, Drunk?” Draco scoffed as he snuck into the living room. “I found what you asked for but Duncan intercepted and took it with him. Hopefully that was ok.”

“Yea, its fine.” I turned toward Olivia remembering one of our questions. “Why did you put her ear in the letter? Why would you do that?”

“Oh, that. Umm...” Draco sat down on the couch probably wondering the same thing making her shrink back but her eyes keeping their strength and stubbornness. “I found it. They were going to send it to you anyways with some kind of note lying about how she was dead, and this was the only thing left of her. I only took the ear with me, but I burned the letter. I didn't have time to spray scent cancelling anything, so they know its me."

Moonlight pushed forward. "They won't get you. You are safe here no matter what happens."

"Any friend of my sisters is a friend of mine." Draco stood up smiling at me. "The guys need me so I will be headed there. Ally will be headed here. She wants some opinions on outfits."

I groaned. "Fine but if she tries to make me wear pink, I am going to send him home naked."

He laughed and left.

Chapter 57: Men have no filter.

Chapter 57 - Once Rejected, Thrice Accepted

Waking up on the floor was not the ideal way for my body to sleep or try to sit up from. My back was throbbing with my bladder screaming at me and that was not the wake up call I wanted. Seeing Olivia asleep with her hand in the popcorn next to me almost made up for it. That decision would have to wait until after I made it to the bathroom.

After a dash to the bathroom where I almost slid off the seat and dripped water from washing my hands all the way back to the kitchen, I got to work on making the biggest cup of coffee for both of us. Now that I was somewhere I was cherished I had been able to try out all the different coffee creamers and it was the highlight of my mornings after being woken up with a smile and a blush.

"Damnit!" Someone yelled from the front porch. It sounded like a pissed off Draco.

"What the..." I whispered to myself finishing off my coffee after saving my almost dropped creamer. Draco would have been even more pissed about having to make a store run this early. "Its barely six am and they are having a whole ass conversation outside."

As I got closer, I started to hear my mates along with Charles and Jackson. They weren't here, were they? What in the absolute freak is going on?

"No, she is asleep with Olivia, her so called friend." Lucas replied to whoever. "I don't believe she has changed back to being on our girls' side."

Moonlight liked being called their girl but that was all she appreciated from his reply. I agreed with her.

“Stop it, Lucas. You heard what she said about them having no deceit in their heart when speaking.” Leo stuck up for me. “I believe they were telling the truth and I have all the faith in the world in her powers but that doesn’t mean they were keeping some things to themselves.”

“I told you everything. Please.” Sounded like a wounded Tiberius. “Please tell me what we are going to do for my mate.”

“I vote we let her stay there. Make him pay for being a traitor to your pack.” Jackson growled from somewhere. I couldn’t see him but I did see a phone sitting on the table in front of the guys so he must be on speaker along with Gramps.

I pushed the door open and leaned against the frame sipping my coffee while they picked their mouths up from the ground. Jackson and Charles both asked what was going on or if they were still there.

“Go ahead and answer ‘em. I can wait.” I hissed keeping my eyes on all of them and the guards they had around the front of the house. I had to assume they were all the way around since they didn’t trust Olivia or if my powers were strong enough to read someone correctly.

“Shit. I did not mean for you to hear that.” Jackson explained honestly. “I know she was your friend and all.”

“Is.” I corrected him. “She is my friend, and we will be saving her. I can do it with or without all of you. It would actually be easier since I am smaller and know all the hiding spots, but I gave you the benefit of the doubt to help me. Don’t make me regret it.”

Lucas turned away from me with his shoulders hunched and fists clenched so tight they were white. I could feel his anger and loss of control radiating off him but I wasn’t backing down. I meant what I said.

“You wouldn’t go without us!” Leo exclaimed sounding shocked I even mentioned it.

“I would.” I took a sip of my coffee watching all their faces. “Tiberius, if your mate was somewhere safe even if it wasn’t here would you betray the pack in any way?”

“No. Never. I just...” He dropped his head. “It was my fault. It is my fault they have her and she is going through all that pain. I couldn’t keep my drunk mouth shut. I have to get her free even if it kills me.”

“I get it. I am with you.” I nodded my head toward him. “Jackson, Charles, you don’t have to be involved. Either my mates are with me, or I am alone. Either way I am going to get her back. Olivia and I made a map of all the spots we used to get in and out minus a few only I would fit in which wouldn't be of use in a group rescue. We gonna make a plan together or are you going to continue to make life choices for me?"

"Fuck." Jackson growled through the phone getting a laugh from Charles.

"I am on your side, my strong warrior." Charles stated leaving the guys surprised. "I don't agree with trusting Olivia or Tiberius but I trust in your powers. Doesn't mean we can't smack them around a little for being stupid in their actions!"

"Agreed." I shouted over everyone as they started to argue.

They didn't hear me so I just let them argue back and forth. Sometimes men only think with their small head and he was never the right choice. One day they would know to just listen and talk everything out. For now I was going to ignore them and make my own decisions.

'Hey Cherry! You and Britt want to go on a run with Olivia and I?' I linked her as I walked back into the living room finding Olivia awake with tears going down her face.

"Go on a run? Moonlight really misses your wolf, Sunflower."

"Yes, please." She sniffled slowly, standing up. "I know I made mistakes in the past and I am so sorry for not realizing mates weren't everything. I want to make up for it. I am on your side. Do what you need to do to trust me. Keep me in the dungeons under lock and key until you can trust me. Feed me wolfsbane to keep me weak. Whatever. I have to make up for what I have done."

I nodded. "You will when you help me get Lindy and take down our old pack. I will even let you kill Shane after you reject his sorry ass. For now, let's have you meet two important people and give our wolves time together."

'We are down. Meet you at the edge of the woods by your house!' Cherry replied cheerfully.

'Heck ya. Olivia is joining us. She hasn't lied yet and I want you to meet her. I am hoping one day she will be trusted enough to be in our group. She can be a hoot.'

'Sounds like a plan.' I was more than ready for a race and a kill.

I grabbed Olivia and snuck out the back with her. I knew the guards would instantly tell the guys, but I was sick of communication everything and only got a portion of the same respect back. Relationships were hard and with four of us it felt even harder on some days. Hopefully, those days would become less and less as the years go by.

"Wait, Luna. The Alphas are on their way." One of the guards shouted as we ran past him.

"They better start running because I am in need of speed and a good kill." I shouted back, giggling, before shifting into Moonlight. I felt Olivia shift with me and the happiness from Moonlight when she saw her friend for the first time in forever. This was going to be fun.

Chapter 58 - Once Rejected, Thrice Accepted

“My deer was the biggest!” Britt gloated running backwards in front of Cherry and I.

“Yea, Yea. Keep bragging.” Cherry scoffed teasingly. “Next time I won’t go so nice on you.”

“You are so full of crap! I can’t wait to tell everyone I beat the Luna and Cherry, one of the top female warriors, on taking down the biggest deer.” She looked at Olivia with a small smile. “I don’t know you well enough to give you crap but you stick around long enough and I will be adding you to my list.”

Olivia giggled. “I will keep that in mind. I plan on being around for a long time if your sister and her mates let me.” Like a dork my lips turned into the biggest smile. Now to get Lindy and add both of them to my current friend group making it a perfect mix of fierce females.

“One of our top warriors huh?” I side eyed her as she avoided looking at me. “It seems we don’t know much about you. Let’s change that and hear some of your story.”

“There isn’t much to tell.” She shrugged looking back at the guys. “You think they can handle carrying those deer by themselves?”

I laughed following her eyesight to see Leo and Lucas carrying Britts deer arguing via mind link by the look of their glares at each other. Behind them were the guards carrying Cherry’s deer silently with blank faces. Duncan and Draco on the other hand, were loudly giving each other shit as they carried my and Olivia’s kills. Mine wasn’t as big as the other twos but he wasn’t my only kill. Moonlight had a thing for rabbits, and she got her fill before taking down the nearest deer to bring back to the pack.

“They will be fine. Let them handle it and you talk to me. I need something to keep my mind busy.” I pouted pleading with her.

“Olivia would love to hear someone else’s story other than her own or mine. We are over our negative past.” Olivia nodded in agreement.

“Only if I hear your stories later on.” We nodded and waited for her to continue. “It isn’t a very interesting story. I was a nurse at another pack a few years ago. The pack I grew up in with my family and friends still there. Everything was great until a few visitors came to speak with our Alpha and help train some of our warriors.”

“Hey, Gemma-“ Leo yelled but shut up when I turned toward him with a glare. “Let’s talk later.”

I nodded and turned back toward a smiling group of girls. “What? I was into the story. Please continue.”

“One of the visitors was the trainer for the pack near us and he ended up being my mate.” She smiled as tears ran down her face. “He wanted to move to our pack since I was a nurse and those are on short supply versus warriors. He was the most handsome guy I had ever seen and his spicy coffee scent would make my wolf go crazy.”

She laughed and wiped away a tear. She continued on telling us how they had everything planned out and they had already marked and mated each other by the end of the second night. They hadn’t told anyone they were mates since she just wanted time together. Normally finding someone’s mate is a big deal and there would be a big fuss about it making it impossible to be together.

Explaining this Britt nodded saying it was the same in most packs which is crazy because newly mated couples are very sensitive to anything that could threaten their bond and just need left alone.

“But it all crumbled when we had a meeting with this Alpha and mine.” She stopped facing away from us just as we hit the edge of the forest. “It seemed his Alpha already had him picked out for his daughter who hadn’t found her mate even though she was 26. My Mate, Justin, was 23. Justin explained that he found his fated mate and introduced me. We explained we already marked and mated knowing we were meant to be by the goddess herself. My Alpha was happy for me. His lost it.”

‘Head back with the meat. This is a conversation between girls.’ I linked the guys as I put my arm around her shoulders. ‘The guards can see us from our house so we are fine. Please ask the cooking staff to make some venison stew tonight with the deer. Cherry’s wolf mentioned it a few times as we stalked our prey.’

Britt followed my lead and hugged her from the other side as the guys walked on with sadness in their eyes. I couldn’t tell if it was because of Cherry’s story or that I threatened to save my friend myself. Either way I would find out later.

“What happened next?” Olivia asked quietly stepping closer but not close enough to touch her. She was still a bit unsure about everything.

“His Alpha had already told his daughter of his plan and she was excited. She had always had a crush on Justin. He told Justin he either broke it off with me and went to through with the rejection ritual for a marked mate or he was a rogue.” Her fists clenched as she squeezed her face tight. “Justin chose rogue so the Alpha kicked him off the pack. He told my Alpha he would start a way with him if he let him into the pack and I couldn’t let him do that. The pack was so small. So we both went rogue.”

She turned back to us with a half-smile. “For two years things were great. It was a bit rough being a rogue but I worked in a small human town as a nurse for a small doctors office and he worked as an accountant. He actually met Tiberius there and introduced us. He invited us to join this pack after getting the ok from the Alphas but on our way back we accidently went through his old pack lands.”

“They attacked, didn’t they?” Olivia gasped.

“They did. They grabbed Tiberius and me to hold us back as he let his daughter kill him.” Her eyes met mine with rage in them. “And then I broke lose and killed his daughter. Leo and Lucas saw the whole thing, so they handled the Alpha. They still let me join even though I didn’t give them all the details. Tiberius trusted me and in time they all started to. One day I am going to go back to that pack and kill the Alpha.”

“And we will be going with you.” I told her. “Maybe once he is dead his pack would like to be on our side in all this.”

“We should see about going there soon and you can just challenge him. Then you can pick who would be Alpha or take over for yourself.” Olivia shrugged. “That is what I would do. That would be the real revenge.”

Cherry smiled evilly. “Yes, please.”

“After we get Lindy out and back here. After that I say let’s do it.” They all nodded.

We all ran toward our house where we saw my mates had just arrived back home. I was all in for this. Get some of my own rage out while helping a friend after helping another friend.

hapter 59: The other traitors and starting’s of plans

Chapter 59 - Once Rejected, Thrice Accepted

"Okay so the plan is because some kind of distraction so we can go in and save Lindy and her sister while causing a little destruction of our own before getting out of Dodge to go take some revenge on a pack for cherry and bringing them into the fold so we have another packed help us out. It seems doable." I state smiling at the large group gathered in the conference room. "But what kind of distraction would get either some of the warriors to leave the pack or get them to one side of their pack or there's a light duty on the guarding of the prisoners? It can't be anything from me or Olivia because they would sniff that crap right out. My fake Mommy dearest knows I want to rip her throat out."

"I may have an idea." Tiberius raised his shackled hand smiling. He shouldn't be in those when he was just protecting his own in the same manner my mates would, but the guys felt safer. "It's about time for a check in so if we figure out some juicy fake info to send back they would buy it and use it immediately."

"But the other spies would need to report the same thing or it would be a waste." Jackson said from the video chat we had with him, King Charles, and Gramps.

"That's very true." Charles said sounding deep in thought. "But I happen to know a prisoner that they really want back. We could let something drop about him being moved or escaping but he won't actually be moved from his spot."

"And don't worry about the other spies within the pack. I have a plan for them." Draco said happily, maybe a bit too happy. "The omegas are already taken care of and will be visiting them later. The others I've laid a bit of a trap for later today".

'I think I like evil Draco!' Moonlight snickered.

'Same, girl. Same.'

Gazing around the room and measured everyone's reactions. We brought in a few of our lead warriors, the other trainers, and anyone that held a bit of authority that we have some kind of trust in. We took their phones from them and let them know that I wolves would be paying attention for any signs of mind linking. The guys had asked them very pointed questions and I kept an eye out for a lie in their answers. So far so good. We needed these people to be trustworthy and to be there for the pack. Who knows what's going to happen when we save Lindy and take out that other alpha.

'Hey.' Olivia linked softly. 'Worst case scenario I could reach out to my mate. I know that he probably knows I took Lindy's ear and escaped. They probably think I'm going to be coming back for her and I know what he would do but I could play into what they think would happen. I could be what distracts them to one side of the pack. I would mention your pack knowing everything that I've overheard and everything my so-called may have shared with me.'

'No, I can't let you do that.' I shouted back in our link. 'There's no way I could let you go back to that pack and even give them a chance to hurt you or kill you. The only time you're going back anywhere near that pack is if they're attacking here or you're rejecting that piece of s mate.'

'If something happened to me it would be worth it knowing I got to help you after all the mistakes I made' Olivia confessed. 'I know your mates don't trust me and they're right not to because I've been a traitor to you since I found Shane. My friendship should have meant more than choosing to be an obedient mate but I was scared. I'm no longer scared Gemma. I need to be able to be the backup plan.'

The guys were speaking with everyone about a few of our details of the old pack and the ways in. It was a test. The warriors we had watching the place would know if they suddenly changed how they patrolled or blocking in one of the ways through the wall. Duncan had his eyes on me so I smiled and nodded while keeping my mind opinion to Olivia's link.

'Fine, you can be the backup plan but no if any of your blood gets spilled, I'm going to raise hell and that pack won't know what hit them.' I glared at her from across the room.

She had been adamant about standing in the back, so the focus wasn't on her. We both knew it wasn't just because of that but because of the glares she was getting from the pack. It seems that we needed to have a pack meeting about forgiveness and trusting their leaders. Loyalty and love made them act out this way so I completely understood it. I just wasn't okay with it.

"Anything to add, Gemma?" Jackson asked after he stopped his speech on traitors and what happened to them. He made sure they also knew that if they came to us for help, we would never turn our back on them.

I faced the group of them with perched lips ready to get this over with. Not wanting them to think the worst of me or that I just wanted to make them feel like shit. The words didn't want to come but this conversation needed done.

"Listen, all of you have my respect and loyalty even if I wasn't the Luna." I took a breath to get my mind right. "But ever since I made it clear Olivia wasn't a traitor and that Tiberius only did what he did for his mate it seems you all have decided not to care. I am a living lie detector and my skills are only getting better day by day. I told you they were speaking the truth. I even mentioned their reasons behind everything and that they were still in a bit of trouble, but nothing was done to hurt this pack willingly. Instead of respecting that, you have made one of my best friends, a guest of the pack, and the sole reason we know when they plan to attack feel like an intruder and even scared for the life a few times with your growls and glares. That will stop. You will make sure anyone that follows you or acts out in any way will stop it. If they do something again to put any of you in danger by CHOICE, we will handle it. Tiberius is still in the dungeons but he is helping daily with what he knows and what he has shared. He has given us everything he has so we can look over it again and again. Olivia wants to be apart of this pack and wants to show her loyalty. Start acting like a team and trust in your leaders."

All their heads bowed. We could feel how sorry they were. Olivia's face was red with embarrassment. Whoops.

"Now how about we put together a pack bbq tonight? Who knows how to make some mean sauce?" I smiled when they all started shouting in excitement.

'Good job, my Luna.' Leo Linked.

Chapter 60: Sexy good times are the best rewards.

Chapter 60 - Once Rejected, Thrice Accepted

 Explicit Sex scene ahead. Nothing that adds to the plot or has info on the traitors so you can skip ahead. I don't want you to feel uncomfortable due to the smut in this book *****

“Having that barbecue was a great idea.” Leo whispered in my ear as he carried me bridal style into the bedroom. “I cannot wait to reward you for being such a great luna.”

“And I can't wait to show all three of you how much I love you.” I licked over my mark on his neck enjoying his shivers as they ran over his body. “How much I appreciate you and respect you.”

Lucas came from behind snatching me away from his twin brother with a laugh before tossing me onto the bed. “You are ours and only ours. We will keep you safe. We will make sure that you are always loved respected and taken care of. Do you understand?”

“Yes, sir.” I giggled and mock saluted him before getting serious. “I love all three of you and you all have made my life so amazing. I know that I am difficult at times and can be especially bratty you are the ones that mean the most to me in this world.”

“And you mean the most to us,” Duncan responded as he shut and locked the door, “your sister is in her room with soundproof headphones on that I triple made sure worked.”

“Why is that?” I snickered already knowing the answer

“Because I'm about to make you scream my name baby.” He grinned.

“Our names brother. She's going to be screaming our names from the multiple orgasms she's about to receive.” Leo corrected him walking up to the edge of the bed ready to pounce.

“And all the moaning and growling my name after I suck the living soul out of each of you before we even get to doing the deed.” Moonlight pushed forward making my eyes glow letting them know she was in agreement. “Now get naked before I let my wolf tear them off you.”

Removing my close slowly as each piece of their clothing dropped to the floor. Just seeing them hard and ready turned me on. My body wanted to jump all three of them and rush toward that first orgasm but we needed to wait. We needed to delay that release make it so much better when you work for it

Crawling over to them before slowly sliding from the bed to the floor had them breathing heavier as they watched every move I made. They circled me so two were on my sides making it so my hands could keep them busy while my mouth became full with the one in front. I knew each of them from the look of the cocks but also the smell, feel, and taste. Our first heat together imprinted everything about them.

Licking the tip of Duncan's length teasing his slit the twins stepped closer giving me more wiggle room on how I took care of them. Alternating between hard and soft in my grip and changing up my speeds catching them off guard.

'Hey sis.' Draco linked surprising the shit out of me that I almost bit down on Duncan's dick.

"So freaking sorry." I pulled back and wiped my mouth catching the tell end of a moan and smile. Daddy likes a bit of pain, does he?

What happened?" Duncan knelt down grabbing my chin to lift my gaze to his worried face.

"Draco." I growled.

'Hey, it is go time on catching the other traitors. You guys ready?' He linked again sounding like an over sugared puppy. 'Allie and I are on our way to your house.'

'No. Don't. We will meet you there in fifteen minutes.' I replied freaking out a bit and yanking the twins jewels at the same time. The sounds they made showed me they were not into the pain kink.

"Draco's plan to catch the other traitors is in motion and they were on their way here." I explained showing some extra love to the parts I yanked and turned red.

"Why?" Leo whined throwing his head back.

"People are always interrupting our sexy time. I need to feel you around me, gripping me so hard you milk me for all I am worth." Lucas complained refusing to step back.

"That is why I told him we would meet him in fifteen minutes." I stood up and licked my lips. "I wanna know who can cum the fastest between the dick in my mouth, my pussy, and my ass. Who gets what?"

Everything happened so fast it was a blur. I was on top of Duncan with Lucas behind me and Leo's head nudging to enter my mouth. They took their time getting me prepped and ready before sheathing themselves to the fullest in each hole. I felt so full I could burst but the growing almost painful orgasm was going to be worth it along with the one after that and the one after that.

“No one comes until Gemma has had at least three orgasms. Can’t let our ladylove walk correctly after this.” Leo snickered as he held my face against his crotch, choking me with his member.

“First one coming right up.” Duncan pushed his hands down to my clit working it fast and hard.

“Shii..Oooo...” So close I was barely holding my screams in.

“Don’t.. Hold... back...Scream!” Lucas growled along with each deep thrust.

And there she blew. I screamed Duncan’s name as my orgasm barrale through me leaving me as steady as a limp noodle. At some point Leo fell out of my mouth but was right back there when light came back into my eyes.

“I got you, baby.” Lucas said reaching around to replace Duncans hand. “In more ways then one.”

His name was screamed next before Leo got his turn to make me cream. It wasn’t long after that until I will filled by each of them.

“Let’s take a shower.” Duncan picked me up from the bed and followed started to follow the twins.

“No. I want everyone to smell you on me and me on you.” I purred rubbing my face in his neck. “Its time they knew we were a team in everything.”

They and their wolves agreed.

Chapter 61: They may blame me but it isn’t my fault.

Chapter 61 - Once Rejected, Thrice Accepted

“You ready for the show?” Draco asked clapping his hands together. He looked like a kid in a candy store with unlimited money. “I have it all set up for our viewing pleasure and even have it linked so King Charles and the rest can watch along with us.”

“Thank you.” I took a seat winking at Allie’s smiling face from her seat beside me. “What are we going to be watching tonight?”

“Charles mentioned to a few people who mentioned for a few others about their prisoner escaping this morning, but they had the area surrounded so he couldn’t leave his lands without help. They made sure it had enough time to get where it needed to go.” Draco took the seat beside Allie pushing power turning on three tv’s in front of us. “On monitor one we have Trudy and Janets parents which I put at a positive for being traitors. On monitor two we have Karens parents along with Sally’s who seem to always be together. The last monitor is three warriors who seem to always be working when attacks happen and never get hurt.”

“How did we not notice this? I make the friggin schedules.” Lucas scowled walking over to stand behind me as Leo took the seat next to me and Duncan stood behind him. “How did you sniff out these people out?”

“I am good at my job, Alpha.” Allie fake coughed loudly interrupting him. “And my wife is the queen of gossip with the ladies here.”

“So true.” I nodded. “Its not a bad thing. I found out through her which females were still flirting with you. That’s why I made you come here smelling like my pussy and me like your juices. The female guard at the door behind us is one of those ladies who keeps talking about how she wants to take you for a ride even if you are mated.”

“What!” Duncan roared trying to turn back to see who she was but I had grabbed his arm making him stay planted where he was.

“Stop. I already took care of it. She knows she was wrong and has to make up for it.” I kissed his hand smiling. “We came to an understanding.”

“Turn it up!” Ally shouted trying to rip the controller out of her mates’ hands. “They are saying something.”

We all focused back on the screen to where Janet and Trudy’s parents were making a phone call. They had it on speaker while they both stared at the screen smiling like villains. I could just hear their thoughts about finally getting some good intel in order to move up the ranks and hurt the pack that killed one of their worthless daughters. They probably blamed me, but they raised those crazy chicks.

‘What are their names?’ I linked Allie not wanting to disturb the guys listening intently as someone finally answered the phone.

‘Tina and Mark. What have you been calling them this whole time?’ She laughed through the link already knowing it was going to be good.

‘Several names I shouldn’t repeat to others. Let’s just say I am glad they are the traitors. Moonlight is ready to be let loose again.’

“Hurry up and tell us the news. We have better things we could be doing.” A voice that sounded very familiar. Yup, it was my fake father on the phone. “Spill.”

“Oh, yes sir.” Tina sobbed out looking a bit more nervous now. I liked watching them squirm.

“We got word that the Alpha you have been missing so much has escaped from the royal prison.” Mark stated, rolling his eyes at his wife’s dramatics. “He hasn’t made it off their lands yet, and they have the place surrounded, but I remember hearing you have a few wolves there that would be willing to help you out.”

“K. We will take care of it. Next time, get straight to the point.” He hung up after without a goodbye.

They started bickering instantly but barely had time to really get into it before Draco’s team of warriors overtook their house and had them in silver shackles being taken to the dungeons. They kept yelling something about me ordering this because I was scared their daughter Janet was the true Luna to the twins. She would give them better pups and run the pack better.

“You guys pay any attention to the other two monitors because I was sucked into this one.” I looked between everyone and they shook their head. “Well, shoot. Have your guys go ahead and keep them in their spots so we can rewatch the footage. If we wait they will know soon if not already, and make a run for it.”

Draco nodded and started sending out orders via mind link. Allie rewound both screens and waited for Draco to get done. I was having a hard time focusing on anything other than the rage coming off the guys.

“Shit, I just thought of something.” I turned back to the door finding the female guard doing her best to keep her eyes away from the guys. What a good girl. “Find me Janet. I don’t trust her. And send a few others to track down her little buddies. I think it’s Karen, Sally, Missy, and Natalie.”

“Why bring in the friends?” Draco asked pushing play on the screen with the three warriors.

“Because those girls want power and they use everyone around them for that.” The female warrior answered with a small smile. “But they will be easy to get them to turn on each other. There is no loyalty between the lot of them.”

“Exactly.” I nodded and she left with a different warrior replacing her.

‘Help. Gemma, Help.’ Britt linked me in hysterics. ‘They followed me in here. Janet and her friends. They want to make you pay.’

I stood up and ran out of the room ignoring everyone around me. ‘Where are you?’

‘Basement bathroom by the kid hangout. Hurry. It hurts.’

‘They are dead.’ Moonlight hissed.

‘And this time I am taking care of it.’ No one touches my family. These girls had gotten too many chances.

Chapter 62: Death isn’t always easy even if they deserve it.

Chapter 62 - Once Rejected, Thrice Accepted

Running down the stairs ignoring the empty and waiting elevator with only my sister’s safety on my mind I didn’t notice my mates had caught up to me. They didn’t know where we were going or why, but they were right there with me. They wanted answers and all I had was questions so I have the simplest explanation I could.

“Those bitches went after my sister again and have her in the bathroom hurting her.” I jumped the last few stairs landing on my feet before running down the hall. “They are dead if one hair is hurt on their body. No promises though.”

“Gemma, we need to handle this the right way so there isn’t blow back from the pack.” Duncan stated without judgement.

Knowing he was right and knowing what I was going to do regardless of the aftermath. Just nodding seemed my best option, which from his grimace I knew he understand what was about to happen. The twins kept silent but beside me meant I had their support. I would have to thank them again later.

Turning the last corner two big guys were standing in front of the female’s bathroom. They looked barely 18 and smart as a box of rocks which was probably true if they were working with the she-whores.

“You have two seconds to walk away from that damn door before I move you myself.” I growled letting my claws extend before they even answered.

“W...we...” One of them tried to explain before noticing who was with me. “They made us do it.”

“They promised not to tell our parents that we are...” The other started before the other elbowed him hard enough to cut off his speech.

“That you’re each other’s mates?” I asked slowly down before stopping in front of them. “No one has any right to judge you having a same sex mate. The goddess chose you for each other and she made each of us. Would you rather insult her or those bitches in there who will probably be dying today?"

They gave each other a look before running off. Leo stopped them and ordered them to their office with a threat I didn't hear if they didn't go. He mentioned Cass would be joining them up there to have a talk. They made sure to head off in the right direction.

I barely registered the guys leaving before ramming my way into the room. Karen and Sally were holding my sister up by her arms while Janet took her time punching her with her fingers full of rings. Missy and Natalie were on the side with Missy using her phone to record it all while laughing and Natalie tearing up everything that was in my sister's purse and backpack. Piles of her homework were beside a crushed phone and tablet.

Janet turned to us with a smile on her face. "Lookie the bitch who ruined our pack decided to try and save her pathetic excuse for a sister."

"All I see is my sister showing me who are the traitors in this pack and that they should die." I growled stepping into Janet's bubble.

'We will be fine. Most of this is for show since we can't let them know we have our wolf.' Britt linked keeping up the farce of not being able to hold herself up. 'They are still after your mates and will use the fight between the packs to get them. They have been reporting back to your rejected mate and his shit for brain friend, the alphas' son.'

'I get it but they still touched you. I warned them a few times too many.' I linked her as I kept my eyes on Janet's face as her smile fell.

"You can't touch me. I am part of this pack and I haven't threatened you." Her minions nodded in agreement. "Even if they are your mates, for now, that doesn't mean they will let you kill off the important people in their pack."

"We won't be stopping her from doing anything." Leo crossed his arms.

"They are always on my side, front, back. You name it. Just like a few hours ago." Licking my lips seemed to agitate her even more.

"You...Mine...Kill..." She leapt at me but all she caught was air before floor when I sidestepped and shoved her down.

"Hey!" A voice shouted from behind Leo before shoving him to the side. "One of those bitches is mine." She looked like she ran all the way here from the hospital with leaves and twigs sticking out everywhere from her scrubs. At least I knew we could trust her.

Cherry ran forward ramming her way into Missy's stomach causing her to drop her phone and scream before bouncing her head off the wall and passing out. Cherry wiped off her clothes before turning back to us with a smile. "Who wants to go next?"

Karen and Sally looked, toward Janet for guidance, which ended up being a stupid move on their part. She had turned her attention back to me growling before leaping at me again. Her claws sliced my shoulder before I was able to turn away from her. Time for her to get lost. Just had to hope Cherry and Britt had the other girls under control.

Janet came back at me with her claws out, but I caught both her arms hitting her head with mine sending her back a few steps before punching her in the throat and kicking straight into her stomach, sending her to the floor.

She rolled onto her side with her eyes glowing and her body slowly growing fur. “You smell like our mate. Leo is mine. I will bear his pups after I rip your throat out.”

‘Not before I rip yours out.’ Moonlight growled watching Janet get closer to finishing her shift.

Moonlight shoved our claws back out and grabbed Janet’s almost fully shifted body. She howled as she ripped out her throat flinging her blood everywhere, including our body. We howled again in victory with everyone minus the crazy bitches in the room.

Britt barged into me wrapping her arms around my body. “Shit, I was so scared you wouldn’t make it.”

Moonlight gave her a squeeze before letting me have control again. I pulled her even closer breathing in her scent and purring. “This won’t ever happen again.”

Looking around the room I saw Cherry covered in blood with Karen and Natalie dead beside her. Missy was still out against the wall but Sally seemed to be missing. Her gross scent of onions and garlic was smelling up the room in her distress.

“Please!” She whined from behind me.

I turned bringing Britt with me seeing Duncan holding her away from him by her shoulders. Seeing his hands anywhere near her and her pushing her breasts out as she whined sent my vision into the red zone. Stepping away from Britt I grabbed Sally’s hair yanking her to me and twisting her neck until it snapped.

Looking up at the guys as her body dropped to the ground I snarled grabbing their complete attention. “You are mine. Never forget that. Never touch another female who has thrown themselves at you or I’ll be killing another wolf.”

Lucas groaned throwing back his head with a whine. “So freakin hot.”

“Gross.” Britt gagged grabbing me back into another hug. “Let’s get cleaned up, have some dinner and I will stay at Cherry’s place tonight so you can mate all over the house.”

“Deal.” Leo smiled while Duncan called in a few warriors to handle the room.

‘Should I be sorry I killed two people in this room?’ I linked Cherry as she stepped behind us leaving the room.

‘Fuck no. They deserved that and worse.’