Uzumaki Kingdom

All citizens have become accustomed to such public life

After eating breakfast early in the morning, they followed their ninja to work where they were responsible, three meals a day, and a surprisingly hour of rest time before working in the afternoon.

This kind of life could hardly be relieved in their eyes, you must know that in the peaceful years, they can't afford to eat three meals a day let alone some fish and meat.

Only Ninja can have such a life.

They first thought this is just the forefront of the Uzumaki, but as day comes the food never changes except some time they eat vegetables after eating meat couple of days.

There's also a basket of fruit every two days, huge piece of fresh fish and sack of grain that is worth eating for whole week.

And the most surprising to them is the salt that is hardly eaten by them is given to them to use when cooking food.

You know that salt is one of the most expensive thing only second the sugar when time good is scarce.

Although the work is a bit harder in the mine, the weather is a bit cold but with huge bonfire in the middle of the mine, everything is fine.

Even though it's hard, you never see anyone slacking off, they cherish such a period very much.

Every household will be able to receive enough charcoal for a period of time to prevent anyone dying in coldm

There's also a public bathhouse open to prevent any illness spreading to the camp, the water is not cold wind because it's a natural hot spring.

It's weird st first but they know the help of those thing, this is to prevent anything bad happen when everything is alright under control.

"This kind of feeling is so nostalgic." A Uzumaki murmured.

These people will not be afraid of them because of hey are Ninja who destroy their life's, but because of the proper order of Young Patriarch, the mood around the camp is excellent.

They even make jokes at them when they pass by, they know that the time spend these people with Ninja is small so indiscrimination is natural, but if they can spend long time they will understand that Ninja is also people.

They afraid of anything that new, they afraid of something that will destroy their new found peace.

That's why they try to cherish what they have and this show way human is the most emotional being in this world as they can sense the emotion of their own kind even the gap of strength is huge.
