

The Three Little Guardian Angels

Chapter 2761 - 2771

Chapter 2761

The others agreed.

When the food was served, Daisie looked at the white-colored food that looked like a fan and asked the owner. "What's this?"

The man smiled and explained, "That's Mylotic Cheese. It's made from cow's milk. It's a local delicacy."

Cameron took a bite. "Oh, it tastes great"

Freyja and Colton took bites too, and it did taste nice.

The next dish was served. The man brought it over. "This is chicken. It's made with homemade marinade, spicy oil, pepper, and roasted walnuts. It's our specialty here, and the tourists love it."

Daisie tried it, and Cameron asked, "How is it?"

She nodded and took a bigger bite Everyone tried it too.

The man then brought over a soup dish. "This is cream of seaweed. It's smooth, and the seaweed is crunchy. When yam is added in, it tastes the best."

"It sounds good. Let me try it first." Waylon took a scoop.

Cameron looked at him. "It smells great."

After a few more dishes that were unique to the area were served. There was a flower cookie made with roses and other edible flowers, sweet and sour pork knuckles, and bread with hazelnut flour

Cameron salivated. She had never tried any of the local food before that Waylon handed her a flower cookie. "This tastes quite nice"

Cameron took a bite. "This is the first time I eat cookies made of flowers. We don't have these in the East Islands.”

Daisie said, “Get my brother to learn how to make them if you love them.”

Waylon looked up. “Have we found a place to stay?”

Nollace took out his phone. “Don’t worry. I’ve booked the rooms.”

Colton said, “I’ve prepared the tools for camping tomorrow too. We need to wake up early tomorrow to get the food from the market.”

Freyja said to him, “I’ll go to the market with you tomorrow so that everyone else can start pitching the tents.”

Colton nodded.

The next day...

Colton and Freyja got up early to get groceries. The four others went to the camping site.

There was a wide field surrounded by mountains. The lake was clear and covered in the morning mist. It looked magical

“This is too beautiful.” Daisie got out and sighed in awe.

Even Cameron was immersed in the beauty of the place.

Waylon and Nollace got out of the car “This is a great place to camp. You picked the perfect place.”

Nollace walked to the truck and took out the tools. “Let’s start with pitching the tents.”

The men worked together, and Daisie and Cameron went over to help.

The grass was wet with morning dew, but after the mist faded, they had a better look at the scenery.

After more than an hour, Freyja and Colton arrived with the groceries. The tents were ready.

Daisie laid a mat on the grass and laid out the snacks and fruits. Colton got the grill ready while Freyja moved two folding tables over and placed the food on top.

Everyone worked while having fun.

After that, they all sat on the mat and rested.

Cameron leaned against Waylon's shoulder. "It's eleven already. Time really flies."

Chapter 2762

Waylon smiled and said, "It does, but it's still early."

Daisie lay on Nollace's legs and looked up at the sky. After a moment, she said, "Do I feel rain?"

Everyone looked at her.

Colton took a deep breath. "Don't jinx it."

Freyja looked at the sky ahead. Even though it was clear where they were, dark clouds were forming around the mountains. "It could just be a cloudy day."

It was almost noon, but the sun wasn't out yet. It might just be a cloudy day with no rain.

Cameron said, "The weather report didn't mention rain today. I don't think it will."

Unless the weather report wasn't accurate!

After a while, Nollace felt something drip on his face. He touched it. "It's really raining."

Cameron sat up. "What?"

Daisie awkwardly forced a smile. "I just thought that it would rain, but this really is..."

"Jinxing!"

Everyone started packing up the food and the grill and even put the mats into the trunk of the cars. Only the tables, chairs, and tents were left.

Soon after that, the rain started falling. Even though it wasn't heavy, the ground was still wet.

The lake was covered in ripples.

Daisie opened the car door and sat there with her umbrella open. Cameron, who was sitting in the car next to them, leaned against the window. "Daisie, you brought an umbrella?"

She smiled. "I was worried that it would rain."

Cameron sighed. "I don't think this is going to stop soon. I'm hungry because we didn't have breakfast."

"I have some cookies."

Daisie took a bag out of her bag and walked over to her.

Cameron took it. "Thanks, my darling Daisie."

Daisie called out to Freyja. "Freyja, do you want some bread?"

Freyja saw that she had an umbrella and chuckled. "That was why you had so many things. You even brought an umbrella."

Colton leaned back into his seat. "I think she brought everything that's not attached to the wall."

Daisie walked to their car with the bread and handed it to Freyja, who smiled. "Do you know what you look like now?"

"What?"

Colton said, "People give firewood when there's snow, you give bread when there's rain."

Daisie held the umbrella and shrugged. "I'm the only one with the umbrella. I'm unstoppable even with the rain."

They were lucky because the rain didn't last for long. The grass was still wet, so other than the mats, all the food and the grill were moved out again.

The sun finally came out in the afternoon. The mats were laid out when the ground was no longer wet.

Nollace added battery-powered lights to the tents to use at night while Waylon set up a projector and screen. It was attached to their SUV, and there were six foldable chairs made of canvas.

A warm little movie site was soon set up.

Daisie crossed her arms. "Waylon is the one with all the tools."

"So we won't get too bored at night." Waylon set the screen up properly.

Colton, Freyja, and Cameron were preparing the food for the barbecue. When the food was marinated, they started the fire.

Around evening, the sky started turning dark, and the lights on the tents were switched on. The mist around the top of the mountains made the lights look pretty.

They all sat on chairs and enjoyed the barbecue, beer, and juice. There were sandwiches and fruits too.

Everyone was having fun joking and laughing while watching the movie projected on the screen. They were enjoying the calm night that was away from all the problems in the world.

Chapter 2763

The night of the old town was silent. The air was filled with nothing but the humming of insects.

There was a lamp hanging outside of the tent on the grass. The atmosphere was quiet.

Daisie was tossing and turning in the sleeping bag as sleep just wouldn't come to her. Suddenly, an arm appeared across her waist as she was brought into a chest. "What's the matter? You can't sleep?"

"Yeah..." She buried her head in his chest and said, "I want to go to take a leak, but I'm a little bit scared."

Nollace kissed her forehead and said, "I'll go with you then."

Both of them came out of the tent. Nollace took a flashlight and led Daisie to a row of trees in the distance. Daisie turned her head and said, "You wait for me here."

Nollace nodded. "Just shout my name if you need anything."

She walked into the forest and stopped in front of a tree not far away from Nollace.

After she had done her business, she hastily got out of the forest and held tightly to Nollace's arm. "Alright, let's go back."

Nollace stretched his arm and wrapped it around her shoulders.

She raised her head and looked into the sky when they were back at the campsite. "Is that the Big Dipper?"

"Yeah, it is," Nollace replied after lifting his head.

"It's true that we can see the stars more clearly in the mountains and forests." Daisie laughed.

"What are you guys doing in the middle of the night? Counting stars?" Cameron came out of her tent.

Daisie looked at her and asked, "You can't sleep too?"

"Yeah, and it's all because of your ghost stories," Cameron said as she picked up the water bottle and took a sip.

Daisie and Nollace looked at each other and chuckled. "We didn't know that you're scared of those.

things."

Cameron looked around and said, "Look around you. We're in a forest. It just gives me different vibes."

Daisie picked up a bunch of grapes and said, "Don't worry. If anything happens, my brother will protect you.

After that, she went back into the tent with Nollace.

Cameron turned her head around and realized that they were gone. She looked around at the deep, silent darkness and shuddered.

She hastily put down the water bottle and went back into her tent too.

Waylon opened his eyes and looked at her as she hid under the blanket. "Cam, who's that guy next to you?"

"Argh!"

Cameron threw herself into his arms and accidentally rammed her head into his chin.

Waylon winced out in pain. He lowered his head to look at the woman in his arms and let out a laugh. He stretched his arms and grabbed her tightly in his embrace. "Alright, alright, I'll stop teasing you. Let's sleep."

"You! How could you make fun of me like that, you b*stard!?" Cameron snarled as she smacked his chest.

He laughed and replied, "Don't worry I'll be here with you. Just sleep."

The next morning, Freyja told Daisy that she heard a woman shouting last night and thought she had a dream.

Daisy turned her head around to look at Cameron and chuckled. "I'm pretty sure it's Wayne who scared Cam last night."

Freyja was stunned. Understanding soon dawned on her as she said, "I see. So she was scared of the ghost stories we shared last night."

She had assumed it would be Daisy who would be scared.

Daisy frowned. "Don't tell me that you thought it was me?"

Freyja just replied with a smile.

Waylon carried the breakfast to Cameron.

Cameron ignored him, and he squatted in front of her. "You're still mad at me?"

She harrumphed and turned her face sideways.

"It was my fault last night. I shouldn't have scared you. Please forgive me," Waylon said as she caressed her cheek. However, he still couldn't stop himself from giggling.

Cameron took over the breakfast and said, "You can scare me for all you want. I'm sure you'll regret it when we go back later."

Waylon shook his head helplessly. It seemed to him that it would take some time before Cameron forgave him.

In the afternoon, they left and returned to the town.

The town had many visitors, and the streets and alleys were bustling with activity. Three women strolled through the stores with three men walking behind them with their hands full of the stuff they bought. When Daisy saw the ring-tossing game, she walked over and said, "I want to try this one."

Chapter 2764

The stall owner said, "$10 for three chances."

"$10 for three chances only? That's expensive," commented Freyja.

The stall owner raised his head and said, "I'm the cheapest around here. Other stalls offer $15 for three chances."

Daisie tugged at Freyja and said, "Let's just give him the money. It isn't easy for them to set up a stall here anyway, so let's have some fun."

After that, she gave $20 to the stall owner and said, "Please give us six hoops."

The stall owner gave her six hoops. She had her eyes set on a bracelet. Although she knew it was fake, it was rather beautiful. She held a hoop and threw it toward the bracelet.

However, she did not get it.

She threw another two hoops at the bracelet, but her attempts failed, much to her chagrin.

She had only three hoops left.

Seeing that Daisie was prepared to give up, Cameron took over the rest of the hoops in her hand and said, "Leave it to me."

She squinted and aimed at the bracelet. After that, she threw the hoop at it and got it in one shot.

Daisie's eyes glowed up with excitement as she shouted, "Oh my gosh, you're so good at this, Cam!"

"This is nothing." Cameron lifted her eyebrows. "What else do you guys want?"

Daisie turned her head around and asked Freyja, "Which one do you like?"

Freyja glanced across the prizes and pointed at a hairpin. "What about that hairpin? It looks pretty nice."

Cameron aimed at the hairpin again and got it in one try as well.

Daisie grabbed her arm and jumped up in joy. "You got it, Cam! Quickly, see if there's anything you like."

Cameron placed her hand on her chin and said, "Hmm..."

She looked over the items and had her eyes set on a vase. "I'll choose you then!"

She threw the hoop to the vase. The hoop flew across the air and landed straight on its target, stunning the stall owner.

It was fortunate that Cameron had only three hoops left. If she had more, he wouldn't be able to earn any money today.

In the end, the stall owner packed up all their prizes and handed them to Daisie. Daisie turned around and smiled at them. "Do you guys still want to play?"

When the stall owner heard what she said, he hastily said, "Oh my, please give me a break, girls. I'm not going to earn any money if you continue to play. Why don't you go elsewhere to play instead?"

Freyja and Daisie exchanged a glance. It seemed to them that they were the first group of customers who got "blacklisted" by the hoop-tossing game.

When Colton and Nollace saw them returning happily, they knew they must have bought something again.

"They really are good at shopping." Colton commented as he looked at the stuff in his hands.

"Nolly!" Daisie shouted as she ran toward Nollace. She showed him the bracelet on her wrist and asked, "This looks nice, right? We got it from a hoop-tossing game stall!"

Nollace caressed her head and said, "As long as you're happy"

Freyja looked at the stuff in Colton's hands and offered to help him carry some. "Come, give me some"

"It's okay I can hold them," he said.

Cameron looked around and asked, "Where is Wayne?"

"He said he's going to meet someone. He told us to find a restaurant and wait for him," replied Colton.

Cameron clicked her tongue. "What? Doesn't he know that he's on vacation?"

She walked at the front while the rest followed behind her. They found a restaurant that offered the local specialty and got a private room.

While Freyja and Colton were browsing through the menu, Cameron looked toward the distance absentmindedly.

Daisie chuckled and said, "Cam, I'm sure my brother will come back later. You don't have to worry him."

Cameron picked up a cup and glanced outside through the window. "I'm not worried about him."

All of the people around the table knew that she was lying.

Soon, Waylon returned with two people behind him.

Daisie rose up to her feet and smiled. "Leah?"

Leah walked toward her and said, "I knew that you guys were here."

Morrison placed his arm on Waylon's shoulder. "It looks like all of you have come out for a vacation."

about

Chapter 2765

Nollace looked at them What a coincidence

"Morrison and I were here earlier than you guys," said Leah We only found out that you guys were here when Daisie posted a photo on her Facebook page *

Daisie pulled Leah to the seat and said. Then you should stay a few more days with us"

After Morrison took his seat. Waylon introduced him to Freyja and Daisie "She's my sister in-law Freyja. and she s my sister Her name is Daisie'

"I've seen them before at your wedding," said Morrison "Your sister is my wife's classmate She has told me before"

"Since when did I become your wife? There's a chance I may not marry you in the future," said Leah.

"We're already engaged If you don't want to marry me, who else are you going to marry?" Morrison frowned, causing the crowd to break out in a burst of laughter, save for Daisie

She looked at Leah in disbelief and asked, "Engaged? When did you get engaged, Leah?"

Leah cleared her throat and replied, "Well, I forgot to inform you about that."

"What? How could you forget such an important thing!" said Daisy, pursing her lips. She did not know that Leah was engaged at all.

Leah placed her hand on top of hers and said, "I wanted to give you a surprise

"Hmph!" She snorted. "I'm not going to be friends with you anymore."

Leah was caught between tears and laughter. She looked at Nollace and said, "What are you waiting for? Hurry up and help me to comfort your wife."

Nollace smiled helplessly

That being said, Daisy was happy for Leah inwardly when she learned she was engaged.

At the end of the day, she finally found the happiness that she deserved.

At Bassburgh, at the hospital...

Zephir was talking to the doctor in the corridor. After stepping into the ward, he looked at his mother. She was leaning against the bed, and her face was pale.

"Mom, are you feeling better now?"

Patricia looked outside through the window and replied, "I'm fine."

He lowered his head and stood at the side of the bed silently. After a long while, he opened his mouth and said, "I'm sorry, Mom. I know I've disappointed you guys."

Patricia did not say anything. She was still angry at her son, but her anger slowly ebbed away after her son's apology.

Zephir sat on the chair and said, "I'll take over the company

She was stunned and turned her head around to look at him. "What did you say?"

"I'll take over the company," he repeated without any hesitation. There was determination in his eyes, and it seemed to her that he had finally made up his mind.

Patricia took a deep breath and said, "It's good that you've finally come around to your senses. Zephir, I know I've given you too much stress by having unreasonable expectations from the beginning. I have never asked you what you want."

She lowered her head and tried her best to control her emotions. "You grew up the way your father and I wanted you to grow up. From the time you became defiant, I wondered if we had neglected your feelings."

Zephir held her hand and said, "I was wrong as well. I should have told you guys about my feelings."

Patricia sighed and patted his hand. "Zephir, we won't force you to do anything you don't want to do anymore. Just do things according to your heart."

Zephir smiled. "Thank you, Mom."

"Grandma."

Naomi and Chadwick appeared outside of the ward. Patricia waved at them with a smile on her face and said, "Chaddy? Come over here and let me have a good look at you."

Chadwick walked up to Patricia and stood beside the bed. Patricia looked at him and said, "It seems like Chaddy has grown a bit taller."

Naomi smiled and said, "He's in sixth grade, and he'll be taller than me in a year or two."

Zephir slowly rose to his feet and petted Chadwick. "It has been a long time. Do you still remember me?"

He nodded. "Yes. You're Uncle Zephir."

Naomi looked at Zephir and said, "Zephir, I heard you're going to take over your father's company. Is that true?"

Chapter 2766

"Yeah, it's true," replied Zephir

"It seems like you've finally become more mature after coming back from your vacation." Naomi patted his shoulder. "I wish you all the best in your future endeavors."

He smiled at her but did not say anything.

Soon, it was the end of the month. Their vacation had come to an end, and they returned to Bassburgh

Maisie and Nolan were waiting for them in the courtyard. After getting out of the car, Daisie ran up to them. "Mommy! Daddy!"

She hugged both of them.

Nolan petted her head and smiled helplessly. "You're an adult now You should stop acting like a kid."

She smiled back at them and said, "But I know I'll always be your kid in your eyes."

Maisie chuckled and looked at the other people. "It seems like you guys had a lot of fun. Anyway, come in first. We should eat together tonight."

Freyja and Cameron went to look for their kids after they went into the house. Charm and her two cousins were staying in the same room. All of them were sleeping soundly, and they found the scene eye- appealing.

Colton and Waylon went out to do something while Nollace was playing chess with Nolan in the living room.

"Dad, thank you for letting me win this round."

Nolan looked at the chessboard for a while and placed the piece back. "I don't need you to tell me that

Nollace chuckled and said, "I'll let you win in the next round."

Nolan harrumphed. "Hmph! Save the effort. I don't need that."

Maisie, who was cutting the fruit in the kitchen, looked at them. After that, she turned to look at Daisy, who was making coffee, and said, "Your wedding is around the corner, so I've prepared a surprise gift for you."

Daisy was stunned and looked at Maisie. "What is it, Mom?"

"Well, I can't tell you now.

Daisy went up to her and said, "Let me guess. Is it a piece of jewelry designed by you?"

Maisie chuckled. "If you can guess it, then it isn't a surprise anymore."

Daisy pressed her lips and fell into deep thought Suddenly, she asked, "Mom, I have a question for you. Did you feel nervous during your wedding?"

"Of course, I was," replied Maisie. "I couldn't even sleep the night before."

Daisy chuckled. "Was it because you were looking forward to it?"

Maisie placed the fruits on a plate and said, "I'm truly happy that all three of you have formed your own families. At the very least, I know that my children are having a happy life."

Daisie picked a piece of orange and popped it into her mouth. A big smile appeared on her face as she said, "It's sweet"

"Stop it" Maisie carried the fruits to the living room.

Nolan was speechless after losing to Nollace for a few rounds consecutively. After a while, Waylon and Colton returned to the house. The butler took over the ingredients from them and ordered the maids to prepare dinner.

After the dinner was ready, all of them sat around the table and enjoyed their dinner happily. Maisie raised her glass and said, "Let's celebrate Daisie and Nollace's upcoming wedding in advance today"

All of them raised their glasses into the air and clinked. After they drank the wine, Waylon put the glass down and said, "Our sister will be the future princess from now onward."

Daisie was embarrassed. "Even if I'm the princess, I'm still your dearest younger sister"

Colton looked at her and said, "Can we drop the dearest? It disgusts me."

Daisie was rendered speechless.

Apparently, her status in Colton's heart was falling lower and lower after he was married.

Nollace popped a piece of meat into her mouth and comforted her. "It's okay. You'll always be my sweetheart."

Daisie broke into a smile and said, "You're the best, Nolly."

Colton narrowed his eyes and commented, "Can you guys stop doing that in front of everyone?"

"You can do that as well with Freyja if you want," replied Nollace.

Chapter 2767

The rest of the people laughed.

The night came, and the entire city was shrouded in a mist of neon light. Daisy and Nollace returned to Taylorton after having their dinner.

Her hair was wet as she got out of the shower. Nollace took over her towel and helped her to dry her hair.

She sat in front of her dresser and looked at the person behind her through the mirror. There was a smile tugging at the corner of her mouth as she said, "Nolly, I'm really looking forward to our wedding."

"Really?" Nollace gently dried the soft tips of her hair. "I'm looking forward to it too."

"I can say that my life is perfect now, right? Since I can marry and walk down the aisle with the man I love the most."

He laughed out loud and leaned down to her ear "You know what? All the wishes in my life have come true as well."

Daisy turned her head around. "What are your wishes?"

"Marry you, give you a wedding, and have our own kids."

She was stunned. Slowly, her face turned red due to her embarrassment as she said, "Could it be that you've been planning this since a long time ago?"

"Perhaps from the time you appeared, I knew you were the one I was going to marry in this life," he said.

Daisy stood up and hugged him. "Then I have something to tell you too. From the moment you appeared in my life, I knew that you were the man I was going to marry in my life."

Nollace leaned forward and landed a kiss on her forehead gently. "I'm honored."

Two days later...

Nollace and Daisy returned to Yaramoor. The royal wedding process was in the pipeline and received much attention from the media.

Daisy received a lot of dresses and wedding jewelry from the top designers in the fashion and jewelry industry. There were so many of them that they filled her dressing room to the brim.

The maids were standing at the side while helping her to try on the dresses and jewelry.

Daisie was dazzled by all the dresses and jewelry. There were so many of them that she felt she was going to get buried under them.

When she couldn't decide, Nollace's voice rang out. "You don't like them?"

The maids all retreated to one side.

"It isn't that I don't like them. It's just that I can't make up my mind. Is the royal wedding procedure always so complicated?"

She had to pick a few gowns out of a dozen sets. The problem was that she liked all of them. Nollace walked up to her and placed his hands on her shoulders. "Well, it's kind of complicated, so you might need to prepare yourself. You will have a lot of things to do at the wedding that day."

Daisie raised her head to look at him. "It's okay. As long as you're with me, I don't mind it." Meanwhile, Yorrick appeared outside the door. He knocked on the door and asked, "I'm not disturbing you guys, right?"

Daisie turned her head to look at him and smiled. "Uncle Yorrick! What brought you here today?"

Yorrick was carrying an exquisite gift box in his hand as he said, "Your mother told me to give the gift to you in advance. She was worried that it might not make it in time."

Daisie held her gown and walked up to Yorrick to take the gift box. "This is the surprise gift my mom talked about?"

Yorrick nodded. "Why don't you open it up?"

Daisie put the gift box on the table and opened it up. What appeared in front of her was a crystal crown. The biggest gem was the Pigeon's Blood, an extremely rare and high-quality sapphire. Meanwhile, many diamonds of all sizes were embedded in the circlet, and even the circlet itself was made of moonstone.

She picked up the crown carefully and asked, "Did Mom design this for me!?"

Yorrick smiled. "Yeah. This is the only one in the world."

Daisie put on the crown and turned around to look at Nollace. "Does it look good on me?"

Nollace nodded. "Our mom is right. It looks good on you."

"Alright, my job is done here. I'm going to excuse myself now."

After Yorrick left, the maids left as well.

Nollace approached Daisie and helped her to adjust the crown on top of her head. After that, he led her to the mirror and said, "See? You look gorgeous."

Chapter 2768

Daisie grinned from ear to ear. "Then I'll wear this crown on my wedding day, which can be considered an endorsement for my mom's jewelry company and design."

Nollace hugged her from behind. "You can do anything as long as you like it"

The members of the Goldmanns arrived in Yaramoor two days before the wedding and stayed in the hotel arranged by Nollace. The royal family had reserved the entire hotel for receiving distinguished guests from Zlokova who came to attend the wedding.

Members from the Bouchers and the Lucases showed up, and Sunny was also present.

There were also some familiar faces from the Zlokovian entertainment industry. Hannah, Amy, James, and Charlie, who were close friends with Daisie, all came.

Leah and Morrison were also on the invitation list.

When Maisie came to the restaurant, the waiter led her into a private room.

As soon as she saw the man sitting inside, she smiled and exclaimed, "Godfather!"

Strix slowly turned around.

She had not seen him for several years. He still looked the same as before, but his body looked slightly thinner than it used to be, showing that he had lost a lot of weight.

Maisie stepped forward and hugged him. "You've come."

Strix nodded and placed his hands on her shoulders. "I missed your wedding back then, and I missed the wedding ceremonies of your two sons. This time around, I just so happened to be on a business trip in Yaramoor, so I wanted to come and see you."

She lowered her gaze. "It's nice to see you here. How are you doing? Is your body holding up fine?"

He smiled. "I'm fine With Saydie and Quincy taking care of me, I might still be able to go on for a few more years."

At this time, Saydie opened the door and walked into the private room.

Maisie turned around, saw her, and lost her senses for a split second. Her eyes then turned bloodshot."

You've come too?"

Saydie stopped in front of her. "Quincy and I knew that Daisie's wedding was going to be held in Yaramoor, and we just so happened to be here with Godfather, so... Quincy is chatting with Mr Goldman

now

Strix asked the bodyguard to bring the gift in and handed it to Maisie. "It's a pity that Erwin couldn't be here with us today. He asked me to bring this gift to you."

Maisie received the gift with both hands. "Please deliver my appreciation to Uncle Erwin."

It had been so many years since they last met each other, so Maisie and Strix chatted for a long time.

On the other side of the hotel, Quincy met Nolan and Nicholas in a guest room.

Nicholas patted him on the shoulder. "You brat, since when did you get so tanned?"

Quincy scratched his head. "I'm a man. It's okay to get a little tanned."

"How are you doing in Morwich?"

"I'm doing really fine Don't worry Godfather treats me very well "

Nicholas nodded in relief "Glad to hear that. Ever since Cherie passed away, you and Hans are the only ones left of the Lawsons And after Hans got enlisted in the army, he's been stationed at the border and has no holiday to come back here for a visit. I've not seen him in so many years."

Quincy chuckled. "I contacted him once not long ago. He told me that everything's fine over there"

Nicholas responded, "Good, as long as he's safe and doing fine."

At the same time, Leah was in the restaurant with Morrison and Waylon. The guests in the entire restaurant were basically guests of the royal wedding, and they could roam freely to greet their acquaintances.<sup>3</sup>

Leah picked up her cup of coffee. "Daisie is probably very busy in the palace now"

Morrison explained, "It's said that the royal family's wedding ceremony is very grand and exquisite. The couple will not only need to receive the queen's blessings but also the leaders of all foreign countries, members of the diplomatic corps, the media, and more, and let's not forget that the wedding will be broadcast live."

Leah looked at him. "I heard that royal knights will escort the bride and groom's convoy. Is this true?"

"Of course. After all, it's a royal wedding. When the princess of Stoslo got married, knights were escorting the bride's wedding carriage too."

Leah rested her chin in her palms. "That must look extremely grand."

After saying that, she looked at Waylon. "To be honest, will you feel a little reluctant to part with Daisie now that she's getting married?"

Waylon lifted his gaze and picked up the coffee mug. "No matter how unwilling I am, I'll still give her my blessings as long as she's happy."

Chapter 2769

"By the way, where's Cameron?" asked Morrison.

Waylon replied, "She's accompanying her father on a stroll I'm going to go meet them already, so I'll leave you to yourselves for now. You can do whatever you want with your free time"

After saying that, he got up and left the couple T

Morrison shook his head. "He's changed now that he has a wife "

"You're speaking as if you haven't changed." Leah got up instantly and left the restaurant

Morrison put his cup down and caught up to her immediately. "Hey, why would you leave me behind? Wait for me"

Maisie and Saydie came out of the private room and ran into Nolan and Quincy in the corridor.

Quincy nodded. "Mrs. Goldmann."

Maisie stopped in front of Nolan, and Nolan grabbed her by her hand "Have you finished catching up?"

"Of course. Didn't you want to go to the Hathaways' villa with Dad in the afternoon?"

Nolan smiled. "I was waiting for you. We're just going over to have a meal together"

Quincy walked up to Saydie's side and looked at them. "Mr. and Mrs. Goldmann, then we'll get back to Godfather's side already"

Nolan nodded.

He then wrapped his arm around Maisie's shoulders and walked with her in the corridor. The sunlight gleamed through the French windows, and the shadows on the floor seemed to overlap languidly with each other

Two days later...

The much-anticipated royal wedding of the century would begin at 9:00 a.m., and the team of makeup artists had already arrived at the palace at 7:00 a.m.

Daisie sat in a large, independent dressing room, and four to five top makeup artists started to help her with her styling and makeup of the day.

Daisie did not put on her wedding gown until 8:00 a.m.

This white wedding gown did not have too much heavy beaded lace, but the matte luster showcased the elegance of its wearer flawlessly. The style was simple and glamorous, and the boat collar and three-quarter sleeves went perfectly together with the gown.

The veil was nearly 16 feet long, trimmed with a lace fringe, and a crown that was embellished with ruby crystals replaced all the ornate beadwork-it looked radiant, pure, and decorous.

The door of the dressing room was pushed open all of a sudden, and Daisie turned her head backward slowly and saw Maisie and Nolan. "Mom, Dad!"

She lifted the hem of her gown and wanted to run forward, but Maisie stopped her immediately. "Don't move."

Maisie walked up to her helplessly and helped her rearrange the veil at her feet backward. "You... If you were to step on it and fall, things would become a lot more troublesome. It wouldn't matter if you were to get hurt. But if you were to get dirt onto the gown or break the crown that I designed, you'd become the biggest joke of the century"

Daisie squinted and grinned "Thanks, Mom."

Maisie straightened her veil and tidied up her appearance "This royal wedding is going to be majestic and solemn. Many leaders of other countries have come to attend the ceremony, so there's no room for sloppiness."

Nolan approached her at that moment. "Daisie, are you nervous?"

"A little bit." Daisie lowered her gaze and pursed her lips. "The whole country is watching, so I'll be lying if I were to tell you that I'm not nervous."

Nolan placed his hands on her shoulders. "There's no need to be nervous. My precious baby is nowhere near below average."

Daisie reached out and hugged Maisie and Nolan. "Dad, Mom, thank you so much. I really want to cry

now."

Maisie chuckled and wiped away the tear beads that were about to escape the corners of Daisie's eyes with her fingertips. "Don't cry. You won't look good if you cry now. So many people are watching you, Daisie. But don't worry. We'll all be with you."

Daisie nodded with a grin.

At 9:00 a.m., the distinguished guests who were invited to attend the wedding ceremony arrived at the palace, and at 9:30 a.m., everyone departed from the palace to the famous St. William Cathedral to wait for the royal wedding carriage.

There were more than 1,900 guests at the wedding ceremony, including members of the royal family, aristocrats, representatives from various countries, the bride's friends and family, and many more.

At around 10:30 a.m., the wedding carriage of the bride and groom arrived behind the Queen's carriage, and the royal knights were there leading the convoy, marching mightily towards the cathedral.

Chapter 2770

In order to make way for the wedding carriage, other vehicles had been forbidden from accessing the route from the palace to the cathedral.

Daisie looked out of the carriage-the streets were crowded with citizens, and they were all there to witness this grand scene.

Nollace, sitting on the side, was wearing a double-breasted dark blue military jacket. He looked tall and broad, and there were two St. Patrick's Stars on his epaulets, one on each side, a full set of medals on his chest, and other complicated decorations.

He held the back of Daisie's hand and smiled suddenly. "You have sweaty palms."

Daisie looked back at him and responded with a trembling voice, "I'm nervous."

He lifted her hand and kissed the back of her hand. "I'm here, so don't be nervous. Just take it easy."

Daisie's gaze landed on his wedding jacket. "You look nice in this uniform."

Nollace chuckled. "And my bride looks stunning too."

Arriving at the cathedral, Nollace was separated from Daisie. Accompanied by his father, Rick, he walked to the west gate of the cathedral with Yorrick, Brandon, and other royal family members. Thousands of spectators stood in the square in front of the entrance, and the scene looked sensational.

Yorrick said with a smile, "So many people are here to witness the ceremony, and the whole wedding is broadcast live. I think Daisie is probably more nervous than us."

Brandon looked at him. "I think you're the nervous one here."

He laughed out loud. "This is my first time attending a royal wedding, so..."

At half past eleven, Queen Diana appeared and interacted with distinguished guests and representatives in the cathedral until the groom and the others arrived.

Cameron moved closer to Waylon and asked in a low voice, "Is that Her Majesty the Queen? She looks so glamorous. This is my first time seeing her in person."

Waylon wrapped his arm around her shoulders. "This is my first time too."

"Huh?" Cameron was surprised. "You actually haven't met her before this?"

"Cole has seen her "

When Colton heard Waylon mentioning himself, he turned his head to the side. "What have I seen?"

Waylon answered with a smirk, "The Queen."

Colton cleared his throat. "Mom and Dad have seen her too. Isn't this normal?"

Waylon and Cameron exchanged gazes and giggled. "It seems that we're the only ones who are abnormal."

On the other side of the cathedral...

Daisie walked up the steps holding a bouquet. She was surrounded by children they invited from the aristocrats dressed as flower children. And because her veil was too long, two boys had been arranged to hold the end of the veil behind her.

She looked back and winked at the two little boys. "Thank you for your hard work, gentlemen."

She stood outside the cathedral's main entrance, and the wedding officially started at 12:00 p.m. The door of the cathedral opened slowly, and all eyes in the cathedral fell on her

The live music sounded, and she, accompanied by all the children, stepped into the cathedral holding the bouquet.

Nollace took her hand and led her to his side. Daisie glanced at him and could not help but smile.

Witnessed by the archbishop and nearly 2,000 guests, the bride and groom exchanged rings, read their vows, and blessed their country and relatives at the same time.

After the cathedral wedding, the bride and groom went to the west side of the cathedral to take photos. and interact with all the guests. Daisie wrapped her arms around Nollace's arm and stood in the middle. while the guests who wanted to take a picture with them stood beside and behind them.

Nollace took a glimpse at her and suddenly kissed her on the cheek. 1

Daisie was caught off guard, and the moment their gazes met, the two chuckled.

This scene just so happened to be caught by one of the photographers.

After the photo-taking session, Daisie and Nollace got into the carriage and waved to the audience outside the square as the carriage left the cathedral.

In the crowd, Zephir inserted his hands into his pockets, gazed downward, smiled, and left the scene.

All the guests then returned to the palace for lunch.

Daisie changed into a court dress and appeared at the luncheon with Nollace, who was now in a red military uniform. During lunch, they cut the cake, popped a couple of bottles of champagne, and toasted with the guests.

Chapter 2771

“Daisie.” Leah and Morrison walked up to her with wine glasses. “You look so pretty today.”

“Thank you,” Daisie said with a smile.

Leah lifted her wine glass. “I propose a toast. Morrison and I wish you a happy marriage.”

Daisie clinked glasses with her “Same goes for you and Morrison.”

After the toast, Cameron walked up to Daisie with Waylon. Behind them were Freyja, Colton, Maisie, and Nolan.

Maisie raised her hand and caressed her on the cheek. “You were great earlier today.”

She giggled. “Really?”

Nolan added, “You’ll forever be our dazzling pride, so yes.”

Daisie grinned as if she was still the little princess of the family.

Nollace came over “Dad, Mom, a toast to the both of you. Thank you for letting me have Daisie’s hand.”

“Consider yourself lucky.” Nolan snorted softly, picked up his wine glass, and clinked glasses with him. “You’d better treat my daughter well from now on.”

Nollace glanced at Daisie. “Don’t worry. She’ll forever be my one and only”

Maisie chuckled.

At that moment, Yorrick came over with Brandon, Queen Diana, and Rick, and he said, “There’s still one ceremony that has yet to be completed, isn’t it?”

Daisie was puzzled. “Is there another ceremony ahead?”

Yorrick replied, "The Kiss of the Century that's bound to take place on the balcony. You guys haven't completed that ceremony just yet."

Rick laughed out loud. "Yorrick, why are you more anxious than others?"

Yorrick boomed. "None of us have seen the legendary Kiss of the Century. Don't you want to see it too?"

Everyone else laughed too.

Cameron was puzzled "What's the Kiss of the Century?"

Waylon patiently explained to her, "It originated from one of the royal weddings in the earliest years. That ceremony cost a lot of money and thus greatly influenced the country and its people. As such, the affectionate kiss between the princess and the crown prince, which took place on the balcony, moved many people that day. That was why it was called the 'Kiss of the Century' "

Cameron finally understood the story. "I see "

After the wedding lunch, Nollace and Daisie appeared on the balcony, standing in front of the audience and the media. They were about to carry out the final ceremony.

The sun shone on the two of them-the scene was warm and almost heavenly.

Nollace called her out softly, "Daisie."

When she turned her head, Nollace leaned over and kissed her on the lips.

After a long kiss, both lips separated, and he stared at her flushed and delicate cheeks. "We'll live happily ever after."

Daisie lowered her gaze, and a hint of happiness surged from the bottom of her eyes and overflowed. Yes, I believe that we will."

"And everyone else will too."

-The End