

Triplets On SM 1641

Chapter 1641-“Don’t think too much.”

Sean gently asked Molly to have lunch first.

Then Sean looked at Tony and said, “Ward won’t have the time to deal with Alkaid and Selon, but you’d better arrange for our men to inform Alkaid, just in case.”

Sean knew that Alkaid wouldn’t act recklessly, but he was afraid that Selon would fail to keep calm.

Tony nodded. “Got it.”

He turned around and was about to leave.

“Wait.”

Molly stopped him and handed him a bottle of medicine from the cabinet nearby.

“What is it?” Tony felt confused.

Molly said seriously, “The new medication I made for Alkaid’s wounds. Its effect is better than the previous one. I’m worried about Alkaid’s condition.”

Alkaid had been penned up in the base. Molly couldn’t see her and could do nothing but ask Tony to bring the medicine to her.

Tony comforted Molly, ‘After Alkaid gets the medicine, she will recover soon.

Don't worry. I will arrange for a subordinate to bring the medicine to her."

"Please also ask your subordinate to be careful."

Molly couldn't help but be worried.

"I see."

Tony nodded and was going to leave.

However, Molly hadn't finished yet and took out another small white bottle, "Please give this to Selon."

Tony didn't know what was inside. When he took the bottle from Molly's hands, he felt that something was writhing inside.

It seemed that it was a living being.

Sean also felt confused. "What is it?"

"Venomous Insects."

Molly looked at Sean and said seriously, "Although I can't help you with many things, I'm confident in medicine. I have cultivated them with Logan and Edmund these days! There are two Venomous Insects inside. One of them can detect if there are any other Venomous Insects in basements! Thus, we can confirm if they have massively cultivated Venomous Insects in the base!"

It was the first time that Sean heard about such a detection mode. He asked, "Can I open the bottle to have a look?"

Molly smiled, "Of course."

She said as she unscrewed the bottle.

Sean got close to having a look. He thought that he would see something disgusting. However, the Venomous Insects inside were like two red beetles.

"They look different from the previous Venomous Insects."

Sean was surprised.

"You're right. There are various kinds of Venomous Insects. No matter how they look like, it's not strange."

Molly nodded and screwed the lid.

Sean stroked her head. "Thank you very much. In this situation, you even cultivate Venomous Insects for me."

Molly looked at Sean gently and said, "It's my pleasure! I would like to help you lighten the burden. Besides, Selon is there. It's a good opportunity for us! If we miss it, it will be a pity!"

Then she became serious. "If the No.1 to No. 5 research laboratories are massively cultivating Venomous Insects...

The other one Venomous Insect can stir up all the Venomous Insects and bring trouble to the base. If so, Ward will be snowed under it."

"Really? That's neat."

Tony felt surprised.

Molly nodded. "Of course."

Then she thought of something and said, "It's all thanks to Mr. Ballard. He gave me the two Venomous Insects before he left. It's said that they're rare Venomous Insect Overlords. However, before he left, the two Venomous Insects were still eggs. We spent much effort on cultivating them."

Sean had a moment of enlightenment. "It's a good opportunity indeed."

He said to Tony, "Please be sure to hand the two Venomous Insects to Selon."

"Got it."

Tony nodded solemnly and left soon.

Chapter 1642-Alkaid was locked up in the base. These two days, in addition to eating and sleeping, she was always ready to deal with Ward and the others.

But oddly enough, the base was unusually quiet for the past two days. Except for the people who delivered the meals, Alkaid didn't see anyone else.

She went behind the door and put her ear against it to listen to the movements outside.

However, it was so quiet that only her breathing could be heard.

"Something's wrong. What's Ward up to?"

Alkaid frowned, thinking back to the day she was interrogated.

Ward wouldn't give up after he failed to get something out of her.

When Alkaid thought of this, her pupils shrank and her face changed slightly.

Could it be that he went to Selon?

She was a well-trained soldier, while Selon was just a weak doctor.

He would not be able to withstand the whipping.

The thought of that image made Alkaid worried.

“No!” Alkaid shook her head. “I can’t let them hurt Selon.”

Then she looked around, her eyes narrowing slightly.

‘How about sneaking out to see what’s going on and check on Selon?’ The thought had just flashed through her mind before Alkaid vetoed it.

“No, no, no!”

She slapped her cheeks, pushing this crazy thought out of her head.

Right now, Sean must be carrying out his plans. Otherwise, he would not have gone to great lengths to have someone deliver the message.

If Alkaid sneaked out, the Shepard family would be confirmed having betrayed the base.

“Then it will disrupt Master’s plans...”

Alkaid walked around the room, mumbling as if this was the only way to dispel the idea.

Suddenly, she stopped and looked at the closed door again, her eyes clear.

No news was good news.

She should believe Selon could handle Ward's interrogation.

In the evening, someone from the base brought the meal in on time as usual.

Alkaid sat on the edge of the bed and watched expressionlessly as the person approached and placed the food box on the table.

She thought that he would then leave.

Instead, he stepped up to her.

She subconsciously raised her hand to defend herself.

At that moment, the man spoke.

"Don't make a move until Master gives orders."

He deliberately lowered his voice.

Hearing this, Alkaid was slightly stunned.

'Is Master so fast?

'He even planted this man here.' Some people were guarding the door outside, so Alkaid did not ask any questions. She only nodded imperceptibly and then took the meal.

The man who brought the food over soon left.

After the door was closed, Alkaid ate quietly.

This time, not surprisingly, she saw another note inside the meal.

There were a few words on it about the situation outside right now and the follow-up plans.

"Don't make a move until Master gives orders."

Alkaid finished reading it, feeling greatly relieved. She admired Sean even more.

In just two days, Sean had turned Ward's attention away.

She and Selon would not have trouble for the time being.

Alkaid put her mind at rest, but at the same time, she got worried about the situation outside.

As a core member of the Grandset, she knew very well how much damage would be done by exposing a port.

Alkaid felt guilty.

If she and Selon made the plan go awry, it would be a sin.

When Alkaid's heart was heavy, Selon also received the news.

Knowing that Alkaid was safe and that her injuries were gradually healing, he felt at ease.

Then, his eyes fell on the bottle that Molly had brought in...

Chapter 1643-Molly assigned him a task.

[There are two venomous insect overlords in the bottle, a mother insect overlord and a child insect overlord. Release the child insect overlord. If there really exist other venomous insects in the underground lab, the child insect overlord will look for them with the help of the smell and will return after some time.] Molly wrote on the paper.

Selon's knowledge of venomous insects only came from TV and books. He had never studied them.

He was surprised to know that the child insect overlord would come back.

Selon's eyes sparkled with excitement when he stared at the two overlords in the bottle.

He took the child insect overlord out with forceps because it was venomous.

The child insect overlord somehow looked kind of cute, whose body was chubby and flaming red, like a cartoon character.

When he put the child insect overlord on the ground, it seemed to lose its direction and turned around and around several times.

Amused by it, Selon couldn't help laughing. "Are you really an overlord? Little dummy," he breathed.

The moment he finished speaking, he saw it move toward the door.

Being stunned for a moment, Selon quickly got up and followed it.

It crawled very fast, which soon moved out of the room through the crack of the door.

At the sight of it, Selon stopped smiling and became grim with a sinking feeling.

‘Are there really other venomous insects?’

‘If the base raises venomous insects, in view of the scale of its research labs, there must exist countless venomous insects.’

‘Once the insects go to the black market, they will inflict serious and untold harm on human beings.’ The more Selon thought about it, the grimmer his face became.

He was even more sure that it was right to have decided to cooperate with Sean.

At the same time, the child insect overlord crawled along the wall.

No guards noticed the tiny beetle.

Even if they saw it, they would view it as an ordinary bug.

So, the child insect overlord moved smoothly, without being interrupted.

Finally, it stopped in the hallway, in which there were five labs, from lab No.1 to lab No.5.

Since the doors were all closed, the child insect overlord couldn’t find the entrance, and it kept spinning around fretfully...

On the other side, Selon tightened his hold on the bottle and stared at it fixedly.

'The child insect overlord has been away for quite a while.

'If it is discovered, that will be terrible.' Just when he was worried, the bottle in his hand suddenly started to shake.

He hurriedly lowered his head and saw the mother insect overlord move about restlessly and keep knocking the bottle impatiently.

'What's wrong?' Selon frowned.

At this time, he suddenly remembered what Molly had written on the paper. If the mother insect overlord got out of control, it meant that there were other venomous insects near the child insect overlord.

The more restless the mother insect overlord became, the more other venomous insects there were around the child insect overlord.

The bottle in his hand started shaking more and more violently.

Selon could only hold it tightly, but the overlord in the bottle seemed to have gone mad, which kept hitting the bottle without fear of knocking itself out.

The scene was slightly funny.

But Selon was not in an amused mood.

'As the mother insect overlord reacts this way, it means that there are a number of other venomous insects near the child insect overlord.' When Selon thought of the enormous number of venomous insects, he looked greatly troubled, whose eyes glittered with coldness and determination.

'The base must be completely destroyed at the cost of anything.

'So must the venomous insects. Otherwise, a catastrophe will come.'

Chapter 1644-Ward's men searched around the harbor, but they didn't find anyone around.

The place was covered in weeds.

"If we can't find anyone, Mr. Lopez is going to be mad at us." The team leader muttered. Then he beckoned for everyone to gather. They were going to report to Ward.

"How are things going? Did you find anyone?" Seeing his men return, Ward asked in a hurry.

"Sir, we didn't find anyone suspicious, but we can confirm that this port has existed for a long time..."

Ward was not satisfied with his man's report, and his face instantly grimaced.

The man felt Ward's overbearing aura. He swallowed fearfully and continued, "It used to be an abandoned port. Someone rebuilt it."

"Anything else?" Ward asked in an eerie voice as he stared fiercely at the man.

"Nothing else."

Before the man could finish his sentence, Ward kicked him hard in the belly and the man took a few steps back.

"Damn! You guys are useless!"

Ward exploded with rage, "What can you do? I should have had you thrown into the sea!"

Keagan stepped forward and said, "Sir, Randall still has family on the island. I don't believe Randall would leave his family behind and run away alone."

Ward glanced at Keagan and then ordered, "Lead them and keep searching! I'm going back to the base."

Keagan nodded and responded, "Yes!"

After Ward returned to base, he had the Petersen family brought in.

"There is no way Randall would betray the Martial Art Union! " One of Randall's family members shouted.

Ward smiled, but the smile was frightening.

"Randall has escaped the island by boat. Do you think he didn't betray the Martial Art Union?"

The Petersen family was shocked to hear about it. They looked at each other.

They didn't believe Randall would betray the Martial Art Union.

Ward swirled the whip in his hand. Abruptly, he heaved the whip to the ground. It made a frightening sound.

Til give you one more chance. Be honest with me!

Otherwise, I will not go easy on you." Ward warned viciously.

But the Petersen family insisted that Randall could not have betrayed the Martial Art Union.

Ward didn't get any useful information after questioning the Petersen family.

He was pissed off.

In the afternoon, Keagan returned.

“Sir, we didn’t catch up with Randall’s boat. I’m sorry.”

Keagan’s report angered Ward even more. Ward’s face looked awful. He gave off a horrifying air.

Before Keagan returned, he was ready to be punished.

But before Ward could punish him, they got another piece of bad news.

A man came running in a panic and reported, breathlessly, “Sir, I’ve got bad news!

All the Venomous insects in the labs are suddenly agitating!”

At the same time, the child Venomous Insect Overlord was crawling curiously in the shade. Ten minutes ago, it got into the lab through a doorway.

After the child overlord entered the lab, it made a disturbance among the Venomous Insects. They all wanted to get out of the bottle.

The researchers all panicked.

Chapter 1645-There were several species of Venomous Insects kept in the five labs. Some of the Venomous Insects are already in the mature stage. If any of them ran out, it would be dangerous.

The sudden agitation of the Venomous Insects was strange.

The researchers were worried.

They started checking the room temperature and the potion in which the insects were kept, to find out what was wrong.

“The room temperature is normal. There’s nothing unusual.”

“The potion is fine, too.”

“I don’t see anything unusual either!”

Ward arrived. Seeing how chaotic the scene was, he showed a gloomy look.

“What’s going on?” He questioned angrily.

Professor Heist, the head of Lab No.1, ran over in a panic. His forehead was covered with sweat. He wiped the sweat as he said, “We’re investigating the cause.”

Ward was unhappy with his answer, but it was not the time to be mad, so Ward suppressed his anger and warned, ‘ Don’t make any more mistakes!’

“Yes.” Professor Heist nodded repeatedly and then told the other researchers to find out the cause as soon as possible.

Ward had a grim look on his face as he watched the staff members bustling in a panic. Then Ward said in a stern voice, “The last batch of products has already been delayed shipping due to the previous port explosion. If you have any more problems, the boss will not forgive you.”

Even if Ward didn’t warn them about this. Professor Heist was well aware of the hot seriousness the situation was. Professor Heist said in a hurry, “Mr. Lopez, don’t worry. We will definitely find out the reason. I promise there won’t be a problem.”

However, half an hour later, there was a sudden “bang” sound in Lab No. 3.

A glass vial in the lab burst.

The Venomous Insect and the potion both spilled on the floor.

“Ah!”

The researchers were shocked and their faces turned pale. They hurriedly ran out of the lab.

“Mr. Lopez, be careful.” One of the men quickly shielded Ward behind him.

Everyone stared fearfully at the floor. They were all afraid of the Venomous Insect approaching.

Watching the researchers freak out, Ward yelled as his body shook in anger, “Why are you waiting? Hurry up and get the Venomous Insect back! Each of these insects is worth millions!”

At Ward’s roar, Professor Heist came back to his senses. He hurriedly nudged the two researchers and urged, “Quick! Get in there and put that insect back in the bottle.”

Both researchers showed a scary look. They did not dare to go near the Venomous Insect, but with Ward’s presence, there was also no way to disobey Professor Heist’s order.

They had no choice but to walk into the lab.

Looking around at the researchers who had run out, Ward was so angry that he shouted, “Bunch of fucking humps! The base spent so much money to hire you!

It is a waste of money!”

All the researchers bowed their heads in silence.

The two researchers who had gone to catch the Venomous Insect came back soon and reported,
“Professor, the Venomous Insect is gone!”

“What?” Professor Heist was dumbfounded.

“We’ve searched everywhere for it, but we haven’t found it.”

“No way! It’s impossible!”

Glancing at Ward’s ugly face, Professor Heist shook his head as he headed into the research room.

As Ward said, one Venomous Insect was pricey.

If they lost a Venomous Insect, even if they gave their lives, they couldn’t afford to pay for it.

The researchers all went into the lab.

Although they were still afraid, if they couldn’t find the missing Venomous Insect, they would be finished.

Ward was so angry. Randall just ran away and then the lab lost a Venomous Insect.

He wondered who was against him behind the curtains.

Chapter 1646-ible for it to crawl away. How could it disappear?

“Professor Heist, you also consider the insect’s disappearance strange, right?” One of the researchers who looked for the child insect overlord said.

Nobody believed that an insect could vanish without a trace for no reason.

“Check whether it has left any traces.” Professor Heist didn’t give up and asked everyone to search for the traces of the child insect overlord.

But they couldn’t find any traces.

At this time, a researcher guessed, “Did it vanish because it was not in the potion?”

Hearing the researcher’s words, others looked at one another, reflecting on his guess.

“Unlikely.” Professor Heist frowned and shook his head to deny the guess.

“Why the hell did it disappear?”

“Our research lab has limited space. Where can the insect hide?”

“If we can’t find the insect, what if it gets into the body accidentally?”

Researchers talked to one another, all of whom feared that the insect would enter the body.

“Don’t panic,” Professor Heist said. After thinking for a moment, he added, “Our knowledge of the venomous insect is still not enough. So, it is uncertain whether its disappearance has anything to do with the potion...”

He paused and continued, “Well, let’s assume that without the potion, it disappeared. But we still need to figure out the accurate reason later.”

Others agreed.

However, they didn't know that at this moment, the child insect overlord hiding under the table was wobbling its antennae with joy, which had obviously eaten something.

The child insect overlord looked around, as it wasn't full.

Suddenly, it spun around violently.

At the same time, all the other venomous insects in the five research labs became restless.

At the sight of the scene, Professor Heist shouted, "Stabilize all the bottles.

Don't let any venomous insects come out."

But it was too late. The bottles broke one after another, and a string of venomous insects dropped onto the floor.

"Catch them!" Unable to protect the bottles, Professor Heist could only call on the researchers to catch the venomous insects.

Strangely, as soon as the venomous insects fell onto the floor, they moved very swiftly and then vanished without a trace, as if they had never existed.

Noticing it, people got frightened.

When they saw the remaining venomous insects in the bottles, their faces turned pale with horror.

Even Ward was shocked by such a bizarre incident, who didn't make a reaction for a long time.

Selon counted how long the child insect overlord was away and then realized that it had been away for very long.

He couldn't help furrowing his eyebrows. 'Does it encounter an accident?

'Is it discovered by the people in the base?

'If it is discovered, it can't come back and might even expose Molly.' Thinking of this, Selon couldn't help becoming very worried, but he didn't know how to call the child insect overlord back. Just when he felt helpless, he suddenly doubted whether he had missed something written by Molly.

So, he picked up the paper again, and his eyes widened at once.

There were indeed words on the back of the paper...

Chapter 1647-"Venomous Insect Overlord's food is the common Venomous Insects, and it eats an incredible amount of them. IV Selon laughed after reading it.

So, the Venomous Insect Overlord might be enjoying his meal happily.

Thinking of this, Selon was slightly relieved. He took a fork and poked Mother Insect inside the bottle. "Looks like you're going to starve here."

After playing with it for a while, Selon put away the bottle and ignored it.

After the two Venomous Insect Overlords were sent out, Molly came back and checked the information on breeding Venomous Insects.

Mr. Ballard did not stay idle after he returned. He sorted out all the ancient books he had found and sent them to Molly.

Logan and Edmund were on hand to help Molly.

Edmund kept complaining, “What were the ancient people thinking? Why did they have to create such horrible things? And the people of the Martial Art Union earned money in such an evil way. Do they feel guilty? Humans can live only a few decades. Can they spend so much money?”

“In this world, there are always greedy people.”

Logan responded calmly.

Molly nodded. “The Martial Art Union is such a big system, and it has to support so many members. It must need a lot of money. How can they not be greedy?”

“That’s true.”

Edmund pursed his lips and then looked at Molly. “You’re studying this, so do you want to breed some more Venomous Insect Overlords?”

“You think too much. Breeding Venomous Insect Overlords is not that easy.”

Molly did not look back. “The eggs of the two sent to Selon were gotten by Mr.

Ballard with great difficulty... This stuff is rare and precious. And, it takes time to breed them. It has to be aided by some valuable herbs, and our current conditions don’t allow us to do that.”

“Then you’ve been staring at them for so long.”

Edmund pointed to the documents in front of Molly suspiciously.

Molly replied, "I'm learning about the breeding process. By the way, I want to think of ways to solve possible problems. If there is a large number of Venomous Insects under the base, how should we prepare for it?"

"These days, we've developed a lot of preventive drugs, right?"

Logan was also a bit puzzled.

Molly shook her head. "I thought too little before. Assuming that there are many types of Venomous Insects raised at the base, developing one kind of drug will not help a lot. So, I need a foolproof solution."

"I see."

Logan immediately understood, feeling that Molly had a point.

There are many types of Venomous Insect poison, and they would cause different symptoms.

One drug cannot inhibit all kinds of Venomous Insect poison.

"So do you have an idea?" Logan asked.

Molly knitted her brows and said, "Not yet. It's my first time dealing with Venomous Insect poison. I don't know much about it. But I asked Mr. Ballard for help. His medical skills are much better than mine, and he knows some experts.

They will also help. If there is any way, they will tell us at once."

"Uh-huh."

Logan nodded his head, came over, and said, "Give us a printout of the documents. You are pregnant now. You cannot work too hard, or Sean will be distressed."

Hearing this, Molly smiled, "I'm fine. It's okay to read some documents."

Edmund echoed, "Logan is right. You can't work too hard in the early stages of pregnancy. You should rest more. Just leave it to us. We can handle it."

Chapter 1648-Because of Logan's and Edmund's careful and uncompromising words, Molly rarely left the research lab ahead of time.

When she returned to the study on the first floor, Sean was still dealing with piles of business.

Seeing this, Molly felt a little worried.

Although now Sean's father handled most of the domestic business, Sean still had endless work to do, such as the things about the Grandset and the deployments on the island, so he hardly ever had a good rest.

Molly sighed, closed the door of the study, and then made a cup of tea for him before walking into the study again.

Seeing that Molly was coming, Sean finally looked up from the pile of papers.

He said with a gentle smile, "I was thinking that I would call you to rest in half an hour, but you come out of the lab early before I gave you a call."

Molly smiled, put the teacup on the table, and said, "There are two good helpers. Logan and Edmund don't want me to be tired, so they take the initiative to do things and urge me to go to bed early, saying you will be worried if I'm tired."

"I need to thank them," Sean laughed and took a sip of tea.

Then he raised his hand to hug her and asked with concern, "How do you feel?"

Do you feel sleepy easily? Or have you vomited today?"

"No, I'm fine," Molly shook her head and said truthfully.

Sean was a little skeptical, "I have googled. Many people say that some pregnant women have very severe reactions in the early stages of pregnancy and that some of them even can't eat food and feel very sleepy."

Molly put her arms around Sean's neck and soothed him, "Everyone's situation is different. Some people do feel as bad as you say they do. When I was pregnant with three babies, I was in the same situation. It was a hard time. In the first three months, I vomited whatever I ate, and I was sleepy easily."

Hearing her words, Sean could not help frowning, "Vomited whatever you ate?"

Then how did you get energy?"

"I tried to get as much nutrition as possible! During that time, I happened to learn about ancient medical techniques and knew that some medicinal diets were very helpful for pregnant women. Those medicinal diets did help me get through the difficult period."

Speaking of this, Molly smiled gently, "After three months, I regained my appetite and even ate a lot. I had to eat five meals a day. After all, I was pregnant with three little babies!"

Hearing this, Sean wanted to laugh and also wanted to cry.

At that time, Molly was a young unmarried pregnant woman, and she had just experienced the changes of being expelled from her family. Sean didn't even know how she got through it.

His heart constricted at the thought of what she had endured.

At the moment, Sean could not help holding Molly's waist, saying softly, "Fortunately, now the little baby in your belly behaves well."

Molly grinned, and her eyes were bright, "Yeah, indeed. I think you may be right."

"Our baby is highly likely a gentle and quiet girl."

"That's good. I like to have a daughter," Sean caressed Molly's belly gently.

Suddenly, he uttered, "After this, we are not going to have any more kids."

"Ah?" Molly was a little surprised and asked directly, "Why? Do you think kids are noisy?"

"No," Sean shook his head, "It's not that. I love each of our kids. It's just... I don't want you to suffer anymore! I will be very happy to spend the rest of my life with you and our four kids!"

Chapter 1649-Hearing this, Molly felt warm and said with a smile, "Let's just let nature take its course."

But Sean was determined and didn't intend to let her have another baby.

Later, the two went to dinner together.

In the underground floor of the base.

The whole afternoon passed, and all the researchers, including Professor Heist, worked hard, but they still couldn't find a way to solve the problem of the Venomous Insect rioting and disappearing until the evening.

Ward went into a rage on the spot, “Why are you so useless? So many Venomous Insects disappeared, and you can’t find the reason! Didn’t you cultivate this thing? You don’t know anything. What’s the point of having you worthless pieces of trash?”

All the researchers were trembling and did not dare to raise their eyes.

Professor Heist was over sixty years old and had a high status in the base. He was not that afraid of Ward.

However, he couldn’t explain the current situation either.

Why did the Venomous Insects suddenly disappear?!

What was going on?

He couldn’t figure it out for a long time, so he could only find a more reliable possibility and appease Ward, “Please don’t be so angry. The current situation is not something we would like to see! The Venomous Insects are very mysterious ancient creatures and we have limited knowledge on them... This thing was cultivated from an insect egg in a potion in the first place! Before, there was a special device in the culture vessel to control the temperature and oxygen, so they could survive safely!

“But the vessel suddenly split open just now. These uncultivated Venomous Insects, without the support of the potion and equipment, might have been dissolved by the substances in the potion. If we report back to the Martial Art Union about this situation, we probably won’t be held accountable.”

Ward’s anger didn’t subside when he heard this.

After all, the disappearance of so many Venomous Insects in one afternoon was a big loss.

He was the person in charge of the base right now, and he would be blamed by the higher-ups, and he was the one who would suffer!

Ward said angrily, "The higher-ups won't listen to such hypothetical words. The president will only look at the results! So, you must investigate this matter, or I won't even let you go."

With that, he turned angrily and was about to leave.

But as soon as he took several steps away, he heard a shocked gasp.

It was Keagan.

There was a rare look of surprise on his usual poker face. He pointed to a spot in the corner and asked, "What is that???"

Hearing his words, everyone else looked in the direction he pointed and saw a glowing red thing.

It looked...like a beetle.

"What is it chewing in its mouth?" Ward also saw it clearly, and he froze a little.

Professor Heist also came over and took a look.

The next second, he seemed to be frightened.

There was a fat green worm in its mouth, and it was chewing slowly.

The remaining half was still twisting!

Professor Heist was shocked, "This... is the Venomous Insect we cultivated.

This red thing is eating the Venomous Insect?"

Hearing his words, everyone else was shocked and found it unbelievable.

One of the researchers even wanted to get closer to get a better look.

He saw that the red beetle seemed to sense something, and it disappeared with a swish. It was so fast that the naked eyes couldn't catch it!

Professor Heist reacted very quickly, and immediately shouted, "Quick! Close the door. The disappearance of the Venomous Insects must have something to do with that little red thing just now!!!"

Chapter 1650-After Professor Heist yelled, the others reacted and closed the door immediately.

Everyone started looking for the red beetle.

"Don't let go of every corner. Be sure to find it!" Professor Heist shouted to the others while searching for it himself.

If he was not mistaken, that beetle could be...

Soon, someone exclaimed, "Found it!"

Everyone else looked over and saw the red beetle in the corner at a glance.

Taking a closer look, they found it was indeed eating a green Venomous Insect.

After it swallowed the remaining half of the Venomous Insect, it stuck out its tongue, still unsatisfied.

Witnessing this scene, everyone was shocked.

“Did it eat... all those Venomous Insects that disappeared just now?” A researcher finally reacted and spoke to the doubts on everyone’s mind.

This bug didn’t look big. Could it eat so many Venomous Insects?

If it was true, what the hell was this thing?

It was not even afraid of Venomous Insects!

Ward came to his sense, turned to look at Professor Heist, and asked, “Is this something we cultivated?”

The latter shook his head, “No.”

Watching the red beetle carefully, Professor Heist frowned and analyzed, “This bug is not afraid of Venomous Insects, and even eats them...”

His eyes lit up suddenly, and he was more certain of his guess just now.

“If I guess correctly, it is the legendary Venomous Insect Overlord!” Histone and expression were agitated.

Although he didn’t know much about Venomous Insects, he had read some ancient books and materials where there happened to be descriptions of the Venomous Insect Overlord.

Ward was not a doctor, so he didn’t understand what Professor Heist was getting excited about. He immediately said unhappily, “Isn’t it just a bug? It has eaten so many of our Venomous Insects. Hurry up and trample it to death.”

For Ward, such a small insect had caused heavy losses to the base, so it must not be left alive.

Hearing this, Professor Heist became anxious, and hurriedly said, "This thing is much more valuable than the Venomous Insects we have painstakingly cultivated!"

Professor Heist took a deep breath, calmed down his excitement, and continued, "It is a Venomous Insect Overlord, very rare, and it is truly worth a fortune!"

Hearing his explanation, Ward was a little skeptical, "Worth a fortune? Just such a weird beetle?"

However, this beetle looked much cuter than the Venomous Insects cultivated in the base. It was bright red, and looked like a cartoon character at first glance.

"The insect riot today was probably caused by it! It is naturally suppressive to the other venomous insects!"

Professor Heist's supplementary explanation made Ward finally understand the value of the Venomous Insect Overlord. Ward immediately turned around to order his subordinates., "Hurry up and grab that thing!"

Hearing this, several of his subordinates stepped forward immediately.

As long as this Venomous Insect Overlord was caught, besides making up for the loss, there might be other benefits.

Just thinking about it, Ward couldn't help getting excited, urging, "Quick! If it escapes, you will be in trouble."

Professor Heist's expression changed suddenly when he heard that Ward asked them to catch the Venomous Insect Overlord. He was about to stop them, but it was too late.

One of Ward's subordinates rushed up to grab it with bare hands.

"Wait..." Professor Heist gasped and cried when he heard that subordinate scream.

The shrill scream frightened everyone present.

Even Ward was obviously taken aback, and asked sharply in the next second, "What's wrong?"
