

The Three Little Guardian Angels

Chapter 2685

Nollace stopped, turned around, and looked at Roxy, who was walking toward him. His expression looked calm and unconcerned.

“You are Daisy’s husband, aren’t you? I heard that there are some rumors going on between your wife and Mr. Zephir Gosling.”

‘Every man would surely be triggered if he were to find out that his wife has had a relationship with other men, so I’m confident that this man is the same too.’

Nollace loosened the strap of his watch and pretended to be puzzled. “What kind of rumors are you talking about?”

Roxy gave off a sweet and slightly seductive smirk. “I heard that Mr. Gosling had once courted Daisy back then. However, he couldn’t get her to love him back and even regarded me as her substitute. I also heard that they seemed to have a relationship...”

“Do you know anything about defamation?”

Roxy’s expression froze.

He let off a faint smirk. “I know better than you whether my wife and Zephir have had a relationship before this. Besides, I got acquainted with Zephir a lot earlier than you. What makes you think that you’re in the position of slandering my wife in front of me?”

Roxy remained calm. “Then, don’t you doubt them? Zephir loves Daisy so much there’s no way that he’ll give up on her.”

“He’s never in the same league as me.”

Nollace turned around and was about to leave, but Roxy hurriedly stopped him. “But don’t you worry that Daisy will betray you someday?”

Nollace took his cell phone out of his pocket. “Would you like me to tell Zephir what you just said to me? I believe that he’ll handle this matter well for my wife’s sake.”

Roxy was instantly stunned.

Nollace did not even take another glance at her, got in the car, and left.

Roxy clenched her hands into fists.

‘How is this possible? How can he have so much trust in Daisy? And the key is that he even knows that Zephir has always had a crush on Daisy.’

'If Zephir learns what I just said and gets annoyed by them, he'll probably instantly cut all ties with me. What's more, if he makes a huge fuss about this matter and things get to Roland's ears, that will mark the end of my career and myself!

'Zephir is trying to break up with me, so I can't afford to lose my other benefactor now.'

Back at Taylorton...

Nollace pushed open the bedroom door and saw that only one light was left on in the room. Daisy was soundly asleep.

He took off his coat, hung it on a hanger, walked up to the edge of the bed, and sat down.

But the slight movement of the mattress woke Daisy up almost instantly.

She opened her eyes in a daze. "You've come home."

Nollace lifted his hand to caress her cheek, leaned over, and kissed her. "Did I wake you up?"

She chuckled and responded with a tired face, "Nope."

Nollace rolled over, lay down, hugged her, and rested his chin on the top of her head. "Go back to sleep already. I'm right here."

Daisy nestled in his arms and continued to sleep.

After falling asleep, Nollace used her cell phone to send Leah a text message, asking her to ask Zephir out tomorrow.

Just as Leah was about to fall asleep, she received a message from Daisy asking her to ask Zephir out. At first, she thought it was Daisy, but the tone of the text did not sound like her.

She thought of someone.

[Are you Nollace?]

[Yes, there's something that I want to talk to him about. Sorry to have to bother you.]

[Okay.]

The next day...

Nollace arrived at the restaurant early and waited. He sipped on his cup of tea until Zephir appeared.

Zephir had received a message from Leah saying that Nollace wanted to see him, and he could more or less guess the reason behind this meetup.

He sat down. "Did you ask to meet me?"

Nollace cut to the chase and asked, "Are you dating that woman named Roxy?"

Zephir frowned. "I did date her before, but I broke up with her a long time ago. What's the matter? Have you come all the way out here just to ask me about her?"

Nollace put his teacup down and lifted his gaze. "Roxy entered the entertainment industry and got recruited by Tenet. I think you should know about this too."

"This has nothing to do with me."

Chapter 2686

Zephir poured himself a cup of tea.

Nollace interlocked his fingers. "She deliberately brought up your relationship with Daisie in front of me. intending to sow discord between Daisie and me. I bet she's doing so because of you, right?"

Zephir paused for a bit but did not utter a single word.

"You dated her because she looks like Daisie, so you took her in as a substitute. She now holds a grudge against you, and in order to retaliate against you, she got herself into Tenet on purpose, wanted Charlie to take her under him, and even exploited Daisie's fame for her own marketing.

"All these actions seem very provocative, so no matter if she's trying to provoke you or Daisie, there must always be a reason behind her actions."

Zephir put down the teapot and looked up. "What exactly do you want?"

Nollace scoffed. "Daisie is now pregnant, so I don't want her to be dragged into this mess. Besides, this is a matter between you and her. You're the one who let the demon into the house, so shouldn't you be the one who cleans this mess up?"

Nollace had already seen through everything.

'It's obvious that Roxy is doing so because of Zephir.

Zephir dumped her, and she's not reconciled to being Daisie's substitute by Zephir and getting dumped in the end. She's a woman who has a handful of ulterior motives, so would she let this go so easily?

"However, this is a matter between them. I won't stand idly by the side when Daisie, who's innocent, gets dragged into the center of this turmoil.'

After Nollace left, Zephir called Roxy. "What did you tell Nollace Knowles before this?"

On the other end of the call, Roxy froze.

This questioning tone... Could it be that he's told him about our little conversation!?'

She bit her lip. "What else can I say? I'm only giving him the truth. Did you just call me to question me? Zephir Gosling, just how heartless can you be?"

"Roxy Van Damme, I'm warning you for the very last time. You'd better not get Daisie involved in our affairs."

"Since when did I get her involved? I only got myself into Tenet, and that's it. What's the matter? Does this upset you?" Roxy scoffed. "Zephir, I told you that you won't get to dump me so easily. If you really worry that I might do something that harms Daisie, I would marry me if I were you."

Zephir's expression turned gloomy. "You want me to marry you? You're nowhere near worthy of my hand."

He then hung up the phone.

Roxy was so exasperated that she threw her phone on the bed.

'I'm not worthy of you? Hmph! Sooner or later, you'll be forced to marry me even if you don't want to do so!

In the chairman's office of Tenet...

Jaylon Fuhrmann, the company's chairman, summoned Roland into his office and asked him to explain his decision to bring Roxy to the banquet the previous night.

Roland bit the bullet and explained, "Jaylon, I'm also doing so for the company's sake. You see, Roxy has risen to fame so quickly recently. If we can make her even more popular, it won't harm our company."

Jaylon threw the magazine at him abruptly. "Read for yourself."

Roland picked up the magazine, and what the magazine said was that he had taken Roxy to the banquet and publicly tried to promote his niece to all the bigshots present in order to win her more resources in the industry.

Roland was astounded. "This..."

"A niece?" Jaylon glared at him. "Why didn't I know that you have a niece?"

"Jaylon, she's actually... The niece of one of our distant relatives."

"I don't care who she is. Roland, since you've persuaded us to recruit her into Tenet, any events that she should and can attend, including banquets, are arranged by the company. She is only a newbie in the industry, yet you brought her to such an occasion and even promoted her so openly? Have you lost your mind?"

"And this is not even the biggest t*rd that you brought back from the banquet! You actually offended Freyja Pruitt because of Roxy? Do you know who she is? She's the second daughter-in-law of the Goldmanns, Daisy's sister-in-law!

"That niece of yours, you want her to act in Director Winslow's latest project? Just who do you think she is? An actress who's won some newcomer award?"

Jaylon took a deep breath and warned him. "I don't care how much you and your business partners want Roxy to rise to popularity, but Nollace has spoken. She's no longer allowed to use Daisy's reputation for marketing her debut. Lastly, if you do anything else that will drag Tenet's reputation through the mud ever again, don't blame me for not treating you like a brother-in-law.

Chapter 2687

After saying that, Jaylon left his office without looking back.

Roxy just came out of the elevator and saw Roland. Seeing that no one was in the corridor, she took advantage of their encounter to drag him to the stairwell. "Mr. Goldwin, when will you introduce me to a production crew?"

Roland was not in the mood. Seeing that she was still acting so recklessly in the company, he pushed her away directly. "Roxy, I promised to help you step into the entertainment industry, but you'd better not bring me more trouble. The first thing that you should do is to keep a distance from me when we're in the company."

Roxy chuckled and wrapped her arms around his neck. "Don't you think this is very exciting? Mr. Goldwin, please don't neglect me. I'll be very sad if you do that to me."

Roxy acted coquettishly and seductively. Roland liked such an attitude the most, so he soon fell for her charm again.

But they did not notice that a figure just so happened to pass by the stairwell upstairs.

Nollace and Charlie were drinking tea in the office. Charlie flicked the lid of the cup and reported his findings. "I've asked Mrs. Fuhrmann just how many distant relatives and nieces the Goldwins have. According to her, none of them are of the same age as Roxy, so it seems that something fishy is going on between Mr. Goldwin and Roxy."

Nollace took a sip from his teacup, but before he could speak, Charlie's assistant suddenly barged in with a flustered expression. "Chuc... Chuck!"

Seeing that Nollace was also there, he was stunned for a split second.

Charlie did not even lift his gaze. "Did the sky fall when you were in the toilet?"

The assistant gulped his saliva, and after catching his breath, he exclaimed, "This revelation is bigger than the sky falling. I don't know whether I should expose it or not."

Charlie knew that he had some scruples, so he raised his head. "Just shoot."

"Guess who I just saw at the stairwell? It's Roxy and Mr. Goldwin! They're having an affair!"

Charlie was stunned for a moment. "What did you just say?"

"It's true. I saw them with my own eyes. They were hugging and caressing each other at the stairwell. It's truly stomach-turning!"

The assistant was indeed frightened.

'Thank God that I didn't make a sound when I heard the commotion. If they were to find out about me, I'd probably be forcibly dragged into another turbulence.'

Charlie glanced at Nollace, whose expression was unchanged.

'Mr. Goldwin recruited Roxy, and no one has ever doubted the reason that Mr. Goldwin gave, saying that our business partners want Roxy to be pushed into the limelight as soon as possible.

'But I really didn't expect this to be the case. It's no wonder Nollace thinks that Roxy is suspicious.'

Charlie asked Nollace, "What do you think about this matter?"

Nollace responded calmly, "I'll have to meet his wife someday."

Charlie stopped him hurriedly. "Don't act too rashly. Although he's seen it, we don't have any real evidence. Mrs. Goldwin might not believe in what you say."

Nollace explained with a smirk, "Don't worry. I don't need her to believe in what I say right away. I only need her to start doubting her husband."

The next afternoon, Nollace contacted Roland's wife in person, and the two met in a cafe.

After Nollace told her about the rumors that had been going around in the company, Mrs. Goldwin berated him with a sullen expression. "Don't you dare slander Roland in front of me! He's been busy with work all day, every day. And he's only recruited a newcomer for his brother-in-law's agency, so how would he dare to do something like that?"

Nollace held a coffee mug in his hand. "I have a business relationship with Tenet too. That's why I'm thinking about the agency too. Mr. Goldwin personally brought the newcomer to a banquet in the circle the night before yesterday and made a huge scene for her while trying to find her some resources. This incident really left a negative impact on Tenet's reputation.

"As far as I know, your husband shouldn't have the right to interfere with the agency's operations. As for the newcomer, she's an artist that Tenet recruited recently, but she attended the occasion with your husband as his companion. So what do you think will go through outsiders' minds when they see such a scene?"

The speaker might not mean it, but the listener had already taken the information in. However, as Roland's wife, Mrs. Goldwin was also a public figure, and she was very sensitive toward her family's reputation, so her expression dimmed almost instantly. "I don't believe it."

Nollace chuckled. "I'm also a man with a family, so even if I'm busy with my businesses, I'll always try to avoid suspicion. I'd never bring a female artist out with me. As soon as rumors about your husband start spreading in the company, things won't end well for both parties. Thus, I believe you don't want to see your husband discredit the agency too, do you?"

Chapter 2688

A few days later, Roxy joined a cast with Roland's help. Her arrival even got the original female lead removed from the cast, as Roxy had to be the one to take over the female lead's role because the crew received sponsorship from her benefactor.

Roxy posted a post on Twitter about joining the filming crew. A series of beautiful pictures of herself then followed it. She even shot them from the exact angle that Daisy shot hers from back then.

This caused the names of the two artists to be tied together on Google Trends and Twitter again. Such behavior attracted a lot of disdain from Daisy's fans.

Many of them went onto Roxy's Twitter account and retweeted her tweet, and while doing so, they bashed her and told her to stop tying herself to Daisy to hype herself up.

Many thought she would delete the post after all the attention she had attracted. Still, no one expected that she would mock Daisy's fans, saying that they were criticizing her only because they were worried their artist would no longer be relevant after returning from her hiatus.

Her arrogance completely angered Daisy's fans. Some netizens even felt that she was already this presumptuous before she became popular.

Only a small number of netizens thought that Daisy's fans should just mind their own business. After all, creating gossip and hype was not illegal, so they didn't need to be so serious.

However, Roxy had zero filming experience and slightly exaggerated acting skills. This rendered all the artists working with her in the crew speechless.

After all, she had parachuted into the crew in such a blatant manner and had even driven the original female lead away. Although the original actress was also a newcomer, at least she had just graduated from a film academy. Still, at the end of the day, her skills were still no match for the pure power of capitalism, and she was replaced only after a few days of filming.

“Tenet is too full of itself nowadays. They’re directing all their resources toward an artist who doesn’t even know how to act. She’s shameless enough to compare herself with Daisy.”

“Daisy didn’t rely on any resource that her family could have provided her, but this newbie, I think she can’t wait to announce to the whole world that she’s landed this role because she brought funds into the project.”

Two actresses were badmouthing Roxy in the dressing room, and the latter just happened to overhear them.

Roxy walked in. “If you have the ability, you can also bring funds into the crew.”

The two actresses looked back at her with disgusted expressions. “What’s your problem? You haven’t even become a thing in the industry, yet you’re already this arrogant?”

Roxy said disdainfully, “So what if I’m arrogant? At least Tenet is willing to provide me with all the resources that I want. Speaking of which, who are you when you’re being compared to me? Can you get your hands on the resources that I have? Believe it or not, all I need to do is utter a short sentence, and you two will be on your way out of here.”

An actress stood up from her chair. “If you really are as influential as you portray yourself to be, make us leave. What makes you think we’re all here supporting your role willingly?”

The actors then left the room wrathfully.

Roxy was so infuriated that she called Roland immediately. As soon as the call went through, she instantly complained in an aggrieved and coquettish tone, “Mr. Goldwin, I just got bullied on the set. They want me to get out of the set!”

Unexpectedly, the other party did not respond, and Roxy was momentarily stunned. “Mr. Goldwin, why aren’t you talking to me? Are you starting to dislike me?”

At that moment, a woman’s roar came from the other end of the phone call. “You little b*tch! What’s your relationship with my husband!?”

Roxy was so frightened that she hung up the phone immediately, and her face turned pale almost instantly.

What’s going on? Why was his wife the one who answered the call!?’

Roxy’s phone rang at this time, and it was from the same number. However, she did not dare to answer it, so she turned off her phone directly.

On the other side of the phone call, Mrs. Goldwin was exasperated.

When Nollace told me about Roland's extramarital affair with Roxy the other day, I didn't believe Roland would betray me. But as soon as I returned home, I instantly realized that Roland has been becoming more and more superficial to me.

"He's always away from home, and when he comes home, he will only stay here for less than a day before he leaves again. And whenever I ask him about anything, he won't even answer me seriously. His attitude has been perfunctory all this while. Last but not least, he doesn't even want to touch me anymore."

That was how she became suspicious of her husband.

Thinking of the woman's disgusting tone from the phone call just now, she was even more certain that her husband was having an affair with Roxy!

Roland suddenly remembered that he had left his cell phone downstairs and was coming downstairs to get it. That was when he saw his wife holding onto his cell phone and the strange expression on her face. He realized something, rushed downstairs, and snatched it back. "What are you doing with my phone?"

"If I hadn't gotten my hands on your phone, how would I know that you've been having an affair with a b* tch out there!?"