

Chapter 236

"Accept the rejection. Accept your fate. Tell us where your father is and it all ends now." Another deep breath and another blast of her aura flares. It's a fine pulse, but it doesn't feel painful to me and I don't see any other person in pain, Amy cringes though. Somehow she can cast her aura differently to different people. What?

"No." A fake sob. "I can't, he'll kill me."

"He won't get the chance. Tell us."

"You have to promise."

"Promise what?"

"Give me your word, you won't let him kill me. Make it binding."

Amy's fake tears dry quickly. She thinks she has Kennedy. 1

"You have my word as a Luna, that your father won't get the chance to kill you if you give up his correct and exact location and accept Finn's rejection." Kennedy lifts an eyebrow. Nice work Luna.

"He's been staying in no man's land. We have a small house. He won't stay in the camp, the bougie bastard." 1

"Go! Check it out. Be careful, it's more than likely a trap or a way to signal we are on to them." Ryker calls out to a few of our best trackers, linking Josh, Danny and I as well.

"And the rejection?"

"Fine." She huffs like it's an inconvenience. "Finn, I accept your rejection. Ah!" She screams for real this time and goes slack in the arms of the guards holding her. 2

I have been told that the willful breaking of the bond is more painful than death. I also notice that Finn is not having the same pain. Is it acceptance of the situation or something else?

Panting, Amy rights herself on her knees. "Now what?" She growls at Kennedy.

"Are you alright? Recovered from the bond break." Not the question I would be asking, but I'm intrigued to see where this goes. 3

"Yep." Amy's attitude it back. He bond mus tnot have been that strong to recover that quickly. "I only want one bond, anyway. You have made the biggest mistake letting me live and you can't do a damn thing a...." 1

In a flash Kennedy has her hand on Amy's throat, forcing her back to her knees. Warriors stand at the ready waiting for their Luna to give instructions.

"You thought I was going to let you live?" Kennedy is in her face now. "After everything you have done, you don't deserve to die with the audience you have now." She leans in closer. "You deserve to rot in a hole where no one will even care to look for you."

Amy wraps both hands around Kennedy's wrist trying and failing to pull her off. "You...you can't you promised. You can't let me die." cough. "You will die too." Amy gives an evil smile, she still thinks she's won.

Ryker walks up behind Kennedy and wraps both arms around her waist. To give her support. This will be her first k*ll that isn't in self-defense. He won't take this from her, but he won't let her do it alone either. Taking a life is not an easy thing to process, even if it's the right thing to do. 1

"You got this baby." He whispers in her ear and kisses her temple.

"You'll let your mate die just to get rid of me?! Ha! Some alpha you are." Amy chokes as Kennedy squeezes her throat a little more.

"The Luna only agreed to not let your father kill you. She said nothing about anyone else."

I can see Ryker's eyes glaze over as the warriors check in with him through the mindlink.

"She gave us good information, Lamb. Let's get this over with. May I?"

A roar rips through the arena followed by screams and yells coming from every direction.

