

Watch Out 131

Chapter 131: On the island (2)

“Shh.”

Zhou xueli's expression became serious as she made a silent gesture, and the crew member instinctively shut his mouth. As soon as they quieted down, apart from the “pitter-patter” of the rain and the cries for help, as well as the sound of the remaining bats crawling, the strange sound became even clearer, as if it was getting closer and closer to the ship.

That voice gave people a bad feeling, as if it foreshadowed the arrival of a new crisis.

In the past two days, the people on the boat were both physically and mentally exhausted. Yesterday, they had caught strange fish, then encountered a group of seabirds, then encountered the attack of bats, and then this storm.

It didn't stop for long before something else seemed to be coming.

At this moment, no one was willing to stand up and investigate what it was. Many people didn't even have the courage to raise their heads.

Many people sat by the boat, bent their knees, buried their heads in their knees, and mumbled.

The sound of the surging seawater made Song Qing's hair stand on end. He instinctively looked toward the sea.

There were still a large number of bats floating on the surface of the sea. There were too many of them, and the previous storm had blown them away, giving the illusion that the entire sea was covered with bats.

The sea was still not calm after the storm. Song Qing endured the anxiety and looked around the sea, but he did not find anything unusual.

However, the feeling of oppression in the bottom of her heart did not disappear. She could feel that something was stirring circles of undercurrents under the sea.

Unwilling to give up, she widened her eyes and looked at the sea. She even tried to stand up by holding the handrail so that she could see more clearly.

The other cultivators had similar thoughts as her, but they could not see their surroundings clearly. Other than the dim lights on the ship, they could only see a vague outline of the surroundings.

Just as everyone was feeling creeped out, number seven suddenly said loudly,”

“Look over there!”

Her bloodline was strange, and she had the ability to transform, so her vision should have a certain advantage over the other trial-takers. As she spoke, she pointed.

Perhaps she had seen something terrifying, as her voice had changed. Everyone subconsciously followed her hand and saw a Hill-like behemoth emerging from the sea in the darkness. It opened its mouth full of saw-like teeth, and the whistling seawater flowed into its mouth. The bat corpse floating on the sea was swallowed into its stomach.

Even if it wasn't very clear, just a rough view was enough to make one remember this scene for the rest of their lives.

This thing's true appearance was not very clear, but from the movement it caused and the shadow, it was definitely not a good thing.

The sound that everyone had heard earlier should be the sound it made in the process of swallowing.

The thing that song qingxiao was most worried about had finally happened.

A large number of bats attacked the ships and people. The smell of blood and the corpses of the bats that fell into the sea after the casualties finally attracted the Predators of the ocean.

It came very quickly, coming out of the water every ten seconds or so. Every time it opened its mouth, a small vortex would form, devouring all the bats on the sea. Every time it appeared, it was closer to the ship.

“Set sail, set sail!”

Number Seven’s expression changed drastically, and he suddenly shouted,”

“Turn the helm and get on the island!”

Although there were many bats in the ocean, they were only an appetizer for this thing. Its true target was probably the ships.

Mr. Zhou was still dizzy from the previous storm. He had previously ordered the sailors to sail against the current in order to delay the time of landing on the island. The ship had been resisting the wind, but this resistance didn’t have much effect and was still in the process of being pushed to the shore.

Number seven suddenly spoke, causing Mr. Zhou and the others to be at a loss. She didn’t have time to explain before the strange sound came closer.

When the mountain-like predator emerged from the water again, it was less than a hundred meters away from the ship. It would catch up with the ship in a few bogs.

“Change the helm and get on the island. Something is chasing after us.”

When number seven spoke, her jaw was clenched. Her words made many people break down.

At this time, everyone was like a bird startled by the mere twang of a bow. A small movement was enough to scare people out of their wits. When they heard that something was coming, many people were out of their wits..

Chapter 132: On the island (3)

“Pack up the things that need to be prepared. It’s time to go ashore.”

Song qingxiao also moved her hands and feet. Everyone was actually quite nervous. Number seven stared at the surface of the water. Mr. Zhou and the others were already panicking.

equipment, medicine, map...

“Guns, explosives...”

He ordered in a somewhat incoherent manner, and the others hurriedly entered the cabin.

The ship turned quickly, and what song qingxiao found strange was that in such a chaotic situation, Mr. Zhou also entered the cabin with Zhou xueli’s help.

After the previous storm, the ship heard that many things had been broken. As the organizer of the operation, Mr. Zhou was protected by everyone. Logically speaking, he didn’t need to go into the cabin to get anything.

No. 7 had made it very clear that danger was approaching the ship. In order to escape, the ship was trying to approach the shore. At this time, Mr. Zhou should only need to tell the others to bring what they should bring. What was there for him to go into the cabin and get it personally in such a situation?

While she was still thinking about this, number seven, who had been staring at the sea, suddenly leaned over with a serious expression.

“They’re here.”

Song Qingxin’s heart trembled. She threw away the unnecessary thoughts in her mind and followed number Seven’s gaze. As expected, she saw the creature that was still 100 meters away from her. It was now very close to the ship.

Thanks to the wind, the boat turned around halfway, but its speed was no match for the monster’s.

It must have sensed that it was getting closer and closer to the ship. The giant creature did not even eat the bats on the surface of the sea. It dove directly into the water. This time, it did not come out of the water for nearly 20 to 30 seconds.

This situation made everyone feel worried instead of happy. Everyone’s mood kept falling. Mr. Zhou and the others were still in the cabin and had not come out. Number seven was so nervous that his breathing was a little disordered.

Regardless of whether they were trial-takers with special abilities or not, everyone’s ability was not enough to resist in the face of such a behemoth.

“Are they hiding? Do you think you can hide?”

Perhaps to ease the somewhat tense atmosphere, number seven suddenly opened his mouth and said, as if he was joking.

Song qingxiao didn’t say anything. The next second, she heard a loud bang as if something had hit the bottom of the cabin. The force almost pushed the boat out of the water!

‘Ah...’

Screams came one after another, and at this time, the workers were almost all panicking.

After the boat was lifted up, it fell back into the water with a 'bang'. The vibration made song Qing's hands and feet cold, and he could not speak.

No. 7's arms had already revealed their animal form. He held onto the handrail tightly, and his long nails had even left a mark on the cabin.

Thanks to this, the boat that was slowly spinning turned around after falling into the water.

With the addition of the wind speed and the ship's maximum speed, it sailed as if it was flying. In an instant, the distance between them and the huge object was widened.

The boat was getting closer and closer to the island, but the monster did not relax. Instead, it increased its speed. After the second time, a loud 'dang' sound came from the stern of the boat again.

As if hit by a meteorite, the ship shook heavily.

Fully armed bodyguards and boatmen came out of the cabin one after another. It was no longer a wise move to stay on the ship at this time.

Then, the sound of heavy impact rang out in succession. The tail of the second half of the boat was lifted up by an invisible thing at the bottom of the sea. That thing seemed to want to flip the boat over and shake the people on the boat into the sea.

"Hurry up, hurry up ..."

Young man number six kept mumbling to himself, even though it was useless.

Under such a concentrated attack, the ship would not be able to hold on for long. The island was getting closer and closer. No one had thought that the island that everyone was avoiding at this time would become the place where everyone wanted to escape as soon as possible.

There was an endless stream of banging sounds. Some people had already begun to pray, and some people were dragging boxes of supplies from the ship. Mr. Zhou had originally expected them to be carried onto the island in an orderly manner after arriving.

“Everyone, just take some.”

Zhou xueli, who had been following Mr. Zhou, had come out alone for some reason. Her expression was a little embarrassed. It was obvious that the impact of the monster at the bottom of the sea had caused her to suffer while walking in the cabin..

Chapter 133: On the island (4)

“Bring whatever you can.”

As they were approaching the island, the supplies and dry food had already been prepared. The boxes were filled with neatly arranged weapons, and the magazines were all prepared on the side.

Without saying anything, song qingxiao carried a backpack full of food, water, and medical supplies. Although she did not know how to shoot, she still had a gun in her hand. These things were not only used to deal with the crisis on the island, but also to deter the other participants.

‘Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang!’ The collision sounds rang out at the same time. Under such a dense collision, the ship was already creaking as if it was about to disintegrate.

Zhou xuli’s expression was somewhat grave, and her eyes were filled with anxiety as she stared at the island that was getting closer and closer. In just a few seconds, her pale face was drenched in sweat. She licked her lips a few times, and with a ‘Dong’ sound, a part of the ship’s rear had caved in.

Some glass shards fell into the sea, and the water was stirred by the monsters in the sea, splashing into the boat.

Perhaps it was because the effect of hitting the boat like this was not obvious, but there was a splash. The monster seemed to have emerged from the sea, and a sharp sound was heard.

It sounded like a sharp blade scratching the surface of a hard object. It sounded like the monster was trying to open its mouth and bite the ship but failed.

However, this sound caused many people to subconsciously shrink their shoulders and try to cover their ears.

“Mr. Zhou...”

Zhou xueli’s face turned even paler. Everyone was ready. Except for some people in the cabin who couldn’t come out because the cabin door was welded after the previous fire rose, everyone who should have come out had come out, but Mr. Zhou was still nowhere to be seen.

He didn’t know what the monster was doing, but its action pushed the boat forward nearly ten meters.

The island was getting closer, only about a hundred meters away.

“Mr. Zhou...”

Mr. Zhou! Zhou xueli shouted into the cabin, but Mr. Zhou didn’t answer her.

The second bone-chilling sound of a sharp object scraping the ship’s hull was heard. With a ‘ka ka’ sound, the ship flew forward like an arrow released from a bow.

“What is it doing?”

The man in a suit imitated Mr. Zhou’s bodyguards and was fully armed. He was afraid that he couldn’t bear this invisible fear and pressure, so he couldn’t help but ask.

However, no one spoke for a while, so the man in the suit tried to vent his fear with vulgarities.

“Damn it, is this monster trying to send us to the island?”

Song qingxiao said with a pale face. As she spoke, the voice came again. After listening carefully, it sounded like the hull had been scratched. Everyone could feel that water was entering the boat. The lower half of the boat was beginning to sink. Although the monster’s power pushed the boat forward another ten meters, the boat slowed down a lot when the force stopped.

it might be trying to bite the ship and pull us back into the sea.

In this vast ocean, there was no way out. Everyone knew what would happen if they were pulled back to the ocean.

Hearing this, the man in a suit became even more anxious.

Everyone trembled in fear. Some of the boatmen who had boldly stepped forward to take the equipment could not even hold on to their guns.

When everyone heard the terrible scraping sound again, perhaps it was because of song qingxiao’s words, they felt that the sound was indeed like something biting the tail of the cabin. It was only because the ship was too big that it was not easy to bite, so it made that sound.

As the ship got closer to the island, the usually steady woman number two could not help but say,” there should still be 40 to 50 meters left.

As soon as she finished speaking, the biting sound rang out again, and the boat was pushed forward by this force.

Thirty more meters...

More than twenty meters ...

The anxiety on Zhou xueli’s face was almost impossible to suppress. Just as she was about to turn around and enter the cabin again to look for Mr. Zhou, who she had been calling out to, finally appeared.

Like the other scientists, he carried a small silver work password box. No one knew what was inside, but he held it himself..

Chapter 134: On the island (5)

There was another “ Kacha ” sound. This time, the stern of the boat was raised nearly half a meter high. The whole boat was tilted very badly. Everyone’s heart was about to jump to their throats, thinking that they had been bitten by the sea creatures. About three or four seconds later, the “ creak ” sound of sliding was heard again. The boat fell into the water with a “ bang ”, causing a large splash. It slid forward another dozen meters, only ten meters away from the shore.

When the biting sound rang out again, this time the stern was bitten. Perhaps in the previous few bites, the hull had been seriously damaged, but this time it did not slip off.

The stern of the boat was raised higher and higher, and it slid a few meters toward the shore. Something on the deck began to slide down. Song Qing held the handle with one hand, her body pressed against the deck, and her feet were suspended in the air. The island was below.

“On the count of three, let’s go down!”

The boat was shaking, and after it was firmly bitten by the monster at the bottom of the sea that had yet to show itself, it seemed to have the intention of dragging it into the deep sea.

Under such circumstances, Song Qingxiao spoke first, and everyone nodded.

“One...”

“Two...”

“Three!”

When she counted to three, everyone let go at the same time. Song Qing bent her feet and stepped on the deck, falling down with her backpack and gun.

With a ‘plop’ sound, everyone landed on the flooded beach one after another. Some of the slower ones fell into the deeper parts of the water and were desperately swimming over with things.

At the same time, the ship began to retreat toward the ocean under the bite of the monster.

It was slow at the start, probably because it was close to the beach, so the monster couldn’t use its full power. Then, it got faster and faster.

“Help me...”

“Help me...”

The cries of ‘help’ on the ship continued. It was obvious that the people who had stayed in the cabin had already sensed that something was wrong, and their cries were even more miserable and helpless.

However, as the huge sea creatures dragged the boat deeper into the sea, the sound gradually faded.

Even though they were going against the wind, in about ten seconds, the ship was already seventy to eighty meters away from the shore. There was a long wave behind the ship, as if it was a road of no return to hell.

“Fortunately, I jumped fast.”

Someone said as if he had just survived a disaster and tried to crawl to the shore.

Amidst the sound of the sea hitting the shore, the ‘help’ voice could no longer be heard. In the gray light of the early morning, the lights on the ship were still on, like a Beacon. Everyone could clearly see that the ship was already half-full and would probably sink soon.

“Are they going to die?”

Someone asked timidly while panting.

There were many people left on the ship. They were afraid of the bats so they didn’t dare to come out earlier. After the fire started, their way out was sealed. They should be unable to escape now.

There were quite a few of them. Including the sailors and hired workers on the ship, there were probably more than a dozen people.

With so many lives lost, they could be buried in the sea in the next moment, or die in the mouth of beasts. This made many people who had just escaped feel a sense of sorrow in their hearts.

“I can’t care that much!”

Mr. Zhou gritted his teeth. He had a lot of injuries on his body, which were from the scratches he got when he jumped off the boat.

He should be a person who lived in luxury, but in this situation, he endured the pain and still held the silver password-protected suitcase he had brought out of the boat.

pack up the things nearby and bring as many useful things as possible. Let's find a safe place to stay first. We'll talk about everything after dawn!

Mr. Zhou's voice was trembling with fear, oppression, and a little excitement.

The scientists responded, and the bodyguards began to collect some of the supplies that had fallen on the beach. Some of them had been washed into the sea when they fell, but the remaining should be enough..

Chapter 135: Set-up (1)

After their narrow escape from death, everyone's strength seemed to have been exhausted in an instant. They sat in the sea and let the waves push them to the shore.

Song qingxiao was lying on the beach with her lower body in the water. The rain had not stopped, and it was still pattering on her body.

She didn't even want to move a finger. She didn't even bother to wipe her face. Everything that had happened was too shocking. Whether it was the high concentration she had when killing the bats or the escape just now, she had used up a lot of energy.

She still had to go to the island later, and the dangers on the island were no less than those on the sea. She tried her best to take time to rest and fight for a chance of survival.

The other participants had similar thoughts as her. The bodyguards and sailors were all listening to Mr. Zhou's instructions and picking up some of the materials that had fallen into the sea.

“Just now, just now that was ...”

A worker asked in a trembling voice, ““What is it?”

No one could answer him. The surface of the sea was dark, and no light could be seen. Obviously, the monster had dragged the ship into the sea, and the people at sea were in danger.

Some of them started sobbing softly, and then the sobbing turned into wailing. They could not control it.

“Shut up!”

In the midst of the loud crying, Mr. Zhou’s face was livid. He lowered his voice and scolded.

But in such an atmosphere of despair, everyone was immersed in despair, and no one was listening to him.

“I said, shut up!”

Mr. Zhou was already very frustrated. This trip out to sea was not as smooth as he had imagined. They had not even reached the island, but the ship had already lost many people.

Now that he was hearing people crying and refusing to listen to his scolding, his suppressed emotions exploded.

“Whoever cries again, I’ll kill him!”

He shouted loudly, his voice suppressing the crying workers. His voice spread out, and in the dark, the dense forest on the island echoed,”

“Crying... She was crying... She was crying... Kill him ... He ...”

The Echo was creepy, and the workers who had been crying were frightened and kept quiet for a long time.

When the Echo stopped, the worker was furious.

Perhaps it was because he had experienced too many things in the past day and night, the previous experience of escaping from death and the scene of seeing his companion buried in the mouth of the beast made him break down emotionally. He wanted to stand up and talk to Mr. Zhou, but he did not know whether it was because he had been in the sea for too long and his lower body was too heavy, or because he was too nervous, when he first tried to stand up, he was only standing halfway before he sat back down in the water, causing a large splash.

The man wiped his face and said with red eyes,” “Why can’t we cry? On what basis should I kill?” At this point, the conflict between the people on the ship intensified.

you were the one who asked us to come to this Island. Now that someone is dead, you don’t even give us an explanation. You don’t even care if he cries. He shouted loudly,” they said,” he turned around to look for a few trial-takers,” what you’re doing is illegal. That’s why these dangerous animals are here. We’re going to report you!

Song qingxiao did not see Mr. Zhou’s face, but she could guess that his expression must be extremely ugly. Her heart was filled with murderous intent.

The tense atmosphere was triggered at once. Zhou xueli stood beside Mr. Zhou with a gun in her hand, and the bodyguards loyal to him also returned to his side.

“Alright, what’s the point of saying all this now?”

Even at this time, these people were still thinking about having a conflict, which made the cultivators a little impatient.

Under the influence of such an environment, it was hard to not be affected.

The crew-cut man sat up in the water.

“Did you forget where you are? Why was it so loud? Are you tired of living?”

“Mr. Zhou,”

“If something happens and there’s blood, there might be animals coming after the smell,” Zhou xueli also turned around and said.

Both sides were cautious, and after hearing Zhou Xue Li’s words, they both instinctively stopped.

“Now that the ship is gone, what are we going to do when we go back?”

A worker suddenly thought of something and asked.

As soon as these words were spoken, the previously relaxed atmosphere became a little stiff.

This was an isolated island, and there was no signal at sea a few days ago.

In the past few days, they had not encountered any passengers or ships, so the possibility of waiting for rescue was too small.

When they thought of this, everyone couldn’t help but feel a little desperate.

“We don’t have to worry about that.”

Mr. Zhou, who had been persuaded to calm down, said,” the island was an experimental site that I abandoned thirteen years ago. At that time, I built an experimental Center and used the best materials.

When he mentioned this, his tone was somewhat proud.

“I believe that even after 13 years, it should still be usable.” He took two deep breaths and continued,” there’s a satellite signal there that allows us to contact the outside world. What we need to do now is to wait until dawn and head to the research base to contact my people for rescue.

Mr. Zhou’s words were like a ray of light for this group of desperate people in the dark. Even Zhou xueli’s spirit was lifted, not to mention the workers who were successfully shocked by him.

after we make contact, we’ll be able to leave this place in seven or eight days at the latest. As he said this, he turned to ‘look’ at the people around him.

In fact, the sky was still dark, and the surroundings were dark. In the dark, even if the People’s eyes had already adapted to such an environment, they could only see people’s shadows and where they were. They could not see everyone’s expressions and subtle movements.

Even when Mr. Zhou turned his head, it was only through the sound of the waves hitting the shore and the ‘pattering’ sound of the rain that people could guess the reason.

“But before that, if you are obedient, there will be a place for you on the ship. If you don’t listen, you have to think of a way yourself!”

Everyone could hear the threat in his words.

The workers who had been arguing with him did not dare to make a fuss anymore. Now that there was hope of survival, everyone was no longer waiting for death like before. However, Song Qingxiao noticed the meaning of Mr. Zhou's words. He mentioned a deadline of 'at most seven or eight days'.

It was hard to tell if he was lying or not.

At the moment, people were in a state of panic. The workers who had experienced all kinds of things could no longer be dismissed with money.

Even if there was money to be earned after the event, they had to be alive to spend it. Therefore, the workers who felt that their lives were in danger might rebel and cause trouble for Mr. Zhou.

Considering all these concerns, he was likely to lie and think of a way to temporarily appease the workers.

And if what he said was true, it proved that this mission also had a time limit.

In other words, from the moment they landed on the island, the time limit for the mission was at most eight days.

She pursed her lips, took two deep breaths, and sat up in the water. Mr. Zhou was satisfied to see that this group of people had become more well-behaved.

"The most important thing now is that we need to wait until dawn.."

Chapter 136: Goal _1

The island was full of dangers. In addition to the creatures with mutated genes, there might be other dangers. The darkness was not conducive to movement, after dawn, we can head to the research base first and wait for rescue.

Mr. Zhou's words were like a shot in the arm for everyone. After having a goal, everyone was no longer as depressed as before.

Perhaps it was because they had heard that they could contact the outside world through a satellite phone, but everyone's enthusiasm was immediately aroused.

Perhaps ATr. Zhou had said that even if the rescue ship came, it would take at most seven or eight days. The resources that were almost overturned by the sea monsters in front of the ship were scattered in the sea. Some were washed away by the water and floated very far away. Some people even tried to swim over to get them.

However, the shock of the ship being dragged into the deep sea by the behemoth was still there, so no one dared to go too far away from the shore. If they really couldn't get anything, they could only give up regretfully.

Everyone wished they could carry more of the dry rations, guns, and magazines that they had salvaged.

After a long time, they didn't know what time it was, but everyone was waiting for dawn.

After being soaked in the sea for a while, and with the rain, the atmosphere on the island was low. After enduring the fear, someone couldn't stand it and suggested to start a fire.

"No!"

Number three rejected the suggestion. Although animals in the natural world were afraid of fire, they would also attract the attention of other animals if the fire was lit.

What she said made sense. Although some people were very unhappy with her words, fortunately, the others did not insist.

Since they couldn't light a fire, they could only find a place to rest for a while. Everyone found familiar and trustworthy people in groups of two or three and sat in groups in such an environment, as if this was the only way to give them a sense of security.

Under such circumstances, the trial-takers sat in a circle. The other hired workers also vaguely sensed their situation. They were close to each other and vigilantly watched their surroundings.

Song qingxiao noticed that ATr. Zhou had been carrying a small box from the beginning to the end. Accompanied by Zhou xueli, they went ashore and found a place far away from the sea to sit.

He didn't dare to enter the island, nor did he dare to get too close to the water. A few scientists followed him on his left and right. The bodyguards, who had snatched some of the supplies, surrounded ATr. Zhou and the others. They were about four to five meters away from the team of participants.

"What do you think is in his box?"

Number Seven's deliberately lowered voice rang in song qingxiao's ear. She had also noticed the suitcase Mr. Zhou had been carrying.

The seats between the trial-takers were also divided into close and distant ones.

The crew-cut guy and number three were the first to enter the trial space. They didn't talk much, but song qingxiao could feel that they were not to be trifled with.

They must have made some kind of verbal agreement or contract to form an alliance, and now they were sitting side by side.

The crew-cut man was sitting on the right side of the woman in number three, and number seven was sitting on her left. On the other side of number seven was song Qing and Xiao Xiao, followed by the man in a suit and the others. They were sitting in a circle with their backs facing the inside and facing outside.

She was not sure if it was because she had been attacked by number six when she was killing the bats on the ship, but the relationship between the temporary Alliance had cracked. While the trial-takers were sitting and waiting for dawn, she did not choose to sit next to the Alliance. Instead, she sat next to number three and song qingxiao.

Although she spoke in a low voice and the sound of the waves around them was loud, Mr. Zhou and the others could not hear her clearly, but the trial-takers sitting nearby could.

It was only now that everyone had the opportunity to have some exchanges.

The mission this time was of great importance. After number seven spoke, everyone perked up their ears and focused on song qingxiao's answer.

"I'm not sure,"

She first shook her head and then said,"

"But I have some speculations."

When she started to say 'I'm not sure', number seven was about to say something, but after hearing what she said, number seven smiled and nudged her arm with his shoulder, urging her to say it quickly.

"Everyone should have noticed this box."

The participants were all smart. If number seven could ask this question, it meant that those who had not noticed it before would have noticed it by now. Song qingxiao took the opportunity to say," the ship almost capsized just now. Zhou xueli was so anxious that she kept calling for Mr. Zhou to come out.

At that time, everyone was at the critical moment of escaping for their lives, but Mr. Zhou hid in the room and took a great risk to get this box when the cabin was damaged.

What kind of thing was worth risking his life for?

“Either the box is filled with important research materials, or it’s filled with a lot of valuable materials. Either the box contained a secret weapon; She paused for a moment, then continued,” or a satellite phone installed to contact the outside world.

She raised three hypotheses in a row, and all of them were possible.

the first two are fine, but if the box contains a satellite phone to contact the outside world, then Mr. Zhou’s previous statement about going to the experimental base to call for help was a lie.

The refined scholar sighed and spoke softly.

“What’s in the research base?”

The man in the suit asked immediately after. Everyone was silent for a long time.

The team of trial-takers quieted down immediately. No one could answer his question. There were also whispers around them. The sound of the wind, the gradually decreasing rain, and the waves merged together, giving those who were tense a headache.

“No matter what’s inside, and no matter if ATr. Zhou is lying or not, everyone should have noticed what he said.” Song qingxiao reminded. Number three, who was beside number seven, asked,”

“The rescue ships will arrive in seven or eight days at the latest?”

No one was stupid. What song qingxiao thought of, the others naturally noticed it at the same time.

The time for the mission had already begun after they had disembarked from the ship and arrived on the island.

"In other words, our mission only has seven to eight days at most." Number seven mumbled. Song qingxiao turned to look at her and corrected her,"

"You're wrong."

Her words stunned number seven, and so did the other trial-takers.

"I was wrong?"

Number seven asked in return. Song qingxiao nodded," we've borrowed Mr. Zhou's words to remind us of the trial mission. This mission will only last seven to eight days at most. Therefore, when everyone heard it, they subconsciously thought that the time limit for this mission was seven or eight days.

"But think about what Mr. Zhou's original words were."

"After we make contact, we'll be able to leave this place in seven or eight days at the latest," he said.

The cultured scholar repeated what Mr. Zhou said without changing a word. Number seven held his injured hand and smiled at song qingxiao.

I'm not wrong. Number two also said that it's seven or eight days.

In the night, her pupils flickered with a faint, flirtatious luster, like a cat's eyes.

"Number two is right. Mr. Zhou's original words were: 'After we make contact, we'll be able to leave this place in seven or eight days at the latest.' Song qingxiao didn't mind number Seven's criticism. She repeated what number two had said. Everyone didn't understand, but they all nodded to show that she was right.

"But Mr. Zhou said that it would take at most seven or eight days. What about the earliest?"

She asked in return, and the few trial-takers who were nodding their heads earlier froze.

“What if the time for our mission is not fixed? Instead, it’s based on the rescue team’s time that Mr. Zhou mentioned?”

Song qingxiao asked again, and no one said anything.

The mission rules of the trial space could never be stagnant and unchanging.

Perhaps the trial space was using Mr. Zhou’s mouth to inform the participants of the rules of time. If this deduction was true, then when Mr. Zhou said ‘at most seven or eight days’ with an uncertain tone, it was possible that ‘at most three to five days’ would be the fastest.

“In other words, I’m not sure about the time limit of this mission. No matter what, if we can complete the mission as soon as possible, we can’t delay it any longer.” Number seven muttered..

Chapter 137: Mutual _1

“I’m afraid that’s the case.” Song qingxiao sighed and agreed with number Seven’s words.

Everyone was dead silent again.

Compared to the previous two trials, the difficulty of this trial had actually increased significantly. It was a Lost Island that might be filled with mutated beasts.

Fortunately, Mr. Zhou had anticipated this and had brought enough bullets, so that everyone had the power to resist in the event of danger.

However, with help, the mission's conditions were quite harsh.

The uncertainty of the time made song qingxiao a little restless. The urgency was like a Grim Reaper's scythe hanging over her head, which could come down at any time to take lives.

At this moment, song qingxiao began to miss the time limit of the last mission. Although the countdown of five days had made her restless, it was better than the uncertainty now.

She surmised that the duration of this mission would be based on the arrival of Mr. Zhou's rescue. Before that, as long as she completed the mission and left this scenario, the trial-taker would not have to worry about anything else.

If the mission was not completed before that, even if the trial space did not have a time limit, Mr. Zhou would definitely kill them to prevent the news from being leaked once Mr. Zhou's people arrived.

This way, if the trial-taker died in the quest, the game would naturally end.

In addition, song qingxiao's eyes fell on the direction where Mr. Zhou was sitting. His figure was blocked by a group of tall and strong bodyguards, but she remembered the bright silver suitcase Mr. Zhou was carrying.

When No. 7 asked her earlier, she made three conjectures. However, for some reason, song qingxiao felt that the things in the suitcase might not be the items she mentioned. As for what they were, it was still unknown.

She sighed and pulled the strap of her backpack.

my mission description has changed. If nothing goes wrong, 1 should be killing six types of mutated creatures on the island.

The others did not speak as they silently digested the news that song qingxiao had released. After a while, she broke the silence.

light up a corner of the hexagram magic array for each type that dies.

She changed the topic to the mission, and when the others heard this, they felt much more relaxed. The crew-cut man even lifted the corners of his mouth and revealed a smile.

“Now that we’re on the island, we should have the same mission, right?”

The trial-takers nodded in succession. After confirming that there was no mistake, refined scholar number two smiled and said,”

“I have the same thought as number five.”

He first agreed with song qingxiao’s point of view, and then he said,” the mission this time is a hexagram magic array. Every time a mutated creature dies, a corner will light up. When all the hexagrams light up, I think the magic array will be completely lit up. In the God’s trial space, anything could happen. Nothing could be inferred with common sense. The magic array was a fantasy, but no one refuted it.

once the magic array is lit up, it should be time to go back.

“The problem is, how do we kill these mutated creatures?”

The young man in the suit raised such a question, and number six frowned.

at first, everyone thought that the opportunity for the mission would only be triggered after we got on the island. However, we found the mutated creatures yesterday. He raised a key question,” do you remember the school of strange fish and seabirds yesterday? Number five killed a fish, but the mission wasn’t triggered. The notification only lit up after he killed the bat.”

This was indeed strange. Refined scholar number two thought for a moment and asked,” number five once said that the mutated bats live in dark and damp caves and crevices, which means that the bats are creatures of the island, while the strange fish are from the sea and not an Island.

This guess was in line with everyone's initial analysis that the mission needed to be carried out on the island. Woman number three did not say anything. She turned to look at the board and asked,"

"Number one, what do you think?"

that's possible, but do you still remember what happened when the mission prompt changed?"

Naturally, he did not ask this question casually.

Even though everyone had agreed to his question earlier, the participants were extremely suspicious. Number one was not 100% sure that there was no other participant in the group who was doing the opposite mission, so he wanted to test everyone with this question.

After he finished asking, everyone instantly understood his intention and nodded with subtle expressions.

Since everyone understood the reason behind his question, number one simply turned around. After his gaze swept across the crowd, it fell on number six. He paused for a long time.

His gaze was so intense that it pressured number six.

Number six covered the side of his face. His face had been scratched by number seven in the process of his failed sneak attack on number seven, leaving a wound so deep that his bones could be seen.

At this time, the blood had barely stopped, but half of his face was swollen like a pig's head, which made number six's expression sinister.

Number one was staring at him again, clearly not believing him. This was a silent signal.

Out of the seven trial-takers, other than number six himself, at least three of the other six would not Harbor any good intentions toward him.

He had offended song qingxiao and had fought with her before, but song qingxiao was a tough nut to crack and was not easy to bully.

He had ambushed number seven and tried to kill him, but number seven was not a kind person either. He had tried to steal a chicken but ended up losing the rice instead, and the two of them had become enemies.

Now that number one was also targeting him, the situation for this mission was very unfavorable for him.

Number six's body tensed up at this moment. No one else would speak up for him. In his nervousness, his face began to Twitch. Every time the injured area was pulled, it hurt.

The most terrifying thing was that he felt his wound being pulled, and the blood that had finally stopped gushed out again.

No. 7 had been injured by a mutant creature, so she might have been infected. He didn't know if her claws were poisonous.

Under the heavy pressure, number six finally couldn't hold it in anymore. He was about to say something to prove that his mission was indeed the same as everyone else's, but before he could open his mouth, number one had already shifted his gaze to the refined scholar,"

"Number two, what do you think?"

1 remember that number five borrowed an umbrella from Mr. Zhou's people and killed a bat.

The refined scholar didn't mind number one throwing the question at him. He smiled and answered the question.

Everyone heaved a sigh of relief when he said this, but song qingxiao was even more vigilant.

These people were silent, but whether it was number six's failed sneak attack on number seven, or the mission prompt change caused by his killing of the bat, they were all quietly observed by this group of people.

what's the difference between that bat and the rest? "

Woman number three asked song Qing,"Why did No.. 5 want to kill it? Or DID number five get a different hint from us and know which one to kill to complete the mission?"

Chapter 138: Threatening _1

"It's just a coincidence."

Song qingxiao would definitely not admit to number three's accusation.

At this time, the scariest thing was the existence of an alien in the group.

If everyone was sure that their goal was to kill the six types of creatures on the island, they would be able to get through this difficult time if they worked together.

However, if there was someone who gave a hint that was different from everyone else at such a critical moment, in the eyes of others, it would probably be 'those who are not of our race must have different intentions'.

Song qingxiao knew very well how serious the consequences would be. In order to survive, this group of people would definitely eliminate such 'foreign species' first.

They would rather kill the wrong person than let him go.

This was because Song Qingxiao held the same view. If someone revealed the slightest bit of information that was contrary to her mission hint, she would also use underhanded means to save her own life.

Therefore, when Number Three asked her, she shook her head without hesitation.

In fact, my thoughts at that time were similar to what No. 2 said. Bats are creatures on the island, and I just wanted to try my hand.

There were too many of these things, and many of them had died, but the mission prompt had not changed. That was why she thought of borrowing an umbrella from the scientist to kill the remaining bats.

"After all, the change in the mission prompt is related to your last move. Do you think it's a coincidence?"

Number Three didn't believe Lin Sanjiu's words. Instead, she asked, "It was dark and it was raining heavily. The fire on the ship had just been put out, and the waves were hitting the ship. You might not have been able to see the difference between those bats under such circumstances?"

Song Qing laughed since he was young.

"Of course it's not a coincidence."

After all, there were so many bats. If she had coincidentally killed one and the mission had a hint, she would have felt that there was a problem even without the others saying it.

She didn't deny Number Three's words this time, which made Number Three and the others' expressions ease up a lot. They waited for her to continue,

“But it’s true that I saw something different about those bats.” She paused for a moment before continuing, “There’s naturally a reason why I chose those few bats to try.”

“What’s the reason?”

Young man number six asked before she could finish her sentence, probably because he was holding back his anger.

Song Qing looked at him and squinted his eyes.

Of course it’s because the rain was heavy and the wind was strong. The other bats had already been blown into the sea by the wind and rain, but those few bats still haven’t fallen. Just from this point alone, can’t you tell that they’re special?”

This answer immediately made number six choke.

Everyone thought about it carefully. It was indeed as she had said. Under the circumstances of the wind and rain, the other bats could not withstand the wind and fell into the sea one after another. In the end, only a few were left, but they still held on for so long against the wind and rain. They were indeed different from ordinary bats.

But at that time, not only were the bats being blown by the wind, the ship was also changing direction in the storm and was almost flipped over. With the shadow of the approaching shore, who would be as agile as Song Qingxiao? She was talking to the scientists at that time, and at that time, she still noticed the difference between these bats and the others.

The more they studied it, the more they felt it was terrifying.

Woman number three was silent for a while, then suddenly laughed.

After this mission, if I’m lucky enough to survive, number five, let’s be friends in real life so that we can work together in the future.

Everyone had the same thoughts as her. Song Qing smiled and didn't say anything. The others also spoke up like number three. Suddenly, there was some movement on Mr. Zhou's side.

There seemed to be a purple glow in the gaps of the crowd, but it only lit up for three or four seconds before it was suddenly extinguished.

But even so, many people who noticed the light almost jumped up.

At this time, even the slightest movement could make people nervous. The trial-takers who had just relaxed a little earlier immediately looked serious. "What happened?"

Number six asked cautiously. After the previous incident, everyone had become like birds startled by the mere twang of a bow's string. Even the trial-takers who had a certain sense of superiority when they first entered the mission scenario were no exception. After number six finished asking, a worker on the ship immediately asked,

"Is there something coming?"

"Not yet,"

Mr. Zhou, who was surrounded by bodyguards, said in a serious tone, but we've just studied the map. This place isn't absolutely safe. It's best not to stay here for too long. We'll think about it again when we move to another place.

The purple light from before was probably related to him reading the map.

Although Mr. Zhou didn't say what was nearby, from his tone, the risk of turning on the lights, and the change of location, it could be felt that there should be something very dangerous nearby.

At this moment, everyone stopped talking and didn't even dare to breathe. They all got up and prepared to leave.

However, there were still a lot of supplies on the beach that they had fished out earlier. Now that they were leaving, everyone rushed up to grab them, as if they could live one more day with every bag they snatched.

Even many of Mr. Zhou's bodyguards also took a few bags and carried them on their backs. Number six and the man in the suit couldn't help but join in. Number one and number three looked at each other, and their eyes fell on song qingxiao, who was not moving at all. They hesitated and did not move.

For some reason, the refined scholar did not join the temporary Alliance. Instead, he looked at song qingxiao, then at number one and number three. He stood where he was and pretended to pack his backpack.

However, number Seven's eyes turned, and he asked casually,"

"Number five, aren't you going to grab something?"

She was a smart person. She had long noticed that number one and number three were following song Qing's every move. She stood there and watched everyone fight for the supplies. Number one and number three were tempted but did not join in.

The two of them were cunning and meticulous. They must have made up their minds to follow song qingxiao in this mission.

"Why did you snatch it?"

After number Seven's question, number two also focused on song qingxiao's answer. She asked number seven back, and number seven laughed,"

"What are you doing? Of course it's to save my life."

She was carrying a backpack, but there were not many things in it. It was hard to say how long it could last. There was no water or food on the island, which were necessary for the human body.

Even if the trial-taker had to leave this scenario after completing the mission, they would still need to eat and drink to conserve their energy before they left.

“The supplies are important, but is there a need to fight for them? They will.”

Song qingxiao stopped talking to number seven and walked toward Mr. Zhou and the others.

Hearing her words, number seven was stunned at first. He wanted to reply, “It’s someone else’s, and it has nothing to do with you.”

However, just as the words reached her mouth, she suddenly understood what song Qing meant..

Chapter 139: Prepared i

At this time, they were like many workers who were fighting for supplies and moving forward with heavy weights. It would only increase the burden on everyone and drag down their physical strength.

He didn’t know what kind of danger he would encounter on the island, but in order to increase his chances of survival and preserve his strength, traveling light was the best choice.

No. 7 was well aware that the trip to the island was not safe. People might still die in the end. Once someone died, their remaining supplies were equivalent to carrying for the living. To the group, these dead people were like mobile warehouses. If they were short of anything, they could just pick it up later.

After thinking this through, number seven smiled and did not say anything.

The things piled up on the island were quickly snatched up by the crowd. Many people were carrying several bags, and their backs were bent. It was obvious that these supplies had become a burden, but many people were still unwilling to let go.

After a while, the rain had gradually become lighter, and the dark clouds had dispersed a little. The surroundings were green, but people could be seen clearly.

Other than the participants and Mr. Zhou's group, the other hired boatmen were just lucky to survive. Whether it was in terms of martial strength, psychological quality, or other aspects, they could not be compared with the others. The scene was a mess, and Mr. Zhou was a little angry.

When there were too many people, no matter how cautious one was, it was inevitable that there would be some noise. Their previous action of snatching the supplies had made a lot of noise, especially when they had told them that the area was not safe. They still made such a big noise, which made Mr. Zhou's calm expression a little tense.

He took a deep breath again, as if to calm his anger. Perhaps he didn't want to get into a conflict here and attract trouble, so after enduring it again and again, his expression slowly calmed down.

Song Qingxiao walked toward Mr. Zhou. Number six and number four each came back with a big bag of things. Seeing the other six participants who didn't participate in the fight, they looked at each other and frowned.

"Since you're done, let's get ready to leave."

Mr. Zhou turned his head and saw that Song Qing had become smaller.

Compared to the other participants, he had the deepest impression of Song Qingxiao. The two of them even had an unreliable verbal 'Alliance'. Perhaps he remembered this, he forced a smile and asked Song Qingxiao in a gentler tone, "Miss Song, don't you want to bring more things?"

Compared to the other people who were carrying large and small bags, she seemed too relaxed. She was only carrying a backpack with simple supplies and a gun.

"No, it should be enough."

Song qingxiao shook her head, and her eyes fell on the silver suitcase in his hand.

When they were on the boat, she had only noticed that Mr. Zhou had been carrying the box. Now that she was close to Mr. Zhou, with the help of the faint light, she noticed that Mr. Zhou was not only carrying the box, but also wearing something like a steel ring on his wrist that was connected to the box. It was clear that he had locked himself with the box.

No wonder he didn't throw the chest away when he fell into the sea, and it was still firmly in his hands.

There were dark marks around the steel ring, which should have been caused by Mr. Zhou's injury when he fell into the water from the boat during the escape.

Once again, she was curious about what was in the box that Mr. Zhou valued so much that he would rather get injured than let go.

Mr. Zhou was obviously very cautious. Even though she had restrained herself and looked away from the box, Mr. Zhou was aware of it immediately. He instinctively moved his hand back and hid the box between him and Zhou xueli.

"Helie."

Mr. Zhou chuckled and was about to speak when a rustling sound was heard.

"Who's there?"

These two sounds were very light and thin, mixed in with the 'pattering' sound of the rain. If one didn't listen carefully, one wouldn't notice it at all.

The other workers didn't even notice the difference between the sound and the surrounding sounds, until number four, the man in the suit, shouted with extreme vigilance, which caused the crowd to panic.

Everyone subconsciously squeezed into a ball, and everyone's nerves were tense at this moment.

Song qingxiao had also heard the two subtle sounds from before. She instinctively turned to look in the direction of the sound.

Naturally, no one would reply to number four after he finished berating him.

A few seconds after he finished shouting, everyone held their breath and focused, not daring to make any unnecessary movements.

The surroundings were so quiet that one could even hear a pin drop. The raindrops were dripping on the sea surface, and the waves were surging toward the shore. The sea breeze mixed with the light rain blew into the forest on the island, rustling the leaves and plants.

"Who's there?"

At this time, no one dared to breathe. The sudden opening of the young man number six frightened everyone. Many workers who were carrying a large amount of supplies felt their legs go soft and couldn't even stand up. They sat on the ground with a thud.

Indeed, other than the sound of waves, the sound of rain, and the wind, there was no other sound. No. 4 must have heard wrong.

What's more, as Mr. Zhou said, the island had been a research base abandoned by the Zhou biotechnology company more than a decade ago. How could there be a living person on the island?

Number four made a mistake and revealed his nervousness.

It was unknown whether the others were venting their emotions or their anger was derived from the relaxation of their tense minds, but they all cursed,"

“Don’t you know that people can scare people to death? Who is on this Island?” “You’re just pretending!”

The crowd cursed and swore, trying to calm their inner fear. AAr. Zhou was annoyed by the noise and shouted,

“Do you want to die? What are you arguing about?”

As soon as he spoke, everyone remembered that he had saved them. No matter how dissatisfied they were, they didn’t dare to anger Mr. Zhou. Of course, they didn’t dare to speak.

“The Research Institute is located on the west side of the island. We are currently on the east side of the south side.”

Mr. Zhou’s words made everyone’s anger from No. 4’s words seem to have been doused with a basin of cold water, and their hearts instantly turned cold.

In other words, everyone was currently at two extreme ends of the distance from the Research Institute set up by Zhou technology company on the island. If they wanted to reach the Research Institute, they would have to cross the island.

Everyone’s hearts were heavy, but this piece of news was good news for the trial-takers.

They had to kill the remaining five creatures on the island. The distance was long, and to call the satellite phone, they had to go to the Research Institute, which proved that they had more time to complete the mission.

The hired workers were somewhat dissatisfied, but under such circumstances, no matter how dissatisfied they were, no one dared to talk back on the spot.

After a moment of silence, one of the workers asked,”

“Which way should we go now?”

Chapter 140: Entering the island (1)

Mr. Zhou had a map, so he should know which was the fastest way to the Research Institute. In addition, he had a special identity and was the big boss who paid for the rescue, so everyone naturally took him as the leader.

In fact, Mr. Zhou had not been to this abandoned experimental Island for more than a decade. The road shape of the island had changed a long time ago. Mr. Zhou could only roughly guess the location of everyone and the Research Institute on the island based on the map and the direction they were currently in.

However, he had obviously made sufficient preparations before coming, and he should have recalled a lot of information again. “There’s a small river on the island about 40 meters away from where we are.”

No one dared to interrupt him and listened to him continue,”

“When we were building the laboratory, the end of the drainage system happened to be there.” When Mr. Zhou said this, he said with confidence, no matter how the island’s environment changes, as long as we follow the drainage system, there will be no mistake.

When everyone heard him say this, they couldn’t help but feel their spirits lift. It was as if finding the drainage system meant that they had found a ray of hope.

Song qingxiao, on the other hand, was on high alert. She remembered the genetic mutations of the infected creatures on the island and in the sea.

According to what Mr. Zhou said, the environment of the laboratory should be sealed, and the 'experimental subjects' should be locked up in the laboratory.

Since the experiment had failed when they left the island, the experimental subjects should have been processed.

In the end, the reason why the surrounding animals were infected in succession could not be ruled out as the sewage system connecting the outside world with the laboratory.

"The river on the island should be in that direction."

Mr. Zhou raised his finger and pointed. Everyone agreed with his speculation. They packed their things and followed him.

Looking at the sea from the beach, after the wind blew away some of the thick dark clouds, a glimmer of light appeared on the horizon, allowing some visibility to be seen on the beach.

However, the island was pitch-black, and the dense forest blocked all light. Before they entered, they could already feel the gloomy and damp atmosphere.

Everyone was trembling. At this time, opening a path and covering the rear were tasks that everyone avoided like the plague.

"Wolf one, Wolf two," Mr. Zhou called out two names, and finally, his eyes fell on Song Qing and the other participants. Under the dim light, his eyes glowed with a green light, making everyone who saw him shiver.

His gaze stopped on Song Qingxiao for a moment, and the other trial-takers all heaved a sigh of relief.

From the looks of it, Song Qingxiao from Lin Yi was probably the one leading Mr. Zhou. She had already demonstrated her strength on the ship. Whether it was killing fish or bats, she had displayed great courage and skill. This was the best time for her to lead the charge.

No one knew what kind of danger there was on the island. It was dark, and as song qingxiao had said, they could not light up any light to avoid disaster. Everything depended on the team's own exploration. The people walking in front were especially important. When they encountered danger, they could warn the people behind. Of course, it also meant that the people in the front and the people at the back were the ones who were in the most danger in the team.

However, this matter didn't concern him, so he just let it be.

Even if they had previously made a so-called Alliance agreement, as long as they were not in danger, naturally, no trial-taker would be willing to talk about 'loyalty' at this time.

Young man number six was gloating in his heart, but in the next second, Mr. Zhou's eyes shifted from song qingxiao to young man number six. He smiled and said,"

"I've heard miss song call you that. You're number six, right? You go in front too."

The smile on number six's face froze. In contrast, song Qing looked relieved.

When Mr. Zhou stared at her, her scalp went numb and her body tensed up. At that moment, a murderous intent flashed through her heart.

Like everyone else, she didn't want to walk in front. At this time, everyone knew that the people in front were more likely to get into trouble.

Fortunately, the unreliable verbal agreement between her and Mr. Zhou probably had some effect. It was also possible that during the negotiation with Mr. Zhou that day, number six's arrogant and domineering attitude had already made Mr. Zhou dissatisfied with him, and now he specifically asked him to walk ahead.

Number six clenched his fists tightly and gritted his teeth.

As soon as he moved, Zhou xueli raised her hand. She held a pistol in her hand and aimed it at number six's forehead.

The other bodyguards also raised their guns and surrounded number six.

At this time, even if number six had a special ability in the aspect of mental power, he could not fight against four hands with two fists. He could kill Mr. Zhou in an instant, but the others would also want to kill him.

He had offended too many people, and a few of the participants did not have a good impression of him. No one had the intention to speak up for him. Number six's face was a mixture of green and white. The atmosphere at the scene was extremely low, and everyone had their heads lowered, afraid that if they looked up to watch the commotion, Mr. Zhou would stare at them.

A wise man submits to circumstances. In this situation where it was not beneficial for him, number six had no other choice.

This young man, who had been acting arrogantly since he entered the trial space, swallowed his anger and lowered his head for the first time. He grabbed the bag in his backpack, and no one knew what he was thinking. He threw the heavy bag on the ground, and just like song qingxiao and the others, he only had one bag on his back. Then, he sneered,

"I'll go in front then."

Number seven didn't even try to hide his gloating. He lowered his voice and said,"

"Then you'd better watch out for the danger."

Number six didn't have the time to be a hero with his words, but he still bore The Grudge against number seven. The supplies he threw out were quickly picked up by the others. Number six took a deep breath and walked to the front with Wolf one and Wolf two, who had been called by Mr. Zhou, under the threat of several muzzles.

Compared to the others, he had an advantage.

Number six was a psychic, and the dark forest on the island was not a big obstacle for him. If he was good at using his psychic power, he could sense if there was any danger around him. Song qingxiao could also use this opportunity to test him.

In addition to No. 6 and the other two, Mr. Zhou randomly picked two workers to walk in front. When he picked the one to bring up the rear, song qingxiao was not so lucky.

She, No. 1, No. 7, and the other three workers were ordered by Mr. Zhou to walk at the back. On both sides, there were bodyguards protecting Mr. Zhou, Zhou xuli, and the researchers.

Although this trip to the island was not smooth, and more than a dozen people had died before they landed on the island, there were still many people left. Mr. Zhou, the sailors, workers, and trial-takers, there were currently about 30 to 40 people who had survived.

Song qingxiao and the others slowly followed after the large group of people that had entered the forest.

When they looked into the forest from the shore, they already felt very scared, but that kind of fear was not even one-tenth of the fear they felt when they actually stepped into the forest.

When the dense shadows formed by the forest shrouded everyone, it was as if they had stepped into a whole new and terrifying world..
