

Thrive 43

Chapter 43 You have to learn from me

As soon as Anna Maeju left, Han Weihong immediately took off the stethoscope, stepped to the door in a few steps, turned her head halfway and looked out.

Yun Chang's eyes lit up at once. She still realized that someone was outside after she had exercised her mental strength. How did Han Weihong know there was someone outside?

Thinking so, Yun Chang stuck her head out from Gu Shinian's shoulder and looked at Han Weihong carefully.

She is not tall, about thirty years old, with short hair, phoenix eyes, and thick lips. She is not a big beauty in the traditional sense, but she looks very charming.

At this moment, she put one hand in the pocket of her white coat, one hand close together, and one hand close to the door.

Looking at the corridor for a few seconds, Han Weihong turned around and met Yun Chang's curious eyes.

Yun Chang raised her eyebrows and smiled, Han Weihong's aura instantly dissipated, she walked over with a smile, bent down, and met Yun Chang's eyes, "What is Xiao Chang looking at?"

"Look at Aunt Han's beauty!"

When several people entered the hospital, Yun Shuilian said Han Weihong's identity. Yun Chang knew that she was Han Shan's daughter. Now, after a close-up observation of her face, Yun Chang found that Han Weihong really had a bit of Han Shan between her brows. shadow.

"Little mouth is so sweet!"

Han Weihong couldn't help laughing. She took out a few pieces of candy from her pocket and stuffed it into Yun Chang's hand. She looked back at the stupid Widow Wang, and said to Yun Shuilian:

"Shuilian, Wang Guihua doesn't need to be hospitalized for this disease, and there is no symptomatic medicine in hospital. Just go back and raise it slowly. As long as it is not stimulated, the condition should not get worse."

Yun Shuilianhong smiled at Han Weihong with rims of eyes, "Thank you, Sister Weihong, for causing you trouble today."

"It's all my own family, what's the trouble." Han Weihong said, raising her hand to check the time, and realizing that it was almost time to get off work, she turned around and took out a lunch box from the drawer, "It's getting late, let's go to the cafeteria for dinner first, it will be later. Go to my dad's place."

"Sister Wei Hong, I, I, I want to invite you, please..."

Yun Shuilian lowered her head and dared not look into Han Weihong's eyes. She stammered for a long time and couldn't utter a word. Yun Chang watched anxiously from the side, and simply stuck her head out and continued Yun Shuilian's words:

"Aunt Han, please help to open the medical certificate! Auntie wants a medical certificate from my mother. Let's go back and find the old Wang's family to settle the account!"

Han Weihong looked at Yunshang, and then at Yunshuilian, whose face was flushed red, and couldn't help laughing with a 'puchi'.

"Shuilian, you are still an aunt, why are you still not generous? You are so polite with me. You will start working next year. How do you deal with people in the unit?" Han Weihong said as she sat back at the table and took the He took out a piece of paper, lowered his head and started writing.

Yun Chang loved Han Weihong's straightforward and generous temperament. Seeing this, she raised her head proudly, "Auntie, did you hear it? You have to learn from me. It's generous, I like Aunt Han!"

This time, even Yun Shuilian couldn't help laughing. She tugged at Yun Chang's little braid, "Okay, auntie will learn from you in the future."

"That's right, I like a generous person like our family." Han Weihong smiled while writing, and kept teasing Yun Chang, "Shangnan, you see Aunt Han likes you so much, you give it to Aunt Han. What is it like to be a daughter?"

Yun Chang frowned and shook her head like a rattle, "No, I'll have to recruit a family to my dad when I grow up!"

Gu Shinian: "..."

In the roar of laughter from the crowd, Gu Shinian's face darkened, he knocked on Yun Chang's head, turned his head and said to Yun Erchuan:

"Second Uncle Yun, I'll take Ah Chang out for a walk, so I won't have dinner with you. Where will we meet in the afternoon?"

Gu Shinian knew that Yun Erchuan didn't have much money on him, and he still had business to do, so he also wanted to take Yunshang around the county.

Yun Erchuan has seen Gu Shinian's gift-giving handwriting,

Knowing that he was rich and had no shortage of fine food, he thought he wanted to open a small stove for Yun Chang, but he happily agreed.

However, Han Weihong was not happy. She handed the medical certificate written in her hand to Yun Shuilian and said:

"Where can I go? It's all over my territory. What does it look like to leave without eating? Comrade Gu Xiao, don't be polite to Aunt Han. I plan to introduce my family Zhang Mingyang to you after dinner."

"Next time, Aunt Han, I've already made an appointment with someone, so it's hard to miss the appointment."

Han Weihong didn't know where Gu Shinian came from, and seeing that both Yun Erchuan had responded, it was not good to force the two of them to stay, so he quickly grabbed a few food stamps and money from the bag, and handed them to Yun Chang without counting them. Rise.

"Aunt Han, if Gu Erge has tickets, I'll just spend Gu Erge's tickets."

Yun Chang clenched his fists and didn't want to live or die. Gu Shinian also hugged Yun Chang and quickly stepped back. Seeing that the two were not accepting them, Han Weihong took a closer look at the clothes on Gu Shinian's body. Little Brain said:

"Comrade Gu Xiao, Chang Nan, the county has been restless these days. When you're done, go to Grandpa Han's house as soon as possible, and don't run around outside, remember?"

Gu Shinian knew that this was for him, thanked Han Weihong, and said hello to Yun Erchuan and Yun Shuilian, and hurriedly walked out with Yun Chang in his arms.

After leaving the outpatient department, Gu Shinian was familiar with his family and turned into the small garden next to the hospital with Yun Chang in his arms. He avoided people and squatted down in the corner where the snow and dead branches were piled up.

The small garden was silent, only the chirping of sparrows and the sound of snow falling from the dead branches when the wind blew.

Yunshang nestled in Gu Shinian's arms, her consciousness entered the space, and she took out a canvas military bag imitating the 1960s in the luggage area of the supermarket. In the bag, she put three kilograms of rice, two kilograms of torn noodles, and twenty pieces. Eggs, and a few big red apples, quickly took them out and held them in their arms.

Immediately afterwards, he wrapped a few warm meat buns in oiled paper, and took them out and stuffed them into the army bag.

After packing up, the two changed directions, slipped out through the back door of the small garden, and quickly walked towards the staff compound of the textile factory.

Yun Chang took out a meat bun and took two bites, feeling that it was not as delicious as the one that Yun Erchuan bought last time, so she simply handed it to Gu Shinian's mouth, "Second brother Gu, eat it quickly, the bun won't taste good when it's cold. ."

Gu Shinian didn't know that Yun Chang's old problem had happened again, he glared at her, opened his mouth and ate the buns in a few mouthfuls. Seeing Yunshang's little paws sneaking into the bag again, she slapped her with a slap in the face:

"A-shang, don't eat against the wind. It's not good for your stomach. I'll take you to a state-run restaurant for dinner when the food is sold out later."

Yun Chang honestly put down the apple she just held in her hand, and asked Gu Shinian's ear, "Second brother Gu, how much can these rice and eggs sell for?"