

Chapter 130

70 - Kennedy

It's official. I'm in the twilight zone. Yesterday I was hiding out in the packhouse avoiding everyone because I wasn't sure who was allowed to talk to me and who would be punished if I even looked in their direction and bored out of my mind to wanting to get a portable electric fence to set a perimeter around myself for personal space. 1

Danny and Bennet are so far up my ass, I'm sure we will fuse as one soon. I have only gone from the library to the bathroom. We have even had lunch here. Bennet was nice enough to start a small fire in the fireplace for me. I'm not freezing, but the little bit of warmth is comforting and the sound is a great background noise for us.

I look over my shoulder to the black leather couch in the library. "Don't you have an actual job to do?" I ask Danny who is flipping through a magazine, humming through his nose. He sounds like a kazoo. "I figured as the 'lead warrior' you should be leading something."

"Not when I need to get to know my Luna. I need to know your habits, wants and needs so we can work out a better protection detail when you start visiting other territories in the pack." 1

"I thought that was Bennet's job. And if I'm in another area of the pack, I won't be just sitting in a room reading. The point will be to actually visit with the pack members. Won't it?" I look at my Gamma who has his nose buried in a book.

Danny scoffs. "He has been stalking you since you got here and cannot provide me with the kind of information that I need. So it is up to me to do the hard labor, no matter what activity you choose to do."

"Hard labor my ass dipsh*t. You just want to sit here and watch us research. If you're going to stick around, you're going to read." Bennet tosses a book at Danny who catches it with lightning like reflexes and then wiggles his eyebrows at me. I have to fight a smile. 1

"Research is not really me thing though. You are the sexy nerd in this scenario." He sets the book on the coffee table in front of him.. 3

"Did you just call me sexy?" Bennet shakes his head. "The faster we find the answer the alpha needs, the faster we can get Kennedy marked and inducted into the pack. I, for one, would like to know if she will be able to mindlink with us when she's marked. Do you know how much it will piss off the bossman when you can talk to her without opening your mouth?! Also, once she's a full Luna, maybe our mates will show up."

"Ahahaha! I never thought of that!" Danny swipes the book and starts skimming pages.

I look up from the large red canvas bound book in my lap. "Why would it make a difference if I am a full Luna or not?"

"A pattern we have noticed with all of the different packs we have acquired, is that when the alpha finds and marks his luna there is a surge in matings, specifically within the alpha's core team. Even if he hasn't taken full control yet." 1

"Huh?! That's crazy, but I guess it makes sense. When the leaders are prosperous so is the whole pack." I go back to my book with a renewed sense of urgency to find some kind of answer.

"It goes both ways though. We've seen mateless alphas go crazy and turn feral. Whether it was from losing their mate, which is most common. That hurts both the human and wolf parts of us. To never finding them, which can make the wolf go crazy. They long for their mates, that companionship. But also to continue their genetic line.”

Our serious moment is broken. “I will know all the dirt... Can't wait...
Going to be so sweet.” Danny is chanting nonsense as he reads.

“What is he talking about? Do you understand him?” I shift to get more comfortable and to be able to see Danny with both eyes. He is a prankster and does not discriminate. The wild look in his eyes tells me he is up to something and I probably won't enjoy being a part of it.

“I try to ignore the crazy bit of him. But, remember you will be able to use your Luna Aura to shut his ass up. You could tell him he can't speak for a whole day! Oh Goddess, please let us find something that helps!” I giggle as Bennet searches just as furiously as Danny.

Knock, Knock, Knock.

“Come on in Robin. You know you don't have to knock right?”

The large mahogany door glides open silently. “Until I can't mindlink, I will knock.” She shivers just slightly. Now, I need to know what that was about. I wonder who traumatized her. “The alpha needs to see you in his office Luna.”

“You can always text me too.” I waggle my phone at her. “Do you know what he needs? I really want to get through a few more today.” I lift the large book again.
