259 ROSE'S JUDGEMENT 2

"Good." Queen rose nodded in agreement. "And has a message owl been sent?" 1

Roland touched the seat of his chair and nodded. "Yes." 1

"Good." She said again. "And what about the girl? Jasmine?" 1

Cherry stiffened as her sister made enquirers. 1

"We do not know much about her. Just that she was a bastard." Roland replied. 1

The Queen sighed and walked back and forth as she rummaged through her thoughts.

"The poor girl." The Queen said. "I can hardly imagine what she went through. We all know that Bale was cruel enough to do that." 1

"We are not certain sister that he did that." Cherry said. "For all we know, she might have been the one who planned the whole thing. Perhaps she brought it up to her father because what girl will go through that ordeal." 1

"She might." Rose said. "Yes you are right about that. But still we can not dispute the fact t that she might be innocent." 1

"Oh sister." Cherry sighed shaking her head. "You are much too soft. It is not the old days anymore when people could be trusted. You have no idea how ruthless these girls can be." 1

Rose shook her head. "Her mother? Anything about her?" 1

"We only know that she was a slave who had been kept in their pack." Roland said. "She got pregnant and Luna Maria had always been jealous." 1

"That is not news." Rose said. "Luna Maria had always been known to deal with her husband's whores who always seemed to be mysteriously always go missing."

Roland nodded to the maester.

The maester cleared his throat to carry on the story.

"Yes your majesty and she devised a way for Once Bale was out of the pack on of his terror attacks, she had the pregnant slave thrown into a prison and locked up. The slave went into hard labor and gave birth. The baby was premature. The mother died and the baby should have gone too." 1

"But apparently a miracle happened and the baby survived and that is where the slave Jasmine came in." Roland said. 2

"Nothing is known of the mother and her origins?" The Queen asked. 1

"None my lady." The maester replied. 1

"You will find out more information for me on what is going on. And you will dig deep into the mother of this girl and you will find out everything you can about this girl." The Queen said. 2

"Rose you are waisting resources on a mere slave there are other more pressing and disturbing manners that should be put to hand." Cherry said trying her best to dissuade. "And better at that you are quite unwell. You neee rest." 6

"I have been resting more than enough." The Queen said. "I think that it is high time I resume my duties. I belive I am well enough." 2

Cherry gritted her teeth in rage at her sisters words. 1

Just as she was finally about to get away with things.

Just when she had believed that things were going according to plans now her sister planned on taking back her seat. 2

Then Rose turned back to the maester. "Is that understood?"

He bowed. "Yes my lady." 1

And then he went away.

Rose turned back to her sister and said. "Walk with me sister." 1

Cherry gave a very ingenuine smile and curtseyed. "Of course your majesty." 3

Rose smiled and extended her hand for her sister to take and together they walked towards the large court doors.

Rose turned back to her husband. "Roland you need to see what I have painted. It is up in our bedrooms." 1

He rose a brow. "Something exciting I suppose."

She shrugged. "Perhaps and maybe a little naughty too. You have a been quite absent and I have been unable to finish it." 3

He laughed and walked frown from his throne. 1

"Absent? I am the model?"

He now stood on her other side.

"You would see it when you do." She said as she softly kissed his cheek. 1

Cherry's face went grim and she withdrew and stood a pace away as she bowed.

And then the King in turn kissed her neck and trailed his tongue down her shoulder line. 1

"You should not do this." Rose said breathlessly. "We should not be doing this you know. We are in public." 1

"And who cares?" He asked as he murmured. 1

Against her neck. 1

Then the King put his hands up against the front bodice of her dress and a she moaned in pleasure. 1

Cherry was boiling in rage and jealously. 2

How were they being so open about this? In her front? 1

Was it not enough that she was the one who had been betrothed to him? Now her own baby sister was literally about to be fucked by the man she loved. 1

When Cherry was sure that she could not take their display of affection anymore she cleared her throat and said.

"I should give you two love birds privacy." Cherry said. 1

Rose pulled away from Roland who still had his arms around her waist and held unto her firmly refusing to let her go.

"Oh do forgive me sister." Rose said. "Roland can be very bad." 7

She tried to pull away but he he was still holding her firmly and planting kisses on her neck and the top of her bosoms 2

"Roland stop it!" She said through giggles and pushing him away. 1

Cherry stood further in anger and rage but she was forced to suppress her rage down.

Cherry just stood there watching the two love birds laughing and giggling together.

Cherry was boiling in anger and hate!

She cleared her throat once again.

"Please I will like to give you two privacy ." Cherry said. "If you will please dismiss me".

Rose snapped back to reality and then she finally was able to push Roland away.

"I am so sorry forgive me sister!" Rose said through giggles like a young girl again.

She adjusted her hair and dress and then she pushed away him away.

But Roland only further tried to hold her bum.

"Roland stop that!" She rebuked playfully even though it was quite obvious that she did not want him to stop.

Eventually he relented.

He rose his hands up and said. "Alright I will let you be."

She smiled at him and then he gave her a wink.

Then he walked out of the throne room with his men behind.

Rose turned around and faced her sister. "Roland is finally gone. Now where were we?"

Cherry was forced to give a stiff smile. "You had asked for me to walk with you?"

"Ah yes." Rose said and extended her hand out to her sister . "Wall with me." 2

With no other choice Cherry out hee arm in her sister's and together they headed out of the throne room. 2

They walked up towards the balconies that over looked the kingdom.

There were a number of guards that were down.

One of the Queen's maidens in waiting rushed to her and got her a fur coat.

"Thank you." Rose said sweetly as the fur coat was dropped over her very light coat. "You are so thoughtful."

"It was his majesty the king that asked you be given this coat your majesty." The maiden said.

Rose blushed.

Cherry became grim.

"We'll do tell him that he spoils me with his affection and tjat was very thoughtful of him." Rose said tapping gently on the maiden's shoulder. 2

Cherry was red with jealousy.

The maiden curtseyed all smiles and still stood there. 1

"What are you waiting for?" Cherry snapped at the maiden. "Waiting to perhaps over hear some gossiping that you will use later to spin false tales to other servants? Or perhaps to the highest bidder?"

The maiden bowed hastily. "Do forgive me your majesty. I meant no harm."

"Get out! And make yourself useful by getting me a fur coat! It is bloody freezing here." Cherry snapped.

The girl bowed. "Yes your grace."

And then she hurried out of their presence.

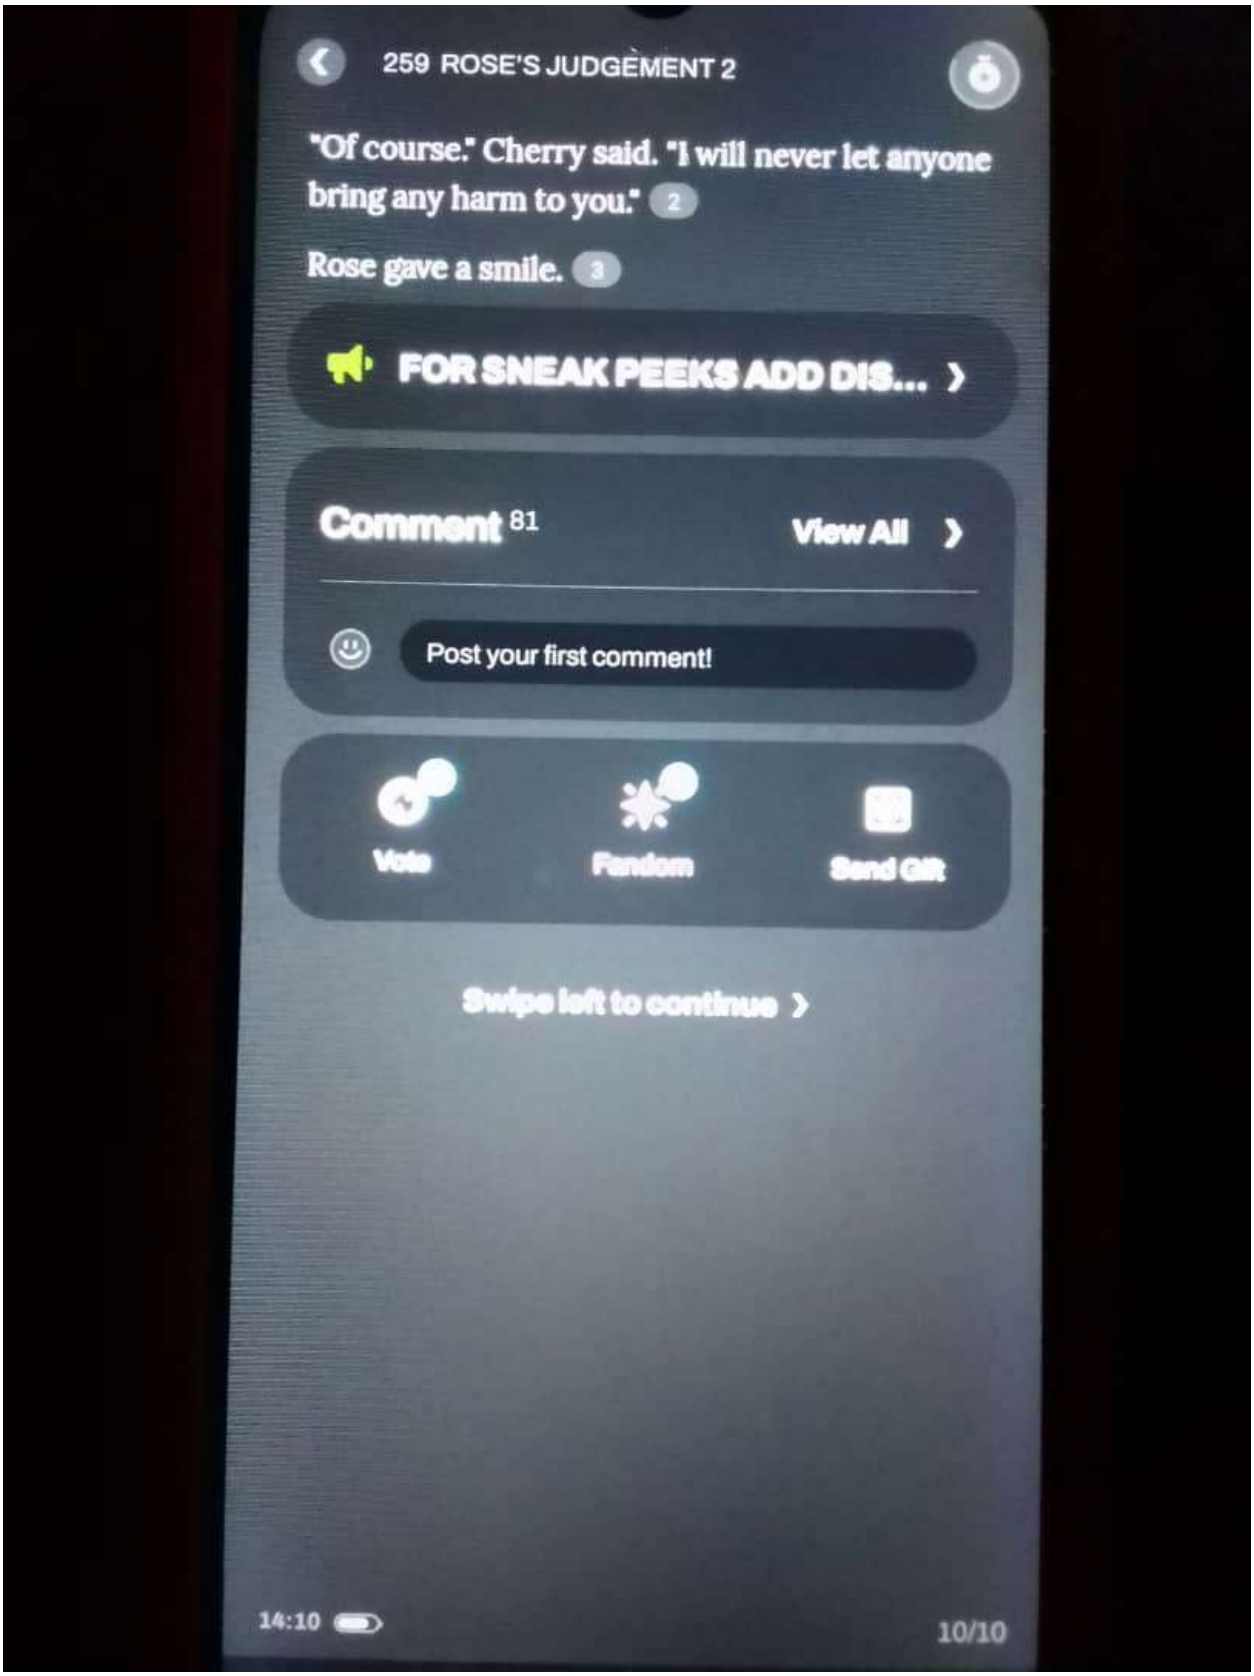

"Oh you did not need to be so hard to the poor girl Cherry she meant no harm." Rose said looking back at the girl who was now running off in fear.

"I have told you this over and over sister you are much too soft in this kingdom. You need to be strict and firm so that they will fear you." Cherry said.

"She was simply running an errand on Roland's behest." Rose countered her sister.

"And the servant you choose to thrust can betray you in a split second. You need to understand that this is a cruel world." Cherry said. "I do not wish to see you be hurt or betrayed." 1

"I know and I appreciate that." Rose said. "Sometimes I think about it and I understand tat you are my sister and my flesh of my flesh. I can trust my life with you." 3

259 ROSE'S JUDGEMENT 2
"Of course." Cherry said. "I will never let anyone bring any harm to you." 2
Rose gave a smile. 3
FOR SNEAK PEEKS ADD DIS... ›
Comment 81
View All ›
Post your first comment!
Vote
Fandom
Send Gift
Swipe left to continue ›
14:10
10/10