

Unwanted Girl Spoiled by Billionaire - Unchosen 303[232 words]

Chapter 303

“That’s true,” Nicolas agreed, thinking Brandon was a madman,

He understood now that Brandon’s mind didn’t work like a normal person’s. Even though he could have easily killed Noelle, he hesitated. For someone like Brandon, the only explanation could be that he had softened in some way—he loved her. Without love, why would he hesitate

As Noelle said, without respect and equality, love would inevitably fall apart.

Nicolas smiled and hugged his girl, saying. There are many ways to express love, but without a doubt, only I can give Noelle the love she truly deserves. We’re destined to be together.”

Hearing Nicolas’s words, Noelle’s confusion faded away. She smiled and embraced him tightly again, saying. “Yes, Nicolas. From now on, we’ll always be together.

“Yes, we’ll never be apart,” he replied.

The laboratory was dismantled, and there was no one left who could control Noelle. The Anderson family would cherish their daughter who had endured so much pain, and from now on, Noelle would be happy.

With their fingers intertwined, they walked out of the research facility.

Noelle spoke softly, “Nicolas, can you help me bury Brandon’s body? Even though things ended up like this between us, I still have some gratitude for him.”

In the past, if it weren’t for Brandon’s company in the lab, she might not have lasted so long. She had always considered him her best friend.

Nicolas smiled gently, his face full of affection, “Of course.”
